Does your bank really help you save money?

Of course it does. Every bank in Canada offers you a Savings Account service. No matter what bank you visit, the Savings Account system is operated the same way.

So why should you choose Toronto-Dominion over any other bank?

The answer is quite simple. It's the happy combination of the service and the people who provide it for you, that makes all the difference.

Our tellers are the FRIENDLIEST you'll find

This is Shirley Ricketts, a Savings Account Teller at our Mt. Pleasant & Davisville branch in Toronto. Shirley is shown here accepting a regular deposit from one of her customers. Shirley likes to watch her customers' Savings grow, because, she knows how important it is to have the money on hand for the things you want and need.

You'll find efficient, friendly people like Shirley Ricketts in every Toronto-Dominion branch across the country. Their "interested" kind of service makes it much easier for you to save at "The Bank". Make it a point to meet some of our people soon and see for yourself how much . . .

Cross-Canada Survey

NOTED EXPLORER — Although British titles have not been awarded in Canada for 25 years, some Canadians have been knighted since then for service in British. Among them is Sir Charles Wright, a native of Toronto, who now makes his home in Vancouver. A member of the Antarctic expedition of Sir Robert Scott in 1911-13 and now back in the area on a research project, he was knighted in 1948 after 11 years as director of scientific research for the British Admiralty. He is shown signing the guest book in the hut of Sir Henry Shackleton in Antarctica. (CP Photo).

Baronet of Three Creeks, Alta., Inherited Title When Ancestor Favored Catherine

British titles haven't been awarded in Canada for 25 years but there are still more than 20 men in this country who inherited titles or received them before 1935. In a Cross-Canada Survey, The Canadian Press sought their views on the value of such titles in business and social life. Few were found who attach much importance to them. Their comments are contained in the following story.

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The baronet in patched overalls lit a home-rolled cigaret and squinted through the smoke before he spoke.

"We are landed," he said, "because in 1778 one of my forbears was a fire to Catherine the Great."

This whimsical confession by Sir Robert Standing of Three Creeks, Alta., is the story behind only one of the more than 20 men in Canada entitled to prefix their names with titles granted by British lawmakers. The Canadian Press, in a survey (Canada Survey), found their most cases it was an admiral who felt the sword of the sovereign on his shoulders. In a few cases the honor came directly to the present holder and his wife.

In any case, the number of native - born titled Canadians living in this country has dwindled since 1935, the year Canada asked that Britain cease bestowing titles upon Canadians. Most with titles in Canada today were born elsewhere, bringing their titles with them when they settled here or inheriting them afterward.

MANY IN BRITAIN

More than a dozen others who were born in Canada—such men as Sir George Philip Grant-Suttie of St. George's, N'fld., Sir Beverley Baxter of Toronto, Sir Robert Williams of Kamsack, Sask., and Sir Charles Goodeve of Winnipeg—now live in Britain.

Lord Beaverbrook, the Canadian - born publisher, lives in Britain but also maintains a home in Fredericton and is closely connected with cultural life in the Maritimes.

Titled persons living in Canada come from many fields. There are men with clerical collars, farmers, businessmen, engineers, musicians, ranchers, financiers and soldiers.

SON OF MARQUESS

He is known publicly as "Lord Gordon" and is the younger brother of the Marquess of Huntly of Aberdeenshire, the premier marquess of Scotland.

About 200 miles to the south is the 5,000-acre Two-Dot Ranch, operated by Frederic Percival, 11th Earl of Egmont. He acknowledges the title but prefers to be called Fred.

Sir Arthur Stonhouse, baronet, of Radley Hall, Norfolk, is civil defence director for Red Deer, Alta. He also does mixed farming.

The title is "nice to have; it goes back a long way," he says. Sometimes he is addressed as Sir Arthur but usually they call me anything."

Sir Philip, who will inherit the title, says: "I don't think titles are of any great importance in North America—particularly impoverished ones."

Lord George Bridges Harley Given Rodney, 64, retired to travel when he sold part of his mixed farm at Fort Saskatchewan. A descendant of the British naval hero, Admiral George Rodney, he came to Canada in 1919 and has lived quietly ever since.

LITTLE RESPECT

His youngest son Michael, second in line for the title after an older brother John in Edmonton, says the title "could be a bit further oneself but I wouldn't have much respect for anyone who did."

Lord Cheylesmore—Lt. - Col. Francis O. H. Eaton—came to Canada in 1901 after retiring from the Grenadier Guards. Now a prominent rancher, horseman and presiding steward of the Western Canada Racing Association, he lives at Happy Valley Ranch, near Edmonton. When he dies the title will go to a brother, Herbert, in New Zealand.

Capt. Sir Allan MacKenzie inherited his baronetcy from his uncle Eric. Stationed with national defence headquarters in Ottawa, Sir Allan uses the title only "when I want a hotel room in Montreal." Otherwise "it's just too damned long to write."

WORKS AS GARDENER

Sir Garnet Wolseley of Brantford, Ont., is a gardener and the park board. When he inherited the title in 1950 he was a shoemaker in Wallasey, Cheshire. He has never seen the Irish estates which passed from the family hands long ago.

Sir Robert Cave-Brown-Cave of Vancouver inherited the title from his father and uses it especially on occasions. It was bestowed by Charles II in 1661 after the Cromwellian wars. He never uses the title for business but sometimes employs it when travelling.

ADD X73—Baronet

"The people in the United States love titles although they haven't any of their own," said the president of a laboratory supply firm.

Sir Robert Macgregor inherited the title from a brother and doesn't use it. A retired farmer who runs his own small dairy supply company in Vancouver, he says:

"I believe in shirt sleeves to shirt sleeves. If you want to be a man while he is living, that's fine. But for heaven's sake, let his son start out fresh."

RETIRED MINISTER

Lord Hensegg, 63, is a retired Anglican minister living in a world of books, letters and silence in Vancouver. Deaf and crippled by arthritis, the stern-faced peer speaks little of the England he left in 1912 after years working in the slums of Lincolnshire.

Lord Martin Cecil, 51, second son of the Marquess of Exeter of Burghley House, Stamford, came to Canada in 1928 to engage a ranch for his father. Now he has passed it to his son, Michael, 24. They run 700 cattle on 11,000 acres at 100-Mile House, B.C. Lord Martin spends his time between the ranch and Vancouver, headquarters of the religious group known as the Emissaries of the Divine Will. He has been its bishop for 13 years.

Others have given knighthoods for services to the Crown: Ottawa-born Brigadier Sir Edward Oliver Wheeler who lives on a modest one - acre property near Vernon, B.C., on his army pension. He was with the Royal Engineers from 1919 to 1947 and was knighted by Viceroy Lisilithgow of India in recognition of survey work and mapping in 1922 for the expedition which set the stage for the 1924 Mallory trip up Mount Everest.

JUST PLAIN MISTER

Known throughout the district as "Mr. Wheeler" and says "Canadians don't give a hoot whether you're a sir or not."

Probably the best - known knight in Canada is Sir Ernest MacMillan of Toronto, knighted by the late George V for his service to music. Sir Ernest is retired but remains president of the Canadian Composers, Authors and Publishers Association. The title is not perpetuating.

Another whose title will die with him is Lt.-Gen. Sir Richard Turner of Quebec City who won the Victoria Cross in 1900 as a lieutenant in the Boer War service he used his men about a Komati River gun emplacement. He was knighted in 1917 as commander of Canadian troops in Britain.

Among the Hon. Sir Leonard Cecil Outerbridge, businessman and former lieutenant-governor, was knighted in 1946 for his work in organizing civil defence in Newfoundland during the Second World War.

Sir Brian Dunfield of St. John's has been a judge of the provincial Supreme Court since 1939. He was knighted in 1949 for revamping of St. John's through vast housing development. Of the title he says:

"It felt a little strange for the first few weeks. Then I forgot about it."

USES TITLE

Lord Shaughnessy of Montreal is president of a paper company and while he uses the title he doesn't insist on it.

"It's sometimes extremely difficult to explain in Canada exactly what a lord is or what it meant. But I use the title. However, if someone calls me 'sir' I certainly don't object."

Sir Charles Tupper of Toronto is 80 with no male heirs. He inherited the title from a cousin who died in Windsor in 1959. Next in line is James Macdonald Tupper, 75-year-old retired deputy commissioner of the RCMP and Sir Charles' brother. The title was created for Rt. Hon. Sir Charles Tupper, the man who brought Nova Scotia into Confederation and who, for a brief period in 1925, was prime minister.

Sir Charles S. Wright of Vancouver has inherited the related Antarctic expedition of Sir Robert Scott in 1911-13, is in the Antarctic on record-tific research.

Another scientist is Sir Robert Watson-Watt of Thornhill, north of Toronto, acknowledged as the father of radar.

Possibly the most lighthearted approach to the whole thing is that of Sir Robert Gunning, whose ancestor's attentions to Catherine the Great is paid off.

"He was British ambassador to Russia at the time, it seems. The title has been handed down from generation to generation and I happened to be in line for it this time."

Sir Robert was born in British East Africa, grew up in Rhodesia, worked in The Sudan, married a Canadian girl, settled and took up ranching where I ran a bus company servicing a route from Lagos to Ghana.

There was a spell of prospecting in northern Nigeria, then into the intelligence for the war, farming in England and a move to Canada with his wife and four children.

He headed for the Peace River country in March, 1958, because "some loot at Canada House told us it was a wonderful country up here."

Many Titled Canadians Now Living in the West

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Western Canada, particularly the farming and cow country of Alberta and British Columbia, has the heaviest concentration of Canadians with British titles.

Yet it was from the agricultural belt that came the spark leading to the abolition of such distinguishing marks.

In 1918 the Grain Growers' Guide roared editorially:

"These absurd titles have no place in a democratic country."

In 1919 the Manitoba Grain Growers' Convention passed a resolution demanding the government cut off titles for Canadians.

The movement spread east-ward. W. F. Nickle, a Conservative, from Kingston, Ont., raised the issue in Parliament in 1919 when he proposed an address to His Majesty the King "humbly praying" he grant no further titles to Canadians "save such appellations as are of a professional or vocational character or which appertain to an office." The address was defeated, but no decision made.

WAITED 16 YEARS

It was reintroduced in 1919 and passed by the Commons.

Still, it was not until 1935 that action was taken.

Correspondence tabled in 1918 showed that in 1902 Sir Wilfrid Laurier wrote the British government objecting to the granting of titles to Canadians by the King acting on advice of his British ministers.

If the King were going to bestow titles on Canadians, then let it be on the advice of his Canadian ministers.

The 1918 uproar, believed to have been engendered by a burgeoning nationalistic feeling growing from the First World War, appeared to have been touched off by a report that the Canadian government was to recommend 700 honors among various ranks of the Order of the British Empire.

The last titles to Canadians living in Canada were granted in the New Year list when knighted were J. A. Chisholm, chief justice of Nova Scotia, Col. Albert Edward Gooderham of Toronto and Charles William Lindsay of Montreal.

KILLED RUMORS

In 1950, when pressed in the Commons regarding speculation that titles might be revived, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said:

"So there will be no misunderstanding about this question, I have simply to say this—this is another of the speculative articles whose only foundation is in the mind of the person who wrote the article."

He said there was a need in Canada for a special distinction whereby the government could show on Canadians rendering outstanding service.

"If I were prime minister of Canada, there is one thing I would do forthwith. I would introduce titles into our way of life.

"Such titles would not be hereditary, only for the lifetime of the recipient. He would carry the letters M. of C.— Merit of Canada. They would also carry the prefix Sir or Lady.

She suggested one well-known person from each province would make up a committee of 10 to recommend persons entitled "to the Queen of Canada who would then bestow the M. of C."

"It would be Sir John and Mrs. Doe or Mr. John and Lady Mary Doe," she said.

Schooling Without God In Quebec Is Said Out Of Question at Conference

Says Experience In Ottawa Jail Was 'Humbling'

OTTAWA (CP) — An English baronet's daughter, who spent four days in jail with "street girls," for company, said Saturday that the experience was "humbling."

Rosamund Conway, 40, wife of a prominent Ottawa child specialist, regarded her freedom after electing to go to jail "for a principle."

"It was the most rewarding experience of my life," said the pretty mother, tugging and kissing her eight children after emerging from a "medieval tomb."

Mrs. Conway, daughter of the late Sir John C. E. Lees, was convicted Jan. 16 of exceeding a 35-mile-an-hour speed limit and was fined $10 with the option of a four-day jail term.

She chose jail because she felt she was unjustly charged.

Mrs. Conway said she was rushing home to reach a sick child left outside.

A cause coming up, said Mrs. Conway, and "in the delay caused by the constable my baby got sick." The three-month-old child had just recovered from bronchial pneumonia.

SHOULD HAVE RIGHT

Mrs. Conway said annoyances and points of principle allowed to exceed the speed limit in the interest of the public and a private citizen should have the same privilege in an emergency.

"The laws are for the protection of the public — and in my case a child was in danger."

Mrs. Conway said she entered jail annoyed by the sentence, but emerged with a new insight into the personal problems of people less fortunate than herself.

"I don't think I'll ever have another personal problem again."

She was in a cell by herself but "scrubbed floors" with other women, "mostly street girls."

When she left, working, Mrs. Conway said she read in slanting light entering the cell from the jail corridor. There was no light in the cell.

QUEBEC (CP) — A move to launch an education system in Quebec province divorced from religion attracted attention here during the weekend when two school commission leaders said schooling without God is out of the question.

"We must form a common front before the danger threatening us."

He spoke at a convention of La Confederation des Oeuvres de Loisirs, a group promoting recreation activity.

"Schooling without God has no place here."

He was a speaker at a reception honoring six teachers for long service.

MONTREAL SCHOOLS

Le Mouvement Laique de Langue Francaise (The Lay French-language Movement) was launched in Montreal earlier this month to promote the idea of neutral schools for those who want them.

Members of the movement say French - language persons of Quebec are being discriminated against by Roman Catholic schools and others have to send their children to French-language Roman Catholic schools or to English - language Protestant schools.

Mr. Bherer said to beware of "those innovating minds that are but propaganda mills of ideas that are not ours and cannot blossom in our environment."

The statements closed a week of activity on the neutral-education question. Included were a number of letters sent by children attending Catholic schools, asking with him to let them keep their catechism in school.

Earlier in the week Most Rev. Georges Cabana, Archbishop of Sherbrooke, said all Roman Catholics of conviction should rise to "defend the rights of confessional schools as the strongest forces of evil."

Premier Lesage, commenting on letters he received, said they were obviously prompted by "a question in the minds of children." He said his government has no plan to withdraw teaching of religion from the schools.

He spoke in the legislative assembly after reading a letter which he said was one of dozens sent to him by children in St. Hyacinthe, Que., and district.

Union of YMCA And YWCA Is To Be Discussed

TORONTO (CP) — The national council of YMCAs of Canada decided Sunday to seek immediate discussions with the YWCA about union of the two groups.

A resolution accepted at the council's 49th annual meeting said "some form of union with the YWCA of Canada is inevitable."

Council received a report from the YWCA of Canada regarding co-operation with the national YMCA council. It noted an increasing number of local YMCA and YWCA associations had amalgamated since 1936.

It added that the YMCA quadrennial convention at Wolfville, N.S., June 18-24 will receive a recommendation that the YWCA seek talks with the YMCA national council about the possibility of creating a joint department that would be an integral part of the two movements.

Another resolution promised full support for the federal government's proposed program of physical fitness.

John M. Magwood of Toronto was elected president of the national council, succeeding J. Hiles Templin of Hamilton.

Regional vice - presidents include: J. E. Angevine, Sudbury; J. S. Angevine, Brantford; N.C. Mansfield, Montreal; W. Scott McKay, St. Thomas and H. F. Waddell, Peterborough.

'Tragedy' UN Intervention In 1956 Suez Crisis Not Carried Further - - Pearson

MONTREAL (CP) — Opposition Leader Lester B. Pearson said Sunday night it is a "tragedy" the United Nations intervention in the 1956 Suez crisis was not carried further to bring about a political solution for the area.

"How I wish we had taken advantage of that opportunity at that time," he told an Israeli bond rally marking the 13th birthday of the state.

He also called it a tragedy that moderate Arab leaders at the time of Israel's formation in 1948 did not accept the value of a free, progressive Israel in the Middle East.

Men and nations of goodwill everywhere were hoping for a satisfactory solution to Middle East problems.

"But in the meantime, they must not stand idly by and see Israel menaced while it rightfully seeks the good life for its people and peace with its neighbors.

"This has been Canadian policy in the past. I'm sure it's Canadian policy today and I see no reason why it should not be Canadian policy for the future."

Mr. Pearson, given an engraved plaque in recognition of his steadfast friendship toward Israel, was the architect of the plan that sent a UN Emergency Force into the Middle East to help settle the Suez crisis.

Tuesday is the trial in Jerusalem of Adolf Eichmann on charges of murdering millions of Jews. Mr. Pearson said the trial "is being conducted in the finest traditions of the rule of law and will result in unbiased justice being dispensed."

"It is heartening to see a people who have so often been the victims of lawlessness acting with such strict adherence to law in the conduct of this trial.

Salaries Instead of Hourly Rate Will Be New Demand On 'Big Three' by Workers

DETROIT (AP) — A new demand—salaries for workers now paid by the hour—was unveiled by United Auto Workers president Walter Reuther during the weekend in his first public indication of what he will seek in this summer's negotiations with the "Big Three" auto companies.

He outlined a program which stressed measures to minimize the effects of automation, production, plant shutdowns and plant relocations.

In calling for yearly salaries for production workers, he termed annual pay the only basis "morally indefensible discrimination against those who work with their hands."

Reuther accented fringe benefits and job security in the list of bargaining goals with Ford, General Motors and Chrysler.

EMPHASIZES SECURITY

Reuther underscored what he termed the overriding need for greater job security and dependable income by saying:

"When a worker is replaced by a machine, or his skill is made obsolete, or his plant moves, the change may benefit society as a whole and his employer but the particular man the worker is in trouble.

"We shall insist that they (the auto companies) recognize that industry exists to serve man and not man to serve industry."

Negotiations between the union and Ford, General Motors and Chrysler are expected to start about 60 days before the August 31 expiration date of the union contracts with the three companies.

Kennedy Finds Stiff Opposition In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's legislative program encountered strong opposition in Congress in its first three months that officials say are scaling down their promotion of "new frontier" accomplishments.

President Kennedy and Vice-President Lyndon Johnson were said to be in agreement that optimism about the future is more successful than anticipated in the use of delaying tactics particularly those in the welfare field.

A majority of Southern Democrats oppose many of Kennedy's proposals as strongly as the Republicans.

On the other side of the coin, Kennedy is finding liberals in the Democratic party somewhat less than enthusiastic in their support of his policies. Many of them say his proposals are too modest; some are disgruntled about patronage matters.

Faced with all these obstacles, Kennedy was represented as being determined to see every wrinkle out and had the fight for his program. But his 14 years in Congress obviously have taught him that presidents often have to settle for less than they want.

KILLED IN JUMP

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP)—A college student attempted a parachute jump Sunday and fell 2,500 feet to his death. Jerome Odell Bueller, 21, bailed out of the airplane over a farm field 10 miles southwest of here. The static line, designed to open the chute automatically, did not function, and the emergency cord was not pulled in time. Bueller was making his second jump with the Beaver Sports Parachuting Club.

29 Fatalities Across Canada During Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Murky weather in the Maritimes kept drivers off the roads, or made them doubly wary, to return another clean sheet for three Atlantic provinces in the weekend fatality figures.

A Canadian Press survey across the country indicated an average weekend for highway deaths. From 6 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday there were 22.

Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island reported none. Ontario had 8, Quebec 6, Saskatchewan 3, British Columbia 2 and Manitoba Newfoundland and Alberta 1 each.

Total of accidental deaths across Canada was 29, discounting natural deaths, industrial accidents and known suicides.

There were three fires, two in Ontario, one in Alberta and four drownings, two each in Ontario and Alberta.

Two - year - old Corey Allen Wardle, drowned near his Eden Mills home Friday, four miles east of Guelph:

Stanley Weyms, 60, killed Saturday night when the car in which he was a passenger struck a tree in York Township, Toronto suburbs.

Wayne Edwards, 5, killed Saturday night when struck by a car outside his Toronto home;

Gregor Zagrivna, 27, a bridgeroom of one day, killed Sunday when his car went out of control at Oakville, about 15 miles west of oronto;

John Savard, 11, of Wahnapitae, about 10 miles east of Sudbury, after being hit by a car Sunday as he rode his bicycle;

William McKay, 31, of Port Credit, killed in a four-car collision at Port Credit, 10-miles southwest of Toronto, Sunday;

Mrs. Ida Littlefield, 78, who died early Sunday in an Ottawa apartment building fire;

Willard H. McGonegal, 3, of Smiths Falls, killed Saturday when he was struck by a transport trailer near his home;

James C. Hardman, 25, of Thistledown, and Stewart H. Hall, 25, of Toronto, killed Saturday when their car hit a hydro pole north of Owen Sound.

3-Day Walkout At Breweries Is Settled

TORONTO (CP) — A three-day walkout against Toronto plants of Carling Breweries Limited and O'Keefe Brewing Company of Toronto Limited ended Sunday with an agreement "satisfactory to both sides."

Peter O'Dowd, representative of Local 304 of the Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers' International Union (CLC), said management and his 400 members were happy with the result of Sunday morning talks. He declined to give details of the settlement.

The walkout was prompted by a dispute as to which of the displaced employees should be given priority for jobs in Carling's suburban Etobicoke plant.

UN Troops in Congo Running Short of Food, Crisis Point May Be Reached in 3 Weeks

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — United Nations troops in the Congo are running short of food, while tons of supplies pile up here and negotiations continue over who has the right to handle them.

The blockade of UN supplies at the key port of Matadi becomes daily more critical for the entire UN military operation. A senior UN official indicated Sunday a crisis point might be reached within three or four weeks.

The current food shortage follows Matadi's loss in battle to the Congolese army. Ninety-five per cent of all imported UN supplies were handled at Matadi before weeks of negotiation with Congolese a u t h o r i t i e s failed to get UN troops back to the port.

Supplies continue to arrive there but the UN refuses to recognize the right of the Congolese to handle them. To clear the docks, the Congolese have sent the supplies 250 miles by rail to Leopoldville, where more than 120,000 pounds of food and other goods have piled up in warehouses and cold storage plants.

None of these supplies so far has been delivered to the United Nations and a deadlock appears to have been reached, with both sides blaming the other.

BLAME UN

The Congolese say they want the UN to deliver the food and goods off their hands and have even threatened to auction them unless this is done. The United Nations apparently takes the view that to do so would only drag on, existing UN stocks standing untouched.

"I hope some agreement is reached in the very near future," UN spokesman Ralph Bunche Ahmed to Pakistan told a reporter. "The United Nations is a day-to-day organization and our reserves are very narrow. In Africa and Alberta, and in Asia and Alberta.

Chinese Paper Angry at U.S. Over Cuba Crisis

PEKING (Reuters)—Communist China declared today that it is unable to contain its "extreme anger" over "United States aggression" against Cuba.

The official Chinese Communist newspaper People's Daily claimed that Saturday's bombing raids against Cuba were part of a "series of schemes engineered by the United States to intervene in Cuba."

"The Chinese and other peaceloving people of the world are unable to contain their extreme anger and strong protests against the United States' aggression," the People's Daily said.

It said the attack "again proves the essence of United States aggression can never change."

"Slogans of democracy, progress and freedom uttered loudly by Kennedy to Latin America are full of deceit," the newspaper charged.

REPORT COMPLAINTS

Chinese newspapers reported the United States and Cuban complaints to the United Nations political committee charging aggression by the United States against Cuba.

Peking newspapers said Adlai Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the UN, had denied the charges. The Chinese press quoted his statements that the raids were made by anti-Castro Cuban Force planes and that three Cuban airmen had fled to Florida and asked for asylum.

FUMES CAUSE THEFT

FALLON, Nev. (AP)—Deadly ammonia fumes, which overturned, truck tied up traffic for eight hours Sunday and forced nearby residents to leave their homes. Experts with special gas masks were air-lifted from California to stop the leak. The gas was released when driver Frank Silva lost control of a truck carrying anhydrous ammonia fertilizer, used in fertilizer. Passing youths rescued Silva.

Costs of Supersonic Age To Be Immense Says Balcer

MONTREAL (CP)—Transport Minister Leon Balcer, warning that the costs of the supersonic age of flight will be of a gigantic measure, said today no one airline, manufacturer or government will be able to enter that era alone.

The requirement is too great in terms of technological knowledge, manufacturing facility, operational or financial terms, above all, international co-ordination of effort is necessary, Mr. Balcer told 650 aviation experts from 23 countries.

His address marked the official opening of a week-long symposium on supersonic air transport. The symposium is the highlight of the International Air Transport Association's 14th technical conference.

Text of Mr. Balcer's speech was released by the press in advance of delivery.

Canada was spending millions on air transport research and "we fully expect to keep it up," Mr. Balcer said.

"But in view of other demands upon government in the foreseeable future we must be careful about overreaching ourselves."

R. V. Carleton of Dallas, Tex., vice-president of Braniff International Airways and the aviation industry faces quick bankruptcy unless we are judging what problems posed by the forthcoming age of supersonic airliners.

Designing and building a safe, efficient and economical aircraft that flies at more than 650 miles an hour wasn't the only problem.

"A positive and vastly improved airways traffic control system must be worked out . . ." he said.

URGE RATIFICATION

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Jewish Congress urged the United States Sunday to "seize the occasion" of the Adolf Eichmann trial and ratify the International Genocide Convention. The convention — which outlaws the mass murder of national, racial, religious or ethnic groups, has been adopted by 64 nations. The U.S. Senate has not ratified the convention.

U.S. Automation Said Cause Of High Jobless Figure

NEW YORK (AP)—The story of automation begins, with the invention of the wheel in history's dim past. It is still unrolling.

In one form or another, automation has always been part of man's economic activity. But the current high joblessness in the United States — February's 5,705,000 were unemployed, the greatest number since 1940—has placed it under the scrutiny.

An unemployed auto worker thus has kicked me out in the street for good."

He is a leading advocate of more and more automation to increase the 1961 average 2% experience I do not know of a single case in this country in which automation would have harmed by automation."

Automation has transformed American agriculture and has made great inroads in nearly every economic segment: Autos, steel, textiles, mining, communications, banking, canning, government, insurance, banking and clerical.

The list is permanently eliminated tens of thousands of jobs in scores of other industries.

During the postwar period, productivity (output per man hour) in bituminous coal mining rose 96 per cent while employment fell 182,700. Railroad productivity rose 65 per cent in the same period while employment fell 140,000.

MACHINES BRING LAYOFFS

Auto workers in Detroit, steel workers in Pittsburgh, textile workers in New York have been hard hit as new machines are introduced.

These jobless have formed their own organization, "Jobless Corps" unemployed, unskilled or semi-skilled. In January, 647,000 of the unemployed had been looking for work for 27 weeks or longer.

And yet nearly all observers agree that automation is necessary for American business to compete in the world markets, because automation is increasing productivity.

Sopron School Of Forestry To Be Closed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A university school of forestry graduate from the university of British Columbia in May and the Hungarian university faculty becomes non-existent.

Dean Kalman Roller, who led the move to keep Sopron shortly after the Soviet armed occupation of Hungary in 1956, says:

"I believe I am not conceited when I say that our exodus shall be written on the pages of history to provide example and inspiration for future generations."

In 1956 when Soviet tanks rolled into Hungary the students fled to Austria and subsequently came to Canada.

Of the original 196 students, 139 have graduated and the staff of 29 has shrunk to four.

Some dropped out for language or financial reasons, or because they simply couldn't make the grades. Eight returned to their homeland.

Faculty has gradually dispersed. Some of the professors are at UBC and other universities, some in forestry research and some are mining or forestry engineers.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—David and Douglas Clarkson, 10-year-old identical twins, rode their bicycles side by side into a street Sunday, and were struck by a car. Each suffered a fracture of the right leg.

St. Lawrence Seaway Open For Business

MONTREAL (CP) — The St. Lawrence Seaway is open for the first time for business and it shapes up to be a good year for the inland ports.

Throughout the Great Lakes system, shipping officials say the prospects are exceptionally bright.

The seaway — a partnership between Canada and the U.S. with Canada as senior financial partner — opened on schedule Saturday, three days earlier than last year.

At the St. Lambert lock, the eastern entrance off Montreal, the Dutch vessel Lisa Hoop passed through westbound at 8:20 a.m. EST.

Both vessels were operated by Canada Steamship Lines.

24 MOVED THROUGH

Twenty-four vessels, 17 of them salt-water ships, moved through the St. Lambert lock behind the Coverdale before midnight Sunday night.

The Fort Henry arrived here Sunday at 9:50 a.m., completing the first eastbound voyage. Behind her were the Burlington, Prindoc and Lavaldoc.

Because of heavy ice conditions still prevalent at points along the waterway, navigation has been restricted to daylight hours.

It was expected that around the - clock traffic would start next week.

KOREAN TO DIE

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—A key member of Syngman Rhee's regime, former home minister Choi In-kyoo, today was sentenced to death for masterminding the rigging of last year's presidential elections. The five-judge court which is trying officials of the ousted Rhee regime Saturday sentenced Koo Sung-ai, a former police officer, to death for ordering police to shoot during the rioting which forced Rhee's resignation April 27.

Fire Destroys 3 Stores, Hall In Welland

WELLAND (CP) — Fire destroyed three stores and the local Odd Fellows Hall in downtown Welland early today.

The blaze raged through most of the night. It started around 1 a.m. and was still burning, though under control, five hours later.

There was no firm estimate of loss but it was expected to be high.

Destroyed were the Olympia Restaurant, the Agnew-Surpass Shoe store and the Walker-Winery retail shop. The Odd Fellows Hall was above the stores, in the heart of the downtown area on east Main Street.

Part of a second-storey wall toppled into the street and struck a fire truck. One fireman was knocked off the vehicle but was not hurt.

Managers of the winery and the shoe store said they hope to remove the contents of their safes. Firemen had been finding the source of the blaze because there was no visible sign of flames when they arrived, it then appeared in the restaurant.

Big Taxation Data Centre Loaded With Facilities To Catch Return Mistakes

By JACK VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—An electronic calculator and 700 eagle-eyed checkers are on the watch for mistakes in income tax returns at a big taxation data centre here.

The centre, which comes into operation only during the rush period for filing, is going through the 4,500,000 returns being filed by Ontario residents. Deadline for 1960 returns is April 30.

"The calculator can clear 6,000 taxpayers an hour," says R. W. (Bob) Arbuckle, deputy old director of the centre. "During the peak period we handle as many as 35,000 forms a day."

The centre, occupying three floors of a downtown office building, was set up for the first time last year as a pilot project to speed handling of income tax returns. It took the load off Ontario's 11 district income tax offices.

It proved such a success that it has been made a permanent feature for handling all Ontario personal income tax returns and the staff has expanded hitself to 700 persons.

The centre, occupying three floors of a downtown office building, was set up for the first time last year as a pilot project to speed handling of income tax returns. It took the load off Ontario's 11 district income tax offices.

It proved such a success that it has been made a permanent feature for handling all Ontario personal income tax returns and the staff has expanded hitself to 700 persons.

MILLION REFUNDS

Income tax collection and checking is the business. Last year 6,000,000 taxpayers last year paid $1,731,580,797. Ontario residents contributed $872,258,077.

More than 500,000 cheques were received at the centre and upwards of 1,000,000 refund cheques issued—made here.

Under supervision of a small permanent staff of about 30 persons, 500 part-time workers—many of them mathematics-faculty students—are employed for the busy period—handle the returns with an assembly - line technique.

The returns pass from a spot-checking section where the envelopes are carefully opened so that no receipts are lost, through to the final checking.

Clerks sort them according to areas and decide if they are simple or difficult, pass them on to other checking clerks and eventually to another stage to auditors. Names, addresses and other information noted on special cards for feeding to the electronic calculator for further action.

CHECK ARITHMETIC

The machine doesn't do everything but it can determine whether a taxpayer's addition, subtraction and multiplication are correct and check for many other possible errors.

Lights blink and motors churn as the big box-like calculator ponders the thousands of results, shooting off info a special slot the ones in which it finds mistakes.

Rejected returns are sent back to the auditors who then notify the taxpayer telling him where he went wrong.

A record is made, also by machine, of all forms checked. The original returns are sent to the district office because they are closer to the individual taxpayer if there are any further questions.

The data centre makes out final cheques again by automation, for the refunds. Personnel this year worked overtime to get out as many refund cheques as possible before Easter, mailing 45,000 in one day alone.

Lightning Wit By Defendant Heard in Court

VANCOUVER (CP) — A ruly - poly little man with lightning wit is sparking a police court preliminary hearing here with moments of mirth.

George Caldough of London, England, and two other men are charged with eight counts of fraud and conspiracy involving some $385,000.

Caldough, conducting his own defence — he said earlier he couldn't afford a lawyer — was invited to cross-examine a witness.

"I hesitate in standing up," the defendant replied. "The court has divested me of my tie and belt and I'm deathly scared my pants will fall down to the middle of cross-examination."

Earlier this week a witness from Indiana, who bought stock in one of the accused companies, said literary quotations in the weekly "stock bulletins" affected his decision to buy.

"Profits do not accrue to the bold," read one such circular, It was part of a speech by the Prince of Denmark in Shakespeare's Hamlet.

"To be or not to be," quoted the 29 sheet, adding, "which goes to prove that even in those early days people were reluctant to make decisions follow a definite course of action."

Caldough looked up from his notes:

"Is Shakespeare going to be charged jointly for that statement?"

Hungry Chihawks Nest Stanley Cup

STANLEY CUP CHAMPIONS — A happy lot of Chicago Black Hawks, including coach Rudy Pilous (seen second on the Stanley Cup), symbol of National Hockey League championship, after winning the cup Sunday night at Detroit by beating the Detroit Red Wings 5-1. The triumph gave the Hawks the best of seven series four games to two and the first Stanley Cup title in 23 years. (AP Wirephoto).

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"Gordie Howe," cracked a staffer the other day in a statement that set the Hawks-Canadiens-Leafs contingent upright in their hammocks, "is not only great. He is a tradition, a Wing that never moults."

You, Virginia, Pilous did just that but he perphrased his remark that Howe was the greatest player in the circuit. Frank Selke almost shocked Canadiens' fandom a while back with the same statement, although he added that Rocket Richard was the most colorful and exciting.

The Rocket called him the greatest and suggested he could be even better if he had more desire, more of the smashing drive that marked his own play.

A Michigan Avenue expatriate now resident here, went all out. "Gordie Howe," he opined, "is a better hockey player than my fan face than a lot of National Leaguers standing up."

I first met Gordie Howe at Larry Eggett's well-appointed summer cottage at Roseneare several years ago. The red-haired, hospitable Larry has been godfather to the Red Wings, come-and-go, these many years. His residence in Detroit, Florida and Rosemere are second homes to the Wings.

Marty Pavelich was there. So was a gentleman named Leonard Kelly, better known as "Red." Milt Fallitga, the Eggett' popular man-of-the-house, had served golden-brown halves of chicken.

When Gordie was offered the "second half" he courteously declined with, "This will do very well, thank you."

That was the second longest speech of the day for Gordie. The longest was his answer to my question, "How do you score these goals?" His answer, "I just shoot the puck and it goes into the net."

Marty was the speaker of the day. Garrulous, but good, he held the podium while flame-thatched "Red" whose torso is covered with hirsute lining of the same color, danced on the lawn to get himself in shape.

The least developed of Howe's physical equipment is his vocal cords. Comment on a point-blank shot that didn't hit the target brings a perfunctory "I guess I missed." He likes double interviews—and lets the chatty fellow do the talking. In this case the tonsil-happy Marty did all the vocalizing.

"Dirty? No, I wouldn't say that. But he gets away with more than any other player in the league. He's as smooth as a greased bob-sweigher gliding through a barrel of oil. He is different in spot at his shenanigans because he accomplishes them as he does his other feats, effortlessly and with a grace that belies his true muscles.

He makes every move count. If one stride will do the trick, he doesn't waste another. Falling or flat on the ice he will give his last effort to direction of the puck. And under full steam he does not appear to be going fast. But put a fast skater on his tail and you'll appreciate his speed.

Every opposing player in the NHL knows when Howe steps on the ice his goal is in danger. He can whip-snap the puck with powerful wrists, either left or right. He is fast at backchecking, can play all night, organize power-plays and kill penalties. What more do you want from a man except youth until misery.

Actually he jumped from juvenile hockey in his native Prince Saskatchewan, to the professional Omaha Knights. One season with the Knights and he went to the NHL. He's been there ever since.

He had the potential of a pro goaler and a pro baseball player. Once he played golf with Dizzy Trout, the former Detroit pitcher, and Chick Hafey, when the latter was PGA champion. Howe outdrove both.

Gordie once said out loud: "I wonder if I could hit major baseball league pitching." Lou Boudreau, then Cleveland Indians manager, heard him and invited him to the ball park. Howe faced a real hurler and lined the third pitch into the left-field seats.

If Howe is the dirtiest player in pro hockey, at least he doesn't go around carving up the foemen. He takes care of one Gordie Howe, and looks after himself pretty well.

One thing I would like to know. What was running through the minds of both Howe and Bobby Hull, when during that brawl in Chicago last Friday night they stood for a second and glowered at each other?

Are your questions answered, Virginia?

Win Clincher In Runaway

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

DETROIT (CP)—The end of a hockey championship famine, which began in March, 1938, ended of a new era in the sport, rested today with Chicago Black Hawks, 1961 Stanley Cup champions.

They reached the pinnacle Sunday night by overpowering Detroit Red Wings 5-1 and taking the best-of-seven cup final 4-2. Since 1938 Chicago teams have struggled, often hopelessly, have been built and rebuilt in an effort to recapture the prized trophy.

Sunday night's triumph turned into a runaway. The Hawks trailed 1-0 after the first period, but then gathered momentum and won going away.

Jumping off to a fast start before 14,238 fans in Detroit Olympia, the Hawks hit hard and often against the heavier Chicago team. The opening upheavals seemed to take more out of the Wings than it did the Hawks. From then on the Wings slowly faded and in the third period were run ragged by the little-hungry Hawks.

Reg Fleming of Chicago scored while his own team was shorthanded in the second period and Ab McDonald added another—the goal that proved to be the winner. Then, in the third period, Eric Nesterenko, Jack Evans and Ken Wharram completed what turned into a virtual rout.

The so-called turning point in the game came in Fleming's goal while Detroit had the manpower edge. The Wings had set up their first-period 1-0 lead on Parker MacDonald's goal and were hammering away against the under-manned Hawks.

Fleming, from Montreal, barged into centre ice and took the puck from Len Lunde. He raced into the Detroit end, was relieved of the puck by defenceman Pete Goegan, and, in turn, stole the puck back. Then he grianed in on goaltender Hank Bassen and beat him with a waist-high shot.

"That's the goal that did it," said Hawk coach Rudy Pilous. "It was only the-tying goal but it took the starch out of the Red Wings and gave us the zip we needed."

GAME ON REBOUND

The winning goal by McDonald, lanky forward from Winnipeg, came on the rebound of a shot by Bobby Hull, who had sped in to try for his own rebound and spilled over Bassen. McDonald calmly lifted the puck over the netminder.

When the game ended, president Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League, presented the cup to Chicago team captain Eddie Litzenberger.

Goalkeeper Glenn Hall was one of the acclaimed heros of the Chicago team—the man who twice saved what appeared sure goals as the puck was about to roll over the line.

The Wings, who congratulated their conquerors on the ice, had no complaints.

"We didn't expect to go as far as we did," said general manager Jack Adams. "We just ran out of gas in this game, but it was a most satisfactory season for us."

BROKE PATTERN

The game marked the first time either team had been able to win away from home, and the Hawks broke the pattern by playing without two top men. Right winger Murray Balfour suffered a fractured arm in the fifth game Friday in Chicago and veteran defenceman Bobby Baird St. Laurent came out of the same game on the limp from torn knee ligaments. Both watched as spectators.

The Hawks dressed two rookies from their Buffalo Bison farm club in the American League but used only forward Wayne Hicks, a defence man Wayne Hillman sat on the bench.

The Hawk scoring proved to be as uprising of the have-outs. Four of the five marksmen hadn't scored before in this hectic fracas, and one of them—defenceman Jack Evans — hadn't scored a goal in two seasons of NHL play.

Coach Bid Abel of the Wings chose Bassen for the nets Sunday night instead of Terry Sawchuk, who had played poorly in Chicago Friday when the Wings lost 6-3. Bassen did well but an uneasy defence proved Detroit's undoing. Goegan was the goat at least once on Chicago goals and Marcel Pronovost was shaken off by Evans on another.

SPARKED BY HOWE

The Wings' goal, at 15:24 of the first period, came when Gordie Howe bulled his way between Elmer Vasko and Earl Balfour of the Hawks for a hard shot on Hall. MacDonald raced in to score on the rebound.

Fleming's goal brought the Chicago bench to its feet at 6:35 of the second period and Mc-Donald did it again at 18:49 with his goal.

Nesterenko caught Goegan alone on the Detroit defence and cruised to score after 12 seconds of the third period on Ted Sloan's relup pass. Evans scored at 8:37 and Wharram at 18:00. Wharram got loose on a breakaway after intercepting a Howe pass intended for Alex Delvecchio.

In reaching the final, the Hawks knocked off the powerful Canadiens—cup winners five straight times — and established themselves as a power in the NHL for next season. The Wings defeated Toronto Leafs in the other best-of-seven semi-final.

The last Hawk victory in the final was in 1938 when they defeated the Leafs. Their only other win was in 1934, against Detroit. The Hawks, who came into the league in 1926, lost in their only other appearances in the finals—both times to Montreal, in 1931 and 1944.

'Fleming's Goal Did It' - - Pilous

By JOE MOSHIL

DETROIT (AP) — "Reggie Fleming's goal did it," yelled coach Rudy Pilous in the dressing room of Chicago Black Hawks, Hockey's Stanley Cup champions. "What more could you ask than to score a goal when you are short-handed?"

It was a happy group of Hawks but a relatively quiet one. Fleming and a few others gave out with whoops when team captain Ed Litzenberger walked into the dressing room with the huge silver cup, symbol of professional hockey supremacy.

The Hawks won the award for the first time since 1938 by beating Detroit 5-1 Sunday night.

Pilous said he gave his team a little half" after the first period when the Hawks trailed 1-0. "I told them to go out and win the extra thousand bucks."

MAKES DIFFERENCE

Pilous was talking about the difference in the winners' share. The winners get $1,750 and the losers $750. For their victories in the semi - final and final rounds, the Hawks will collect $3,000 a man and the Red Wings $2,000.

Everyone was congratulating everyone else. Bruce Norris, owner of the Wings, congratulated his brother, Jim Norris, owner, of the Hawks.

"Leave a little in the bottom, Jim," said Bruce, referring to the tradition of drinking champagne out of the Stanley Cup.

Players gathered around the gleaming cup to have pictures taken with general manager Tommy Ivan, who was missing the Hawk trophy.

Ivan, who has been responsible for developing the Hawks into world champions, was not ready to talk about the future. "All I can say is we have a young team and some good, young players."

Gordie Glenn Hall, one of the most responsible for Chicago's hockey comeback, was asked: "When did you figure you had it won?

HE'S WORN OUT

"When we scored the fifth goal," said the quiet Hall. "It's been a long, rough season and I'm worn out."

Gordie Howe, the great Detroit star, came in and said to Pilous:

"Congratulations, Lucky."

"Lucky, I'll say I'm lucky," said Pilous. "Lucky to have such a great bunch of players and lucky to be associated with men like Mr. Norris and Mr. Ivan who go out and get me great players. But we're all tired now. We've played 22 games counting exhibitions and all I think the boys deserve a little rest."

Giants Tag National

Min-Twins Lead American League

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

When Al Dark was named manager of San Francisco Giants, wise baseball men asked the big question: Can a rookie manager get the gang to pull together? In the light of Tom Sheehan's experience last season it was a valid question.

Dark has provided strong evidence in one short week that he is capable of taking charge. The Giants are leading the National League and Dark is making the right moves.

Take Sunday's game with Philadelphia for example. Sam Jones always beats the Phillies. He has a 21-0 record against them over the years. He was going for his seventh straight at this expense when he ran into a wild streak and some errors in the ninth.

Dark went to the bullpen for Billy O'Dell with the bases loaded and only one out. O'Dell promptly got Bobby Del Greco, a pinch hitter, to hit a come-backer that blew a game-ending double play.

The Giants' 5-3 victory over Philadelphia, combined with the Los Angeles Dodgers' stormy 8-7 decision over Robert Roberts and pat San Francisco in first place.

The Dodgers' pitcher Norm St. Louis to within a half game to the top with a 5-3 edge over Cincinnati, Milwaukee and Chicago were snowed out at Chicago.

Jones contributed two doubles to the Giants' 10 - hit attack and Leon Robert Roberts and two successors. He was coasting along with a 5-1 lead entering the ninth, Sad Sam struck out Tony Gonzalez on a wild pitch but Gonzalez reached first base before catcher Tom Haller could retrieve the ball. A wild pitch and a single by Pancho Herrera counted a run. Harvey Kuenn's error, a ground out and a hit batsman alerted Dark to call for O'Dell.

Doubles by Kuenn and Orlando Cepeda helped get the Giants away to a three-run first inning and doomed Roberts to his second defeat.

Leo and Jocko exchanged kicks during an argument over a high pop fly by Willie Larker that landed in fair territory but bounced foul. Conlan called it a fair ball.

The Dodgers came from behind and racked up five Pirate pitchers for 15 hits, handing Vern Law his second straight defeat. Frank Williams was the winner with the help of home runs by Tommy Davis, Wally Moon and Norm Sherry.

Sedalia, 20 - year - old left-handed pitcher, threw a seven-hit hitter at Cincinnati and struck out seven, while batting Jim O'Toole, Don Landrum, whose failure to hit must have been worrying manager Solly Hemus, launched a decisive two-run rally in the fifth with a double.

Hemus has been counting on Landrum replacing his centre field gap, if he can hit consistently. A double by Bill White and a single by Ken Boyer followed Landrum's hit.

Trenton Gains Hoop Final

ESSEX (CP) — Trenton advanced into the Ontario Amateur Basketball Association intermediate C final Saturday night despite a 73-62 loss at the hands of Essex.

Victorious Trenton in the first game of the two-game, total points Southern Ontario final, Trenton won the setting by three points, 134-131, and will play the Northern Ontario winner, either North Bay or Sudbury, for the all-Ontario title.

Well until Minnesota Twins see Minnesota. The precocious Twins haven't even seen their new home yet but they're rattling the heady air of first place in the American League standings.

Bob Allison, an accepted slugger, and Zoilo Versalles, supposedly a glove man, boosted the Twins into the lead with home runs in Sunday's double victory over Baltimore Orioles. Thus the Twins were assured of a raucous welcome home Friday afternoon.

Allison drove in seven runs with a grand-slam homer and a three-run comer in the 10-5 first game. Versalles, 20, Cuban shortstop, won the second game with his two-run homer in the 11th.

While the old Washington club moved west was flexing its muscles the new Washington Senators were settling near the cellar after a 3-3 debut by splitting. The Indians, shut out for eight innings by Dick Donovan, rose up in the ninth with five straight hits, including a home run by Tito Francona.

STORY CONTINUED

Rain, cold weather and snow washed out scheduled doubleheaders in seven other York Yankees and Kansas City Athletics, Los Angeles Angels and Boston Red Sox will engage in a game between Chicago White Sox and Detroit Tigers.

Saturday, the Yankees defeated the Athletics 5-3, Boston shut out Los Angeles 3-0, Baltimore thumped Minnesota 8-0, Cleveland edged Washington 3-2 and Detroit downed Chicago 6-2.

Allison really had himself a ball in the first game at Baltimore. Chuck Estrada, who relieved starter Jim Perry in the fourth, walked the first three men he faced. Allison followed with his grand slammer and another in the sixth with two men on base, long after Estrada had departed.

Although winning, Pedro Ramos gave up 13 of the Orioles' 14 hits before being replaced by Ray Moore in the seventh.

HAS FOUR HITS

Bill Pleis, third of four Minnesota pitchers, won the second game on Versalles' homer, following a walk to Reno Bertoia. It was Versalles' fourth hit in six trips in the game and his fifth major league homer. The 150-pound shortstop, a .133 hitter in 15 games last year now is batting .478. Don Mincher also hit a homer for the Twins.

Donovan was rolling along with a 2-0 lead going into the ninth when Johnny Temple led off with a third straight single. Francona tied the score with a double down the right field line. After singles by Jimmy Piersall and Willie Kirkland, Rudy Hernandez replaced Donovan and was greeted by Woody Held's game-winning single.

Johnny Antonelli, making his first American League start for the Indians, squared for a pinch hitter after seven innings, but Bob Allen, a lefty up from Mobile, won in relief.

Napanee All Square With Barrie

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — Napanee Comets squared their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association senior A semi - final series with Barrie Lakeviews at one game apiece Saturday night with a 5-2 victory before 2,065 fans.

The Senior scored twice for the Comets, whose other goals were from Jack White, Don Bellringer and Tom Goodfellow. Chuck Edward and Dave Sandham were the Barrie marksmen.

Softball Bodies Disagree

Umpires Quit League

The Belleville and District Softball League and the Bay of Quinte Umpires' Association parted company at the conclusion of a meeting yesterday afternoon.

Unable to see eye-to-eye on umpiring fees for the 1961 season, the two organizations agreed to disagree, and unlike past years, this time vowed to stick to their guns.

The umpires asked earlier this year that the officials' fees be raised from $4.25 per man to $5 per game. The softball league managers said they were tired of the umpires' continued demanding for more money.

"We will pay the same as last year, $4.25 per man, and not a cent more", was the remark by another stalling such was passed at an earlier meeting but the boys have backed it up again yesterday.

Jack Kelleher, president of the umpires' association, said that since this was the final decision, umpires from that organization would handle B. and D. games this year. On top of this, the league is refused to receive travelling money, but will pay it their way.

The league was confident it would get umpires, outside the association, for B. and D.

Four clubs were represented yesterday, two from Belleville teams, Bobcats and Joyce Real Estate, plus RCAF Flyers and Picton. Each club has refused starters, along with Cobourg Cleveland, Trenton and Brighton.

The league will confident it would get umpires, outside the association, for B. and D.

Four clubs were represented yesterday, two from Belleville teams, Bobcats and Joyce Real Estate, plus RCAF Flyers and Picton. Each club has refused starters, along with Cobourg Cleveland, Trenton and Brighton.

A six-team schedule, drafted earlier, was adopted if Trenton should enter. If Trenton does not enter, a new five-team schedule will be forthcoming.

The league will operate entirely under lights this season since the RCAF team announced it will play its games on the Trenton town diamond. No lights are available at the air station.

A motion was passed that the B. and D. League draft a constitution, something that is badly needed in the managers' opinion. The loop operates by the OASA rulebook in most instances.

The protest fee this year will be $10 and must be seen by registered mail, postmarked not more than 24 hours after the game concerned, to league secretary-treasurer Clifford Belch. The $25 would be returned if the protesting team wins its protest.

Norm Temple cleared up some confusion about the Bobcats playing in intermediate ranks with Kingston teams. If the agreement goes through as planned the Bobcats will engage in home and home games against four or five Kingston teams, points to count in the Kingston league but not in the Belleville setup. Temple assured the meeting that it would not interfere in any way with the B. and D. fixtures.

It is unlikely that the other Belleville team, Joyce Real Estate, will play against Kingston.

Meet Winnipeg Maroons

Galt Enters Cup Finals

GALT, Ont. (CP)—Galt Terriers' battery of Ken Comeau and has rolled them into an Allan Cup appearance in the first senior hockey series for the Canadian senior hockey championship.

Bob McKnight's goal with 23 seconds left in the first overtime period Galt's Gardens Friday night gave the Terriers a 3-2 victory over Kimberly Maroons and the best-of-seven eastern final in straight games.

The Terriers' 11th successive playoff victory gave them the right to meet the Western champion Winnipeg Maroons in the best-of - seven Dominion Finals opening at the Winnipeg rink.

The tie-breaking goal Saturday was typical of Galt's rapid-fire assault and of the goal-tending heroics that rankled Jacques Monette, the Nova Scotian playing coach, among the individual stars of the series.

It was Mac Macmillan, labeled at Monette during the evening. He had just come on for Comeau after one a spectacular stab of Bill Wylie's drive while lying on his side, when Ralph Bowman made a 10-footer on which Monette had no chance.

The Ramblers, who bore the brunt of the penalty damage throughout the series, shortned 14 of the 20 calls and were scored a goal twice when shorthanded.

"We deserved what we received from the referees and those penalties killed us," Monette said.

GALT SCORED FIRST

Galt's Bobby Meeker scored the only goal of the first period, Bowman's one pot Ramblers ahead 2-1 with goals 32 seconds apart in the second but defenceman Darryl Sly forced the overtime midway in the third when he knocked a rebound of his own shot that Monette had kicked away.

The victory touched off a wild demonstration by the packed crowd of 3,400 — a five rooster was among the objects thrown on the ice during the climactic hockey season that began in September.

The Terriers, previously in the Ontario Hockey Association senior B series, joined the eastern division of the new OHA senior group last fall. Left temporarily without a league when the other eastern clubs folded, they were accepted in the western group, knocked off the first - place Windsor Bulldogs four straight in the semi-finals and duplicated the feat in a best-of-seven series against Sudbury Nickel Alouettes of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association for the provincial championship.

Captain Floyd (Butch) Martin, Meeker scored a 10:46 when he knocked in a loose puck after Monette had blocked Pete Kowalchuk on the crease.

TIGER KO'S WEBB

NEW YORK (AP)—Nigerian Dick Tiger Saturday spoiled Solder Sim Webb's comeback by dropping the ring - rusty Chicago middleweight in 2:41 of the eighth round of a scheduled 10-rounder at St. Nicholas arena. It was Tiger's third straight knockout victory. Tiger weighed 160¾, Webb 159¾.

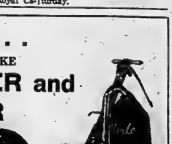
Indians Win Calder Cup

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—Springfield Indians defeated Hershey Bears 3-0 Saturday night to win their second straight Calder Cup championship in the American Hockey League.

The Indians swept the best-of-seven playoff series 4-0 and became the first team in the league's 26-year history to win both the cup and first place in the regular league play two years in a row.



Springfield got its first goal nine seconds after the game began. Dennis Olson stole the puck from Ray Lalande in front of the Hershey net and caught goalie Bob Perreault off guard.

In the second Harry Pidhirny took a pass from Ted Harris and connected on a 30-foot backhand shot. Then Gerry Foley hit with a 10-foot shot after taking a pass from Bob Kabel.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Seattle Totems gained a ticket into the championship round of the Western Hockey League Sunday night by edging the regular league winners, Calgary Stampeders, 2-1 to take a best-of-seven semi-final 4-1.

Tommy McVie gave Totems a 1-0 lead in the second period and Marc Bolleau made it 2-0 after less than two minutes of the third period.

Wally Hergesheimer got one Calgary goal back.

The pattern was somewhat different in Vancouver Saturday night.

Arnie Schmautz, Portland winger put Buckaroos ahead 1-0 in the first period before Canucks Captain Brent Mac-Nab tied the score seven minutes later.

Vancouver broke through with the winner midway through the third period when defenceman Ralph Keller batted a puck behind Portland goalie Don Head from point-blank range.

Int. League Opens Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The International Baseball League, the oldest and perhaps the busiest of the minors, opens its 78th season today in a new location and with something of a new look.

The opener takes place in San Juan, Puerto Rico, where organized professional baseball never has been seen before. Enthusiastic fans are expected to jam little Sixto Escobar Stadium to its 9,400-seat capacity to see the Marlins, transferred from Miami and somewhat improved in the process, play the opener against the 1960 champion Toronto Maple Leafs. The other three opening games are scheduled Tuesday.

Three Puerto Rican Players are the Marlins' biggest drawing cards. They are shortstop Julio Gotay, infielder Ed Olivares and Reinaldo Oliver, a utility player and coach.

The international league has a second new member this year—Syracuse, shifted from Montreal; five new managers and one new president.

The president is Tommy Richardson, an effusive and experienced baseball veteran who was president of the Eastern League for many years.

Series Squared

Soo-Birds Shade Hull

HULL, Que. (CP) — Fred Hillis of Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds let go with a two-goal performance Sunday as he led them defeated Hull-Ottawa Canadiens 3-1 to split the Eastern International Hockey League best-of-seven finals at one game apiece.

Hillis, the leading goal-scorer in the regular schedule with 45 tallies, put in the winner at 14:35 of the third frame when he worked his way behind the Canadiens defence to score at close range.

The Canadiens opened the scoring in the first period when Terry Gray tallied while the Thunderbirds were shorthanded.

Gray poked the puck in the net after being set up by Bob Rousseau and Bob Elliott. It was the third power-play goal Canadiens have scored in this series.

The lone Canadien goal stood up until Hillis found the target from the left side at 2:23 of the third period. Less than 12 minutes later he scored the winner.

In the first two periods of play the Thunderbirds missed golden scoring opportunities as they outshot and outplayed Canadiens. But passes were wide of the net on their best chances.

Canadiens were off the form which had them the league pennant. Only in the final few minutes of the game, after Hillis had broken the 1-1 deadlock, did they look like a first-place club.

They still couldn't manage to get a dangerous shot on Thunderbird goalie Roy Edwards. Canadiens pressed from their end using four forwards and one defenceman in their efforts to tie the score. Goalie Johnston was lifted without success.

Coach Billy Reay made two changes in the Sault Ste. Marie lineup for the game. He benched defenceman Guy Rousseau and forward Don Grosso in favor of Murray Hall and Milan Marcetta.

Referee Vern Buffey called nine penalties, one a misconduct to Eddie Kachur in the second period for disputing a high-sticking call on teammate Hillis.

The two clubs play the third game of the series tonight in Sault Ste. Marie. They will play the fourth game there before returning here next Friday night for the fifth game.

Point Away From Final

Irish Whip Royals 7-4

TORONTO (CP)—Larry Keenan's goal-tending and his six assists Sunday to give St. Michael's College a 7-4 victory over Guelph Royals and lead the Majors to the brink of a Memorial Cup appearance.

The win gave the Majors a 3-2 lead in the eight-point series for the Ontario Hockey Association junior A championship. They now need only a tie in the Saturday game at Guelph tonight to meet either Winnipeg Rangers or Edmonton Oil Kings for the Canadian junior crown.

Sonny Osborne had two, and Dave Draper got St. Michael's other goals. For Guelph, Bob Brown picked up his first-and second goals in junior A competition while Wally Taylor and Paul Andrea scored singles.

"We're in trouble now," Guelph coach Emile Francis conceded in the dressing room. "We've got three youngsters out there but they just haven't the experience. Al Lebrun shouldn't be playing. I hate to put him out there but he is goalie, and he's been good for us. But I've never seen a boy with so much guts."

OUTLOOK WAS OBVIOUS

The effects of the husky defenceman's back injury were obvious. Assistant defenceman Mike McMahon still is in hospital with knee ligaments torn in Friday's game. With the absence of Rod Gilbert, leagueleading scorer out the season with a back injury, has seriously hampered the Guelph offence.

The Royals were no match for St. Mike's in checking or checking and suffered eight of the 11 penalties, including a misconduct to Dave Keon for arguing loudly with referee Hugh McLean.

The season's top crowd, 11,032, saw the clubs split four goals in the first period. The Majors went ahead 4-3 in the second and added three more in the third.

St. Michael's got the first two goals as they forced Guelph to the winds and blew another one-goal lead in the second. After that it was virtually all Majors.

LEAFS BUY OUTFIELDER

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League Saturday announced the purchase of outfielder Lou Jackson from Jersey City Reds for $15,000. Jackson hit .280 for the Reds last season.

AT THE PARK — "Herman", a scene-stealing pigeon, adds to the hilarity of MGM's merry murder-mystery, "The Gazebo", showing today and Tuesday only, film version of the Broadway stage hit. The new comedy co-stars Glenn Ford and Debbie Reynolds for the second time, following their successful teaming in "It Started With a Kiss". TV's popular Carl Reiner also plays a leading role. On the same program "The Last Voyage" in Technicolor, starring Robert Stack, Dorothy Malone, George Sanders and Edmund O'Brien. One complete show starts at 7.15 p.m.

AT THE BELLE — Nancy Kwan and William Holden rehearse a romantic sequence for Ray Stark's "The World of Suzie Wong", Although the Technicolor drama is Miss Kwan's first film, director Richard Quine commented that "I have never seen a newcomer perform so competently. I would tell her what to do and instinctively she would add a sixth sense of her own." "Suzie Wong", is playing tonight and Tuesday at the Belle Theatre, matinee daily.

AT THE McCARTHY — A group of Illia's admirers dispose of an American bent on reforming the young lady. Illia, plaything of Piraeus, is played by Melina Mercouri, and the American, by Jules Dassin, who also produced and directed "Never On Sunday", opening today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Peter Lawford Draws Laugh In Reference to Family

By OWNESHA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Benny is such an institution of broadcasting that his show doesn't often cause much comment. Chuckling at Jack's age, unmiserliness and vanity has become a sort of inevitable habit.

But Sunday night, news of a sort was made on the Jack Benny Show's Peter Lawford, who has made a big thing of banishing all references to his relatives in the White House, broke the silence himself.

It wasn't much of a break, to be sure. It was only a word, and was dragged in by the heels, but the dam has now burst.

JACK WAS LOVED

Jack, Peter and Diana Dors were involved in an English drawing room triangle (Jack, in a curly wig, was the lover; Peter, the husband).

"Derek," said Jack to Peter, "You are very democratic."

"Yes, Cecil," replied Peter, "it runs in the family."

The laugh was loud and appreciative as Peter mugged a bit.

Lawford is President Kennedy's brother-in-law.

TV has a language problem and it was particularly noticeable in two news feature programs Sunday — ABC's reprise of the first day's of the Eichmann trial in Israel, and NBC's Meet the Press interview with West German Chancellor Adenauer.

The voice of the English translation of the Eichmann trial was fuzzy and remote, and much of the time the woman translator seemed to be stumbling for words. In the case of the German chancellor, the sound of Adenauer's voice below the sound of the translation was both confusing and distracting.

Jose Ferrer Had Three Years Of Defeat After Oscar Win

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—To the winners at tonight's academy awards, Jose Ferrer offers these words of caution:

Don't believe everything people tell you.

Ferrer knows. Just a decade ago, he won the Oscar for his protechnical job as Cyrano de Bergerac.

"Immediately after you win an Oscar, they throw Louie Ralner up to you," said Ferrer, mentioning the star who won two awards in a row, and then was heard from no more. "They don't mention Gable, Cooper, Holden and others who thrive after winning the Oscar."

Nor should tonight's winners believe those who say an Oscar is the open-sesame for an actor, Ferrer said. He himself has experienced the rude awakening of an actor when the golden glow of Oscar grows dim.

HAD NO CALL

"For three years, there has been no call for my services as a film actor," said the 1950 winner. "Why? I have no idea why. You'll have to ask that question of numerous producers around town."

Ferrer is now devoting his full energies to being a film director. He took on the job of guiding Return to Peyton Place through the censorial shoals "because nobody else was willing to direct it after the success of the first film."

Ferrer reflected on the past three years without bitterness.

"In the first year, I was restless and even a bit resentful," he said. "I couldn't understand why I wasn't wanted."

He and Rosemary Clooney have five youngsters to feed and Joe found himself dipping into debt during the period of no jobs. Then came Return to Peyton Place and the flowering of a whole new career.

Astrological Forecast

By CAROLL RIGHTER

Tuesday, April 18, 1961.

General Tendencies: This is one of those days when almost everyone is very nimble, both with brain and brawn, when inventive ideas can be reduced to a workable expression by combining mental ingenuity and manual dexterity. A fine day and evening for finding the right words with which to put your ideas across. Contact all and stale views.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Activity of all kind, including taking short trips, all fine today. If you shop, you can find just the right articles at the price you want to pay. Be sure you go out in P.M. and relax at favorite amusements with good friends.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Get rid of all extravagances now and learn, to economize so that the future will be more secure. Then make it a point to take the treatments that will build up your state of health. If you are practical in all things, you win out.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Spend time in A.M., considering exactly what it is you do want, then contact the right people who can help you to attain your ends. Evening is ideal time to make the best new contracts, too, for a more successful future. Grow.

Moon Children born June 22 to July 21) The day and evening are ideal for getting rid of whatever is obsolete or undesirable and whatever is detrimental to your physical growth. Make this a memorable evening by attending the cultural affairs that please.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Look to logical-minded comrades now for assistance in any personal matters that are vital to you. It may be necessary to go out socially this evening, in order to attain your desires, so be sure you are dressed perfectly. Expand.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) You can get your business and credit affairs on a more solid foundation right now. Be highly efficient and ethical in your dealings and impress others with fine and high-minded civic consciousness. Get an early start in A.M.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) The data you require at present can be gleaned from your newspaper. This will lead to new outlets and better methods of operating so that the future is brighter and happier.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) You can get wonderful intuitive flashes today, if you will but get into the so-called Silence for awhile. Later, confer with good, practical advisers with regard to any property or business matters. P.M. Fine for romance.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Your partners will readily give an ear to your suggestions today and you can benefit by their views, too. Strive for real understanding and a more modern and efficient way of operating in the future. Contact them early.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get all of that work behind you efficiently today, since you have the power of the planets with you. Be sure you show gratitude later to those who have helped you and insure further co-operation at a later date. Be just.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A day for fun and frolic, provided you early handle those vital affairs efficiently. Then plan your day wisely, call the friends you truly enjoy and make this a most satisfying day and evening. Be magnanimous, kind.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Once you get business affairs handled properly, give full attention to matters of importance at home. Strive for more harmonious relations with kin, add touches of beauty and efficiency to home, get wardrobe in order, etc.

If your child is born today .. there is every promise of a successful career since your progeny will be blessed with a keen mind and deft fingers. However, it is important that you early teach it to complete one task before going to the next, or there will be failure here. Stress writing or acting in the school curriculum, and if the best is toward allegiance ship, by all means encourage it, too.

AWAKE Nights ASLEEP Days..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They toss and turn in bed, then get dull listless during the day. When kidneys slow down weaken and cannot screen away in the system. Disturbed rest, tired feelings and backaches often follow. If you don't rest well at night—if you feel dull in the daytime—use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Then you feel better—and better—work better. You can depend on Dodd's Kidney Pills.

The Tracks

NEW YORK (CP) — Mr. Consistency upset Alberta Darrin to win the Flatbush Handicap and won the $60,100 California Derby by a neck Saturday at Golden Gate Fields in Albany, Calif.

Gay Landing took third, 1¼ lengths behind Flutterby, in the field of seven three - year - olds racing in the final prep for the Kentucky Derby.

The time for the 1¼ miles was 1:49 over a fast track. Mr. Consistency paid $10.80 to win, $2.80 to place and $3 to show. Flutterby returned $2.20 and $2.40.

At New York's Aqueduct Saturday, Hilling Away won the secondary feature after Mail Order captured the $29,400 Excelsior Handicap.

Hilling Away's time was a dazzling 1:33 3-5 for the mile and he beat the King Ranch's Bal Musette by a neck. Greentree Stable's Tulahhanna finished third.

Hilling Away paid $6.40, and $2.70 while the favored Bal Musette returned $3.40 and $2.20.

In the Excelsior Mail Order paid $20.90, $8.60 and $6.50. Dispatcher returned $8.50 and $6.70. All Hands paid $6.50 to show. E. A. Lazarus' Mr. Brooklyn, in a triple crown nominee owned by Bob Weiner of New Orleans, poured on the speed in the stretch to take the $29,200 Chesapeake Stakes from the front-running Scotch Bull.

Orleans Dogs raced the 1⅛ miles in 1:50 4-5. He paid $5.60, $5.20 and $4.40.

FORT ERIE (CP) — Welland Canal, owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor of Toronto and ridden by Jim Fitzsimmons, scored an easy victory in the feature race at Fort Erie Saturday afternoon, coming from behind to defeat Reactor by 4½ lengths. Oil Can finished third, six lengths behind the winner.

Oil Can finished third, six lengths behind the winner.

Welland Canal paid $9.40, $4.20 and $2.80. The winner combined the $2,000 purse with a quinella of $40.80.—Welland Canal ran the five furlongs in 1:05 4-5 over a very heavy track.

The afternoon's secondary feature, a dash of five furlongs for three - year - olds, was won easily by Lalaine Farm's outstanding Irish Colt, Crown Attorney, which paid $3.80, $6.00 and $2.60.

Saturday's daily double paid $102.30 when Fur A Thee and Krupp won the first two races.

England Wins 9-3 Over Scots

LONDON (Reuters) — British soccer clubs continued their hectic pre-season preparation scramble Saturday as the limelight shifted to England's 9-3 victory over Scotland in an international match.

Some 100,000 and 100,000 other fans were in Wembley Stadium to watch the 12 - goal thriller. England got off to a half-time and the score was 4-2 with all minutes to go. Four more goals were scored, five going to England.

The league play Tottenham Hotspur and Sheffield Wednesday—the only teams in the race for the First Division championship — were idle as many of their players took part in the International match.

The big game in the first division was at Blackpool, where the last-place home team posted a 2-1 win over Newcastle United third from the bottom.

From the North End, another once-powerful team in danger of going down to the second division, went to the foot of the standing after losing 1-0 to Aston Villa away from home.

CAMPAIGN PLANNED

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario junior chambers of commerce are to conduct a safe-driving campaign for teen-agers during the spring months. The campaign, described as a "safe driving road-e-o" will open to under 20-year-olds and culminate in national finals in Halifax July 1.

technical and vocational training, another asking more scholarships, bursaries and loans to students.

WANT FARM LOANS

Delegates called for subsidized loans to young farmers and establishment of an agricultural promotion agency to advance sale of farm products.

Another resolution called for a provincial study of all Ontario welfare statutes and regulations.

The meeting supported the national Liberal rally resolution on defence policy, particularly the section urging Canada to establish permanent international peace and police forces under the United Nations.

The resolutions will be forwarded to national and provincial Liberal headquarters for study.

Treat Fence Posts Now

OTTAWA — One of the many jobs that should be carried out on a farm during the treating of green fence posts, states Dr. W. G. Denyer of the Canada Department of Agriculture's research station at Saskatoon.

And just in case you did not know it, green posts and seasoned posts require different treatment. Both are satisfactory if treated properly.

To treat green posts effectively, says Dr. Denyer, the butts are sliced in a tank of unheated preservative for three or four days in warm spring weather. The butts should be immersed to about eight inches above the expected ground level.

The preservation solution recommended by him for green posts is made with half a pound of dry chromated zinc chloride, one pound of a 50 per cent commercial solution of this chemical in one gallon of water. The posts must be fully green and should be treated immediately before treatment.

Seasoned posts must be peeled and dry before treatment and may be treated at any time. They are effectively treated by standing in a tank of creosote for one or more days. The creosote will penetrate better if the tank is heated for about four hours. After standing in the heated creosote the posts should be transferred to another tank of cold creosote and left for a few hours.

It is not necessary to use pure creosote, says Dr. Denyer, as creosote and half diesel or fuel oil, or waste crankcase oil, is satisfactory. Another solution that has proved satisfactory is a mixture of diesel or fuel oil with five per cent, by weight, of pentbachlorophenol added. Also recommended by Dr. Denyer is copper naphthenate mixed with diesel or fuel oil to give a solution with two per cent copper.

Poplar, pine, spruce and tamarack all give long service as fence posts if properly treated, he reports.

Brown Meets Charnley Tues. Night

LONDON (AP)—"I have nothing against Dave Charnley except I just don't like the guy any more for being a southpaw," muttered world lightweight champion Joe Brown.

Then the 25-year-old champion who was born in Baton Rouge, La., and now campaigns out of Houston, Texas, stepped into the ring and worked off some of his grudge against a spar mate.

Charnley, British and European champion, leads with his right and thus is in the southpaw class despised by Brown. The world champion once said if he had his way he would "throw all southpaws in the sea." Brown, who beat Charnley one before, is a 2-1 favorite to keep his crown.

A sell-out crowd of 18,000 is expected to pay about $100,000 at the gate.

Sports in Brief

CONCEDES CHESS MATCH

MOSCOW (AP)—Mikhail Botvinnik, former world champion, conceded defeat Saturday in the 12th game of the world chess championship without resuming play after Friday's first 40 moves. It was only the third triumph for Mikhail Tal, defending champion. Botvinnik is leading the series.

WINS FOUR TITLES

VANCOUVER (CP) — An all-star team from Japan walked away with four of the eight titles Saturday night in the Canadian wrestling championships here. Pete Michaud of Sudbury, Ont., pinned Japan's Fujio Miyazaki in two minutes, five seconds to win the flyweight title.

LAVER SNAPS STREAK

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Redhaired Rod Laver snapped Roy Emerson's eight-year winning streak Sunday by defeating his Australian Davis Cup teammate to become the first foreign entry to win the River Oaks tennis championship. The 29-year-old Laver used powerful volleys to defeat the pre-tournament favorite 7-5, 7-5, 1-6, 6-4.

SUGGS WINS OPEN

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Louise Suggs shot a 4-under-par 73 Sunday to capture her third straight $3,000 Dallas Civitan open golf tournament. She had 291 for 72 holes, winning by three strokes.

chwitz and Belsen — the Nazi extermination camps—and that their ashes had been scattered over the rivers of Poland.

"Their blood cries to heaven but their voices cannot be heard," Hausner said in sepulchral tones.

MENTIONS MURDER

Hausner also alluded for the first time to a murder he said Eichmann committed personally.

"It is true," Hausner said, "that we know of only one case in which Eichmann actually killed a victim with his own hands—when he beat to death a Jewish boy who attempted to steal peaches from a tree in the garden of his Budapest home."

Eichmann dropped his eyes downward briefly as Hausner denounced him as a murderer who killed "over the telephone, by signing an order, by writing a note."

He went on:

"Only one man in history exists whose hands were exclusively occupied with the extermination of the Jewish people—Adolf Eichmann. He went about this work with diligence."

Hausner then went back to the original of the Third Reich, pointing out that the seed of fascism could not have flourished unless it found fertile ground.

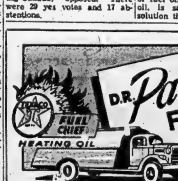
Eichmann pursed his lips, rubbed his right eye behind his glasses and rolled his head sideways against his cheek when Hausner told of the world-wide depression of 1929 and pointed out Adolf Hitler's statement of doctrine, Mein Kampf.

Hausner said Hitler did not originate anti-semitism, but the Nazis made it "a doctrine of hate."

"Hitler denied the idea of common basis for all humanity. According to Hitler there is no room for a common relationship between men. Instead of the ideal of human brotherhood, we have the principle of the superiority . ."

Richard occasionally scribbled notes, but usually leaned back in his seat, his expression somewhat bland. He spoke only rarely left Hausner.

It was a tired and blinded world was not alarmed by this campaign of hatred and the destruction of human rights," Hausner went on.



"It did not understand that the persecution of the Jews was only the beginning of an offensive against the whole world."

Speaking of the "blood-curdling crimes" of the Nazi period, he pointed his finger at the motionless, grey figure in the dock, describing him as "a new style murderer—one who carries out his killings from behind a desk."

"Eichmann will describe himself as a fastidious person, a white-collared worker," Hausner went on.

With a sweep of his black-gowned arm, he added: "But (to) the who planned, organized and initiated the murder of millions, it was he who saw to it that others kept to the ocean of blood."

Eichmann "must bear the responsibility as if it was he who, with his own hand, knotted the rope around the throat of the victims into the gas chambers, who shot in the back and pushed into the open pit every single one of the millions who were slaughtered."

UN Gets Ready To Vote on Rival Congo Motions

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The United Nations General Assembly was expected to vote today on rival proposals for reopening the Congolese Parliament.

The vote also was scheduled in the 99-member world body on a resolution submitted by 15 Afro-Asian countries and Yugoslavia demanding the withdrawal of Belgian political and military personnel from Th e Congo within 21 days.

Before the assembly were three resolutions regarding the Congo. Some of their provisions overlapped.

URGES REOPENING

One, sponsored by the Soviet Union, u r g e d the Congolese Parliam ent to be reopened within 21 days with the UN Congo force assuring the safety of members of Parliament.

Another resolution, sponsored by 12 Afro-Asian countries including Pakistan, urges the reconvening of Parliament "without delay," but it does not set a deadline.

While not naming Belgium, it refers specifically to a Feb. 9 Security Council resolution calling withdrawal of all Belgian personnel from The Congo.

The third resolution, sponsored by 15 Afro - Asian countries including India, was directed at Belgium, demanding the exodus of frowned-upon personnel within 21 days and making at penalties for failure to do so.

While political questions were discussed in the assembly Friday, the 86-member budgetary committee debated Congo finances and heard India take issue with the Soviet Union.

SHOULD SHARE COST

Ambassador C. S. Jha of India, which has sent the largest contingent of 5,000 men to Congo, said there can b question of discontinuing UN military there and a members should share in the cost.

The budgetary committee is seeking to find a method for assessing the $120,000,000 estimated costs for the 1960 Congo operation.

The nine-country Soviet bloc and France have refused to pay anything and many countries are delinquent, leaving the entire UN—whose regular budget is less than $73,000,000—with an indicated deficit of $80,000,000 or more at the end of this year.

Jobless Figure Shows Decline But Still High

Believed Unemployment Reached Peak in Feb.

OTTAWA (CP)—After a five-month winter climb, unemployment in Canada reversed itself in March, falling to 705,000 from February's post-war peak of 719,000, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

The mid-March jobless figure amounting to 11.1 per cent of the labor force, was 14,000 lower than a month earlier, but still was a record for the month in the post-war era.

The decline indicates that winter unemployment reached its peak in February.

With 705,000 workers unemployed during the week ending March 18, the unemployment rate was under the February record of 11.2 per cent.

But there were 96,000 more people out of work than in March 1960, and 68,000 more than in March, 1959, the previous high mark for the month in the last 15 years.

Last year's unemployment reached its peak in March when the jobless rate was 9.3 per cent of the labor force in the last eight years. March was the peak month for unemployment five times, while February was high point three times.

	Mar. Feb. Mar. 1961 1961 1960
Labor force	6,353 6,363 6,234
Employed	5,648 5,644 5,625
Unemployed	705 719 609
Unemployment estimates by the bureau of statistics are based on a survey of 35,000 households across Canada.

WORK FIGURE STEADY

The number of employed remained stable between February and March—as it normally does at this time of year.

The mid-March labor force of 6,363,000 was down slightly from 6,363,000 in February, but employment increased by 4,000 to 5,648,000.

The number of men with jobs increased by 10,000 to 4,048,000, while the number of employed women declined by 6,000 to 1,600,000.

The decline in employment from February to March was much greater than usual in Quebec, where there were 267,000 jobless workers in mid-March, compared with 280,000 a month

Labor Minister Walker sketched a program under which the federal government intends to promote development of a secondary market for house mortgages.

The works minister said Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, Crown agency, has been instructed to attempt to sell about $750,000,000 worth of mortgages. In an attempt to stimulate private interest in house financing.

A Liberal-sponsored attempt to bill a bill seeking to redefine goods of a class or kind made in Canada was defeated 111 to 82.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker gave notice that the government will introduce a motion shortly extending the Commons' sitting hours, and suggested the possibility of a summer adjournment with both coming back after a six-week start to complete their work.

External Affairs Minister Green said progress has been made and Canadian and Cuba in short notice "should that be necessary," Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) suggested an anti-coup.

Five Convicts From Joyceville In Solitary

KINGSTON (CP)—Five convicts from the nearby Joyceville medium-security institute were in solitary confinement in Kingston penitentiary today after going on a rampage that smashed and destroying property at the institute.

Three guards were injured in the flare-up, it was understood, and the convicts smashed furniture, a sink, toilet, light bulbs and other articles.

One prisoner was cut when he rammed his arm through a glass pane.

After the conduct was injured, the prison doctor bandaged him in a cell block and advised his removal to hospital. Other convicts threatened more violence if this were done, and the cell block was locked up for the night and let them sleep it off.

BILL TO AMEND TARIFF ACT IS CAUSING TROUBLE

Debate Holds Up House Progress

OTTAWA (CP) — A 36-line government bill to amend the Customs Tariff Act has become one of the chief stumbling blocks to progress in the current session of Parliament.

The legislation debated for nearly five hours Monday without gaining a legislative inch on Bill C-72, which was making its seventh appearance in the Commons. It comes up for round eight today.

A complicated little item, its main effect is to make the revenue department the sole judge of whether an imported item is of a kind made in Canada, and thus subject to higher rates of duty.

Opposition members have denounced the measure as an invasion of Parliament's taxmaking rights, a move towards higher tariffs which would hurt Canada's world trade, a "payoff" to special financial interests" and a threat to Canadian industrial employment.

Finance Minister Fleming, who introduced the item in his budget speech last August, said Monday the bill merely seeks to repair the "erosion" which has occurred in the course of recent years have caused in the original tariff concept.

Such judgments, removing items from the high - tariff bracket on grounds they differ from Canadian-made products, had cost many workers their jobs.

The "erosion" would be stopped, he said, by making the revenue minister the sole judge of whether an item has been a Canadian counterpart. No appeals would be allowed against such decisions.

MOTION BEATEN

Two opposition amendments sought to destroy the bill. One argued that the bill should be rejected because it allows the revenue minister to make new tariffs, a right reserved to Parliament. It was defeated 111 to 78 with one Conservative, Harry McCullin of Cornwall-Stormont, voting with Liberal and CCF members.

Another amendment said the measure contravences the Canadian Bill of Rights. It went

Amnesia Victim May Be Soo Man

OTTAWA (CP) — An RCMP spokesman said today that the man found in Manitoba victim picked up in Roxbury Township, N.J., 12 days ago may be Joseph Ste. Marie, Ont., man who has been missing for a year.

"All I know is I got here or where I came from," the man told police.

He is French-speaking, in his late 20s, five - foot - ten, 150-pounds and has curly hair, hazel eyes and medium complexion.

Ste. Marie police have sent key police for fingerprints. Meantime they are checking the possibility he is the same person reported missing from Sault Ste. Marie last year.

Supporters of Castro Stage Riots In Several Latin American Cities

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Violence flared through Latin American cities Monday following word that opponents of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro had staged an invasion of the island.

In Bogota, Colombia, police firing rifles and advancing with bayonets fixed, broke up a pro-Castro crowd attempting to attack the United States Embassy.

Officers said four youths were taken to hospital with bullet wounds.

The crowd, estimated at 1,500 marched on the embassy after smashing all windows at the U.S. - operated Colombian-American Institute 10 blocks away.

Several hundred demonstrators shouting "Cuba yes, Yankees no" earlier joined the building housing the newspaper El Tiempo.

In Montevideo, Uruguay, squads of steel - helmeted police hurled tear gas bombs to drive back a pro-Castro crowd of more than 3,000 trying to demonstrate in front of the legislative palace.

Police used tear gas to disperse pro-Castro demonstrators in Santiago, Chile, after homemade bombs were thrown through the windows of an American airline office.

There was also a demonstration outside the United States building in New York. About 1,000 Castro supporters milled outside the UN charged the United States had a hand in the rebel invasion.

CASTRO BLAMES U.S. FOR AIR RAIDS — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, speaking in Havana, blames President Kennedy and U.S.-government for the dawn air raids on three Cuban cities. Castro, speaking at a military funeral and massive demonstration to honor seven victims of the raid on Havana, termed the attacks Cuba's Pearl Harbor. He disputed reports that the pilots of the bombing planes defected from his own air force. (AP. Wirephoto).

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — "I feel weak but wonderful," said Elizabeth Taylor after winning her first Oscar Monday night—a few months after receiving from a brush with death.

The beautiful star, who won the Academy's acting award for her role as the girl-about - town in Butterfield 8, nearly fainted twice during the 90 - minute Academy Awards show.

Miss Taylor, nominated four straight years for the movies' top prize, stole the Best Actress Oscar show from the other winners—Burt Lancaster, best actor; Shirley Jones, best supporting actress, and Peter Ustinov, best supporting actor. Ustinov is married to the former Suzanne Cloutier of Ottawa.

All the winners posed backstage for photographers but Miss Taylor got weak in the knees and had to cut her posing short. Accompanied by husband Eddie Fisher and her doctor, she sweated shakily toward an open door. The fresh air revived her quickly—and she was all smiles again.

Earlier, on her arrival, she had to rest 15 minutes before entering the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium. She slept, telecast over ABC-TV, was well under way before she was able to make it to her seat.

RCAF Copter Crashes, Burns In Alberta, Eight Men Killed

COLD LAKE, Alta. (CP) — Eight men were killed Monday night when a RCAF helicopter crashed and burned in the wilds of northeastern Alberta, 30 miles north of here. The RCAF reported today. The fate of two other men was uncertain. The pilot survived.

Toll in the crash was announced after a rescue crew investigated the charred wreckage by remote bodies and searched the muskeg around the wreckage for more bodies.

The RCAF said today that the dead bodies were found in the wreckage and "one such body is held for survival of the two persons missing.

Names of the victims were withheld.

The helicopter, a 12-passenger H-34A Sikorsky of 111 Communications and Recue Flight of Winnipeg, crashed at about 8:30 p.m.

A board of investigation and a court of inquiry have been set up to the area today by helicopter. The area is inaccessible by road and the bush-covered muskeg has turned boggy in the spring thaw.

RCAF officials in Cold Lake, which is 146 miles northeast of Edmonton, said the pilot suffered "a possible arm fracture."

The crash was reported minutes after it occurred when a second helicopter in the area sighted smoke from the burning wreckage. It picked up Jeffs, flew him to Cold Lake and returned to the crash scene with a rescue team.

List of Accusations Wears Down Former Nazi Officer

JERUSALEM — Israel's Attorney-General Gideon Hausner, using the map of Europe as his pointer, ticked off the dates of torture today of the terrible Second World War years when the Jews and made Adolf Eichmann the central figure in the bloodiest tragedy.

Hausner did not ask the death penalty for Eichmann as he ended his opening statement. But the law under which the former German officer is being tried provides it automatically for conviction on seven of the 15 counts in the indictment against him.

"Adolf Eichmann's guilt lies in the planning, initiation, organization and execution of the crimes as charged in the indictment," Hausner said in a voice trembling with emotion.

"We shall prove that his deeds were crimes against the Jewish people, crimes against humanity, and war crimes."

Eichmann, as before, sat still, unblinking, showing no expression.

Country by country, city by city, from death camp to death camp, Hausner traced the chain of events that led to the annihilation of 6,000,000 Jews during the war at the hands of the Nazis.

Cannibalism, castration, surgical experiments on the living, the killing of infants before the eyes of their mothers were described.

Spectators wept openly and the horror of the prosecutor's recital was reflected in their faces.

Requests Kennedy To Act To Prevent War's Spread; Rebels Claim Big Gains

Invading Forces Small, Defections May Decide

MOSCOW — Soviet Premier Khrushchev today pledged all necessary support to the Cuban government and warned of the possibility of the fighting there developing into a world "conflagration."

Khrushchev said in a message to President Kennedy that Russia would give Cuba all the help it needed to repel the invasion by anti-Castro forces.

He asked Kennedy to end the "aggression against the Cuban republic" before it spreads "into another region of the world" and it will be impossible to cope with."

Khrushchev's note, delivered to the American chargé d'affaires, came as groups of students marched on the United States Embassy to demonstrate against "aggression" in Cuba.

SMASH WINDOWS

Khrushchev, in his note, said: "The military techniques and the world political situation today are such that any so-called 'little war' can produce a chain reaction in all parts of the world.

"Now is not too late to prevent the irreparable. The United States government still can prevent the flame of war kindled by the interventionists in Cuba from spreading into a conflagration which it will be impossible to cope with."

'ARMED BY U.S.A.'

Khrushchev said that "it is no secret to anyone that the armed gangs which have invaded Cuba were trained, armed and equipped by the ruling circles of America."

The planes bombing Cuban cities belong to the United States and the bombs they drop were made available by the American government."

At the same time as Khrushchev's note to Kennedy was handed over, Russia delivered its strongest anti-colonialist diplomatic chiefs in the Soviet capital.

The stiff government statement said that the U.S. is playing the "inspirer and organizer" of the "bandit-like attack against Cuba."

The statement said Russia is ready to help the "aboriginal military intervention in the affairs of the Cuban people not the hatred, to take with all other countries steps to give the necessary help to the Cuban republic."

PEACE ENDANGERED

The note also warned the American people that the attack on Cuba is likely to endanger their peaceful life.

The statement demanded "immediate cessation" by the United Nations General Assem-

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Anti-Castro Cuban leaders in the United States claimed today that their invasion force had struck halfway across Cuba and reached within 90 miles of Havana.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro took personal command of his defending forces and said in a terse communique at 12:55 a.m. EST:

"The revolutionary (Castro) troops continue to fight heroically in southwest Las Villas province where mercenaries disembarked with imperialist support."

Both sides claimed the next few hours could be crucial in the fight for the Caribbean island republic. The key factor was believed to be the loyalty of Castro's 400,000 troops and militia members.

The U.S.-backed Revolutionary Council in New York claimed Thompson was not at his embassy sale desertions and predicted a mass uprising against the Castro regime before the day is out.

Fighting was reported — but not confirmed — in four of Cuba's six provinces. The headiest appeared southeast of Havana where forces that landed at Las Villas were reported to have reached the Cubex area 90 miles from the capital and halfway across the island.

The U.S. government declared its sympathy for the forces trying to overthrow Castro but denied Cuban charges that Washington had financed and organized the invasion and was supporting it with American arms.

The Soviet government in a statement Monday night said bluntly said to Castro if armed intervention it charged to the United States did not stop. The Russian statement also appeals for U.N. action, and observers at the UN believed the Russians would join the Castro delegation in a move to have condemnation of the United States in the assembly in Cuba.

All communications with Western newspaper men in Cuba were cut off and no news flew wild throughout the world as hemispheric interest in what was happening inside the island grew.

After reporting the initial landings Monday night the government remained silent for hours until the midnight communique. It was followed by a hastily-organized network and of the success of the revolutionary army, air force and militia. It announced to the people in the east few hours Havana Radio appealed to workers and peasants to put their duties as usual.

More than 2,000 slogan-chanting students converged on the embassy and hurled stones through the windows and bottles, covered ink against the walls.

Police moved the students away after about two hours of demonstrating to make way for factory workers, who smashed more windows, waved more banners and shouted more "Hands off Cuba" slogans.

The Associated Press said the embassy estimated the crowds at from 3,000 and 5,000. The crowds seemed somewhat smaller to reporters.)

Scuffles broke out in the crowd of factory workers when police tried to move them away. The police managed finally to keep the crowd moving, but a fast as one group was led away to demonstrate a new group through cordons formed about 300 yards from the embassy. At one point the crowd numbered an estimated 4,000.

Among a contingent of African students, Asians and Arabs marched to the scene from Moscow's Friendship University. One Arab carried a banner reading: "Long live Patrice Lumumba."

Unarmed troops, police, army trucks and an ambulance hurried to the scene when the students started closing the embassy. But the troops moved off around the corner while the po-

New Translation of Bible Said First in 350 Years

The most important factor in the relationship between people and the Bible is that each should be free to speak the Bible's language rather than that the Bible be written in his tongue, said the Reverend Robert Sherwin whilst addressing local Rotarians yesterday afternoon on the significance of the publication of the new New Testament translation of the English Bible. If this revolutionary factor does not obtain the value of any version or translation of the Bible would be rendered useless and vain, suggested the assistant minister of Bridge Street United Church.

The speaker pointed out that this new translation of the Bible in English is the first in 350 years, when the King James version was first published. The purpose of the new version, which has taken 13 years of the finest efforts of the best scholars of the Scripture to produce, is to eliminate the grey tones which the Christian religion sometimes is garbed in due to the archaic language used in the King James' Bible.

Through translating this version's archaic and ancient terminology and phraseology into good modern language they should be possible for more people to more easily understand and absorb the great teachings which the Scriptures have to offer. The University of Toronto graduate then read a few passages from the St. James' version and the comparative passages from the new version to illustrate how dynamic and effective the new translation is in expressing the meaning of the former version.

PARKDALE BANQUET

The group colors black and white, the Scout motto, "Be Prepared" and with a centre piece of beautiful flowers the tables gave the appearance of a formal dinner. All traces of formality, however, were removed when the excellent turkey dinner was served by the auxiliary. This was the fourth annual father and son banquet held in the Parkdale Community Hall. Each year the ladies provide a wonderful banquet and the "Thank You Ladies," sung by the Cub Pack was echoed sincerely by all the fortunate people there. Mrs. H. Brooks, president, responded. Parkdale has very active auxiliary, Mrs. W. Andrews is vice-president, Mrs. A. Glover, secretary and Mrs. L. Hyatt, treasurer.

Mrs. Claire Millar, auxiliary president for three years, was the recipient of a new president's pin, not because she had been president, but rather as a token of appreciation for her work in the group. Mrs. Millar presented Mrs. Andrews with a corsage and performed her duties so well that today the 18th Parkdale Cub has the finest group in the district. The tributes paid her were well due.

Guests introduced by chairman R. S. Rolston were Rev. Fred M. Imhoff of King Gregory A.D.C. Bill Sweet; Lloyd Monteith, District Council president; Howard Burrows and Scout Ingoldsby, Provincial Commissioner Phil Allcorn; Scout Serson Martin; Rev. J. S. Sparman, Parkdale Padre; Jack Hodgson, District Council secretary.

Reporting on Scouts, SM John Foster said their boat will be in operation this summer and a five-day trip will be taken with 15 to 20 Sea Scouts as a crew. Also in the group acted as Service Scouts at the Canopener, assisted at the Parkdale fireworks display, took part in the Civil Defence demonstration, attended a church parade and has had a very busy year. Dan Dillon was a great help as badge chairman. Harold Frederick is the ASM. The bronze has 14 Sea Scouts. A number of boys are becoming eligible for the gold type distribution of Scout Henry Tom, who is also very conscious of safety precautions with his arms.

Pathmasters James Hultquist and his ACM's, Mrs. J. Hultquist, Charles Reynolds, Chas. Bronze and a helper, A. Street, have a pack of 40 Cubs. Several camps are being planned for the Cubs this summer.

Mr. Howard Leech, president of Parkdale Ratepayers' Association, expressed pleasure and pride in sponsoring such a good group.

Responding to the toast to the fathers, Mr. R. Hutt thanked the leaders for their faithful service and offered the services of the group committee when required. The group executive officers are Bob Rolston, chairman; Reuben Cannon, secretary; Jack May, treasurer, and other members are D. Keeling, C. Miller, G. Spring. All fathers are invited to the annual meeting to elect officers for the year.

The ceremony at which Sea Scout Ingolf Vogler was invested as Queen's Scout, was simple but impressive. On one knee, left hand on Scout staff, right hand at the Scout salute, Ingolf repeated the promise. G. Scout Ingolf Vogeler, promise that with God's help I will endeavour to do my duty, the duty of service, to fulfill my obligation as Queen Scout of Her Majesty, the Queen." Commissioner John Foster pinned the Queen's Scout badge on Ingolf's left arm. District Commissioner Phil Allcorn presented him with the certificate. Chairman Rolston congratulated the new Queen's Scout, and said how proud he was to be chairman at this first Queen's Scout ceremony for 16th Parkdale. We all hope Ingolf is the first of many Queen's Scouts for this fine Troop. A brief dedication by Rev. J. S. A. Spearman concluded the ceremony.

JOHN McCOY
Madoc

The funeral of John McCoy (Madoc) resident of the Madoc district, was held on Monday afternoon, April 17th, from his late residence to St. Andrew's, where service was conducted by Rev. R. A. Sinclair. The pallbearers and friends in attendance and the profusion of beautiful floral tributes, attested to the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

Interment took place in Lakeview Cemetery.

CHARLES STANLEY HUFFMAN

The funeral of Charles Stanley Huffman (Tweed) held Monday afternoon from the John R. Bell Funeral Home where service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. J. A. Macartney, interment was in Tweed St. Andrew's Cemetery.

The bearers were Bert Grills, Fred Grills, Gerald Livingston, Wilfred Badgley, Gerald Swan and Arthur Balcaoqual.

MRS. WALTER H. PATTERSON

The funeral of Mrs. Mina Bea Patterson, widow of Walter H. Patterson, who died Thursday afternoon from the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Chapel to Christ Anglican Church where service was conducted by Rev. Canon Ketchum, interment was in Belleville Cemetery.

The bearers were Donald Clarke, William Knudsen, Stanley Morton, Ernest Kestel and Robert and James Jenkins.

MRS. MICHAEL KAFKA
R.R. 3, Belleville

Following an illness of ten days, Mrs. Michael Kafka, R.R. 3, Belleville, passed away at the Belleville General Hospital early this Tuesday morning. She was in her 78th year.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Kafka was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kafka. She was born in Canada in 1883 and had resided with her son in the family home for decades.

ARTHUR HENRY JONES
Tweed

Arthur Henry Jones, a lifelong resident of Tweed, died Monday in Belleville General Hospital after being in ill health for a year. He was 66.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Jones, he was the husband of the former Emily Rose Chambers. He was a lumberman who was well known in Tweed.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Jones is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Frank (Hester) Murray, Whitby; Mrs. Arthur (Emma) Henderson, Belleville; Mrs. John (Emma) Henderson, Madoc; two sons, Bert of Milford and Robert of Toronto; nine grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Jenny Graham, of Tweed.

Mr. Jones was a member of Tweed United Church.

Board Acquires Site for New School in West End of City

Making provision for a new public school expected to be required in the west end of the city in a few years, members of the Belleville Public School Board last evening voted to acquire a school site in that section.

Purchase of seven acres from the Ontario Department of Education at a price of $7,000 was approved. The property purchased by the school board is now part of the Ontario School for the Deaf farm.

Tentative approval from the Ontario Department of Education has been received by the board for the construction of a six-roomed addition at the Harry J. Allen School, and also for construction of a five-roomed primary school in the Parkdale area.

ATTENDANCE DOWN

Communicable diseases such as the measles and the mumps, together with common colds reduced the attendance average for the month of March, the board was told.

Attendance for the month was 93.68 per cent, down considerably from the normal figure.

Library Facilities in Schools Surveyed by H & S Council

A survey or library facilities in rural and suburban schools investigated by inspectors, principals, boards of English department, and representatives of Belleville and District Home and School Council, was held in the auditorium of the Corby Public Library on Friday evening.

Those in attendance were as follows: chairman, Mrs. Dave McDonald of Belleville and District Home and School Council; Mrs. Martha Bates, principal of Massassaga School, representing Ameliasburg township; Mrs K. M. Bird, Principal of Bayside School, representing Sidney township, and who was also appointed secretary of the special committee; Mr. W. H. Buckley, head of the English department of Belleville Collegiate; Miss O. Delaney, chief librarian of Corby Public Library; Mr. R. D. Dunsmore, inspector of Hastings - Prince Edward counties; Mrs. A. Fort, of Home and School Council; Mrs. F. Henderson, principal of Canifton - Cordova School, representing Thurlow township; Mr. C. Calnan, librarian of Quinte Secondary School; Mrs. E. Neville, Separate School inspectress; Mrs. J. Thompson, of Home and School Council.

Mrs. Dave McDonald, chairman, opened the meeting by a brief summary of how this particular committee came about, stating that the Home and School District Home and School Council had undertaken a survey of library facilities at the suggestion of the Bay of Quinte High District Principals' Association coordinating committee. Questionnaires were distributed to the schools through the co-operation of inspectors last fall, and the results were discussed and some suggestions for improving libraries.

Mr. Buckley started the discussion by stating that the formative years of good reading habits were established in the public schools, and pupils should have access to good books.

It was suggested that the services of the public library be expanded to include rural pupils, but this was found impossible to do. Mrs. Dave McDonald explained that one of the main difficulties lay in the transportation for the travelling membership.

In summarizing the needs for the present, Mr. B. Neville suggested a brochure which would be sent to all teachers and which would show present services of Corby Public Library; of a travelling library from the Department of Education, and the monthly service of the Township Travelling Library. Mr. Neville consented to print brochures with the co-operation of the chairman. These brochures will be given to inspectors in the fall, along with literature on libraries, to be distributed periodically, and following this a survey will be conducted again to see the results of the information given by the teachers. The committee decided to meet in one year's time for further study of this problem.

Mrs. McDonald expressed thanks to Miss Olive Delaney for the use of the library and to the committee for its co-operation.

Hydro to Hold Annual Safety Parley Here

The fifth annual safety conference for the Eastern Ontario Region, Ontario Hydro is being held in the auditorium of the Regional Headquarters on Dundas Street East this Wednesday and Thursday and 260 employees are scheduled to attend.

This conference, devoted exclusively to accident prevention, brings experts in their respective fields to further add to the knowledge of those attending and thus enhance the efficiency of the Commission's operations. The East Central Region covers approximately 2 million man-hours without a single lost-time work injury and this emphasizes the safety consciousness which has been developed over the years.

Hydro's 10,000-square - mile East Central Region extends from Bowmanville on the west to Port Hope to Gananoque, and north to the boundary of Algonquin Park and serves approximately 250,000 people.

The newly appointed manager of the region, Mr. C. Edmunds, will welcome those attending the sessions. Speakers will include Mr. C. E. F. Winter, general forestry superintendent, Toronto; Mr. H. Carse, Ajax, fire protection engist, medical services division, Toronto; Mr. J. M. Potts, assistant safety officer, Belleville; Inspector A. Witts, OPP traffic division, Toronto; Mr. W. L. Clifton, accident prevention division, Toronto, and Mr. G. A. Black, Workmen's Compensation Board, Toronto. In addition, the Accident Prevention Association of Toronto has co-operated by making available its demonstration "The Magic of Fire" and this outstanding exhibit will be handled by Messrs. S. G. Twist and J. T. Morris of Toronto.

Mr. R. A. White of this city, the regional safety officer, arranged the conference and will be chairman of the sessions.

Will Not Strike Tax Rate Until Audit Received

Council ratification of the 1961 budget is still awaiting completion of the 1960 municipal audit which is not expected to be received, for another week or ten days.

Both Mayor A. M. Haig and City Manager J. R. Reynolds said today there was little possibility of the audit being received in time for council to strike the 1961 mill rate at next Monday's regular meeting of council.

"The budget is completed but the outcome of audit could still have some bearing on the mill rate", noted Mr. Reynolds.

The city manager said he thought it was advisable that council wait for the audit before striking the millrate although this has not always been done in the past.

IN MEMORIAM

HORN. — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and friend (Jackie) Horn, who passed away suddenly April 18th, 1960.
A silent thought, a secret pray'r,
Keeps his memory ever dear:
Time takes away the edge of grief
But memory turns back every leaf.
—Sadly missed by Dorothy, Eric and family.

JOHNSON. — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather (Jack) Johnson, who passed away April 18th, 1960.
May the wings of heaven blow gently
On that quiet hallowed spot,
Where the one we loved sleeps
And will never be forgot.
—Daughter Cathy, Jim and family.

Historical Society Hears Talk on Our Early Schools

'U.C. Observer' Editor Will Speak Here

Early education in the Belleville area was the topic of the address delivered Monday evening before a general meeting of the Hastings County Historical Society.

The speaker was Gerald Boyce, head of the History department at Moira Secondary School and president of the Hastings County Historical Society.

Mr. Boyce began with the United Empire Loyalists, noting that they considered as an ample education the ability to read, write and do sums. Indeed, additional education might be harmful, since it would tend to take the youth from the farm.

One of the early schools of interest was that operated for the Mohawks on the Tyendinaga Reserve from 1786 to 1822 by William Bell. His instructions included orders that he was to keep the cattle out of the school, keep the building clean and warm, and not allow the firewood to be used for purposes other than school classes. Unfortunately, attendance at this school fell off, and the services of Col. Bell were soon discontinued.

Early students regarded their schooling with mixed feelings, as Mr. Boyce proved by reference to Canniff Haight's account of his schooling, in the Prince Edward County area. Haight held a low opinion of some teachers and the long hours and discipline of the schools of the 1830's.

FOUND TEACHING DULL

The school teacher's point of view was illustrated by reference to an autobiographical sketch written by James Metcalfe Willson, a teacher in the Belleville area from about 1861 to 1880. He found teaching very dull and would have stopped it, had something better come along.

The point of view of the school inspector was illustrated in excerpts read from an 1859 report submitted by the superintendent of schools for North Hastings. He deplored the condition of education and pointed an accusing finger at two factors — the "penurious policy of teachers' salaries; and second, the short average stay of a teacher in a particular school. For example, in 1859, the teachers in the North Hastings schools stayed an average of only four-and-one-half months in any school.

This idea was supported by further reference to one of Willson. In 1866, he stayed only a few days at a northern school, because he found it in a lumber area near Madoc.

Educated Belleville people, such as Sheriff and Mrs. Dunbar Moodie, helped to raise the standard of education by their liberal bar through his work with the local grammar school and Miss Wylie, Susanna, through her library work both locally and throughout the infant country.

BLUES SHOWN

Mr. Boyce then showed some 40 slides depicting early school education, textbooks, entertainments, and allied topics. These slides were procured for the society by John Cody, chairman of the society's publication committee and a teacher at Moira Secondary School.

Mr. T. E. Martin extended the thanks of the society to Mr. Boyce for his interesting talk.

Bartley Mc Martin, a member of the society's program committee, told briefly of the society's program for the coming year. The next meeting, to be held in May, will be the annual meeting, with guest speaker Miss Ruth Hartnell, who will give an illustrated talk on historical sites in the Quinte district.

The business part of the meeting was conducted by the president, Mr. Boyce, who spoke briefly of the museum being developed in the former registry office.

Approximately sixty persons were present at the historical meeting.

24 Professional, Business Men Complete Course

For the past eight Monday evenings 24 local business men have been attending a course in public speaking held under the auspices of the Belleville Y.M.C.A. and Advertising Club at the Moira Secondary School. Basically designed for the members of the club, the course, which was conducted by C. W. Wright and Associates of Toronto, was made available to any interested citizen who felt the course's student complement was low.

The basic theory of good public speaking such aspects as preparation, delivery, style and application, was covered during the eight-lecture course.

These people will be the special guests of the Sales and Ad Club at the regular dinner meeting of the 1960-61 season tonight at the Columbus Hall.

Council Decides to Request School Board to Dispense With All Six Kindergartens

TRENTON — Trenton parents may have to dispense with the services of kindergartens for their five-year-olds if members of Trenton council succeed in bringing the board of education around to their way of thinking.

At last night's meeting of council, Councillor D. R. Fraser suggested that the board be asked, to consider dispensing with the town's six kindergartens and using the classrooms for higher grades. He said that the state of the town's finances would justify such a move as kindergarten was a "luxury" and Trenton could only afford the bare necessities. Councillor Fraser said that he thought the plan could not be put into effect until 1962 as the 1961 budget had already been struck the budget for 1961.

None of the other councillors disagreed with Councillor Fraser's proposal. Councillor McGuire said that since kindergarten was not compulsory, council could refuse to grant the request. Councillor Lang said these classes should the board decide to accede to council's wish.

Councillor Butt asked if the board would say it could not bring out a plebiscite".

Councillor Fraser said that such a move could be made but that the board would be in a position to force a decision.

Councillor Burtt said that if the town's money was to be spent on any form of education it should be on the higher grades, he felt that the people of the town should assume some responsibility towards the retarded children.

"Retarded children are deserving of education," said the councillor, "they're behind the eight ball in the first place."

A council committee will ask the board of education to meet with them to discuss the proposal advanced by Councillor Fraser.

The six kindergartens in the entire cost of kindergarten education in Trenton will amount to $29,700, roughly half of which will be accommodated by provincial $14,850 educational grants, said V. P. Carswell, secretary-treasurer of school board, in a letter to the town council. This means the actual cost to the board will amount to about $5 per child per month for the 248 children involved the letter advised.

Councillor Says Tender Call Was Premature

TRENTON — At last night's council meeting Councillor Burtt explained his reasons for having calls for tenders for an extension to the fire hall inserted in the local newspaper. Tenderers are asked to submit plans and prices to the fire chief.

Councillor Fraser said that he had been "surprised" when he picked up the newspaper to see the tenders advertised. He said that, in his opinion, Councillor Burtt should have consulted with his committee, the committee should have consulted with council as a whole and the matter should have been turned over to the town engineer for the letting of tenders.

Councillor Burtt said that while he was sorry if he had caused any embarrassment, he had understood that he could call for tenders and then lay the plans and figures before council.

"I've got the cart before the horse and you want the horse before the cart, okay," said Councillor Burtt. "Happy now?" he asked when he agreed on a price for the job.

"There's a proper procedure for tendering," insisted Councillor Fraser.

"We agreed that Councillor Burtt should go into it but I thought it was to be considered at committee level," said Councillor Lang. "But I guess there's no harm in it."

"I can see both sides," said Mayor Macdonald. "Councillor Burtt was concerned with fire protection and proper housing for the aerial ladder. But the other councillors were surprised to see tenders in the paper. It looked like a ..."

"Shotgun wedding," supplied Councillor Worrall.

"Fait accompli," continued the mayor. "On the public and council it looked as if the extension was going to be built."

"Yeah, I'm only complaining," laughed Councillor Fraser, "The figures should have been called by the engineer; not the fire chief."

"Could I move that this discussion be terminated?" asked Councillor Worrall.

"Just as press on," agreed the mayor.

Council Asks Health Board OK Ambulance Agreement

TRENTON — Trenton council last night voted to seek the approval of the Trenton board of health of an agreement between council and the operator of the ambulance service.

Council has approved the agreement in principle, but as a matter of policy it said the responsible for the payment of a salary per month already to the operator, the agreement must be passed by the board.

Councillor Worrall moved that a clause covering the bonding of the operator be inserted in the agreement.

Councillor Fraser suggested that there be no reason to renew the ambulance service. Councillor Worrall replied that the ambulance service along with a letter of appreciation for the past year's work.

Councillor McNair said that he had made the arrangements with the present operator without prejudice to anyone. He said that no town body or individual had been interested in running the ambulance; hence he had advised calling tenders and had succeeded in getting an out-of-town firm to consider taking on the service along with "another line".

The councillor announced formally that the ambulance operator would go into the funeral service field with Anderson Street home early in June.

Mr. McNair said that during negotiations for a service, he had received several letters signed "Mr. X".

"But I think it was Mrs. X" said the councillor.

"I also received many telephone calls from men saying anything but complimentary," said the councillor, "one lady wanted to see me. I don't know if the place we agreed upon. But she didn't appear. Mr. Mosher said in the Bulletin Ambulance Service for excellent service."

At the end of the discussion, three of the councillors expressed opinions.

"We're in exactly the same position we were in last year," said Councillor Worrall.

"We haven't moved an inch," said Councillor Fraser.

"Well I made some similar arrangements last year, you said I hadn't done anything," said Councillor Graham, addressing Councillor McNair, "we had the finest ambulance service in the country. But it was this one is the same, I guess it's okay"; ...

Think Interview Request Would Make Minister Rush OK of Official Town Plan

TRENTON—Council, at last night's meeting, agreed to the suggestion advanced by the Town Planning Board that the clerk of Marysville and be designated as "Community Planning Week." During the week, models and exhibits to do with planning will be displayed in Canterbury hall.

Councillor Fraser suggested that the clerk write to the Minister of Municipal Development and ask for an appointment for one or two councillors to discuss the official town plan with him. The councillor announced that the minister, rather than devote the time to an interview, would approve the official plan and send it to council very quickly. The plan has been in the hands of the minister for months, awaiting his approval.

Town Clerk O. W. Larry read a letter from Colonel Sutherland, former planning board member, suggesting that the council buy the land on which the Bo-Peep restaurant stood (at the corner of Front St. and Dundas St. E.) and build a fire hall there, where east-bound traffic could easily get to the land."

Councillor Lang then asked that an application of Joe Gould to build a restaurant, Mr. Gould's property lies in the immediate area of the planning plant. Several councillors demurred at his suggestion as they felt that Mr. Gould's application should be completed and considered separately.

O. W. Larry, who was also secretary to the planning board, said that he felt someone had to do a little dreaming and that somewhere along the line councils had to decide what they were going to do with land for the future.

"This generation is too generous with land to the next generation," said Councillor McNair.

Councillor Fraser said that in the next five or six years there would have to consider expanding the municipal building and that Mr. Gould's property to build a new building on his land should be considered carefully before council reached a decision.

"I don't want my name associated with the property that destroys planning," said Councillor Lange.

Green Belt Plan Hit by Allowing Firm to Expand

TRENTON — The long-time dream of the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board to establish a green belt on property adjacent to the river on the town's east side showed went out the window last night, when town council decided to permit the Trenton Cleaners firm, located directly across the municipal offices, to expand.

At budget time, council had removed from the budget sums meant to be set aside for the acquiring of land in the proposed green belt area.

Councillor Vaga Lange said that council had the advantage of buying the land or giving the owner a permit to expand, "Give him the permit," said Councillor McNair.

Councillor Lange said that he seriously doubted that the town would ever be able to establish a green belt all along the waterfront.

"And we said in our time," said the councillor.

"I think buying property to grow belts is the job of the missionary," said Councillor McNair.

Council agreed to permit Trenton Cleaners to extend the building provided all the commercial zoning by-laws are complied to.

Councillor Lange then asked, that an application of Joe Gould to build a restaurant, Mr. Gould's property lies in the immediate area of the planning plant. Several councillors demurred at his suggestion as they felt that Mr. Gould's application should be completed and considered separately.

Plan Farmstead Improvement Competition

This fall Hastings County will be host to the International Plowing Match and so the Hastings County International Plowing Match Committee is sponsoring, with the assistance and cooperation of the Ontario Plowmen's Association and Horticultural Society Branch, a farmstead improvement contest.

This contest is open to all farmers in Hastings County. The purpose of the contest is to make farmsteads more attractive by carrying out needed repairs in painting, general maintaining.

There are two classes: Class I is for those farmsteads that made the improvements between the 1956 and August 15th of this year; Class II for those farmsteads that are already well cared for and attractive because of previous or continuous improvement.

Entry forms can be secured from the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Stirling, or will be available at the Belleville and Trenton offices.

The contest is receiving support from the Ontario Plowmen's Association, the Ontario Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association, township councils, farm organizations, chambers and generous awards and prizes are assured. Entries close May 1, 1961.

Two meetings have been arranged at which Mr. F. P. Gomme, Assistant Director of the Ontario Horticultural Societies Branch, will give instruction. These meetings will be held on Tuesday evening, April 25, in the township hall at Ivanhoe, and Wednesday evening, April 26, in the township hall at Cannifton.

Say 27 Plotted To Kill Castro

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Arrest of 27 persons accused of plotting to assassinate Premier Fidel Castro was announced today by the Cuban government radio in a broadcast heard here.

Among those held, the broadcast said, is Rolando Masferrer Sori Marin, Castro's first minister of agriculture.

TRAFFIC DEATHS

Testing Political Climate

Prime Minister Hepenbaker has announced that four federal byelections will be held on May 29. The Canadian Press remarks that these elections will provide a test of "the current political climate in Canada." In a certain limited sense this is true. Rather obviously, no four ridings could possibly provide a true cross-section of the electorate. The four ridings in which the elections will be held do not come as close as possible to this impossible ideal—there is no big city riding included. But, for all of this, it is still true that the results ought to provide some indication of the direction, and force, of the prevailing political winds in Canada. The Maritimes, a typical Ontario rural riding and a West Coast riding are included. Moreover, these ridings are not without certain distinguishing characteristics.

For instance, Leeds, including Brockville, is a fighting riding, one in which, while the majority of the citizens have in the past displayed characteristic Eastern Ontario Conservative tendencies, the Liberals have nevertheless been able to give a good account of themselves and earn victory during the floodtide of Liberal popularity. Here we should get a good indication of whether the Progressive Conservative factions have abated seriously under the impact of considerable unemployment. It would be unwise to regard the result as a true indication of what will likely happen throughout Ontario in the next general election—byelections are notoriously poor barometers in any event - - - but there will be much that the political pundits will be able to read into the results.

All of Canada should be interested in the result of the voting in the New Brunswick riding of Restigouche-Madawaska. This seat was left vacant by the resignation of the Progressive Conservative "maverick" Charles Van Horne. Mr. Van Horne first endeared himself to the Progressive Conservatives by his ever-vigorous, though oft-times crude, criticisms of the Liberal regime in its last days in power—but he really won political prominence when his patience ran out with his own party after several months at the helm and he proved just as lively a critic of it as of its predecessor. His final break with his party—and his resignation - - - followed his support of the provincial Liberals, under Louis Robichaud, against the then Conservative New Brunswick government.

Then, out on the West Coast, Esquimalt-Saanich on Vancouver Island is a Conservative riding, long held by General G. R. Pearkes, where failure of the Government to hold the seat would almost certainly be interpreted as providing real storm-signals.

These are the first byelections since the Conservatives were ousted in three out of four ridings last October 31, losing five of the three seats they had held, one of them to Walter Pittman, Peterborough New Party stalwart. One would not expect the New Party to cut much of a swath in the May voting—but then who would have predicted Mr. Pittman's victory? Any duplication of it, or anywhere near it, by a New Party candidate, in any of the four ridings in which voting will be held at the end of May would provide proof that the old parties were facing a formidable challenge from an unexpected source.

The Wrong Approach

An excellent example of the way not to fight unemployment, we suggest, was provided in the House of Commons the other day by William H. A. Thomas, Progressive Conservative member for Middlesex West.

Mr. Thomas suggested door-to-door mail delivery in smaller towns and villages. More postmen would have to be hired to provide such a service.

We would be the last to suggest that residents of smaller centres should be refused equal treatment with those in larger centres. But surely the yardstick to be used in judging whether such a service is required ought not to be the number of people employed.

Either such a service would be welcomed by the inhabitants of these smaller centres, in which case it would be politically necessary to maintain it long after the present unemployment problem has disappeared, or residents would prefer to get their own mail at the post office, as they do now, in which case the temporary employment of mailmen would be just a make-work scheme of little or no merit.

In any event, the real unemployment problem is not in the smaller centres, but in the large ones.

The Post Office ought to pay its own way. Hiring more men to provide services which are not needed would unnecessarily increase costs and might force increases in postal rates.

Strictly Personal

We Should Be Prepared To Confess

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The willingness to admit ignorance is often an endearing trait, and it is surprising how, in so many cases, our pride and vanity inhibit us from the frank admission that we do not know.

A noted physician was telling me at dinner the other night that one of his biggest problems in a "teaching" hospital is to get the interns and residents to admit that they are baffled by some presenting case.

"They seem to feel it is a reflection on their expensive medical education if they don't immediately apply their book-learning to some case," he said. "The most serious blunders, of course, are made by those who refuse to confess their limitations."

In the young, as in the old, however, such admissions (freely admitted) can win our sympathy and respect. Those who commonly try to do more than they can do usually are motivated by either pride or ham by valor. On the racing courses, for instance, it is always the immature driver who takes the most perilous chances, the brave veteran, who knows he has a healthy fear of exceeding his limitations.

In his newly published book, "A Victorian in Orbit," Sir Cedric Hardwicke tells of the most moving moment he has even seen in the theatre.

It was actually in a Canterbury when she was lose to 80, playing on the trial scene in "The Merchant of Venice." The part approached Portia's "quality of mercy" speech, and the old lady suddenly became bleak and lost. She struggled vainly for a moment, then, with dignity, left the footlights.

"I am a very silly old lady," she said, "and I cannot remember what I have to say."

Almost to a man the audience recalls, the audience shouted the lines and prompted her, and smiled her thanks and returned to the stage. She played the rest of the scene to the wildest audience.

A lesser actress (and a lesser person) might have tried to bluff her way through, or might have collapsed in panic. It is Miss Terry did not mind confessing that she was human, and she was not too proud to call upon the good will of the audience which always responds to such gestures of human frailty.

It is our strength that may attract others to us, but it is our weakness that makes them like us. We do not feel comfortable with those who are at ease unless they reveal some flaw, some consciousness of human weakness, some link with our own inadequacies.

And, by and from law of psychology, the desire to seem always strong and flawless is a symptom of some structural weakness in the personality. We could never, indeed, be silly God is the furthest removed from Him.

Seek to End Word Tangle

Cleveland Plain Dealer

It has taken the World Health Organization, a U.N. action which should have been initiated years ago by lexicographers and others to end the language field. WHO is concerned about words which sound as though they are opposite but which are identical in meaning. Particularly it has in mind the words "flammable" and "inflammable," both meaning capable of being easily ignited and both appearing as warning signs of danger.

WHO recommends flammable in the interest of caution with an opposite, unflammable, to end the confusion. It points out the English language is filled with such opposites in formal and informal, decent and indecent, capable and incapable.

Our pair "cleave" and "unloose," verbs which have identical meaning, to set free, although every indication is they should be opposites. Let WHO loose (or unloose) its best thinkers on that one.

French Money Disinfected

B B C London Letter

"Here in France it will soon no longer be accurate, from the physical point of view, to talk about 'tainted money' or 'filthy lucre'," said Thomas Cadett, BBC correspondent in Paris, in a recent 'Radio Newsreel' broadcast. "The Bank of France has announced that henceforth all notes it issues will contain a powerful disinfectant, capable of killing the microbes that the police hope to find on the nation's paper currency." According the the scientist, Cadett said, the worst offenders were the notes of lowest value which changed hands most often. After only a few weeks in circulation only five hundredths of the old francs or 5 of the new had been found to carry a cholera infection or even between fifty and sixty thousand microorganisms responsible for many infections ranging from tuberculosis to minor complaints. Coinage had been found to be far cleaner than notes, with an average of only five bugs and micro-organisms a piece.

Of course the ultra fastidious person could also wash himself give coins a bath of disinfectant but in the future the Bank of France will see to it that all notes are really "clean" money.

Letters To The Editor

Another Dog-Lover Takes up Cudgels

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer;

Have been watching with a great deal of disgust the personal battle between the garden lovers and the dog lovers.

What has brought it to a head is the article in the paper of this date, April 12, regarding appointing a full-time dog catcher. That has put the lid on it. Here we not enough taxes that we everything. It's shame when for the satisfaction of a few pansy lovers who probably have a dog themselves and let it out to obey the laws of Nature now and again?

I am not a young man and have had animals all my life. I will not destroy a dog I own per just for the satisfaction of a very few animal haters who could, as was suggested, spend a dime and drive man's best friend away, or better still if they will give me their names I will gladly supply them with the stuff and then they can sit down and watch the daisies grow.

What would the farmers do without dogs? They do not hurt the crops and the two-bit tulip lovers in the city are nothing to the farmers.

One of my children was saved from drowning by one of my dogs and I will swear that all the little fingers in the city dens can never compensate me for the service of that dog.

Let's have an end to this small town stuff.

Note: Make out to be published until some of the dog-hating fraternity come forward.

Should Treat Dog As Family Member

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

In answer to dog lover's letter of April 12th, I would like to think myself a dog lover, but I must say I quite agree on anything this so-called dog lover wrote.

I have a dear dog, you do not let it roam at large. In my opinion a dog is a member of the family and should be treated as such, not as a tramp to come and go as it likes. If an owner should take his dog for walks on a leash, in the car for a ride, a play in his own yard, then in the house where the family is, he would be spared crastly at all hours of the day and night from howling dogs on lawns and flowers. When a person gets as many as six dogs in the city as some of us have been in mine, your yard would soon get full from the city dump if they were not chased away.

Now this so called dog lover writes about sprays that can be bought for bushes. Maybe they live in an apartment, they wouldn't have to worry about the price of sprays, even if they have plenty of trees and bushes, but for the rest of us unfortune, not even thinking of time to spray each tree and bush, also a hose to spray and wash it all off.

Speaking about the animal shelter for strays not being large enough, well if these animals are really strays, when they have plenty of trees and bushes to spray and bright, although older, I would be the first to adopt one.

"Dear Dr. Molner: At night when I go to sleep, and then wake up, my tongue and throat are dry and I have a parched feeling. I've had throat trouble for years, what can be done? — E. F."

Maybe you sleep with your mouth open.— a common thing with some people. This dries your throat and tongue. To test this out, some day when you have five minutes to spare, look at your watch and then breathe through your mouth for, say, 10 minutes. In that much time you'll see how much dryness is apparent. (No cheating! Breathe through your mouth the whole 10 minutes, without closing it.)

The continuing throat trouble could be based on this nightly dryness. (For some, a defect in the nose may account for the mouth-breathing.)

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago, Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 128, Dundee, Ill., for my booklet, "Noises — Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope to cover handling and postage.

Electrocardiogram Does Not Always Show Heart Trouble

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Does a cardiogram always show heart trouble? I have had a pain for some time in the region of the heart, and on my left side and under the arm.

"I've had an examination and also electrocardiogram. It didn't show what caused the pain, but I'm scared. — Mrs. C. A. M."

The electrocardiogram does not cost you a lot of things; it can't show everything. It shows whether the heart muscle is affected by poor circulation. It shows disorders in the rhythm of the heart, if any exist. It will detect faulty conduction of the impulse which tell the heart how often it should beat.

It may not reveal the presence of angina pectoris, or spasmodic heart pain, unless a special modification of this electrocardiographic procedure are used.

In spite of the rather wide spread belief that angina pectoris is always a sign of serious heart disease, that just is not so. There are various kinds of angina pectoris. There is long no indication whatsoever of lasting weakness of the heart.

After having had an examination, including an electrocardiogram, you can safely dismiss the thought of heart disease, and I think, from what you should do the same, for you are only making yourself miserable by worrying about it.

Let's have an end to this small town stuff.

Note: Make out to be published until some of the dog-hating fraternity come forward.

Geese Still Recall Miner

Windsor Star

Memory is a great prized possession of man. It is one, however, which he shares with the animals of the fields and the birds of the air. Often, indeed, they have a more acute and accurate than those of men and, indeed, are passed down from generation to generation.

An example of this is provided by the wild geese which visit the Jack Miner Sanctuary in Spring and Fall in autumn. These not only know when to expect to find food and shelter at this small dot on the map of their long flights.

Jack Miner has been dead since 1944. But, in their special, inborn manner, they still remember him. Those which experienced his tender care during the years he lived. But they passed along to their offspring their memory of him and his good works on their behalf. The current generation of wild ducks still know Jack Miner, through his endeavors on their behalf now carried on by his sons.

As long as the wild geese fly and the wild ducks paddle Miner and his sanctuary. They never have forgotten him. Their semi-annual pilgrimages to his shrine, erected to his memory, are made by thousands of humans who visit it also to remember him. These memories constitute his ever-lasting memorial.

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK

Across the street from the city hotel was a parking lot in which I got a front row position, at 30 cents the first hour, to await a party of friends who were going for a brief call within. Cars and taxis came and went busily both inside the hotel entrance which was presided over by a uniformed doorman.

There was a space of about a hundred feet in front of each of either end by big signs prohibiting parking in the area of the hotel's entrances.

The parking lot attendant, an old friend of mine, and I were sat in my car with me for a smoke.

"I get a great kick," he said, "watching the motorists who try to park in that reserved area. All day long, that doorman is kept busy chasing people away."

As we watched, three or four cars in succession drove into the ends of the reserved space to unload or snuggle up against the prohibitory signs. Each time, the doorman came and waved them away. Then, as soon as across the street was a parking lot.

"You'll notice one thing," said my friend, "without exception, not one of those who have left their cars into the hotel look as if they needed to save every cent. They're all smart, driving swell cars."

In the half hour I watched, there was not one exception.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

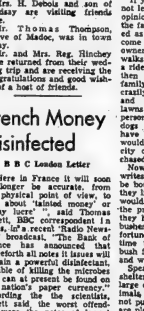
CLOSE AND NEIGHBOURLY

We often hear the expression that the world has become a neighborhood. The best time President Washington made in the few trips he undertook between Philadelphia and Mt. Vernon was six and one half days. Fifty or more years ago the world was a vaster one in sixty days. Every person today, because of advertisements of airplane and jet service which will take us around the world in a few days, almost meet ourselves coming back.



All these inventions register marvelous progress. But they also pose a problem. When one hundred years ago the nations of the world were separated by vast distances and even the people in the United States and Canada lived far removed from one another, the social problems of that day were not only different from what we now experience, but were probably not so severe. A rocket with a warhead launched today from Europe can reach the United States with devastating force very quickly. The smallest nation in the world could collect sufficient atomic energy to destroy the world's largest capitals.

Apartment house dwelling, houses built close to one another, surging city and community short on parking space — these are modern problems of the most severe and annoying variety. They can all be — and frequently are — sources of trouble. Our very closeness to other nations may some day prove the chief danger which every nation on earth confronts.

It is idle to be close and neighborly — but it can also be dangerous.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

KEEP DOING SOMETHING

Idleness is the father of much of the trouble in the world. Adults and children who have something to do, even though it may not be anything that will set on fire," rarely get into serious trouble.

Franklin said "the bird that sits is easily shot."

The mind put to useful purpose has no time in which to meditate upon useless matters.

Better do easy or humble work and keep busy than be idle and dream of great tasks and never accomplish them.

Keep doing something.

Take pride in doing the simple [illegible] with confidence in yourself to handle them worthily and effectively.

Every hour you waste takes that much away from you, and every hour that remains to you.

Strange as it may seem, you have ample time to accomplish must first throw pride away. You must accept the doing of the little things and you must do them as though each in its turn were the important and great. That is how big things come about.

Fitness precedes greatness.

Prepare. Keep getting ready for important tasks— and the tasks will come, sooner or later.

Go to bed at night with at least one important thing learned or accomplished. The next day will dawn in finer garb.

Walk ahead, don't bother about when or how you are to arrive. That will take care of itself!

Board to Make Available To Council File on Principal

CAMPBELLFORD — The matter of the resignation of the High School Area Board to the people of the area, was debated at length at the regular meeting of the Campbellford Town Council this week. A large delegation having received no satisfaction at the School Board meeting the previous Friday, asked Council to obtain such information as would guide them in assessing the facts relative to the dismissal of Mr. E. E. Darling, Principal of the High School.

Mr. A. C. Newman, who prepared brief, asking Council to obtain the minutes kept secret by the Board and satisfy themselves as to the justice of the action. Several parents, as well as Gerald Mitchell, president of the Parent-Teacher Organization and Councillor H. L. Macmillan, took issue with Board members E. McComb and W. Rutherford, who were also present at the meeting. The delegation claimed the Board considered themselves a law unto themselves and refused to impart information to the citizens.

The issue developed into two parts: (1) Is the School Board responsible to the public and (2) was the Board justified in their decision regarding Mr. Darling.

BEST IN YEARS

Mr. McComb stated that the Board had never been approached by the Council in any subject. They felt enhanced of the school's record. With the exception of one group, the school results are in the bottom fifth in the province. He said they had no animosity to ward Mr. Darling, but should have been acknowledged Coun. Hopping suggested that this was because of an incompetent staff to which Mr. McComb replied that the staff is the best in form and education. Coun. Hopping replied that the G. W. Rutherford took the attitude the Board is being condemned for doing their duty. Both trustees expressed confidence in the newly-appointed principal.

The result of the lengthy debate was a decision on Council's part to take the whole matter up as a body at a later date.

High School estimates for 1961 were presented by the secretary, Mrs. G. Vice. They provided for an overall increase of about $11,000 from 1960. Levies including debentures are: Campbellford $49,422.39
Seymour 39,589.17
Percy (except S.S. 9) 28,686.32

Total $117,507.87

OFFER ACCEPTED

The offer of R. A. Daly and Co. for $40,000 worth of Corporation Debentures for P.U.C. purposes was accepted at a price of $99.22 per 100.

The Loyal True Blues were granted permission to hold a tag day on June 24th, the Legion to hold a carnival on the Parking lot, June 30 and July 1st, and the Lions Club to hold a carnival on the parking lot on July 31st and 32nd.

It was decided that the General Government Committee be requested to frame a resolution of appreciation for presentation to the Mayor's and Reeves' convention, the resolution to deal with education costs and fixed assessments.

The Councils named Coun. Macmillan delegate pro tem to the LODA and ratified the appointment of D. Mayhew to the Chamber of Commerce, also pro tem.

The resignation of Mr. R. H. Townsend as assessor was accepted with regret. Council accepted the list of tax statements presented by Mr. E. Mary, the collector for 1960, totalling $336.27. Council was advised of the 1961 County levy totalling $40,894.30.

ASK FOR REPORT

G. C. Connor Co. Ltd., requested road, sewer and water extension on Cromwell Street. The Public Works committee will study and report on this.

In response to a letter from the P.U.C. Commission, regarding the putting of new sewage into the river, Council referred the matter to the Public Works committee for report at the next meeting.

The general government committee reported concerning the building presently occupied by Flight Equipment Limited, offered to the Corporation for the sum of $25,000, and a letter from the Public Utilities Commission. The P.U.C. advised Council that in order to retain the industry in Campbellford the Commission could purchase the building for use as offices, storage, etc., and possibly as a pumping station, but arrangements must be made for the company to remain in Campbellford for ten years.

Following is a resume of council's memorandum to Flight Equipment Ltd., as adopted by Council and recommended by the General Government committee.

1. The P.U. Commission will purchase the building for $25,-000.

2. The company will build a new building and continue operations in Campbellford.

3. The $5,000 will be held in trust by Council to be applied to the erection of the new building.

4. Council will offer land on Trent Drive, East of Simpkin Marine, 200 ft x 400 ft. for $500.

5. Council will submit to the electors a by-law to provide fixed assessment for the new building.

Some demonstrators chanted "Hands off Cuba" in English, but the most popular chant of the day was "Cuba will be free."

Moscow Radio reported that the Soviet people "unanimously" support their government's statement criticizing U.S. interference in Cuba and said "numerous" meetings were held throughout Russia condemning "bandit-like attack of the forces of the counter-revolution supported by the United States."

The embassy earlier received a tip-off about the demonstration and placed itself in a state of alert.

LIFESAVING DOGS

During the two centures St. Bernard dogs patrolled the Great St. Bernard Pass in Switzerland, they were credited with saving 2,500 lives.

'The largest cargo ever shipped out of Picton harbor by water was loaded aboard the Canada Steamship Lines' newest bulk cargo carrier, the "Whitefish Bay." Monday. The huge ship loaded 26,236 tons of iron ore at the Marmoraton Mining Company's Picton docks for shipment to Johnstown, Pa., via Cleveland. (Marmoraton is a subsidiary of Bethlehem Steel.) The "Whitefish Bay," newest flagship of the C.S.L., left the Eagle Shipyard at Lauzon, Que., last Thursday on its maiden trip. Its 730 feet length and 75 feet width make it the largest ship on the Great Lakes and it fits into several canal locks with only inches to spare. The Picton ore shipment was its first cargo. Loaded to capacity it can carry 985,885 bushels of wheat or more than 30,000 net tons of ore.

Capt. Ernest Lacasse of Sarnia is in charge of the "Whitefish Bay," which carries a crew of 31. It was the second ship this year through the St. Lawrence Seaway.

told a reporter, "My knees got all shaky, like they were made of water."

Her beautiful green Dior gown covered a leg still bandaged from anilboic shots given her as treatment for what might be nearly fatal battle with pneumonia.

"I want to thank all the members of the academy who voted for me. And I am happy that I also want to thank all the members who didn't vote for me."

For the 41-year-old Lancaster, the award climaxes a career that had taken him from New York slums through circus acrobatics to movie stardom.

It was Hammerstein and Richard Rodgers who picked the 21-year-old brewer's daughter from Smithton, Pa., to play the impudent Liza in Oklahoma and Carousel.

But it was her switch to the hardboiled tart of Elmer Gantry that won her the Oscar.

"I guess it pays to be bad on the screen," she said.

The bearded Ustinov, who won an Oscar for his portrayal of a gladiator school operator in Spartacus, flew in from Rome to attend the ceremonies.

The 40-year-old London - born actor-producer-director - author was calmest of all the nominees. Asked why, he replied:

"I guess the others were not at Dunkerque." Ustinov served as a private in the British Army during the war.

Special Oscars were given to Gary Cooper and Stan Laurel among others. Neither was well enough to attend.

Spartacus was runnerup to Apartment with four Oscars.

Secondary Market for House Mortgages Intention of Govt.

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government intends to promote development of a secondary market for house mortgages in the hope that more money will enter the mortgage field to the extent where interest rates eventually will be forced down.

The scheme was sketched for the Commons Monday by Works Minister Walker, Ottawa's initiative in the field is mainly an instruction to Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to "sell as much of its mortgage portfolio as it takes to get the secondary market in motion.

Through its direct National Housing Act loans at times when private investments have lagged due to unattractive NHA terms, CMHC now has about $854,000,000 outstanding in mortgage loans—most of it at six-per-cent interest.

Mr. Walker told a press conference following his Commons statement that if this secondary market becomes general and wide enough to involve and more money would enter the field and interest rates would be lowered by market pressures.

Mr. Walker said it is expected the secondary market will develop in two ways:

First, through the sale of large blocks of mortgage loans by one institution to another, or among pension funds and trusts.

Second, through sales by CMHC and approved lenders to "a new type" of company, which would make it possible for small investors, with $100, or $500 or $1,000 to invest —to participate in the mortgage market through purchase of the company's debentures and shares.

Selling prices will depend on many considerations, Mr. Walker said.

CMHC will be prepared to continue to service the NHA loans after their sale. The servicing fee is about one-half of 1 per cent of a loan.

It urged all UN members "to do everything to stop at once the aggressive actions against Cuba" and warned that continuation of these actions "may have the gravest consequences for world peace."

"In this hour, when the sovereignty and independence of Cuba, a sovereign member of the United Nations, are in danger, the duty of all countries, members of the United Nations, is to render it all necessary aid and support."

The statement, published by the official Soviet news agency Tass, followed similar warnings in the Soviet press today, including a declaration that Russia and other Communist countries were ready to give "help and support" to the Cuban people.

earlier and 264,000 a year earlier.

But in the other main regions, the changes in employment were minor—and chiefly for seasonal reasons.

Compared with levels of a year earlier, March employment in the Atlantic, Quebec and Prairie regions was firm, but in Ontario and British Columbia it was slightly lower.

FEWER ON SHORT LAYOFF

The number of persons on temporary layoffs of up to 30 days—included in the unemployment total—declined in March to 61,000 from 98,000 in February.

There were, 884,000 persons without work and seeking work at mid-March—unchanged from the previous month.

Of these jobless workers, one-third had been out of work for four to six months. Slightly more than half—54 per cent—had been unemployed for three months or less, while 13 per cent had been out of work for seven months or more.

In its analysis of the unemployment figures, the federal labor department said that half of the total unemployed in the first three months of 1961 were laborers and construction and manufacturing workers.

A total of 12,000 in the number of jobless in Ontario brought the mid-March total to 190,000 from 202,000 at mid-February. In March of 1960, there were 151,000 unemployed workers.

The latest total represents 8.1 per cent of the labor force of 2,346,000, compared with 6.5 per cent a year earlier.

The number of persons with jobs hardly changed between February and March. Some improvement was apparent in a fairly wide range of manufacturing industries, although this was offset by declines in forestry and mining.

Two Admitted To Hospital After Collision

Two persons were admitted to Belleville General Hospital Monday afternoon following a two-car head on collision on No. 2 highway at Bayside.

Injured were Mrs. Isobel Lyons, 70, concussion Sidney who suffered concussion, lacera-tions of the scalp and possible back injures and Russell Fyear, 19 Strathcona Drive, Belleville, who had lacerations to the head and arm.

Mr. Fyear was the driver of one of the vehicles ,while Mrs. Lyons as a passenger in a car driven by her husband Henry Lyons who escaped injury. Ambulances owned by John R. Bush of Belleville and Rushnell of Trenton took the injured to hospital.

Both late model autos were heavily damaged in the head-on collision.

MERCEDES-BENZ 220 SE COUPE

Mercedes-Benz celebrates its seventy-fifth anniversary with the introduction of the Mercedes-Benz 220 SE Coupe. This elegant new coupe combines a distinctively sporty appearance with the comfort of a luxurious four-passenger touring car. Longer and lower body, and the absence of centre posts make new beauty and functionality. The six-cylinder fuel injection engine takes high speeds with ease, and provides surprising fuel economy. Exceptional cornering and ideal stability over rough terrain are part of this model's extraordinary performance feature. The highly functional dashboard includes a tachometer, and sporting flavour is retained with a floor shift and reclining deep-cushion bucket seats. Longer window area, more passenger space and increased tennis arms offer new driving convenience.

BIRTHDAY MARKED

Mr. M. W. Scrimshaw, 63 South George Street, celebrated his 63rd birthday on Monday with his family, grand-children and great-grandchildren present.

Mr. Scrimshaw who has been a resident here for the past 60 years is enjoying health, and is quite active for his years.

For the birthday dinner, 19 sat down to a most delicious repast, which included roast beef and lovely birthday cake and ice cream.

He was the recipient of many personal gifts, as well as boxes of cigars and folding money.

Women's Activities

TABERNACLE UNITED W.A.

The regular monthly meeting of Tabernacle United Church W.A. was held recently in the ladies' parlor.

The president, Mrs. Kerr, opened the meeting.

A short business meeting was held and it was decided to give Albert College a bursary of $50.

Mrs. Rose had charge of the devotional. The lesson was read from Luke 14.

One must walk without the physical presence of Jesus but one knows that He is present. There is no experience in which He does not go, be it sorrow, joy or death. Just remember He said, "Lo, I am with you always."

Misses Jane and Gay McFarlane accompanied on the piano by Mrs. McFarlane, sang an appropriate duet entitled, "He Is Risen."

The guest speaker, Mrs. Farnsworth, was introduced by Mrs. G. Gorsline. Her topic was "Easter means a new dawning." After the darkness of Good Friday we have the Resurrection."

The speaker emphasized the loving service of women. They were last at the Cross and first at the tomb. Christ lifts up women and children in His church. The women were sad, but their hearts were filled with love.

The gift for Easter is "sacrifice." Every time we reject Christ we are Crucifying Him. In this world we are women of the church standing at the foot of the Cross ready to help Christ us, as Christian women, do our part."

At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Young, and a social hour was enjoyed.

Dr. E. Scott Gives Address On "Health and Marriage"

In the most recent talk in the current series of talks on marriage, Dr. Elizabeth Scott, obstetrician, spoke on "Health in Marriage". "Health" she stated, is a condition of physical and mental well-being and soundness, in which both mind and body function efficiently. Health and marriage are closely related, each affecting the other.

"When the mother of a family is healthy, the family is likelihood, the rest of the family will also be well and happy. It is possible for there to be a period of about two years or more between pregnancies, a woman can regain her health after the birth of each child. Frequent pregnancies may exact a greater nutritional toll on the women's health".

Dr. Scott discussed several aspects of marriage which give concern. Lack of knowledge before and after marriage can cause unnecessary anxiety and a visit to a doctor for information and advice will give much reassurance which women in particular often need.

Adjustment to marriage can result in temporary menstrual changes for a woman as can any emotional upset. An understanding of this will dispel worry.

STERILITY PROBLEM

"Sterility may be a problem for which there are a number of reasons — some easier to treat than others. An examination of both husband and wife should be undertaken as about one-third of cases result from male sterility. A sperm test for a husband is quicker and simpler. A woman's test is longer, more tests over a longer period.

"When a woman is pregnant, there is a blood transfusion, it is important to know if she is Rhesus positive or negative. About 85 per cent of the population is Rhesus positive, which means that they have the Rhesus factor present in their red blood cells. Rhesus negative persons have red blood cells which do not have the factor. Every person inherits one Rhesus gene from each parent so they may be Rhesus positive or a combination of both.

The blood stream of a Rhesus negative person will manufacture antibodies to a Rhesus positive blood group. Fusible, he may receive; resulting in some cell destruction in his blood. Now-a-days great care is exercised in blood matching to prevent this occurring.

If a Rhesus negative woman whose husband has a strongly positive Rhesus factor, will carry a Rhesus positive baby as the positive factor in this case is dominant. As a result, the baby's blood will have factors antibodies to the baby's positive blood, after one or two pregnancies, the woman can regain her health after the birth of each child. Frequent pregnancies may exact a greater nutritional toll on the women's health".

Sister W.A's Entertained by Rose Hall W.A.

HILLIER SOUTH — On Wednesday evening the members of the Rose Hall W.A. motored out to W.A. members, Mrs. Burr's, Bowerman's, Hillier, Wellington and also, Wellington Evening Auxiliary.

The church was decorated with lovely potted plants for this occasion.

The program opened with Mrs. W. Cooley in charge and Mrs. Richard Foster giving the address of welcome.

Mrs. Arthur Wannamaker was in charge of the worship service with Scripture readings from Matt. 3:1-10; 16-20, given by Mrs. Lewis Wright, and prayer by Mrs. W.Conley.

Mrs. Hendley presided at the piano for her daughters, Mrs. Fox and Mrs. McCartney, sang a duet, "Every Valley".

Mrs. Wannamaker based her talk on the Scripture in Matt. 28 relative to the "Questions facing the Christian Church of today."

SLIDES SHOWN

Mrs. Conley introduced the guest speaker Mr. Putman of Toronto, who showed slides of his trip across the seas and some of his experiences and the need of Christian Missionaries to go abroad and tell Christ's message. His talk on Africa was informative and this timely message was appreciated by the large number assembled.

Mrs. E. Snider thanked Mr. Putman for coming, presenting the films and his splendid message.

The guests were invited to the dining room where tables were seated at quartet tables nicely arranged. Mrs. K. G. Hendley and Mrs. W. Conley poured tea from silver tea services. The tables were then covered and centred with flowers. The guests were served delicious refreshments by Mrs. H. Purson on behalf of other W.A. living groups, thanked by Mrs. Hall ladies for their fine entertainment, also mentioning the Pumpkin Tea address, which was a privilege to hear.

Energetic Club Visits Synagogue

The Energetic Club of Holloway Street United Church held a regular meeting on Wednesday, Audrey and Carl Brenhour and their group were in charge of the evening.

The theme of the worship service, conducted by, Audrey, Brenhour and Bob Bleecker, was "Brotherhood."

A trip to the Sons of Jacob Synagogue had been arranged. The club was greeted at the door by Rabbi Deutsch and then ushered into the synagogue where Rabbi Deutsch explained the significance of the articles contained in the Ark and answed many questions about the Jewish religion. The rest of the building, including the children's classroom, was then toured.

PLAYED COVETED ROLE — The role of the Virgin Mary in the famed Oberammergau passion play was performed last year by 23-year-old Irmi Denagg. Actors for the play, put on in the West German village every 10 years, must be amateurs and reside in the village. Miss Denagg, who became a housewife to actress Ingrid Bergman, is shown in Toronto where she appeared in an Easter television show. (CP Photo).

Must Play From Full Heart In Oberammergau Passion

By DEIRDRE MUNGOVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — For five months last year Irmi Dengg, 23, portrayed the Virgin Mary in the famed Oberammergau passion play, a role so coveted in the West German village that some girls have postponed their wedding up to five years in hope of getting it.

The beautiful Austrian girl, who bears a striking resemblance to actress Ingrid Bergman, told of the play while in Toronto to participate in an Easter television program. Now Irmi is the 3 month-long tour of German communities in Ontario before going to New York.

Irmi, still excited over her first airplane trip outside Austria, talked in a soft voice of her role in the play which has been going on every decade since the 1600s because of a vow made by the villagers to stop a raging plague.

"Her effect was very strong on myself each time I appeared on the stage," she says. "We have to play from a full heart and I found myself living the role, in everyday life."

ALL AMATEURS

Irmi, dressed in a green tweed outfit, her hair pile piled high on her head and a gold medallion of the Mother of Christ around her neck, modestly explained that her role is not sought after by every young girl in the village.

All the actors are amateurs and must live in the region of Oberammergau, in West Germany. The women who participate must be single and under the age of 35.

Since the play is presented only every 10 years, Irmi said jokingly, some girls will delay their wedding in the hope of getting a part in the next passion play.

"The acting must come from the soul," she said in describing the six-hour theatrical presentation of Christ's life which ends in a resurrection scene.

Community Concert Workers Meet at St. Margaret's Church

An enthusiastic group of Community Concert workers gathered at St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill for the annual campaign meeting on Mon. Miss Edna Sulman whose table decorations won, prizes from all.

After the dinner the Rev. Harry Davis and a fine repast, the president, Mr. S. Gordon Robertson, welcomed the workers and introduced the head table guests who were Miss Leona Riggs, past president; Mrs. R. Ketchum and Mrs. R. Burley, co-campaign chairmen; Mrs. S. Gordon Robertson, Mr. Frank Moore, secretary and Mr. Don LaFrance, treasurer.

Following the reading of best wishes on the local season's program, contributed by Ayer with the New York organization, served by Mr. Gerald Devlin, vice-president of Community Concerts, Mr. Robertson pointed out that Belleville has had a concert association for 30 years, and went on to stress the aim for a capacity membership. He gratefully acknowledged the splendid help from Mr. G. Morton, Mr. Ayer, Mr. Eugene Lang and Mr. F. Murray press and radio, also Harriet Stevens during sales.

Mrs. H. Robbins was commended for her work preparing publicity and posters and Mrs. E. Burley and Mrs. R. Ketchum were words of praise for their extensive preliminary preparations for campaign week, April 17th to 22nd.

Mrs. Burley gave a rousing pep talk with which Mrs. Ketchesson concurred and all workers were asked to report their progress not later than April 20.

Miss Leona Riggs, always the guiding light in any musical effort, received generous praise to all the principals in the present endeavors.

Mrs. Van Canadian representative from New York was introduced and spoke entertainingly and informatively from her rich experience telling pertinent anecdotes to illustrate her points. She reported that two of the twelve booked for Belleville next season, Lois Marshall, soprano and Rosalie Turbis, pianist, have "sold out" concerts in all their appearances.

LIVE PERFORMANCE

Mrs. Cook believes in the necessity for live performance with the rapport created between artist and audience. In the opinion many famous artists, because of extreme mannerisms, show to poor advantage on camera and T.V., and so need the concert stage to best display their musicianship.

In closing, Mrs. Cook explained that she personally, was in the role to help in any capacity for the furtherance of the membership campaign.

Thanks was tendered by Mrs. D. LaFrance to Miss Sulman for her artistic table and to their untiring devotion to dinner and after — concert-reception to Mr. Ayer.

A bit of appropriate verse composed by Mrs. E. Hinman (Jane) and read by Mrs. H. S. Robbins ended the evening on a happy note.

"Among other welcoming signs of spring,
'Community Concerts' is privileged to bring
It's yearly membership offered here.
For you to enjoy for another year.

"It isn't really a cause for qualms
If you can't distinguish Beethoven from Brahms
The only cause for our distress
Is if perhaps you wouldn't care less.

So Belleville friends may we add your name
To support and enjoy artists of fame
To listen and to absorb
The live heaven
Of the sweetest music this side of Heaven!

Youth for Christ Sponsors Musical Sacred Productions

On Wednesday evening at Quinte High School, the Sacred Productions Choir of the Worship of the Belleville Youth for Christ, will begin a month-by-month series of musical concerts, eight in all. Following the concert on May 17th, there will be a seasonal intermission, beginning again in October.

The participating artists include well known musicians, Rudy Atwood, of California, noted pianist of the "Old Fish-ioned Revival Hour," broadcast conducted by Dr. Charles Fuller. Rudy's interpretation of hymns is both dynamic and delicate, with a special style of improvisation based on correct standards of harmony. His superb technique is due to his early training in mastering the classics.

The Three Wild Sisters of Kentucky, a trio of the most perfect harmony, need no introduction as they have already appeared at one of the local churches in the city. They have also appeared on Arthur Godfrey's "Talent Scouts," as well as occupying a major spot on Ted Mack's "Amateur Hour" and have featured in the "Story," America's newest religious color television program.

John Webb of California, is an outstanding bass singer, possessing one of the most beautiful voices heard anywhere. Under the direction of Mr. Arthur Rosenstein, vocal coach of CBM, he studied opera, concert, ballad and classical. His voice is one of exceptional resonance and range and is now being employed by any Metropolitan Opera base in the last three decades.

Miss Lorraine Morrison, who recently returned from a singing tour in Texas where she featured in the Annual World Records Singing Competition has a deep and intriguing contralto, enriched with emotional warmth.

Mr. Paul Clark of Kentucky, accompanist for the White sisters, is also an arranger and pianist. He played for some time in the Jerry Gordon orchestra, but decided his career lay in the field of sacred music to which he exclusively devotes his musical talent.

These artists complete a company of exceptional musicians whose repertoire will delight lovers of soul-satisfying music.

Tickets are on sale at the Christian Book Store, 4 Bridge St. East.

Medical Wives Society Plans 9th Charity Ball

The ninth annual Charity Ball sponsored by the Medical Wives Society of Kingston, will be held this year on May 5th at the Hotel LaSalle in Kingston. Proceeds from this event are used to help sick children of Kingston and district at the various treatment centres in the city.

The Ball will be under the distinguished patronage of the Honourable Governor of Ontario, the Honourable John Keiller Mackay, and in the immediate presence of Colonel Peter Wittert van Hoogland, the Air, Military and Naval Attache to the Royal Netherlands Embassy in Ottawa, and Lady Wittert van Hoogland.

Clifford Tripp and his orchestra from Ottawa will play for this event. Prior to the official opening of the Ball, the guests will be entertained by the Society at a champagne cocktail hour at 9 p.m. in the dining room of the Hotel LaSalle. A continuous buffet supper will be served from 11.45 p.m.

Invitations for this event may be obtained through Mrs. R. W. McIntyre, 204 Churchill Cres., Kingston.

Saputelli Probably Only Matriarchy in W. Europe

By JAMES TOMLINS

SAPUTELLI, Italy (Reuters) A woman's word is law in Saputelli, a charming hamlet nestling in the foothills of the Sicilian mountain region in the Abruzzi area of central Italy.

The head of each household here is a woman. She does all the heavy work on the land.

For no man live here premarriage. Many years ago, all the menfolk abandoned attempts to scratch a living from the tiny farms they inherited from their wives by sending remittances from abroad.

The women leave their kitchens to yoke up oxen and plow the fields, or gather the harvest. They cut wood in the neighboring woods.

The high rate of migration by men from the village has gone on for years. Fathers, husbands, older sons and brothers have streamed away from Saputelli in search of work anywhere. Today they are miners in Belgium, building workers in Switzerland or oil-drillers in Venezuela.

The women have formed their own council which has fought for more amenities for their village with increasing success.

Their first demand, a few years ago, was for a piped water supply to each house. This was granted by the local government.

Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems!

Want Adoption Information

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—My husband and I came to Canada nearly seven years ago. We haven't any children of our own and are considering adopting a child now that we are Canadians. But we are not sure how to go about it or where we should apply.

I have been told that we should ask the Children's Aid, but I would like to have some information about regulations because I don't want to be too disappointed if I can't have one.

Should you are a social worker so I wonder if you could give me some help. Is there an age limit for a person wishing to adopt a child? In some countries in Europe you must be over 35 years. What is the regulation here? I would appreciate your help.—LONESOME.

DEAR LONESOME—You must be at least 25 years of age, and 21 years older than the child you adopt.

The usual upper age limit for adoption of an infant is around 40 years of age, although individual local adoption agencies set their own policies in this regard. Parents over the age limit are often allowed to adopt older children, if the parent's age does not exceed 40 by more than the age of the child adopted.

Adopting parents have to meet certain requirements of economic stability, and they must be able to provide a secure and satisfying home for a child. The most important thing is that the parents have the welfare and happiness of a child at heart. There is a six-month probationary period; and if all goes well, the adoption may then be made legal and permanent by the court.

The official agency is the Children's Aid Society. Trained social workers arrange the placement, taking great care to "match" parent with child. Such things as intelligence, religion, special inclinations (if these can be known), even color of eyes, may be taken into account. There is usually a waiting list, except for older children so be prepared to wait a while for your child.

Many childless homes have taken a new lease on life with an adopted child, who soon becomes as precious as a natural child.

DEAR BUSINESS GIRL — Save your high heels for high days and holidays. One foot doctor says: "If you distort a foot continuously for a long period of time, you can expect it to end up deformed."

Being short is a minor difficulty. Dark shoes help to lean improve legs. Work and walk in comfort in shoes that keep you close to the ground. And give the spikes their outing when you are all dressed up.

Springbrook WA Entertains Mission Band

The April meeting of Springbrook W.A. was held April 6th in the church. Mrs. Carman Sine and Mrs. Kenneth Thompson acted as hostesses.

Mrs. Clayton Burkitt, a past-president, was in charge of the meeting.

Mrs. Gerald Broadworth led the devotional period which was taken from the Easter service folder. Mrs. James Spry, Mrs. Percy Bateman, Mrs. Ed Huff, Mrs. Gordon Bailey and Mrs. Charles Gordanier took part in this service. Mrs. Gerald Broadworth closed with prayer.

Mrs. Carman Sine gave an interesting and sincere Easter topic, "From Death Into Life."

There were 33 members and several visitors present. Members reported sending 138 cards and making 78 calls on the sick.

Mrs. Charles Gordanier reported making seven house calls and four hospital calls for the special visiting committee. Mrs. Clayton Burkitt is next month's visiting volunteer.

Flower and fruit committees reported sending four cards, one box and one gift to sick members.

Plans were completed for a May sale.

A motion was made to give the offering this month to the Mission Band.

GIFT PRESENTED

Mrs. Gerald Broadworth read an address and Mrs. Ralph Thompson presented a gift to Mrs. Merle Moore, who has recently moved from this community. Mrs. Moore replied, thanking everyone for the gift, and invited them to visit her in her new home in Frankford.

The members of the Mission Band and their mothers were guests of the W.A. at this meeting. At this time, the children presented a short program consisting of Easter music, "Easter Thoughts" by the juniors, a play "Mystery of the Talking Birch Bark" and a Bible "Mother and Children" contest.

Attractive Pair

By ALICE ALDEN

Well chosen separates that are right for cruise or resort wear travel smartly right through spring into summer. So there should be a smart season ahead for this attractive sweater and skirt twosome.

The trim officer's jacket top is of cashmere, in silk-lined, braid-encrusted and zippered. Nice in yellow, navy or red, all with white braid.

One verse of Best Be the Tie that Binds" was sung and the Mission Band closing was repeated.

Mrs. Clayton Burkitt expressed thanks to the Mission Band for the entertainment.

All were invited to the basement where a party table was prepared for the children. Refreshments were served to all by the hostesses and their assistants.

SOYBEANS BOOMING

Cooking Comments

The secret of good sandwiches is freshness! Sandwiches intended for eating hours later need careful planning, making and packing, advises the Food and Nutrition Department, Macdonald Institute, Guelph. Wrap sandwiches immediately in foil, waxed paper or polyethylene bags. Tea sandwiches may be stacked, unwrapped, in pans lined with foil. Then cover tightly with foil and chill until needed.

Sandwiches of different flavors, especially strong, contrasting flavors, should never be wrapped together. Fillings such as salmon, or egg and onion, will impart their flavors to the other fillings.

Sandwich meals can be satisfying as well as easy to prepare. School children in particular need well-balanced lunches. Serve a relish or salad with the sandwich; include a fruit dessert and beverage. Combinations such as ham sandwiches made with whole wheat bread, coleslaw, applesauce, and cold milk; or a toasted cheese sandwich, celery cuts, stewed rhubarb and milk.

For a delicious easy-to-make Apple Snow, fold stiffly beaten egg whites into sweetened apple puree and pile into a serving bowl.

Club Activities

FULL GOSPEL CA's FRANKFORD — The Frankford Full Gospel CA's held their regular meeting on the evening of April 4th at 8 p.m. President Mr. Keith Helm was in charge of the meeting.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagner Shaw

QUESTION BOX

Question — I am a senior in high school. One of the boys in my class is very nice and we date quite a while. He is very polite, but has one habit that worries me. If we go to a movie, and stop to get something to eat afterwards, he always pays the bill. If money is given in the habit of always contributing, it would make up the difference. He always promises to pay me back, but never does. Should I handle this? — Miss B. K. C., Seattle, Wash.

Answer — Get rid of this young man as quickly as possible! His actions are inexcusable. Such a thing might happen once, but to make it general practice, and then never repay you, makes it an obvious way of getting out of paying much money from his own pocket when it is dating time. Unless somebody wakes him up, he is heading for the label of "moocher." His future dates will be few and far between — if you girls are sensible. One way he may be taught to behave like a gentleman would be for the girl in question to refuse to have any money to give him. Perhaps this embarrassment he suffers will teach him a lesson. The only trouble, here, is that the girl is bound to be embarrassed too!

Question — I was a guest recently at a very fancy luncheon. There were twenty of us in all. It was given in honor of a prominent woman visitor. After the dishes had been cleared away, we all trooped into the living room for coffee, and sat around in groups. I was a working girl and had to get back to my job. After an hour and a half, I excused myself to apologize to my hostess and leave, but found her busy and still happily chatting along, with obliously no intention of taking her departure. Am I right in thinking that she should have left when I did, or some time, so that the rest of us could go? It has always been my understanding that my guests should leave until the honored guest does. Am I right or wrong in this? — Miss F. N. W., New York, N. Y.

Answer — Right! It is a very thoughtless person who, when a guest of honor, fails to consider the others present. It has always been considered proper that they do not leave until she does. Only in the case where she is expected to attend some where the party is given, is it all right for the other guests to depart when they please.

Question — Will you please tell me the proper way to place my purse when out dining? I told some young girls my purse should never be put on the table while one dines. It is also bad taste, to my way of thinking, to place it on the table when visiting friends. I am sure they pushed Grandma (me)! I would appreciate hearing your ideas on this matter. Maybe they will listen to me! — Mrs. H. L. M., Roseville, Calif.

Answer — You are correct that it is wrong to place a purse on a restaurant table. It should be kept on the lap, or placed under your chair on the floor if it is too large to hold it comfortably. When visiting friends, it is usually easy to put your purse beside you, either on a sofa or chair.

Smart Anticipating

Question — I recently was invited to a ladies' luncheon which is to take place two weeks from now. I answered the invitation and accepted. Today I received a small card which bears the word "To Remind". Under this was the date, time, luncheon, name, place, etc. This seemed strange to me, and I am anxious to know if this is customary or have had it happen to me before. It seemed very unnecessary when I had already accepted the invitation! Mrs. K. P., Little River, S. C.

Answer — The "To Remind" card is very strange and is perfectly correct form. The reason for it is that some people are very forgetful. Of [illegible] plain thoughtless! Even though they may have received an invitation, they neglect to put it on their calendars. If the party is taking place several weeks hence, they are just apt not to show up when the time comes. To put it mildly, a hostess needs the reminder in the hope that, if it has been merely thoughtlessness, she will take the hint and attend.

Question — I was embarrassed to be invited to a birthday party for a neighbor called about one o'clock Saturday afternoon, asking to ask why my nine-year-old daughter hadn't showed up for the party. She was waiting for her child. She said they had waited a long time and they could. The lunch was over, but she had tickets for ten of the little guests and a special children's show. What was she to do with her child's ticket? Knowing nothing about it at all, I stammered around and said I would send my child right over. While rushing to dress her, I questioned her about the party. Why hadn't she told me? She said she hadn't wanted to go, so she didn't mention it. What in the world do you do in a case like this? — Mrs. K. R. M., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Answer — The entire fault in this case lies in the lap of the mother of the child giving the party. Invitations should never be intrusted to children. They should be issued by the parent, either by calling or writing the mothers of the youngsters to be invited. A child can easily forget when a little friend invites her to something while they are playing in the school yard, or, as in the case of yours, not organized to go. Just deliberately forget it! You have no blame in this circumstance, other than it would seem to be high time, at the age of nine, that your child began to learn some of the responsibilities of social contacts.

Question — A man with whom I worked for a time was recently killed in a recent auto accident. While I never knew his mother, or with whom he lived, I would like to write and express my sympathy, but at the present am stumped about two things. One, is it proper that I write her? Two, if so, by what is the word do I say? — Mr. D. C. A., New York, N. Y.

Answer — By all means write the letter to his mother. It will mean a great deal to her. Expressing our personal sympathy to those who have lost a dear one, is very hard for all of us, particularly if we have never met them. Too often, because we can't think what to say, the note is never written, and a chance to bring a moment of comfort to one who is suffering, is lost. Simply express your sincere condolence, bear two things in mind: Stay away from trite phrases, such as "My heart goes out to you" or "If there is anything I can do please let me know"; and never make your letter long.

A short, concise expression of your sympathy is much better than a long-drawn-out recitation of empty platitudes. Naturally, some of the phrasing is bound to appear a little stiff, but don't let this by a few comments about the person who has gone. For example, a letter such as the following would seem to fit in with your problem:

"Dear Mrs. Jones: I wish to express to you my sympathy in your great sorrow. I had pleasure of working with Jim for a long time. He was thoroughly well liked by all of us because of his courtesy, easy manner and wonderful sense of humor." In closing you might say "Again my deep sympathy, Sincerely."

STERLING W.I.

Mrs. B. Reid was elected president to carry on the responsibilities of the W.I.

On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. C. Wright was hostess to the members of the Sterling W.I. which opened with the usual exercises. Members renewed their membership for 1961 and 62 and 14 paged dues. Three new members joined.

The annual financial report was read given by Mrs. W. C. Weir stating donations to be: delegates sight seeing trips; Scott Mission; Sterling and Secord Fowl Fair booth and treats for residents of Cooke Home.

Auditors, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. G. Mumby gave their report that statement was received and signed.

Mrs. S. McMurray thanked the W.I. for remembering her and Mr. McMurray with a gift for the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

A thank-you message was received from Mr. and Mrs. George Haggerty expressing their appreciation for the delicious dinner for their daughter's wedding, now Mrs. H. Dunnett.

60th ANNIVERSARY

Plans were completed for the dinner on the 60th anniversary of the West Hastings District W.I. Mrs. Lambermer will be the guest speaker.

Two of the W.I. members will be honored for the occasion as they are past presidents. Mrs. Secretary treasurer, Mrs. W. C. West and Mrs. Perry Bronson.

These arrangements will be reported to the district president, Mrs. E. Phillip, Belleville, by the district director, Mrs. M. Williams.

Mrs. L. Hodgson of Toronto, sent a letter to the W.I. asynd she will be here to join the celebrations marking the 60th anniversary. She is also a district president. The roll call was 11 members to represent Stirling Women's Institute.

STUDY CONCERNED

Passed along to the members to view was a picture of six youngsters daily enjoying free food at the soup kitchens at Scott Mission in Toronto. How gratifying, as one looks into the faces of these little children, to know, by the bib in front of way, helped to carry on their lives, livelihood with donations.

Mrs. C. Gay collected pennies for friendship, each member present. A special children's contribution to this project with Mrs. Wm. Hilliard convener, conducting the election of officers at the next meeting these offices will be handled: Mrs. Wm. Ayerhart will be the hostess for the May meeting.

Owing to the lateness of time the program was committed, other than contests.

Refreshments were served. Mrs. C. Gay moved a vote of thanks to the hostess and tea committee.

HARTS - EGGS W.I.

MADOC — Mrs. Leonard Trotter was hostess to Harts-Eggs W.I. members for their regular monthly meeting with the president, Mrs. Fanks, presiding.

Business consisted of the financial report and correspondence.

Mrs. N. Broad gave the motto in the form of a geography quiz on Canadian industries. It was surprising to learn that the conversion of petroleum products today the leading Canadian industry, also coming "Today Canada is not only a rich storehouse of material but an industrial nation fabricating natural resources into usable goods."

Mrs. Eanks gave a short talk on the reports to be presented at the annual meeting to be completed by the hostess of Mrs. Broad in the form of a buffet pot-luck dinner, at 12 o'clock noon. Each member to bring her own table setting.

Miss Luella Bristol was in charge of the program and gave an interesting paper on the Canadian provinces and their industries.

Mrs. Ella Bristol put on an Irish contest which was much enjoyed.

Lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

RAWDON — Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society held its Easter meeting at the church on April 12, with 27 ladies in attendance.

Mrs. Gerald Ashley, president of Belleville Presbyterial W.M.S. gave a message on "Easter and Stewardship."

She first brought greetings from the Presbyterial, and then "Love is the keyword of Easter, for love never dies; and Easter inspires stewardship of life".

Her closing thoughts were on 'Stewardship.' She stressed that everyone is given the opportunity to say thanks for the way that God has prospered them and it is a privilege and a duty to give sacrificially.

Mrs. Carlisle was introduced by Mrs. Herbert Sharp, pianist and convener, Mrs. Mac, Sharp, voiced thanks and presented her with a small gift.

The door hostesses were Mrs. Gordon Lehn and Mrs. Roy Thrasher.

The program was arranged by Mrs. M. Sharp and Mrs. R. A. Morton. Mrs. Burton Sharpe provided quiet piano music. Mrs. M. Sharp was in charge of the Easter program with hymns as the theme.

Mrs. Garth Joslin read an Easter poem: Mrs. Ross Jeffs read the various Bible verses and Mrs. Marguerite McMullen sang "The Old Rugged Cross."

The president opened the meeting with a short message and a brief business session followed roll, Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave her report.

Mrs. Kenneth Weaver outlined the study chapter on "New Ways of Speaking, and How the Church Confronts the World." She used the outline given in the booklet, "Into All the World Together," and took the part of the interviewer. She was assisted by Mrs. Ross Jeffs, Mrs. Carleton Potts and Mrs. Stanley Williams.

This showed that one of Ravenscroft's chief concerns is the training of national Christian leaders who can interpret the Christian message to their people in terms they understand.

Christian radio programs are on the air in ten countries around the world. The United Church of Canada, through its Board of Overseas Missions and the Woman's Missionary Society, contributed $14,250 to this work in 1960. Much has been accomplished by the World Council of Christian Education.

The treasurer has remitted $33 to Mrs. R. G. Coulter, the Presbyterial treasurer. She also received a letter she had received a letter from the treasurer asking that all W.M.S. givings be forwarded at the end of 1961. The corresponding secretary read a letter of thanks.

Several items of business were discussed and the president thanked all those present to date for June 14th, when the W.M.S. will commemorate its 40th anniversary.

At the close of the meeting, the lunch conveners, Mrs. William McAdam, Mrs. Ross Jeffs and Mrs. Will Jeffs, served light refreshments.

Mother-to-Be Honored by Stork Shower

FRANKFORD—Last Thursday evening, a "Stork Shower" was held at the home of Mrs. Ross Parker in honor of Mrs. Fred Cap. There were 15 ladies present.

"Two contests were enjoyed. "Pin The Diaper Contest", was won by Mrs. A. Rikley and "Babies Necessities Contest" by Miss Linda Halsall and 2nd prize tied - Mrs. E. Nuskag, Batawa, and Mrs. H. Rikley of Frankford.

Doris received many lovely gifts and thanked her kind friends.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Jerry Foster, assisted by Mrs. Russell Patrick and Miss Bill McMillan.

PROPOSES FOOD

MINNEAPOLIS (CP) — Paul Martin, Liberal party leader in the Canadian Commons for Essex East, proposed Monday night that nations with a per capita annual income of more than $500 pool one per cent of their national incomes to aid underdeveloped countries. He said in speech to the Council on World Tensions that such a pooling would make $6,000,000,000 available for aid each year.

Promised Recipes

By Mary Moore

On April 8th I promised to give you the recipes for a Windblow Cake with a glaze and a sifted fruit cup with green mint jelly cubes. These should have appeared here last week but I was full of stories about Grand Cayman Island that it was crowded out, so I will give them here today.

Dinner Menus

TUESDAY

Boiled Cured Tongue with Cherry Sauce; Mashed Sweet Potatoes Served with Fresh Frozen Orange Juice Concentrate; Broccoli; Lettuce Rhubarb Pie; Tea.

WINDBLOWN CAKE WITH GLAZE:

NOTE:

I made this cake the first time with a carmel topping. Since then I have discovered a glaze I like better, so am giving the new glaze today.

1 1-3 cups sifted cake flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 3 eggs, yolks and whites separated, 3-4 cup water, 1 1-4 cups fine white sugar (not icing), 1 1-2 teaspoons lemon extract, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Sift together the sifted flour and baking powder and salt. Separate the eggs and put yolks in a large bowl. Put whites in a medium bowl. To the yolks add the 3-4 cup water and beat until they increase in volume to as much as a quart. Add the sugar gradually and continue beating for ten to fifteen minutes. Fold the sifted flour and baking powder and salt. Beat whites until stiff but not dry and fold in. Pour in buttered 10" tube pan at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 40 to 45 minutes. While cake is still hot pour over this glaze: Heat and bring to a boil 1 cup sugar, 1-3 cup orange juice and 1-2 cup chopped almonds (optional) and sugar dissolves. Pour over hot

Spring in Canada: A Time of Discovery

Spring comes to Canada in a thousand different ways. A little girl watches spring unfold in the deep bowl of a tulip. A prairie rancher pauses on his way to the barns as bawling calves bring sound again to the land after a winter of silence and snow. A British Columbia teacher finds an idle student gazing out a school window at far-off mountains and, for a moment, gazes idly, too. An east-coast fisherman, skilfully untangling a worn winter net, slades his eyes against the glare of warm sunlight sparkling on blue water. And deep in the sun-shafted silence of an Ontario wood an artist, trying to capture spring, leaves at last triumphant with a delicate water-colour of two crooked, black twigs standing sturdy and alone at the edge of a hollow of melting, soft-shadowed snow.

National Film Board of Canada Photos

For many Canadians, spring comes in a visit to the farm. For Ottawa children, the farm means the Central Experimental Farm. There, youth sees youth awaken to spring. Even a worldly old sow permits herself to smile in pride over what is still, despite its universality each spring, quite an accomplishment.

The Adaptable Egg

Since this is the season when eggs are plentiful, wise homemakers are serving them at any meal of the day and in many different forms.

The key point to keep in mind with eggs is freshness, according to the Food and Nutrition Department, Macdonald Institute, Guelph. Heat covers the utility of eggs quickly, and eggs left in a warm store or kitchen may lose freshness rapidly. Whenever possible, buy eggs from a dealer who keeps them in a refrigerated display case and store them in the refrigerator at home.

Some simple methods of serving eggs have been given most interesting names. "Oeufs Florentine" are poached eggs served on well-drained, buttered spinach. "Golden Eggs", a quick luncheon favorite, can be made by chopping hard-cooked, shelled eggs and mixing them with fried onions and a little dry mustard; serve hot, on buttered toast.

Poached eggs are delicious served on toast which has been spread with devilled ham or other meat paste. Mashed potatoes become golden and fluffy when an egg is beaten into the milk used in mashing them.

Never over-cook scrambled eggs but do add variety by serving them with broiled mushrooms or fried mushrooms.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Ruth M. — He has a perpetual chip on his shoulder.

Randolph M. — I see things in their true light, not through rosy glass.

Ruth M. — I'm worried about Randy. He seems to consider everyone his enemy and hardly gives them a chance to prove themselves a friend. His hackles are up when I say hello to a new neighbor, a new member of our church, or newcomers (through marriage) into our family circle.

It never dawns on him that these may be fine, unselfish people. He groans to me, "Now what? See what this fellow will try to get out of me!" And his conversation, even with me, is cutting and sarcastic.

Why is he afraid to relax? Why is everyone such a threat in his eyes? It's true that eventually he comes to trust a few people up to a point. But he misses so much joy by being so narrow and unfair.

Randolph M. — The trouble with Ruth is that she's a babe in the woods. She doesn't realize that most people are out to get you. And while neither of us is from Missouri, I like to be shown that new acquaintances are okay. Until I know them well, I'm on guard.

I don't let people get away with anything. Ruth lent her brother one of our cameras and told him he could keep it a year, since we have another. That's not the point. Suppose we needed it meanwhile? He can buy his own. He's the type who would have quietly kept it, anyway. Ruth wouldn't ask for it back, so I did. I'm so sucker.

The Council — "Once burned, twice cautious," they say. But Randolph acts as though everybody's a potential flame-thrower! The roots of such unreasoning hostility undoubtedly go back to embittering experiences in his childhood. Unable to "get back at" parents, teachers, or other tormentors, Randolph now reacts to everybody else as though he must beat them to the punch.

Ruth is doing him a good service to put the spotlight on this dangerous pattern of behavior. It's all right to go through life with boxing gloves on when the adversaries are "conditions" — social evils like poverty, ignorance, and disease. But when a man is constantly battling his fellow man as a matter of habit, he is threatened with eventual mental illness, called paranoia, or "delusions of persecution."

A simple point at which Ruth can start to help Randolph is with his sarcasm. He may not be aware of the cruelty of his remarks about others. Many angry men consider their comments humorous. "just kidding," wisecracks, wherein they are wantonly hurtful. Real humor has a certain sympathy and gentleness within it. But Ruth can remind Randolph to hold back the "jokes" which are part of his arsenal of retaliation against society.

Randolph's fear of being "taken" may need the deep probing of a therapist to bring him to the point where he no longer sees steel knuckles behind every handshake, and a wasp in every posegay. His insecurity has him viewing things upside down. It's he, more than Ruth who's in the dream world, and the dreams are distorted indeed. Else, why prize a spare camera above the goodwill of a brother?

Income Tax Explained

Designed and written for the taxpayer who is not in a position to employ the services of a professional accountant or visit an Income Tax Office.

By C. A. Miller, former Supervising Assessor, Income Tax Dept.

In this article we will deal with the widow or widower who is left with a family to support, and takes a position in order to maintain the home and keep the children together.

In order to do this the taxpayer has employed the services of a full time servant to care for the children and do the housework. This will reflect on the taxpayer's return as follows: the equivalent to married - status should be claimed on one child who is under 16 years of age and also claim the same child again for $250 in the same manner as the claim is made for the other children. The housekeeper or servant's name must be entered in the space provided on Page 2 of the Short Form tax return. The housekeeper or servant must be employed "full time."

Full time does not necessarily mean that the same housekeeper or servant be employed throughout the entire taxation year. The taxpayer could have a number of servants employed for part of the year, such as by a farmer during his busy season, or a school teacher during the school terms. The Income Tax Act distinctly states that the servant or housekeeper must be employed full time. This allowance is only made to widows and widowers and in no way relates to a married couple who employ domestic help.

Question — I am a widower with three children and as I own my home and wish to keep the family together I have a woman come in during the day to look after the children while I work. What can I claim for this servant?

Answer — You are not allowed any deduction for the servant, either in wages, paid or exemption. You may claim the equivalent on one child ($1,000) and also claim the same child again for the child's allowance of $250 if under 16; if over 16 claim $500.

Question — I am a school teacher and have two children to support as I am a widow. During the school term I leave the children in a day nursery while I am teaching. Can the day nursery be classed as a full time servant

Answer — No. You can only claim the ordinary exemption; that is married status ($5,000) as one child and the other for the ordinary child's allowance. Your maximum exemption is $2,250.

Question — Can I claim the medical expenses paid by me for my housekeeper?

Answer — No. Allowable medical expenses are those paid on behalf or dependents. A housekeeper does not qualify as a dependent.

Wright-Hargreaves Mine May Cease Operation in Year

Due Dwindling Ore Supply

TORONTO (CP)—The world-famous Wright - Hargreaves Mines Limited gold mine at Kirkland Lake may cease operation next year because of a dwindling ore supply.

Impending closure of the mine—which produced $140,200,000 in gold bullion since operating in 1921—was announced Monday by the company's annual report by president Robert C. Stanley, Jr.

The sprawling mine is the third in Kirkland Lake to announce closure in the last year. Last August, Kirkland Minerals Limited closed after 42 years. And Sylvanite Gold Mines Limited, adjacent to Wright - Hargreaves, is scheduled to suspend production in July.

Mr. Stanley said joint exploration with Sylvanite into Sylvanite ground had failed to disclose any ore of economic value.

The three mines might have closed earlier if it had not been for assistance received under the federal Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act established in 1948. The $700,000 received by Wright - Hargreaves under the act last year enabled the company to report a $332,356 profit, down from $533,000 in the previous year.

Lending of investments also helped in keeping profits up.

STAKING IN 1911

The ground that became Wright-Hargreaves was staked in 1911 by Willie Wright, founder of The Globe and Mail, and his brother-in-law, Ed Hargreaves.

Mr. Wright came to Canada from England in 1907 and spent a few dollars. It took six months in 1911 for him to raise $40 or $40 for a grub stake to take him to the Kirkland Lake rush. Then he had to borrow $1,000 more for raising sufficient capital to form the property Asset. There he turned operation over to financial backers and joined the syndicate which owned the only private millionaire in the Kirkland Lake area.

During the mine's history operations have been paid $51,382,500 in dividends. Most dividends have been paid since 1937. Few mines since 1921 have been to invest surplus funds in other enterprises.

At the end of 1960 working capital was $1,061,130 and investments in stable companies totalled $3,886,557.

At its peak Wright - Hargreaves mine was one of seven producers that produced almost 100,000,000 ounces of gold. The mine closes in 1962 only three others will remain—Macassa Mines Limited, Lake Shore and Teck-Hughes.

Cuban Rebels Hope for Wave Of Desertions

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Fidel Castro's days seem numbered as the ruler of Cuba, regardless of the success or failure of invading rebel forces.

If the invasion achieves one of its major objectives—perhaps the most important of all—it can spark a wave of desertions from Castro's forces. This could mean that Cuba might be spared a long, fratricidal civil war.

Cuban sources in Miami admit their success may hang on this factor more than any other. For them, in this respect, the invasion has been a calculated gamble.

Should the number of defections from the ranks of Castro's supporters be less than the rebels anticipate, the invasion could fail.

MIGHT DITCH FIDEL

But this would not necessarily have Fidel himself. He is rapidly developing a liability to the Communists who now dominate that island, and it is far from improbable that the Communists themselves would feel it expedient to devise some means of getting rid of him.

Fidel is not slow at blundering, which in a period of two years has helped bring the island's economy from prosperity, has got in the way of the Communists, the Cuban Communists, who noted for anything, it is for their knack of organizing the power of country-wide mass uprisings.

Cuba has received Soviet- and Czechoslovakian help, and this help now is on trial in the eyes of the rest of the world—particularly in the eyes of the rest of Latin America. For the Communists, for the Communists in Cuba get economically organized so that it can present a united front to the rest of America as a revolt against the status quo supported by a sufficient Moscow.

But technicians from the Communist bloc have been trying to whip the economy into shape and it is likely that the reported unable to cope with the whims and caprices of the "maximum leader."

Claim Gizenga Troops Accept Mobutu as Chief

BRUSSELS (AP) — The Belgian radio reported Monday night that Congolese army officers have reached an agreement placing the rebel troops of Antoine Gizenga under the authority of the central government in Leopoldville.

The Congolese Radio in Leopoldville reported that the agreement was reached at Akte, a small town in northern Oriental province.

The agreement included a general cease-fire in the smoldering civil war between the central government forces commanded by Maj.-Gen. Joseph Mobutu and the Lumumbist forces under Gen. Victor Lundula. Lundula's forces recognized Mobutu as their supreme commander.

There was no indication whether Mobutu and Lundula personally took part in the Akte meeting.

COVERS ALL OF CONGO

The report said the cease-fire covered "the whole Congo territory" and Lundula's forces "will simultaneously "acknowledged Leopoldville's authority over the (Oriental) provinces armed forces."

The agreement also stipulated that the Congolese Army would not interfere in politics and that "remaining problems will be solved at a later date. The broadcast did not indicate what these problems were.

A subsequent Belgian radio broadcast last night confirmed the reported agreement and said informed circles in Brussels believed neither Mobutu nor Lundula had authority to conclude such an agreement.

But any such agreement could exert powerful pressure on Antoine Gizenga, the political head of the Stanleyville regime, to reach an agreement with President Joseph Kasavubu.

MEETS FRIDAY

WASHINGTON (CP) — Tuesday singer Teresa Stratas met President and Mrs. Kennedy Monday at a state luncheon in honor of visiting Greek Premier Constantine Karamanlis. Miss Stratas, 22, a member of New York City's Metropolitan Opera Company, was one of 20 guests with Greek backgrounds invited to the White House luncheon.

Expect Russia To Demand UN Action on Cuba

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Russia is expected to demand today a United Nations denunciation of the United States as an aggressor against Cuba and a threat to the peace of the western hemisphere.

The demand is likely to get a cold reception from most delegations other that Cuba and the Soviet bloc.

Some delegates expressed fear that the Castro regime's charges of aggression and that Cuban invaders might lead to Russian intervention.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev threatened last year to defend Cuba with rockets if necessary but later said he had referred to rockets only in a symbolic sense.

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa will address the Assembly's main political committee and demand that the United States can carrier - based jet planes were taking part in the invasion of Cuba, including the Guantanamo naval base had been used for fighting in Oriente province.

U.S. DENIES

But U.S. delegate Adlai E. Stevenson immediately repeated the U.S. denial that American forces of any kind are taking part in the invasion.

Roa's denial that navy spokesman also issued a denial and added, "We don't even have a carrier in that vicinity."

Roa had claimed that Cuban fighters shot down a B-26 invasion plane and then went after an invading jet but two jets from a U.S. carrier came to the aid of the invading plane and covered its retreat. Roa said the incident occurred near Guano Key and claimed that the carrier was cruising off Cuba's south coast.

Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin demanded the UN should call for an end to the "military aggression" against Cuba and ban all assistance to the invaders.

TOUR RCAF STATION

AYLMER, Ont. (CP)—Members of an Ontario government committee for finding a location for the Ontario police college toured the RCAF station here Monday. Magistrate Johnson Roberts of Niagara Falls, committee chairman, said he was impressed with the facilities. The station is scheduled to be closed.

No Canadians in Cuban Struggle Have Been Harmed

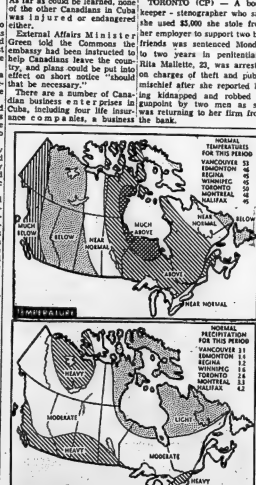
OTTAWA (CP)—No harm has come to any Canadians in Cuba as a result of the struggle now going on there, reports said Monday night.

Emergency plans have been made to get members of the Canadian colony out of Cuba should the necessity arise.

According to external affairs department records, there were 365 Canadians in the Caribbean island as of April 7. Of these 13 were on the staff of the Canadian embassy in Havana and 160 were missionaries.

Reports reaching here indicated everybody on the embassy staff was safe and well. As far as could be learned, none of the other Canadians in Cuba was injured or endangered either.

External Affairs Minister Green told the Commons the embassy had been instructed to help Canadians leave the country, and plans could be put into effect on short notice "should that be necessary."



There are a number of Canadian business enterprises in Cuba, but none near the insurance companies, a business the bank forms manufacturer and a brassiere manufacturer. Two Canadian banks, the Royal Bank of Canada and the Bank of Nova Scotia, were taken over by the Castro government last December under what were termed amicable arrangements.

Cuban Ambassador Americo Cruz called a press conference here Monday and told reporters Castro supporters would fight to the last man against the invaders.

Dr. Cruz claimed that the situation in his homeland was "under control."

GIVEN TWO YEARS

TORONTO (CP) — A bookkeeper - stenographer who said she used $5,000 she stole from her employer to support two boy friends was sentenced Monday to two years in penitentiary. Rita Mallette, 23, was arrested on charges of theft and public mischief after she reported being kidnapped and robbed at gunpoint by two men as she was returning to her firm from lunch.

WARM IN EAST — Normal and above-normal temperatures are predicted for Eastern Canada in the 30-day outlook of the United States weather office from mid-April to mid-May. Below seasonal readings are expected from Saskatchewan west.

The outlook is based on long-range predictions and is not a specific forecast. A change in weather pattern may produce major errors.

Heavy precipitation is expected in the southern Prairies and Ontario. Normal precipitation is given in inches of rain (or inches of rain equals 10 inches of snow). (CP Newsmap.)

U.S. Considers Russian Reply Unsatisfactory

WASHINGTON (CP)—Russia has agreed to the principle of cease-fire in Laos but United States officials say the Soviet reply to proposals for a truce in the Russians would be willing to discuss the cease-fire put into effect.

For this reason, they said, the Russian reply to the British cease-fire proposal of March 23 is considered unsatisfactory. Both British and American diplomats in Moscow have been instructed to press the Russians to join with Britain in calling for an immediate cease-fire as an essential prerequisite to a 14-country conference to settle the Laotian crisis.

The British government today instructed Ambassador Sir Frank Roberts to make a new appeal in Moscow for Soviet cooperation to end the dangerous Laotian situation.)

KENNEDY FRUSTRATED

So far, diplomatic discussions with Russia on bringing Laotian fighting to an end has been a matter of great frustration to President Kennedy who wants to stand up to Communist aggression and prevent them nibbling away at bits and pieces of the free world.

There is growing conviction in American official circles that Soviet Premier Khrushchev is stalling on the issue in the hope that pro-Communist forces on the ground can continue to advance and eventually take over the entire jungle country.

The pro - Red Pathet Lao forces are inching ahead daily in an apparent drive to cut the little country in two. They now are just about 30 miles from the border of neighboring Thailand in south-central Laos. Sources close to Kennedy said he feels pro-Communist forces have shown little ability to defend their cause despite a large contribution of American weapons and equipment. He also is reported to feel there is some reluctance on the part of Americans to enter into a full military engagement in Laos.

Allies of the United States have urged Kennedy to be patient. Keenly aware of the danger involved if Laos should explode into a full war, Britain has exerted all efforts to get Russia and the U.S. to agree to negotiate at the conference table.

When the Russian reply finally arrived last Sunday, it fell short of what both the British and Americans wanted.

Canada has troops on the army and civilian personnel ready to participate in a reconstituted Laos truce commission if a cease-fire is arranged.

ASKS POSTPONE

Canada proposed Monday that the United Nations postpone until fall deliberations on its financial crisis. A resolution circulated by the Canadian delegation urged that the 16th UN General Assembly—opening in September—tackle as a "matter of prime importance and urgency" the near-bankrupt condition of the world body.

Jose Miro Cardona Strong Man in Cuban Invasion Against Fidel Castro's Govt.

NEW YORK (AP)—Jose Miro Cardona, head of the anti-Castro revolutionary movement strongest in invasion of Cuba, is a gruff, scholarly lawyer who scorns tyrants.

At 59, Miro Cardona is a lecturer, heavy - set man, with a moustache and stern look behind his horn-rimmed glasses. He has been a long-time practicing lawyer in Havana, and professor of penal law at Havana University.

He was among influential opponents to the Batista dictatorship, and once hid out in a church, disguised as a priest, to escape arrest by the Batista government in 1958.

He originally had high hopes for the revolutionary Castro regime, and served during its first 45 days as Castro's prime minister.

Miro Cardona quit the prime minister's post, saying in a polite note that it should be held by Castro, "the chief of the revolution." Privately, he was said to have remarked:

"I cannot run my office while another man is trying to govern from a microphone." He went back to law practice and teaching.

FAITH CONTROLLED

However, he is outlawed to have faith in the regime, and subsequently said Castro's "He is an elaborate of the doctrine of Jose Marti (A Cuban poet) . . . a democratic and democracy, freedom, love of fellowman, and the welfare of the Cuban nation and never become a dictator."

When Castro ousted President Manuel Urrutia in mid - 1959, Castro offered the post to Miro Cardona, who declined. Later, however, he accepted the post as ambassador to Spain.

He was recalled in early 1960 after a row at a television clash in which Castro expelled the Spanish ambassador to Cuba. Miro Cardona was named ambassador to the United States.

But Castro apparently never set a date for Miro Cardona's departure, and never saw him after his return from Spain. Miro Cardona resigned July 5, 1960, and took asylum in the Argentine embassy in Havana.

Three months later, he was permitted to travel to the United States.

In his resignation he wrote: "The ideological differences between the plans of the Cuban revolution and the communist cannot be surfounded."

Engineers Urge Curbside Parking Be Banned

WINDSOR (CP) — Traffic engineers urged Monday that curbside parking in business and residential areas be banned.

Fred Weber, parking authority manager for Kitchener, told 300 delegates to the annual Ontario Traffic Conference, that accidents attributed to parked cars and needed road expansion will force an end to curbside parking by 1980.

Mr. Weber said the greatest force against the idea is the business establishment who believes curbside parking is good for business.

"It's been proved that off-street parking doesn't hurt business at all," he said, "but the businessman can't see that. Our job before curbside parking is banned is to educate the businessman."

H. Robert Burton of Toronto, president of the OTC, said the world to better driver enforcement is through youth education.

DRIVERS EARLY

"Most enforcement bureaus believe they have to get to the driver before before they get their first cars—while they are still using bicycles."

Attorney - General Kelso Roberts of Ontario suggested earlier Monday that Ontario have a probation system in driving as ambulance drivers would normally be suspended.

He said probation would apply in the case of a driver of sober habits who normally would lose his license for offences other than serious accidents.

ENGINEERS TO MEET

TORONTO (CP) — Delegates from the United States and Canada will meet here May 7-12 for the annual convention of the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers. The conference is the first outside the U.S. in 32 years.

Key Witness in Beating Working as Stable Hand

FORT ERIE (CP) — Mickey Russell, heavyweight boxer and key witness in the beating of Toronto gambler Max Bluestein said Monday he went to work at Fort Erie racetrack because he was looking for a fight in May in Sudbury.

Russell, a former doorman at Peroulo's Tavern in Toronto after a group of men beat Bluestein with iron pipes and brass knuckles in the Town Tavern March 21.

He has been working as a stablehand at Fort Erie since the beating.

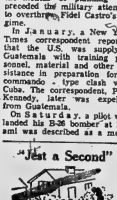
Toronto Police Chief James Marshall said a detective has been sent to the area to question Russell.

Russell said "I didn't see enough to identify the attackers."

"I'm not afraid of anybody. I came down here because I can keep regular hours and train for the fight."

At Windsor, Attorney - General Kelso Roberts Monday night blasted reports of organized gangsterism in Toronto as "humorous."

He made no direct reference but it was understood he was referring to the case of Bluestein.



"It is not so serious as all that," Mr. Roberts said a progressive Conservative rally here. The occasional symptom of organized crime but the situation is being watched.

"I can't guarantee such gangs won't ever rear their heads but crime becomes big business links with other crime in other side of the border a hotbed of violence and when it includes bribing officials, then all our dealings are brought into play, and I expect a successful conclusion."

He said press reports and the attitude of Liberal members of the legislature "would make one believe we had to rush home and lock the doors against marauding bandits."

Mr. Roberts in his fiery speech blamed the attitude of citizens for any organized crime.

It was understood he was re-

"I don't think she will fit into our neighborhood — she never has a bad word to say about anybody."

No Denial Made to Charges Money, Arms, Given Rebels

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The invasion of Cuba may make the United States an object of high suspicion in Latin America.

Officially, the United States denies it is involved in the military class along the Caribbean coastline. But there has been no specific denial or charges that American money, training, arms and equipment went into the making of planning that preceded the military attempt to overthrow Fidel Castro's regime.

In January, a New York Times correspondent reported that the U.S. was supplying Guatemala with training personnel, material and other assistance in preparation for a counter-revolutionary strike into Cuba. The correspondent, Paul Kennedy, later was expelled from Guatemala.

On Saturday, a pilot who landed his B-26 bomber at Miami was described as a member of the Castro air force who made the trip to the United States on direct orders of high Cuban immigration officials declined to divulge the name because of fear of reprisals by his family in Cuba.

RUSK TIGHT-LIPPED

But it seemed obvious to U.S. newspaper readers here Monday that Secretary Rusk about this that if the pilot had defected from a Castro plane, his full name would be known to Cuban authorities. Rusk declined to discuss the matter.

Rusk did make clear — and so did Ambassador Adlai Stevenson at the United Nations in New York — that American sympathy is with the anti-Castro forces.

To this could be added the views expressed by President Kennedy during his campaigning last fall that Cuban people oppose Castro should be given American help whether they are inside or outside the Communist country.

Kennedy has been trying to identify his government with Latin American aspirations for better life and has pledged a huge (up to $20 billion) to be shared first among those Latin American countries which show willingness to work and sacrifice for their future. The program has not yet gone into operation.

U.S. MAY SUFFER

If the invasion doesn't come soon and if Castro shows signs of being able to throw off the invaders—both on land and by Communist help—the Kennedy government may suffer a bad diplomatic blow in Latin America.

The best thing that Kennedy can hope for is quick overthrow of Castro; free elections in Cuba and restoration of friendly relations with the Caribbean island. This is the private prayer of American officials.

Sport Snapshots

By MARVIN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Despite loss of Sam Etcheverry and Hal Patterson, look for Montreal Alouettes to do a brisk business at the gate this year.

Everybody seems to be mad at the front office of the Big Four football club. But capers that have inflamed the fans have stirred interest as well.

Terry Moss, sophomore coach and general manager, speaks from the thick of the controversy with cheerful optimism.

"Our season - ticket subscriptions are running on a par with last year," he said, relaxing with a lemonade after a stiff handball match.

This would give the Als about 17,000 full-season subscribers by the May 15 deadline. Molson Stadium seats more than 26,000. Last year's attendance ranged from 20,000 to 34,000 a game.

Moss said that to his knowledge the club had no more than 15 or so letters from bitter fans cancelling their season - ticket options.

STILL CURIOUS

Typical reaction from one hard-boiled fan: "I'm not going to give them a chunk of my dough after the mess they made of things."

But he grudgingly admitted that he "just might go out to see what sort of squad they come up with, just now and again—of course."

If this attitude is fairly general, and there are indications that it might well be, then the Als can expect to pick up on game-to-game sales.

The nationwide lashed the front office for an assortment of grievances. Foremost was the deal that sent away quarterback Etcheverry and end Patterson.

Moss and owner Ted Workman were also blamed for breeding discension that flared into a near-walkout by a couple of players' last season. And there was a muddle that led to resignation of four directors for reasons still publicly undisclosed, leaving Moss and Workman alone on the board.

Looking back at last year, a third-place finish with a 5-9 record, Moss said he believes the player squabble was "inevitable."

Because of the club's weak performances and the great popularity of the men he succeeded, Doug (Peahead) Walker, Moss said, "I don't see how it could have been avoided."

WAS 'TOO RUSH'

Asked if he felt he might have taken a wrong tack somewhere, he replied: "Yes, I did. I was too nice. I gave fellows like Etcheverry and Shipp (Billy Shipp, a tackle since traded to Toronto) their head. It was a mistake."

But he added quickly that this doesn't mean he plans to crack the whip this year.

"Now I feel the conditions conducive to discension are gone. We should have a better understanding. Of course, if we don't win, I'm not going to be satisfied and the players are not going to be satisfied."

Moss said he would still like to make a deal with Hamilton for Bernie Mooney, the quarterback Als were supposed to get in the ill-fated deal that finally saw Etcheverry wind up with St. Louis Cardinals.

"But they want half our club for Bernie."

Hunting for a Canadian to fill in as punter for Etcheverry, Als also tried to get Cam Fraser from Hamilton. It didn't come off.

In another overture, Hamilton offered halfback Gerry McDougall for George Dixon, the star half, and Bobby Oliver, the tackle Montreal got from Toronto.

"I won't even say what we replied to that."

Moss plans to go with Canadian Wes Gideon and Tom Dimitroff at quarterback. Gideon was Etcheverry's understudy. Dimitroff was with Ottawa several seasons back and dropped out of football after suffering an injury.

Spurs Edge Wednesday For Title

LONDON (AP) — Tottenham Hotspur defeated Sheffield Wednesday, its nearest rival, 2 - 1 Monday night to clinch the English League soccer championship.

The victory, before 62,000 fans put Tottenham eight points ahead of Wednesday. Both teams have three more games to play.

Tottenham now needs to beat Leicester City in the English Cup final at Wembley Stadium May 6 to become the first team for 54 years to win the cup and league title, in the same season.

Irish Reach East. Finals

GUELPH, Ont. (CP)—St. Michael's College Majors advanced in the Memorial Cup playoffs Monday night with a 4-1 victory over Guelph Royals.

Majors now go into the Eastern Canada final against Montreal Beavers with the first game of the best-of-five series slated for Toronto Wednesday night.

The win also gave Majors their first Ontario Hockey Association Junior A championship since 1946. They won the best-of-seven record with one game tied.

Dennis Jordan in the Guelph net and Jerry Cheevers in Majors' goal turned Monday nights contest into a duel of goalies. Cheevers on the ice each team played in backhaney fashion.

Royals iced a team crippled by the loss of leading scorer Rod Gilbert and defenceman Reg Whaley, Al Lebrun and Billie Middleton had carried the game during the second period.

OPENING SCORING

Cole opened the scoring in the first with each side a man short by grabbing Barry Mc-Kenzie's pass and, rifling it past Jordan. Champagne put Majors ahead 2-0 midway in the second and with his team a man short Keenan netted the puck and scored on a breakaway.

Retzlaff kept Guelph's hopes alive in the third when he tapped Bob Brown's rebound past Cheevers to rob him of a shutout.

Royals pulled Jordan from the cage in the final minute but the strategy backfired when Cole shot from his own blue line and hit the empty net.

A crowd of 4,000 disappointed home fans filed out of the arena without waiting for OHA president Ken McMillan to present the John Ross Robertson memorial trophy to St. Michael's captain Terry O'Malley.

Joe Brown Cocky Over Title Bout

Brown, 35 and a veteran of 111 fights, was almost arrogant in his assessment of the fight, in which he was a 3-to-1 favorite. He looked back on his last fight against Charnley 15 months ago, decided that it was "easy" and announced that the 25-year-old Briton was due for more lessons once they stepped into the Earl's Court ring at 4 p.m. EST.

Charnley, with 36 victories in 45 fights and ranked the No. 3 challenger, admitted he was annoyed at Brown's jibes and said he had learned several things from the first bout.

Most British boxing writers, having watched the two men in training, gave Brown the nod and predicted he would keep his 135 - pound crown in the scheduled 15 - rounder. Brown has won 81 fights and packs a solid left hook.

Promoter Jack Solomons predicted a sellout crowd of 18,000 and a gate of $65,000. Brown was expected to receive about $40,000.

Lead Series 2-1

Soo Birds Upset Hull

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Sault Thunderbirds took a 3-0 lead in the Eastern Professional Hockey League finals Monday night with a 4-2 victory over Hull-Ottawa Canadiens.

Thunderbirds tied the series with a 3-1 victory Sunday in Hull, after the Canadiens won the first game on Hull ice 6-3 Thursday.

The best-of-seven final series continues tonight here and Friday night in Hull. The sixth game, if needed, will be played Sunday here and the final contest April 26 in Hull.

Fred Hilts, who scored both goals for the Sault Sunday, gave the T-Birds the lead halfway through the first period when he took a blueline pass from defenceman Pat Stapleton and put a 25-foot shot past Hull goalie J. Johnston. 2

Centre John Ottoboni again put the Sault in the lead when he hooked one under Johnston, who lost the puck after a shot by Hilts.

Rousseau scored his second goal of the night to tie the score late in the second period when he tipped in a shot by rookie Wayne Freitag.

NOTICED WIENNER

Schmeute scored the winner when he touched a puck from in close and it trickled into the corner past Johnston.

Hull playing coach Glen Skov and general manager Sam Pollock withdrew Johnston with 45 seconds remaining in the contest and defenceman Norris Goldsmond fired the clinching goal from a face-off in the Sault zone.

Schmeute and Hilts have each scored three goals for the Sault in the series. Rousseau has scored three goals for Hull, while the Canadiens won the first game on Bull ice 6-3 Thursday.

The best-of-seven final series continues tonight here and Friday night in Hull. The sixth game, if needed, will be played Sunday here and the final contest April 26 in Hull.

B.F.G took the bounce out of tires with "soft rubber." Why "soft rubber" tires? Car makers have done wonders with new suspensions, but to make the most of them, tires had to have less bounce. So B.F.G worked with car engineers to develop "soft rubber" tires. They proved so successful, that B.F.G Silvertowns are original equipment on '61 cars! "Soft rubber" smooths bumps beautifully. It's tough yet bomoo-free. So give your car a new car ride with B.F.G Silvertowns. They offer every driver more savings and safety. RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Howes and the Hulls have ceased fussin' and feudin'. The Stanley Cup is nestled down in a Hawks' sock somewhere in the Windy City. The bets have been paid and all that's left for the hockey clearing house are the Allan and Memorial Cup series.

Around the Bay of Quinte, spring, baseball, softball and lacrosse tunes are in the offing. Baseball and softball are sure starters. Spring has no set date but the "eternal" revenue's painful extraction is as inevitable as death.

Around Ontario surges of new growth and development soon be seen and heard on every hand. Pussy willows, and swelling buds, crocuses, star flowers and trilliums, squirrels popping out of winter hideaways . . . birds coming back from the south . . . streams swelling and anglers tying flies in basement and other workshops.

Softball starts here on May 22. Belleville baseball starts in Orono on the same date. On April 29 anglers will begin to test shills and tackles against the wiles of new crops of speckled, brown, Austen and rainbow trout.

Blossomtime festivals commencing about the second weekend in May will attract throngs of visitors to the Niagara Peninsula to admire the fabulous panorama of flowering fruit trees.

From mid-May at Ottawa, thousands of visitors will tour public park and parkway gardens. For two weeks more than a million Dutch tulips, including many rare varieties will be in full bloom.

From mid-June the sheltered Trent-Severn and Rideau waterways will carry cruising watercraft of all sizes up will a great many more of Ontario's quarter million lakes and uncountable streams.

On June 24, near Morrisburg, Upper Canada Village and Crysler's Farm Memorial will be officially opened. These intriguing recreations complete with authentic furnishings, accoutrements and equipment will take visitors back 100 to 150 years in history.

Ontario's home and muskellunge seasons open on July 1st. Most smallmouth bass last year came from Little Lake, Midland, with the prize-winning largemouth from near Chaffey's Locks. A lake near North Bay gave up the prize muskie.

Beginning Dominion Day harness racing fans will enjoy Sheriff night racing, new grandstands, new club houses and other facilities costing five millions at Woodbine Raceway, Toronto. Thoroughbred horse races, including the Queen's Plate, on June 17, Canadian Stakes, Oct. 21, will be run at Fort Erie, Woodbine, and Woodbine Raceway, alternately for 196 days from April 18. A record $3,900,000 in racing stakes money will be awarded this year.

Here at home the Quinte Riding and Driving Club will hold five summer meets, as well as staging an outstanding horse show.

At Picton from August 5th to 9th, the Harmsworth Trophy Races for unlimited hydroplanes will again thrill thousands. Added events included world, international and national limited inboard and outboard championships, including the Prince Edward Gold Cup.

Then there's the Canadian National Exhibition, the Stratford Shakespearean Festival and, not forgetting, Belleville's own big fair in August. Looks like quite a summer.

FISH AND GAME TONIGHT

The Belleville Fish and Game Association is entering the heating field. It seems there's a shortage of accommodation for wood ducks, which are not averse to nesting in nail kegs.

Sr. F. and G. members are requested to bring a keg or two, nail that is, at the monthly meeting at the Club Canara tonight. They will be set up as one storey apartments for the wood ducks in the Moira watershed. The keys must be empty.

There will be films and big and little drawa. Members of the Lands and Forests Department, Tweed, will be in charge of the meeting. Eight o'clock.

Cards Outslug Dodgers In 9-5 Win

Spencer Hits Grandslammer

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Perennial spring sensation Daryl Spencer is up to his April tricks again and as a result St. Louis Cardinals are first place in the National League with San Francisco Giants.

The Cardinals, with Spencer knocking in five runs with a single and a grand-slam home run, outslugged the Dodgers 9-5 in Los Angeles Monday night in the league's only scheduled game. The triumph, fourth in six starts for the Redbirds, was a birthday present for manager Solly Hemus, 39.

If Spencer could hit in August and September as in April and May, he not only would rank as one of the better hitting shortstops in the majors but could lead the Cards to a pennant. In 1960, he was batting .323 at the end of May but finished with a .258 mark. In 1959, he was .307 after six weeks and .238 at the end. In 1958, he was .246 after May and wound up batting .256.

Joe Cunningham shared honors with Spencer Monday night. The big outfielder cracked four hits, including his second homer of the season, as the Cards scored seven runs in the last two innings to overcome a 5-2 deficit.

Cunningham, now with 11 hits in 22 at-bats, started the eighth and ninth inning rallies. He doubled to open the eighth and scored on Bill White's single which sent Dodgers starter Johnny Podres to the showers. Larry Sherry took over and blanked the tying run on Stan Musial's single and the lead run on Spencer's single.

In the ninth Cunningham singled and advanced to third on two-out walks to Ken Boyer and Curt Flood. Spenter then unloaded his grand - slammer, his second homer of the campaign. Bob Gibson started for the Cards but the decision went to Bob Miller, who squelched a Dodgers rally in the seventh. Miller headed help in the form from Maury McDermott.

Two Dodgers runs came on a home run by Duke Snider, the 370th of his career; breaking a seventh - place tie with Ralph Kiner among National League leaders.

Allan Cup Contenders

Galt Rose From Ashes

GALT (CP) — It took only two years for Galt Terriers to develop from an embryo hockey club into an Allan Cup contender. For a while last fall it appeared they might never make it.

Schedule selfmission, injuries and player loans to two other touring teams illayed the Terriers' rough trail to the Ontario senior championship and a meeting with Winnipeg Maroons for the Dominion crown.

The Terriers were formed by team manager Les Gaudette as an Ontario Hockey Association senior B club prior to the 1959-60 season. "A contender in two years" was the goal.

They reached the senior B final in their first season. Last fall they threw in their lot with the new OHA Senior series, an amalgamation of senior A and B teams.

Then the trouble started. Galt was to perform in the eastern division but the other clubs—Whitby, Belleville, Welland and Oakville — withdrew and the Terriers were left without a league.

They were accepted into the western division with Windsor, Stratford, Brantford and Chatham with the proviso that they couldn't enter the regular playoffs but could take on the Dukes if they finished no lower than fourth.

They pulled out of the last-place position they occupied Dec. 28, won eight straight victories and 11 in 13 games to finish a scant two points behind first - place Windsor Bulldogs.

DISPOSED OF BULLDOGS

They disposed of the Bulldogs, Kenora-Noranda Aluettes and Amherst-Ramblers in 11 straight games and will carry a 16-game unbeaten streak into the best - of - seven series with the Maroons opening here Wednesday night.

All this was accomplished despite long injury layoffs of centre Joe Hogan and Ab Martin; the 20 - game loan of defenceman Darryl Sly to Trail Smoke Eaters in their successful world championship quest; and loans of goalie Harold (Bud) Hurley, captain Fred (Buck) Martin and Ted Mail to Chatham Maroons for their tour of Russia.

Starting the season, the Terriers had a good nucleus of holdovers from their first year —spare goalie John Reinhart, defencemen Gar Vasey, Frank Carroll and Bob Reuling, and forwards Pete Kowalchuk, Bob Gaudette, Ab Martin and Hogan. From the defunct Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen they acquired Hurley, Sly, Ray Mail and forwards Bill Wylie, Butch Martin and Bob McKnight. Defenceman Harry Neale joined from Guelph.

The highest - powered line has Wylie pivoting for Butch Martin and McKnight. In Reign, Kowalchuk and Mader the Terriers have an excellent second unit. Mader was the top scorer during the schedule and has been hitting a goal-a-game playoff clip.

Hurley had the best goals-against average in the league and allowed only 22 in the 11 playoff wins.

"The boys like him and that means a lot," says Gaudette. "His driving spirit has kept the club in high gear for two months."

The immediate problem now is to maintain the pace against the Winnipeggers who arrive here today. After the second game Friday, they move to nearby Kitchener for a Sunday game. They will go to Kitchener again the following Sunday if the series is still alive after the fourth, fifth and sixth games next Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Petes Drop Third Game To Buzzers

TORONTO (CP) — Gard Dineen's three goal performance paced Toronto St. Michael's College Buzzers to a 6-5 victory over Peterborough Canucks Monday night in the third game of the OHA Junior B semi-final.

The Buzzers, who now travel to Peterborough for the fourth and, if necessary, fifth game, lead the series 3-0.

Canucks took a first - period 2-0 lead but couldn't hold it as Crawford tied the game at 1:52 of the second. At 12:46, Dineen's first goal put the Buzzers ahead to stay.

The picture goal of the game was Dineen's final tally. Picking up a pass from linemate Seiling, Dineen lofted past the defencemen, Paul Zakos, faked a shot, then neatly pushed it into the open net after drawing Canuck goaltender Chuck Goddard well out of position.

Marlins Nip Maple Leafs In Opener

SAN JUAN (AP)—San Juan Marlins made their International Baseball League debut a successful one Monday, defeating the defending champion Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2.

A crowd of 6,627 watched the opening game of the former Miami team, now moved to Puerto Rico.

Former New York Yankee righthander Bob Grim received credit for the victory, although he needed relief help from Bob Duliba and Dean Stone. Grim and Duliba each drove in a run and outfielder John Glenn cracked a two-run - homer for the Marlins.

Toronto scored both its runs, chasing Grim in the process, in the eighth inning on a single by Tim Thompson, a pinch triple by Lou Jackson and a single by Billy Moran.

The All-Star International League clubs are scheduled to open their seasons today.

Portland Buckaroos need only one win to advance into the Western Hockey League final series against Seattle Totems.

The Buckaroos took a 5-1 lead in their best-of-five series with Arnie Schmautz, Ari Jones, Ario Goodwin, Ed Dudrych and Dale Rolfe scored for Portland.

The teams clash in the fourth game in Vancouver Wednesday night.

Resents Adams Statement

Norris Says Chihawks Will Build

CHICAGO (AP) — "I don't know whether we'll win again next year, but we'll be building to try."

The comment came Monday night from owner Jim Norris after his Chicago Black Hawks held a champagne-flowing party to celebrate their Stanley Cup victory over the Detroit Red Wings.

The Hawks whipped the Red Wings 5-1 Sunday to win the best-of-seven final series 4-2 and capture their first cup in 23 years.

Norris, who quit big-time boxing under United States congressional pressure, savored the fruits of his hockey victory in serious fashion.

DENIES STATEMENT

He snorted at a statement by Jack Adams, general manager of the Wings, that the Hawks "were carried from a dozen of capable players from every other team in the National League.

In 1954, Norris pushed through a player draft to break the monopoly of better players held by more powerful league teams.

He said it was "a malicious mean charge" that the Hawks won hockey's top honors as a result of this move.

"We spent $1,000,000 since 1957 to build the club that won the championship. If you look through the trades and switches we made, you'll see that we traded away plenty of talent.

"And study our roster. We produced our own stars such as Elmer Vasko, Pierre Pilote, Stan Mikita and Bobby Hull.

"Next year we hope to have three or four up from our farm system who will make the grade.

THEY GOT $600,000

"I agree Montreal helped us with players, but they got $600,000 for them.

"Although I conducted a lot of world champion fights—and I don't feel bitter about the outcome of my boxing efforts — I think this Stanley Cup triumph may have given me my biggest sports thrill.

"I am not naive enough to think that a world championship this year means another one next year. We need to bring up rookies to hold the pace.

"I still don't know of anybody in sports who has been able to buy a champion. You have to work at it and earn it. And we did it this year."

Moncton Not Scared By Irish

MONCTON (CP) — Moncton Beavers, a hard - working team which became the first Maritime entry in E7 years to reach the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup finals, aren't conceding anything to the OHA Junior A champions.

The Beavers defeated Trois-Rivieres Reds 2-0 in a five-game series last week for a chance to meet St. Michael's College Majors of Toronto who won the OHA title Monday night.

"There will be 15 of them and 15 of us and one puck," he says. "If we control the puck more than they do we have a good chance, but the road will be rough."

The Beavers leave by plane Wednesday for Toronto and the best - of - five series with the OHA champion.

Bosox Reveal New Geiger Counter

By JO RIECHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

It's not true the Boston Red Sox outfield consists of just the two glamour boys—rookie Carl Yastrzemski in left field and Jackie Jensen in right. They have a pretty fair centre fielder, too, in Gary Geiger.

Throughout spring training the trumpets proclaimed the exploits of Yastrzemski, the $100,000 bonus boy, and Jensen, who grabbed a $40,000 New York Yankee bonus a dozen years ago. Very little was heard about Geiger, whom the Red Sox got as a "gift" in a 1958 winter trade with Cleveland that brought Vic Wertz for Jimmy Piersall.

The Red Sox brass wasn't sure Geiger, 24, could play at all. The Amarillo, Ill., native had been sidelined with a collapsed lung. But the lanky lefthanded hitter was healthy Monday when he smashed a 400-foot home run to spark the Red Sox to a 3-2 victory over the Los Angeles Angels.

SCORED TWO RUNS

It was Geiger's third hit in nine times at bat this season, his second for extra bases. The homer came in the seventh inning off reliever Tom Morgan. In the sixth, Geiger scored the first of two Boston runs coming in on a single by Jensen, off Ike Ken McDrick. A base hooked walk by Pumpsie Green forced home the other run.

Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford were the whole works for New York as the American League's defending champions shut out Kansas City 3-0. Mantle drove in all the runs with a home run and single. He had a perfect day at the plate with another single and a walk.

Ford permitted only three singles, walked four and struck out eight. Only 1,947 fans, smallest Yankee Stadium turnout since Sept. 21, 1954, saw the Yankees get all their runs off Jerry Walker, the young right-hander acquired recently by Kansas City from Baltimore.

All other American League clubs were idle.

Tommy Umber, Red Sox right - hander, blanked the Angels until the seventh when doubles by Ted Kluszewski and pinch hitter Steve Bilko sent him to the showers. Fireman Mike Fornieles took over and held the Sox scoreless. Pinch hitter Albie Pearson's homer in the ninth accounted for the Angel's final run. The victory was Boston's second in three games.

The Yankees were held to only seven hits, five by Walker before he left for a pinch hitter in the eighth. Walker, 23, was wild in his first appearance, walking six. Two of the walks were issued to Yogi Berra, each resulting in a run.

Did It for 'Kicks'?

LEO DOES SOME KICKING — Coach Leo Durocher (No. 2) of the Los Angeles Dodgers engages in a bit of kicking with veteran umpire Jocko Conlan in Los Angeles following a fourth inning beef in the Dodgers-Pirates ball game. It started when Norm Larker of the Dodgers hit a high popup that landed fair halfway between home and first base, then bounced foul. Conlan called it a foul—Leo and the Dodgers objected. Leo was thrown out of the game. The catcher is Hal Smith. (AP Wirephoto).

"Lip" Draws Suspension

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sitting out a three-day suspension for kicking umpire Jocko Conlan in the shins, Dodger coach Leo Durocher wasn't even in Coliseum as Los Angeles set to St. Louis Cardinals in their series opener Monday night.

Durocher and Conlan became involved in a heated exchange of words after a pop-up in the fourth inning by Dodger first baseman Norm Larker, in Sunday's game against Pittsburgh Pirates. The ball landed in fair ground, then bounced foul.

Conlan called it a foul and decided Durocher's accusation that the ball first hit Pittsburgh catcher Hal Smith's glove.

In the heat of argument, Conlan ordered Durocher to the showers. Leo kicked Jocko and he replied with a kick of his own. They exchanged two boots apiece.

National League president Warren Giles later ordered Durocher's suspension, to expire Wednesday night.

CONTACT IS CAUSE

Giles reminded Durocher in a telegram that any kind of intentional body contact with an umpire during an argument is cause for suspension.

Meanwhile, third baseman Don Hoak of the Pirates was suspended Monday for three days because of his second altercation of the season with umpire Ken Burkhart.

Last Thursday Hoak vigorously disputed a strike call by Burkhart when the Pirates were playing at San Francisco against the Giants. Hoak was tossed out of the game and later fined $50.

Burkhart was umpiring at third base when the Pirates played the Dodgers at Los Angeles Saturday night. Jim Gilliam of the Dodgers was called safe at third after hitting a ball to the outfield. Hoak charged after the umpire but was restrained by teammates. He was ejected from the game.

Ted Batchelor Wins Hoop Scoring Title

Teddy Batchelor of the first-place Belleville Crawford Metals captured the Bay of Quinte Basketball League scoring championship by a comfortable margin, according to official figures released this week.

Batchelor totaled 731 points in the 26-game schedule, finishing 73 points ahead of teammate and runner-up Bert Faulkner. Faulkner had 658 points while Max Wooley of the Belleville Tradesmen was third with 407 points.

Matthews Signs With Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Stanley Matthews, the ageless soccer great, has signed a contract to play this summer with Toronto City of the Eastern Canada Professional Soccer League.

Club president Steve Stavro said Matthews, 46, will arrive from England May 3 to prepare for the opening of the newly-formed league in the middle of the month. Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

Matthews plays outside right for Blackpool United of the English First Division in the regular season, from late summer to early spring.

Toronto City has also signed George Younger, the Scottish international, as coach and emergency goalkeeper for the 1961 season.

Other terms in the new professional league are Toronto Italia, Hamilton Steelers and Montreal Castalia.

Verdi's Aida On CBC Radio

Verdi's opera Aida, performed by the Toronto Mendelssohn Choir, the Toronto Symphony Orchestra and soloists, conducted by Walter Susskind, will be broadcast Wednesday night.

The program will be heard on CBC radio's Trans-Canada net. (CBL) beginning at 8.30 p.m.

Soloists taking part are: Gloria Davy as Aida; Charles O'Neill as Radames; Jan Rubes as Amonasro; Frances Bible as Amneris; Charles Ludgin as King of Egypt.

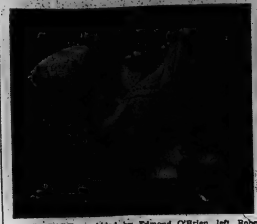
The opera will be given in a concert version prepared in 1950 by Sir Malcolm Sargent in which the number of soloists is reduced to five from the original eight.

Gloria Davy made her Metropolitan Opera debut in the role of Aida and is a winner of the Marian Anderson Award.

Charles O'Neill also made his operatic debut in Aida and in 1957 won first prize in the Metropolitan Opera auditions.

Canadian baritone Jan Rubes is well known through his appearances on Songs of My People and with the CBC and other Canadian Opera companies.

Mezzo - soprano Frances Bible has appeared with the San Francisco, New York City and Glyndebourne opera companies and Charles Ludgin is leading baritone of the New York City Opera company.



In 1871 Giuseppe Verdi, famous and wealthy at the age of 58 might have been thinking of retirement, but any thoughts he had in that direction were changed by the Khedive of Egypt.

The Khedive wanted Verdi to write an opera in honor of the opening of the Suez Canal. After considerable badgering he got his opera: Aida. It was given its first performance on Christmas Eve, 1871, in Cairo.

Decathlon Champion Turns To Acting for a Career

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP). — Bob Mathias is going after an acting career with the same determination with which he won two Olympic decathlon championships.

"I think I can act," he says. "Now I'm making progress at it. Producers used to ask that age-old question: 'What have you done?' Now I can tell them what I've done: "I've had starring roles in four features' pictures and starred in a television series."

Mathias quit his job with a construction firm to concentrate on acting.

He'll soon be seen in two films that may help determine his fate. One is The Minotaur, which he made for an Italian company.

PLAYS THESEUS

Mathias plays Theseus in the picture, which naturally made use of his physique. But he has no plans to muscle into the Steve Reeves realm.

"I'm not built that way," he says. "I've got the biceps, but they don't show.

"I'm not interested in the muscle - type picture, anyway. There are five weight-lifters, including Reeves, who do those pictures in Italy. They're somewhat limited. They can't even walk straight because their thighs rub together, and they can't raise their arms over their heads. They need doubles for a scene of climbing a wall."

Mathias was signed to do another film in Italy with Rhonda Fleming. "But she got married to Lee Jeffries and insisted that he take my role," he adds. "It didn't bother me; I got paid for it."

He went on to Greece to make an American film, It starred in Athens, about the first modern Olympic Games.

County TB Association Had Successful Year

PICTON — Prince Edward County Tuberculosis Association annual meeting at Maple Inn was featured by an outstanding address by Picton native Miss Margaret Cahoon, Reg. N., associate Professor at the School of Hygiene, University of Toronto; encouraging reports by chairman of committees; election of officers.

Representing Ongwanada San. at Kingston were W. D. Stewart and Dr. George Danilow who spoke briefly and commended the local association on its work.

President Howard Syde expressed appreciation for the support accorded him during his two years in that office. He spoke of attending the CTA and CCTA conference in Ottawa and expressed appreciation to all who had again helped in making an increase in Seals givings. He specially mentioned the work of Mrs. Ed. Allan, secretary, sales chairman Phil Dodds, treasurer Basil Foreman, the ladies who helped in many ways and the executive for their co-operation. We have reason to be proud of our record, he felt.

The minutes were read by vice-president Calvin Hughes.

Guest speaker, Miss M. Cahoon was introduced by P. Dodds who stated the county is proud to learn that a distinguished native has been granted a fellowship which will enable her to visit health education centres in seven countries in Europe, as well as in England and Scotland." He felt this fellowship recognized "a leader in the field of public health and one who has demonstrated those qualities of ability and leadership which can be used for the benefit of others." He recalled that Miss Cahoon started her career in this field as a Public Health Nurse in Picton.

Thanks of the gathering to Miss Cahoon were voiced by Reeve Ken Wood of Hillier.

REPORT ON FINDINGS

Reporting on case findings, Dr. W. N. Turpel, M.O.H. stated there had been 350 county people X-rayed in Belleville and 837 in Picton. Three new cases of TB had been discovered. Five cases had moved into the county. Four persons had been admitted to the San., three had diagnosis changed to no disease, four had moved out of the county, one death had occurred in the San.

Records back were given 350 students in Grades 9, 10 and 13, Persons numbering 26 who had been in contact with new cases were X-rayed.

OVER THE TOP

Prince Edward County again went "over the top" in the Christmas Seal campaign, it was reported at the annual meeting.

W. D. Stewart, treasurer of Ongwanada San at Kingston, and an officer of the Provincial Association, said the county association is to be commended on the record as it was among the few in Ontario that had exceeded its previous year's total.

Treasurer Basil Foreman in giving the financial report, announced returns for 1946 as $4,104.13, compared to $4,033.85 in 1959 and $3,609.70 in 1958. He included in the statement the sum of $1,635.15 set aside for a mass X-ray to be held in 1963.

Chairman of the Seals Sales committee, Phil Dodds, said that the record was all the more notable due to the less helpful economic picture and the loss of army personnel who had always been good supporters. He gave much credits to the executive secretary, Mrs. Ed Allan, who by extra effort, had done much to put the campaign over. Some 2,086 persons made donations for seals to help fight TB.

A total of 12,338 letters with seals enclosed and messages had been sent, not including receipts for donations. Thanks was expressed to the ladies who assisted in preparing the mailings, typists, agricultural office for use of the board room, the postmaster and staff, treasurer Basil Foreman and staff, the Bank of Montreal who had handled the incoming donations and recorded them, the local newspapers and CJBQ for generous publicity, and to donors.

Appreciation was also expressed to Howard Cyde for his interest and help during the past two years.

SOCIAL SEATION

Also reporting for social service and rehabilitation, Mr. Dodds paid tribute to Dr. W. N. Turpel, MOH, and staff of the health unit. Through their efforts, great strides are being made not only in detection of TB but in improving all health standards in the county. The health unit is now looked upon by the public as a real asset, he said.

The association remembers TB patients with gifts(donations to aid them during convalescence until they are able to work, secures employment for ex-patients, provides treats for visits to the San by Mrs. Allan.

Extra educational campaign is carried on through the distribution of literature, bookmarks and coloring charts sent to schools.

"Prince Edward County is a TB-free area as far as cattle are concerned. We look forward to the day when Dr. Turpel will be able to say 'there is no human being in Prince Edward with TB.' Until that day comes, we must continue the fight against TB," Mr. Dodds concluded.

Astrological Forecast

By CAROLYL RIGHTER
Wednesday, April 15, 1963.

General Tendencies: So many opportunities are present today for you to have a new chance to bring former interests and also an opportunity to present up-to-date projects to those able to help you get ahead quickly that not a moment of this precious day should be lost in ineffectiveness. Be sure you do something about it or the day will be wasted.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) You have a fine chance now to garner the information you require at this time so that you may have greater success in the future. Travel, if necessary. Later, confer with associates. P.M. is fine for relaxing at hobbies with pals.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) The right day to have conferences with the financial or business experts you prefer so that you can make plans for expansion which will lead to increasing income appreciably. Be specific in stating your plans and desires.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) There is a fine opportunity now for you to discuss your future plans with good friends and get their ideas and advice. Later, visit your barber or beautician and get in the pink of condition. Attend that special social function in P.M.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) Any private talks with associates that will lead to better business relations in the future are fine today and early this evening. Then tonight is ideal for going out to the cultural pursuits you most enjoy. Take a good friend with you.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you are expansive with good friends in the higher brackets an state your longings and desires, they will be instrumental in seeing that you attain them. Be sure you attend some nice social function in P.M. and be very charming.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) You have every opportunity now to confer with an expert of wide experience who will give you the best advice for attaining your ambitions. Be sure you get your credit rights and then look into these new outlets seriously.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Listen carefully to the good suggestions of a new friend today without being critical or pessimistic, which is sometimes your failing. Widen your circle of friends, too, for best results.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can handle all property and security affairs very efficiently today and also have a better understanding with, loved one, so get an early start and be sure your timing is good. Set up a schedule of activities.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Associates will give you added cooperation today and greater harmony can be achieved in your corporate ventures. They are more amenable to your viewpoints and ideas now than they have been in the past. Be courteous, kind.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Improve fellow workers with ideas fine, constructive ideas you have that will make your labors easier and work more efficient. Tonight is fine for taking the health treatments you need and prepare for greater success.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You get many inspiring and constructive ideas today, so be sure you write them down in order to commercialize on them later and so that you do not forget. Get out tonight to the social affairs where you meet worthwhile people.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) A good day to give your surroundings a thorough going over and add new touches of color an art to improve comfort and beauty. Also, strive to create more harmonious relations with those living under your roof.

If your child is born today .. he, or she, will be one of those rare individuals who can quickly adjust himself to any conditions or sudden change an for this reason would make a fine sales person, since there will be a quick understanding of others. Be certain you give your progeny, since the mind is then possible, since the mind is very keen and the will to work is great — the finest combination that leads to success.

CHILD FOR ADOPTION

ANDY — wouldn't be in a foster home if it weren't for a tragic death in his own family. His natural parents loved him, which undoubtedly has helped him adjust to his difficult situation. We think ANDY could still be successfully adopted even though he is now twelve. Physically, he is small for his age, has a fair build, dark hazel eyes and a light brown hair, ion with freckles. From all indications, ANDY has normal intelligence. It is very important that this little youngster develop more confidence and a better opinion of himself. He needs you to help him. We invite enquiries from Roman Catholic couples. Write:

on how documents in the state's case against Eichmann were assembled. He said the documents were examined for authenticity and included those captured archives of the German foreign office. Chief Justice Moshe Landau ruled they could be admitted as evidence.

When he finally came to the end of his statement, Hausner said:

"Adolf Eichmann knew what he was charged with.

"He was the pivot of the criminal conspiracy to exterminate the Jewish people totally or in part, and he was party to the crimes of murder, plunder, torture and execution.

"Adolf Eichmann will enjoy a privilege which he did not accord to a single one of his victims, the right to defend himself.

"And the judges of Israel will pronounce a true and righteous judgment on him."

SIMILAR PATTERN

The pattern in each Nazi-occupied country was much the same.

First, the enactment of law that not only deprived the Jews of ordinary civil rights but even forbade them the use public transportation, ride bicycles, or use the telephone.

Expropriation of their property immediately followed. And then, as "the final solution of the Jewish problem" moved into its last stage, the deportations to death camps began.

Eichmann paid high tribute to the people and governments of Holland, Italy, Denmark, Norway and Sweden, for each, he said, the authorities opposed the Nazis' anti-Jewish program and people risked their lives to hide Jews and then to smuggle them to safety.

TALE OF HORROR

The prosecution's accounts of the death camps were horrifying.

He spoke of Maidanek—18,000 dead in one day, "The Maidanek gas chamber for large-scale extinction. . . . On rainy and stormy days, Jews were driven from the camp to eat their meals in the open. . . . On Sundays, the SS men had 'fun'; a galoncer who could not run, who lost a wooden shoe who stumbled, was immediately shot."

"You will hear the evidence," he said, "of a woman who clung to her child, even under lashes of the whip, AN SS guard snatched it from her arms, smashed its head, and handed the bleeding body back to the mother with the words, 'Now, take your child.'"

He said there were instances when Eichmann was present by the bare hands of the guards. "Mothers went mad," he cried.

Then came the ghastly colloquy of figures of the dead:

Treblinka—750,000.
Eichmann—"Still solely for germination?"—300,000.
Sobibor—250,000.
Eichmann—"Also?"—200,000.
Auschwitz—"The worst of them all"—2,000,000.

GIVEN CANDY

"Only once were children treated with kindness in Maidanek. At the entrance to the gas chamber each was handed a candy."

The 33 - year - old prisoner stood erect and tired in court and seemed not to have visited the sick since his trial began a week ago.

Members of the audience wept openly as Hausner described "the gruesome end of Eichmann's murder campaign" in the closing days of the march of thousands of Hungarian Jews in 1944.

There were about 800,000 Jews then living in Hungary, the largest remaining one in the Nazi orbit with a considerable Jewish population, Hausner said, although 437,402 were sent to death camps.

Eichmann organized the 125-mile march "ostensibly to speed up labor camps, but in fact with the sole purpose of murder," Hausner declared.

"Such was the horror of it that even Hungarian gendarmerie and Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler even reprimanded Eichmann.

Thousands died walking in rain, snow and cold weather, the prosecutor said. Guards killed all who could not keep up. Ragged, hundreds collapsed and others dropped from hunger because their food was only bread and hot water every two days.

Eichmann's "satanic plans" for the annihilation of Hungarian Jews were delayed only even as Eichmann pretended to negotiate a "blood for goods" deal with Hungarian Jewish leaders Joel Brand and Israel Kastner, Hausner said.

The deal, described in Brand's book Desolate Transport Will be revealed, [illegible] Kastner [illegible] Trivet Canal between Peterborough and Port Hope.

Plans, specifications and other tender documents may be examined at the office of the Superintendent, Peterborough Area Project, Parliament Federal Bldg., Peterborough, Ont., and a certified cheque for $25.00 will be made by each contractor to the Receiver General of Canada. Plans and specifications will also be on file at the Builders' Exchanges at Peterborough, Oshawa, Lindsay, Belleville, Cobourg.

all SCAF Interceptor squadrons with the exception of the one at Comox, B.C.; several United States Air Force interceptor squadrons in Maine, Newfoundland and Labrador; and one of the two Bomarc squadrons of 30 missiles each at North Bay and La Macaza, Que.

Into the centre will be fed information from the SAGE radar belts. From it Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles can be launched and fighter planes directed to the enemy.

A year ago there was a move in the United States to save money by building these SAGE combat centres above ground.

However, former defence minister Pearkes insisted that the SAGE centre will be underground for better protection.

It is believed that nearly all SAGE centres will be underground. The Duncan Lake RADE site is the only one in Canada.

Informants said that when the northern NORAD region headquarters moves to North Bay, RCAF Air Defence Command Headquarters will remain at Metro Toronto.

How many Canadian interceptor squadrons the Trout Lake centre will command is not known, remains in doubt. Four CF-100 squadrons will be disbanded by the end of 1961 at Chatham, N.B., Que., and one each at Ottawa, Ont., and Comox, B.C.

The RCAF hopes these five remaining squadrons will be equipped with Bomarc missiles, personnel at Falls Interceptor believe that what is to be disbanded.

Originally NORAD was to have 11 regular, five of them international. It is understood that the 11 have been reduced to nine but the boundaries of these are secret.

down 10% to 26 with Liberals and CCF providing the votes in favor.

Earlier, a battery of Liberal supporters had tried to have the vote taken by roll call. They were roasting and two into Mr. Fleming's speech.

J. W. Pickersgill (Lib — Bonavista - Twillingate) called Mr. Fleming "the worst Finance minister in living memory."

Minister Finance Charles William L. Dodd defended the legislation provides the government with an opportunity "to end the ministerial hiking of effective tariff rates to monstrous levels."

Mr. Benidickson, from Kenora-Rainy River, said the government is trying to do by indirect means what it has no authority to do directly.

"It is an indication that support of the government was lacking."

COOPERATE LIBERALS

CCF Leader Argue said his group supports the Liberal concept of tariffs but that it has had pieces of legislation "repugnant to the democratic system" because it shows the contempt to the courts on tariff decisions.

The fate of the council after Prime Minister Diefenbaker made an appeal for a speedup in the passage of the bill.

Mr. Diefenbaker saw little hope that the current session would end by the end of April prorogation. It might be well into September, he thinks summer recess around July 15 to give members a chance to vacation with their families before tackling the rest of the legislative business.

ary Council which organized the invasion, was believed at one ready to land in Cuba and proclaim a provisional government once a beachhead is secure, the strength of the invading forces was a secret kept from George Smathers, Florida Democrat, said he believed those fighting Castro "at the present moment" numbered not more than 5,000.

The Cuban rebel revolutionary Council in New York said the invasion was "largely a supply and support effort to forces which have been mobilized and trained inside Cuba. . . ."

The council said rocket instructions had gone out to "our partisans in every town and village in Cuba."

Capt. Manuel Artime, 29, a right-wing member of the anti-Castro coalition, was reported in command of the invasion forces. But the anti-Castro leaders have secret their complete plans for the invasion of Cuba.

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa charged in the United Nations that the invaders set out from Florida in three vessels. Both the United States and Guatemala denied the charges.

Ottawa Lays Plans to Take More Money From Tourists

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP) — The capital is putting on its best bib and tucker to attract a capricious visitor with a purse full of money—the tourist.

Thousands of flowers, bright uniforms and a colorful shopping mall are combining to make this city second only to Niagara Falls as a Canadian tourist attraction.

"Tourism is becoming our principal industry," says Dan McClymont, head of the board of trade. The city, the board and the federal government are doing their best to keep it that way.

Biggest attractions are the giant tulip festival May 15-30 and the daily changing of the guard on Parliament Hill July 2 to Sept. 3.

A major attraction of these crowds and dozens of others is that they are free.

The tourist doesn't have to pay a cent to see the 1,000,000 tulip blooms, watch the red-coated guards or visit the Parliament Buildings, the Royal mint where all of Canada's silver money is made, the National Gallery, archives and museums.

MORE SPENDING MONEY

"Because there are all these free things to see, the tourist can spend an extra dollar for a meal and buy two ties instead of one to take home."

The tulip festival, born of a gesture from a grateful Queen Juliana of The Netherlands, gives Ottawa one of the earliest starting summer tourist seasons in the country. It will be officially opened May 19 this year by Livingston T. Merchant, United States ambassador to Canada, in a ceremony made colorful not only by the flowers but by band music, a cluster of diplomatic, federal and civic officials and a girls' choir.

While the Ottawa ceremonies are being carried out a messenger will deliver a bouquet of tulips to Queen Elizabeth in London.

The festival season actually starts early in April with the blooming of some 350,000 crocuses dotting the 30-odd miles of driveways and sprinkled across the lawns of Parliament and National War Memorial.

STARTED IN 1953

These are followed by 1,000,000 daffodils. One bed in suburban Rockcliffe Park has 750,000 flowers. The tulips follow, beginning their best from May 15 on. There are 1,000,000 tulips, with the biggest bed of 121,000 at picturesque Dow's Lake in south Ottawa.

"It's going to be the best festival ever," says Gerald Geldard, the city's tourist director. Mr. McClymont predicts the blooms will be seen by 100,000 persons.

History of the festival, started in 1953, is almost as colorful as the blooms.

The Queen of The Netherlands who as Princess Juliana stayed in the capital during the Second World War, sent the city 20,000 tulip bulbs when she returned to Holland — and pledged another 13,000 a year throughout her reign.

An estimated 250,000 persons watched the changing of the guard ceremonies in its 10-week run last summer, Patterned after the traditional ceremony at Buckingham Palace, 91 footgear red-coated and bearskin-topped soldiers of the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Guards, performing precision drill on the Parliament Hill lawn.

Ottawa's Sparks Street mall could also be credited with attracting tourists to the capital—although some of the merchants on the street will tell you that its inaugural last summer wasn't a financial success.

The mall, a pedestrian promenade along three blocks of the busy street, will be tried again this summer against the objections of a minority of the street's merchants.

Last year traffic was diverted and the street dressed up with sidewalk cafes, a play area, a fish pond, colorful benches and potted trees and flowers.

Plans still are being studied for this year's venture, to cost some $25,000.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

EYELIDS

Eyes are absolutely essential to a bird — apparently more important than a brain. We can only see part of their eyes. The reminder takes up so much room in the skull that there is not as much space left as, we humans would consider necessary for a brain. The eyes of large owls and hawks are particularly big and rigid so, because these birds depend so much upon good eyesight. In order to eat, and live. Owls hunt by night when the only light is come from a few stars in the heavens; and hawks flying at great height watch for small rodents on the ground far below.

Both of these birds make good use of their third eyelid, which is a very thin membrane that can, at will, be pulled from the corner some what obliquely across the eye as a protection against strong light. Possibly you have come upon an owl sitting asleep on a branch in broad daylight. If we disturb the bird in its slumbers it will open its big, round, yellow eyes to look at us, then quickly draw the thin curtains because the bright sunshine is too dazzling for its extremely sensitive eyes. When the owl thus shuts out the strong light from first one eye and then the other in its efforts to see us yet save its eyesight, we get the amusing effect of an owl winking.

KEEPS OUT GLARE

When flying high up and right into the sun's rays the hawk uses its third eyelid, sometimes called nictitating membrance to keep out the glare. How unfortunate that a motorist cannot do this!

One difference between the workings of a bird's eyelids and ours is that when our eyes shut the upper lids come down, but a bird's lower lids go up to cover the eyes.

The sora rail is one of a number of birds already covered with down when leaving the shell. As soon as dry, the baby follows its mother to the marsh. Consequently Mother Nature has arranged that the rail is born with eyes open. Hawks, too, begin life with down on them and open eyes, But owls do not get their eyes open wide until older than most birds.

Like kittens, our songbirds are born with their eyes shut, and not until several days later do they open up, depending upon the species on the rate at which it matures. A redwinged blackbird nestling does not open its eye until five days old.

REBEL PLANES BOMB HAVANA AT NIGHT

'Keep Out' U.S. Bluntly Warns Nikita On Cuba

Russian Intervention Would Meet With Force

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy has bluntly warned Soviet Premier Khrushchev to keep out of the Cuban fight or face the prospects of a Caribbean showdown with American troops.

In a diplomatic exchange bristling with threats and challenges, Kennedy Tuesday night threw his moral support behind the Cuban rebels and rejected Khrushchev's demand that he attempt to halt the invasion.

Stating again that the U.S. has no intention of military intervention in the Cuban crisis, Kennedy said nevertheless that Americans do not conceal their admiration for Cuban "patriots" who are trying to overthrow Fidel Castro.

Denouncing Khrushchev's claim that eventually the world will turn completely Communist, Kennedy maintained the world movement is toward freedom and the U.S. government "can take no action to stifle the spirit of freedom."

Khrushchev had warned that the Soviet Union is so resolved "we shall render the Cuban people and their government all possible assistance" and he hesitated back the armed attack on Cuba.

KENNEDY WARNS

Kennedy shot back: "In the event of any military intervention by outside force, we will immediately honor our obligations under the Rio Treaty of American (Latin) system to protect this hemisphere against external aggression."

To qualified Western observers at a cocktail party reception in Washington, the atmosphere between the U.S. and Russia reminded them of the cold war fury that followed discovery of an American U-2 spy plane over Russia and ended in the shattered summit conference in Paris last year.

They cautioned against speculation that the current bitter exchange between Khrushchev and Kennedy would lead to an open military conflict. They reasoned that Khrushchev would not risk sending an armada to Cuba to challenge U.S. naval might in spite of his blustering. Havana is a long way from Moscow.

CANCELS VISIT

But they suggested the bitter-sweet Russian exchange could name calling and fist - shaking. The cold war had intensified. Kennedy personally before the sudden cancellation by Prince Philip of his scheduled state visit to Canada. Kennedy was expected to confer with Khrushchev at his Soviet Black Sea resort. Kennedy said he would be giving a speech in Georgia on the projected new arrival date and asked the prince to come to Washington. But he had completed all his Russian meetings. The prince said he wanted to get back to Ottawa for meeting in Washington was off.

Meanwhile, some American authorities were reported as

LONG, BITTER DEBATE TO ALTER TARIFF LAW ENDS

Opposition Said Harming Economy

OTTAWA (CP)—The long and bitter debate on a government proposal to revise the tariff law branched into new avenues of dissension Tuesday in the Commons.

The detour was opened by Trade Minister Hees when he charged that the Liberal and CCF parties prefer to see workers in other countries getting jobs that Canadians might be holding.

He also accused them of harming the Canadian economy by painting a "false picture of gloom and doom."

Similar charges by speakers vigorously denied the charges, described by Opposition Leader Pearson as the trade minister's "usual sermon, variations on an old theme."

The opposition also restated some of their own charges: That the government was attempting to assume arbitrary tariff-fixing powers and promoting a protectionist measure. There was also a suggestion that the measure is designed dragging its feet on the issue of how to deal with European economic trading blocs."

Under consideration for the Nassau meeting is the reduction of sporadic devaluation—was a government-by-crisis attitude reminiscent of a class or kind made in Canada as dealt with in the tariff law. Such goods carry a higher rate of duty when imported than goods not made in Canada.

GETS COMMITTEE OK

Just before the House rose Tuesday night, the bill was reported out of committee of the whole following clause-by-clause study, and was received only third reading.

This was scheduled for today.

Second reading — approval in principle — was given the bill after a heavy day. The vote was 141 to 54, with the Liberals and Social Credit voting against. It followed defeat by the same vote of a CCF amendment proposing that the measure be held for six more months.

Three times in committee the government was forced to marshal its voting forces to turn back amendments. These were aimed mainly at destroying a provision in the bill under which Revenue Minister Nowlan would be granted certain discretionary powers.

The government accepted one opposition amendment that decisions made by the revenue minister be published without delay in the Canada Gazette.

Mr. Hees said the Liberals had given their opposition to the measure had demonstrated that they want foreign producers to be able to sell as cheaply possible to get their products into Canada to the detriment of duty and so take orders which should be providing jobs for Canadians.

DIFFERS ON ISSUE

Mr. Pearson said the issue was not whether there was to be transfer of arbitrary powers to the government. "That is the day."

Murdo Martin (CCF — Timmins) said the countries of Western Europe don't have an unemployment problem "as we have in Canada. We have a . . . it is in Canada that we

Castro's Radio Claims Only One Landing Is Made

Yugoslav Paper Says Rebel Forces Contained

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Rebel planes struck at Havana during the night, bringing the Cuban capital under the first gunfire reported there since anti-Castro exiles launched their invasion of the Caribbean island.

Heavy gunfire was heard in the capital but conflicting reports came on the extent of the raids.

A diplomat inside Havana reported that an aircraft passed over the city at 8:15 p.m. and came under heavy fire. The diplomat talked by telephone with Associated Press correspondent Bem Price at the big naval base at Guantanamo Bay, in southeastern Cuba.

"All is quiet (in Havana) for the present," the diplomat said. He added he had no information on what is going on in the rest of Cuba.

A Cuban insurgent station on Swan Island off Guatemala said Havana was bombed twice Tuesday night with three planes —two of them B-26s — making one strike at Camp Libertad, the big Cuban army headquarters on the fringe of the capital. Details of the other attack were not given.

NEW LANDINGS DENIED

(A broadcast this morning by the Cuban radio termed "lies" rebel claims of landings in northern Matanzas province east of Havana.

The broadcast also denied that fighting had taken place in Havana or that the rebels were deserting to the invaders. It also said a B-26 aircraft bombed the San Antonio de los Banos airbase Tuesday night, dropping one bomb. It said the pilot then headed for Miami.

A Cuban government broadcast early today announced that two Americans were shot dead by firing squads which also killed seven Cubans. The Americans were identified as Howard Anderson and Angus McNair.

Information on the progress of the invasion and Castro's defence against it is still very sketchy, with neither the government nor the rebel command announcing much communications with Western newspaper offices in Havana still open.

The Cuban government radio said fighting is continuing in the Escambray province, where the rebels are believed to have made their main landing in the province.

A correspondent for the Yugoslav newspaper Politika reported from Havana that a invasion force of about 3,000, "armed with tanks and heavy and light arms of American production and under protection of airplanes . . . are now trying to advance trying to broaden the original bridgehead in the province of Las Villas, on the southern coast of Cuba."

Says Negro Used Deceit to Obtain S. Africa Visa

CAPE TOWN (Reuters)—External Affairs Minister Eric Louw complained Tuesday that a Canadian Negro, Sydney Williams of Toronto, "grossly deceived" South African officials to obtain a visa to visit South Africa.

Louw told the House of Assembly that Williams had given the impression he was not unsympathetic to South Africa's apartheid color policy and had stated that he wanted to see "the other side of the picture."

Williams, former executive secretary of the Canadian Association for the Advancement of Colored People, called for intervention by the United Nations in South Africa after a four - week study tour of the country last month.

Louw said the South African government paid for a flight for Williams to Johannesburg from Cape Town, and also provided motor transport for him in the two cities.

"It soon became clear from the aggressive attitude adopted by Williams and also from his ill-mannered behavior while in the Union that he had grossly deceived the Union's immigration commissioner in Ottawa in order to secure the necessary permission to visit South Africa," Louw said.

$50,000 Worth Of Diamonds, Gems Taken

MONTREAL (CP)—Two gunmen held up a midtown wholesale firm Tuesday and escaped with $50,000 worth of diamonds and other gems.

The gunmen, disguised as employees of a protective alarm system company, entered the offices of the Amsterdam Diamond Company shortly before noon.

Owner David Piotnick told police he and two other men, jeweler Isadore Kaufman and Paul Diamond, a salesman in the office department, were in a private inner room when the outside buzzer sounded.

He said he let the pair into the reception room door is normally baffled and has a one-way mirror, because he thought they were from the alarm company.

Once inside the men drew guns and one said to Piotnick, "We know you're married and have two children so don't make any trouble and you won't get hurt."

They then handcuffed Piotnick and Kaufman together and tied Duhamel to a chair with a gag over his mouth.

The gunmen, unmasked but wearing dark glasses, then spent a half-hour ransacking two safes and several cabinets.

Cannot Claim Clean Hands In Murder of Jews by Nazis Declaration by Eichmann

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — Adolf Eichmann conceded in tape-recorded confession played here today that he could not honestly be held clean hands in the murder of millions of Jews by the Nazis.

"Perhaps I ought to hang myself in public in order that all the civilized world in the world should have the terrible character of these events emphasized to them," said the man on trial for the murder of 6,000,000 Jews.

An electrified court heard Eichmann's recorded voice declare: "I know I may face a death sentence. I cannot claim mercy because I am not deserving of it."

Yet, in the extracts of Eichmann's pre-trial statement played back in today's four-hour session, Eichmann portrayed himself as an underling taking orders, a man who could not stand the sight of blood, who could not sleep after seeing truckloads of women gassed and who worried because young Germans were growing up to be cruel."

The court adjourned until Friday for Israeli Independence day.

Eichmann said he is "prepared to atone personally for the terrible things" that occurred.

In support of its charges that Eichmann was the operational director of the Nazi plan to exterminate Europe's Jews, the prosecution began replaying extended excerpts from tape recordings of the pre-trial interrogation.

Eichmann said that before his death he would like to write a book. He said he wanted the younger generation to know what happened in Nazi Germany and the reasons for it.

Eichmann said he nearly fainted when he was forced to witness Jews being gassed to death in the Nazi extermination camps.

"I couldn't look . . . I tried to avert my eyes from the sight . . . I was too appalled to look," he said in describing his reactions the first time he saw Jews put to death.

Eichmann also said:

1. The order for the physical extermination of the Jews, during the Second World War came directly from Hitler. They were transmitted to him, he said, by Reinhard Heydrich, chief of the security/police."

2. He protested to his immediate superior, SS Gen. Heinrich Mueller, and others, that such a monstrous act was contrary to the Christian code of morality.

3. He begged Mueller not to send him to the death camps for further reports.

7 Latin-American Nations Ask Hands-off-Cuba Policy

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The UN General Assembly is expected to receive a demand by Russia that it condemn the United States as an aggressor masterminding the invasion of Cuba.

Instead, the assembly is believed certain to adopt a rival proposal by seven Latin-American nations appealing to all UN members to refrain from any action that might aggravate existing tensions.

The Soviet proposal, introduced Tuesday night by Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin after a fierce assault on the U.S. in the assembly's 99-nation political committee, calls for cessation of "armed attacks and forces invading Cuba and urges UN members to give aid to Fidel Castro.

The Latin-American resolution was expected to win broad support from member states openly critical of Premier Castro's dictatorship. Zorin termed Stevenson's defence of the U.S. action "a disgrace."

He asserted that not a single person inside Cuba had joined the invading forces and predicted that Castro's forces would be victorious.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green of Canada, said Tuesday night the most frightening aspect of the Cuban fighting is the danger of a prolonged civil war.

Stevenson said Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa had not presented one shred of evidence to support his claims that the invasion Monday had been launched from Florida. Stevenson said Roa and the Soviet-bloc representatives had reached a new low in trying to smear the U.S. in their every innuendo and epithet in the book.

He called for a settlement of the Cuban problem by Cubans themselves and denied that the United States had played a role in the invasion.

Zorin termed Stevenson's defence of the U.S. action "a disgrace." If both the U.S. and Guatemala deny that the invaders came from their soil, he said, "where have these people come from, outer space?" Intention that Cuba was seething with discontent under Castro. He asserted that not a single person inside Cuba had joined the invading forces and predicted that Castro's forces would be victorious.

SARNIA INDIAN LAND DEAL COST CO. $1,800,000

Govt. Cancels Pact With Band

TORONTO (CP)—A director of Dimensional Investments Limited said Tuesday night the firm lost some $1,800,000 as the result of the government purchase of 2,100 acres of Indian land near Sarnia.

Howard Ray said he was "totally confused and surprised" when the federal government's action Tuesday cancelling the 1959 contract between Dimensional and the Sarnia Indian band.

Citizenship Minister Fairclough is announcing the cancellation said the company had failed to complete payment of the contract by a Monday night deadline.

But Mr. Ray said Dimensional had understood the contract wouldn't be terminated "so long as the Indians were willing to have it extended."

He said the total cost of the transaction to Dimensional, including that of drawing up the contract, interest charges, and legal and surveying fees would have been $8,000,000. Of this, $6,500,000 was to go to the Indians as the sale price.

The government cancellation, he said, wiped out only $4,200,000 of the firm's outstanding liability. Total revolved on sales of 82,000,000, including a $1,232,000 sale to the Ontario Hydro

Saint Philomena, Venerated For 150 Years, Ousted by Church

ROME (AP) — The Sacred Congregation of Rites has ordered that Saint Philomena, venerated for 150 years, had never been a martyr nor saint. The congregation added that she had been venerated in error due to popular fervor rather than liturgical fact.

As a result of the decree, ecclesiastic authorities of the diocese of Nola, near Naples, Italy, have included among the consecrate the church which has been the only sanctuary and shrine of Philomena.

All statues and pictures of Philomena have been ordered removed, or no longer venerated.

Children no longer may be baptized with the name of Philomena—Filomena in Italy—which has been one of the most popular names for girls in southern Italy.

The Catholic church long has had not employment of the childhood of Philomena, whose beheaded body was reported to have been found in the Tiber River in the second century after Christ.

Her remains had been attributed to her in popular belief, although never with official confirmation, in the town of Mugnano, France.

The decree of the congregation, signed by Gaetano Cardinal Cicognani, was dated last Feb. 14 and was included among a series of other reforms and modifications in church practices.

It said: "The feast day of Santa Philomena is ordered removed from the calendar of saints. It having been proved historically that this name did not belong to any saint."

S'x Old Lancasters Only Means Of Air Reconnaissance in Arctic

OTTAWA (CP) — In the bleak, lifeless Canadian Arctic — real or imagined—for a new international plane to scan Arctic skies, the view of the RCAF has been overlooked.

Liberal Leader Pearson has proposed that Canada scrap present interceptor planes and buy a supersonic aircraft for Arctic reconnaissance.

Wind-swept, Prime Minister Diefenbaker snorted.

The RCAF views: We're doing very nicely, thanks, with our six old Lancasters.

The 400 reconnaissance Squadron isn't even based in the Arctic. Its home station is Rockcliffe outside Ottawa. With six Second World War "Lancs, it operates routine and special reconnaissance patrols across the North and takes aerial photographs for the defence department.

The RCAF is down to 13 Lancs, all told. Besides the six based here, there are three at Torbay, Nfld., and four in Winnipeg on search and rescue and two at Cold Lake, Alta., for target towing.

It will eventually come to the point where all Lancs but one will have to be broken up for parts to keep the remaining one airworthy, Mr. Pearson is told. RCAF cares to predict when this will be.

The Lancaster, carrier of the "blockbuster," "cookie," "tall boy" and "grand slam" bombs into the heart of Nazi Germany, was developed by A. Roe aircraft company.

The Lanc is no faster than it was during the war—top speed some 200 miles an hour—but the RCAF says it's just as useful in peacetime as it was in war.

Sales Director of New TV Station Is Guest Speaker

Enthusiasm in communications is essential, to today's businessman, local Sales and Ad Club members were told Tuesday evening by guest speaker Al Bruner, director of sales and marketing operations for the new private television station CFTO-TV.

The speaker dwelt on the importance of proper communications between businessmen and their markets and noted how, with the advent of new medias of communications and with the constant changing of factors within these medias, the businessman was constantly being required to improve his communications with his potential market.

This situation, Mr. Bruner advised, has eliminated much of the personal touch between seller and consumer but has provided the former with a greater coverage for his advertising dollar and serves to introduce the latter to a greater range of products.

Referring to his own particular medium, television, the former singer with the Wayne King dance band described how, in a few years, there would be world-wide television networks to provide the ultimate in communications. Communications, he emphasized, is possibly the most important factor in the current battle for people's minds between Communism and the free world.

Mr. Bruner then discussed the current role and situation of Canadian television and its plans for the future. The eight temporary private television stations which are going into operation across the country will be reaching about 70 per cent of Canada's population in their coverage. There will arise in Canada the same system of national networks serving the people, within the near future suggested the speaker.

The 55 per cent Canadian content rule is proving to be the best boost for Canadian talent and the development of new Canadian talent ever, although this rule was initially brought too hastily by private broadcasters. The ruling has, however, made them more aware of their own commodities and the talent which may be found in them, Mr. Bruner suggested.

NAMES PROGRAMS

Big Four and National League football games and International League baseball games will be but a few of the programs which Canadians will be offered by private broadcasters during the coming year. Referring to the Big Four contracts, Mr. Bruner explained that his station had obtained the television coverage contract for it because they had put in the best bid when the private broadcasters' coveting Big Four football asked for bids.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has not offered broadcast rights into the areas not covered by the private stations involved at no charge. CBC had turned down this offer Mr. Bruner said, because they did not want to accept it on a gratis basis. Due to this the Big Four games will have to be seen in some areas through the use of tapes for rebroadcast at a later time.

Mr. Bruner's address was interspersed with many humorous comments and amusing anecdotes which struck a responsive note in many of those present, causing him to remark, "What a bunch of sentimentalists! His audience thoroughly enjoyed it.

With the meeting being the last regular meeting of the current season the members of the new board of directors were elected. The board will consist of Don Barrett, Armand Duffy, Gerry Hyde, Dave Lunn, Jerry O'Connor, Wally Partridge, Bill Slade, John Trafford and Jim Walker for the 1961-62 season.

CP Honors W.H. Morton Of Belleville

A scroll paying tribute to Mr. Morton brought the best wishes of CP members to "a man of keen interest in community affairs and in the well-being of those less fortunate than he."

It was received by G. A. Morton on behalf of his father, unable to be present. C. J. McTavish of the Owen Sound Sun-Times made the presentation.

Don Williams, Stirling, Pays Official Visit

On Monday night, Mr. Don Williams, Stirling, and Belleville Presbytery District Council of the ITA-AOTS paid his official visit to Holloway St. AOTS Men's Club at their regular monthly meeting. The fine supper was served by the ladies.

The introduction of guests was followed by committee reports. Mr. Don Williams, and all members who possibly can to turn out and help with the Club's project, which is also called Car Wash this Saturday at Carl Wannamaker's Texo station at North Front and College Sts. A sing-song of AOTS tunes directed by Rod Beaudin led into a fine devotional period conducted by Fred Hodson. The guest speaker was introduced by Bud Jones. Don Williams is from Stirling and manages the GM agency, Stirling Motor Sales, and is a member of St. Paul's UC-AOTS-MC.

In his address, Don spoke seriously to the club members reminding them of their solemn obligation taken at initiation. He also had a talk on the three aims of the United Church Action Men's Class, to promote Christian fellowship; (b) to deepen the spiritual life of men and (c) to develop an effective program of Christian service. He suggested that to combat the sweeping rapid spread of Communism, the Christian church members must put first things first in the dedication of their time to the vocation or task which they believe. The AOTS member must serve his fellowman and fellow-man by reaching out and bringing other men into the Christian fellowship of the church.

Start Work On Pinnacle Street Wall

Construction of a cantilever wall to reinforce the retaining wall on the Pinnacle street in front of the Graham apartments commenced this week after months of the area being barricaded off as dangerous.

Cost of the work being done by Hugh Murray Construction Company Ltd. is $9,000 and is being shared by the city and owners of the Graham apartments.

Reinforcing of the present wall is being done in two stages. First an underground concrete base is being poured to be followed by placement of the cantilever structure to support the wall.

Replacement of the sidewalk at the base of the wall will complete the project.

Special Levy Tax Notice

This is an appeal to the citizens of the City of Belleville who have not paid all of their share of the Special Levy.

Did you know you can still receive a substantial discount if you pay the balance of your share?

Example #1:
If you have paid the first instalment and wish to pay the balance in full, you will receive a discount of 1½%.

Example #2:
If you have not made a payment as yet and pay the whole levy at this time you will pay a penalty of 3% on the first instalment, but will receive a discount of 1½% on the balance.

It is very important that the City receive the balance of the first instalment now outstanding, and if payment of your first instalment has not been made by April 30th, the City will have no alternative but to commence legal action, which will result in additional costs.

As a note of general interest, it is pointed out that the Special Levy is legally considered to be 1960 taxes.

C. J. Bender,
CITY TREASURER.

IN MEMORIAM

DRUMMOND.—In loving memory of our dear brother, George Drummond, who died April 19th, 1960.
Sadly missed and remembered
—Jessie and Nan Cathcart.

FRASER.—In loving memory of a dear mother, Jennie Fraser, who passed away April 19th, 1960.
We rest and within our memory,
Lonely are our hearts today
For those we loved are not forgotten,
Although they rest in God's care.
We think of her in silent prayer,
No eye has seen nor tongue told,
But many silent tears are shed,
When we remember her.
—Ever remembered by daughter-in-law and grandchildren, Carman, Jean and Jack.

FRASER.—In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Irvine Fraser, who passed away three years ago, April 19th, 1958.
God knew that he was suffering,
That his life was filled with pain,
So He closed his weary eyelids,
And He said, "Rest again."
Lovingly remembered by Ruth and Ivy (Mrs. Fraser) and family.

HUNTER.—In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Percy Hunter, who passed away one year ago, April 19th, 1960.
Two dear bright eyes, a tender smile
Are gone,
A loving heart that knew no guile.
Deep trust in God that all was well
Has come,
Her life to make some other brighter.
If she is suffering one day, never,
Some gentle act of love she'd do;
You thought a kind word to help another,
Dear Mother, I know it was you.
—Sadly missed by sons, daughters-in-law and grandchildren.

HUNTER.—In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Irvine Hunter, who passed away three years ago, April 19th, 1958.
God knew that he was suffering,
That his life was filled with pain,
So He closed his weary eyelids,
And He said, "Rest again."
Lovingly remembered by Ruth and Ivy (Mrs. Fraser) and family.

LAZIER.—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Ed. Lazier, who passed away April 19th, 1960.
We watched him suffer, day by day
It caused us bitter grief,
We could not give relief.
We could not stop the pain,
His troubles are at rest with God,
And in our aching hearts we know
He's gone to a better home.
'Tis sweet to know we will meet again.
Where parting is no more.
—Sadly missed and never forgotten by son Sherman, daughter-in-law Ruth and grandchildren.

LAZIER.—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Ed. Lazier, who passed away April 19th, 1960.
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just in all his days,
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he left behind.
—Never forgotten by Frank, Iron, Sharon and Rosalie.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to express my thanks and appreciation to all relatives, friends and friends for remembering me with cards, flowers, visits, lovely cards, letters and gifts also for the cards and flowers sent to the hospital and for candy. Thank you very much.
—Fred Richmond.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all who sent cards and flowers during the illness and passing of our father, Ed. Lazier, also the Belleville General Hospital and nurses, Rev. Coleman and Rev. Hamilton, also the Legion for the lovely floral tributes, cards and acts of sympathy in the death of our dear daughter, Rose Anne, a special thanks to Dr. Donald Scott, Dr. Woodley, to Rev. Walker and Rev. Bruner and Mrs. Ford, words of comfort to the Board of Governors, Nurses, Supervisory Instructors, Operating and Recovery Room Staff, Obstetrical Department, Pharmacy, general duty nurses, classmates and student nurses of Belleville General Hospital.
—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vandervoort.

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to my many friends and neighbours who remembered me with cards, flowers, letters and visits before and during my stay in Belleville General Hospital. Again I say "thank you."
—Mrs. Clarrot Wilson.

Board Proposes 8-Roomed Addition to Moira School

Construction of an eight-roomed addition at Moira Secondary School together with a service shop of at least 2,000 square feet is proposed by the Bay of Quinte District High School Board.

The board, at their regular April meeting held last night, voted to immediately submit the building proposal to the Ontario Department of Education.

If approval of the department is granted for the construction, the drafting room, service shop and all or part of the science room, together with the necessary equipment, would come under the 100 per cent grant recently announced by the government for vocational school accommodation.

The eight-roomed addition would be built along Farley Ave. at the north end of the present building.

Forty-two Sidney township students living within the Bay of Quinte High School District area now attending grades 11-12-13 at Trenton High School will be permitted to continue to attend classes at Trenton for the 1961-62 school year if accommodation is made available by the Trenton board.

When Sidney joined the Quinte High School District last January, students from that township attending at Trenton were allowed to continue classes until September of this year.

SPECIAL CLASSES

The Ontario government in conjunction with the Department of Education will conduct special classes at B.C.I. to give instruction on natural gas installations, pipe fitting and other installation groups and has invited to attend the classes.

The local high school board will appoint a committee to investigate the advisability of appointing a full time superintendent of secondary school education. The duties of such a superintendent would be to co-ordinate educational needs in the various high schools.

A partition currently dividing the now unused electrical shop at B.C.I. will be removed making two classrooms as was originally intended. The partition was put in about seven years ago.

Members of the cafeteria staffs at the three high schools will in the future be entitled to 20 days sick leave each year. The sick leave will be on a non-accumulative basis.

Pressure of business has resulted in board member Gerald Wishart resigning as chairman of the board sites and accommodation committee. Mr. Wishart will continue his membership on the board, however. Mr. J. B. Dunning will act as committee chairman.

The board at this year continue with the project of replacing drinking fountains on all floors at the Collegiate. Four fountains will be replaced this year on the second floor.

Also at BCI an air compressor will be installed to control room thermostats, while at Quinte Secondary School the fire alarm system will be changed to make alarm bells more audible in certain parts of the school.

The librarian at BCI was authorized to attend a librarian's conference at Hamilton and shop director Charles Lepon at Moira Secondary School will attend a shop directors conference at Barrie in May.

Rotary Club Hears About Bridge Building

TRENTON—The guest speaker at this week's meeting of the Rotary Club was James Duncan, works manager, General Bridge Company. As this was a classification talk, Mr. Duncan outlined the various types of bridges.

A film showing the construction steps used to erect the Mackinac Bridge in the United States, was shown. It is a graceful and inspiring structure, demonstrating the triumph of men and materials over the challenge of the Great Lakes and elements, Mr. Duncan said that this bridge was among the greatest engineering feats of modern man. He said that it had been a privilege and pleasure to span the Mackinac Straits and that the dream had come true with the completion of the bridge in 1957.

Club luncheons were presented to new members Roy Cornish, Ian Darling and Tom Holmes by Wallace Hall.

Next week, the club will entertain the managers and coaches of the squirt hockey teams.

Add $114,310 To Assessment

TRENTON — Assessment commissioner Alan Smith said yesterday that supplementary assessment (or additional assessment) for the first 3½ months of 1961, amounted to $114,310. At the present residential mill rate, this will produce about $6,000 in tax revenue.

Mr. Smith commented that 23 standard NHA homes had been built this year. He said that so far this year, the total approved type of home had exceeded by 23 the 1960 class construction in Trenton.

Field work on the 1961 assessments will commence May 1.

Group Makes Resolution

TRENTON — The traffic committee has made a number of recommendations to town council. One suggestion is that the section of Dundas Street between Elgin Street and Dundas Street be used for two-way traffic for the duration of the reconstruction program on Dundas Street.

Another suggestion has been put into practice and is causing a great deal of curiosity on the part of motorists. At the rear of the market building and at the northwest corner of the Odeon Theatre, sanding of "islands" has been constructed. Warning signs, reading "Danger" and "Keep to Right," have been placed at intervals on the islands. The object is to judge what effect, if any, permanent islands in these locations would have on the flow of traffic.

Toastmasters Face Hecklers

TRENTON — Members of the Quinte Toastmasters Club held a lively session at their regular weekly dinner meeting last night. The night had been designated "heckler's night" and each speaker endeavored to stick to his one minute discourse in spite of criticisms from the floor. This training is designed to help the speaker concentrate on his subject despite annoyances and suggestions.

Jim Hoyt conducted the table topic session.

Trenton Legion Notes

TRENTON — Membership chairman Earl Donaldson presented four new members for initiation at the regular meeting of the Trenton Legion Monday night. The new members, Leslie A. Price, W. C. Baillie, Arie Van Der Toorn and H. J. Samson, were given a rousing reception after the formal ceremonies. Branch 118 now has 476 paidup members and Ed Donaldson hopes to go over the 600 mark in the near future.

The auditor's report was read by treasurer Bill McLaren in the absence of Norm Bandell, who is on the sick list. The auditor reported that the branch was in good financial shape and was being very capably operated by the staff and executive. Ron Birkett moved that the auditor's statement be accepted.

Branch secretary Lou Knack read a letter from the Salvation Army asking for the assistance of the Branch in the Red Shield Campaign in May. Branch President Ken Craddock reported that he had appointed Comrade Bob Hamilton as chairman of a committee to assist the Red Shield and asked for 25 volunteers.

A letter from Lieut. Bert Curtis of the Belleville Sea Cadets, asking the branch to sponsor the local corps, was referred back to the executive for action.

President Craddock reported that the Bata Symphony Orchestra had offered to present a concert some Sunday night in aid of the Red Shield Campaign and plans were being formulated for this concert.

Sports chairman Orval Smith reported that the horse shoe pits would soon be ready for use and pee-wee baseball would be commencing soon under the direction of Spencer Cherrier. The branch bowling team had lost out in the provincial playoffs but Manager Lloyd Bissett had do better next year at Thorold. Comrade Bill Smith was extended congratulations for the fine job he had done as chairman of the Legion Ball Tournament held recently in Trenton.

Finance chairman Art Colleton reported that his committee was still working on the new insurance coverage.

L.A. DONATES $20o

The president received a report from entertainment chairman George Annett, stating that the Auxiliary Kitchen Shack room committee had donated $200 to the Legion for new drapes for the auditorium. Bar chairman Bill Lawson reported that bar sales were up considerably and credited this to the work done by Comrade Bissett in bringing more members out to the Legion Hall.

Sergeant-at-arms stated that Senator W. A. Fraser hoped to attend the next regular meeting of the branch if his health permitted and would be making a presentation to the branch building fund. He also reported that the Legion would be conducting a membership drive in Middleton Park this year and hoped to have plenty of volunteers for this project.

Ways and means chairman Carl Taylor said that he needed more volunteers to sell tickets on the 50-50 draw. Bill Lawson took 50 books and said that everyone present takes at least five books each. This month's draw will be made by new member Ley Price and the winner was Art Forbes, 179 Sidney Street, Trenton.

Publicity chairman Bill Menzies asked that branch activities be reported to him as promptly as possible and he would get it in the papers as we were getting very good coverage from the newspapers and the radio station.

On the suggestion of Sergeant-at-arms Norm Baker, it was agreed to purchase a new ensign to display on the auditorium stairs.

Comrade Carl Leemen requested that some means be provided for the members of the Ladies Auxiliary to gain entry to their meeting room. It was decided to install a buzzer at the side door to enable them to call the steward to unlock the door. Meeting adjourned at 10.30 and lunch was served by Ted Ireland and his committee.

'Flying High' Revue Opens At Air Station

TRENTON— Last night was opening night for the RCAF Women's Auxiliary's revue "Flying High".

A great deal of hard work went into the preparation of this fast-moving musical and the efforts of the auxiliary members (and the males pressed into service) were rewarded by the enthusiastic reception accorded every act by the audience in the South Station recreation hall.

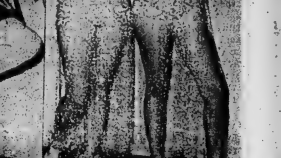
The scenes shifted from Irish pubs to Hawaii; from the cosy kitchen of a PMQ home (where six force posies are deftly setting over coffee cups) to a night club setting.



If stars must be named, Susan, the sad-eyed Basset hound who "owns" the Lutz family, stole the show. Susan is rather proud of her United Nations beret and her squadron leader rank insignia.

Tonight the cast plans to repeat the performance. Curtain goes up at 8:30.

Money from ticket sales will assist the auxiliary in its community projects.

WILL SEND DIPLOMAT

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—President Kwame Nkrumah announced Tuesday night that Ghana proposed to send a diplomatic representative to the Communist - recognized government in the Congolese provincial capital of Stanleyville." Ghana has recognized the Stanleyville regime as the "legal government of The Congo" since Feb. 15.

"Susan," the sad-eyed Basset hound in the RCAF Women's Auxiliary musical revue, "Flying High," which opened at the South Station recreation hall last night. "What's Cleo got that I haven't got?" asks Susan!

Plan Meeting To Discuss New School

TRENTON—Members of the Trenton and Brighton Association for Retarded Children will meet Thursday night at College Street School to discuss plans for the erection of a school. Government grants have been increased by 20 per cent for half-day pupils and 10 per cent for all-day pupils.

Mrs. Jack Dack, 29 Dundas St. in Trenton gave a $500 grant to the association. A tag day will be held in Trenton on June 10.

Vice-president Mrs. Bobby Reid and education chairman, Mrs. Wm. Refesme will attend the Ontario Retarded Children's Association convention in Toronto, April 28, 29 as official delegates from the local association.

In accordance with new high way laws effective this month, the school bus, purchased last year, will be painted yellow with black lettering.

Say Car Crash Caused Shuffle Behind Wheel

Several hours later, Wilfred, 27, was charged by city police with drunk driving and Bernard, 25, was charged with being drunk.

Bernard paid a fine, but Wilfred appeared in city magistrate's court yesterday and pleaded not guilty to the charge of drunk driving.

Defence Counsel Ronald Case, QC, contended that city police had erred in charging Wilfred because the arresting officers, Ian McColl and Sam Morgan, were unable to say who had been driving even though they had found Wilfred behind the steering wheel after the car had crashed into an embankment.

The constables said they had chased the car at high speed from Byron Street and Cannifton Road until it hit a culvert on Donald Street, and then travelled another 56 feet before crashing into an embankment. At no time were the car's tail lights out of their sight, they said.

But Bernard had an explanation which he gave under oath and without the court's protection. He said that he had been at the wheel ever since he and his brother left home until the time of the crash. He said the force of the crash threw him from behind the wheel over top of Wilfred, who was thrown behind the wheel.

27 Cases Listed For Sitting of Supreme Court

A total of 27 cases, including 11 criminal cases, are listed for hearing at the non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court of Ontario scheduled to open here April 24th before the Honorable Mr. Justice King.

Service Station Is Entered

Safe robbers last night forced their way into Cook's Service Station at Shannonville and escaped with approximately $100 in cash from the safe.

Provincial police said the safe apparently had not been locked properly as no force was used to open the safe door.

The intruders gained entry to the service station by smashing a window in a back door, then reaching in and turning the latch. Nothing but the money from the safe was taken.

The robbery took place some time during the early morning hours as the service station had been closed up for the night at midnight.

Will Advertise For Teachers In England

With no response received from advertisements placed in Ontario papers, the Bay of Quinte District High School Board will advertise in the London Times for English and Science department heads for the next school year.

Board secretary R. O. Dulmage said that the board had received no response as result of repeated advertisements in local papers for the department heads.

"It seems that they are just not available," noted Mr. Dulmage.

The English department at Quinte Secondary School will be vacated at the end of the year of the present school term. The department head, Mr. Charles Sloan, has resigned to accept a position at Burlington.

Miss Lillian Wallace, home economics teacher at the same school, has also tendered her resignation.

Chamber of Commerce Week

This is Chamber of Commerce Week.

"What is a Chamber of Commerce?" asks a release from that organization. "A group of businessmen devoted to prove that the sun shines all the time in our municipality? Public-spirited citizens banded together to see that the community enjoys the highest possible standard of living? Supporters of free enterprise and freedom vigorously opposing collectivism and socialism? Businessmen trying to bring new industry and more tourists to this area? These are some of the commonly held ideas about the Chamber of Commerce."

The list explains why the Chamber has foes as well as friends. There are those who dislike Pollyanna sentiments, think there are more important things than achieving the highest material standard of living, believe that the Chamber is too quick to brand as socialism any co-operative movement which threatens the livelihood of any of its members and feel that the acquisition of new industry or of more tourists can be achieved at too high a price.

The truth of the matter is, of the reasons given or to point out, by inference if not specifically, that none of these objectives singly, nor all of them combined, begins to outline the full extent of the work of an active and ably-led Chamber of Commerce.

As in so many other areas, where critics have sound reason for their objections to the activities of any particular Chamber, they could do much more to alter the situation by working from within it than from without.

The sun does not always shine on any municipality but it is seldom that there are not some reasons for optimism and it is well that there should be an organization which calls the attention of the public to assets which can be exploited for the benefit of all. The trend towards social security legislation has been so strong in recent years that there has been a great danger that our financial resources will be overstrained and sound schemes jeopardized by attempting too much, too fast, so that the Chamber's habitual caution has served a most useful purpose. Most of this social legislation is the better for having been questioned and revised before being finally put into effect. Material prosperity is not everything, but those who pretend it is of no real importance are generally only too glad to avail themselves of the higher living standard which results from sound financial advice and practices, both in the field of public and private business.

Besides these activities, though, Chambers of Commerce have been busy in fields which are not directly related to business, in welfare measures, in providing for the community those amenities which make it truly progressive in spirit, in concern for educational standards and similar work.

It is, of course, true that Chambers of Commerce cannot be all things to all men, and that in those instances where they attempt this impossible feat they are likely to fall short of those achievements which would be within the realm of the possible if they concentrated on them.

Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario says, in a "Chamber of Commerce Week declaration," "through the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, business and industrial leaders are provided with a valuable forum for exchanging information, discussing problems and developing ways and means of promoting growth and ever higher living standards for our people." Prime Minister Diefenbaker also mentions that "among the many important contributions of the Chamber movement is that of presenting the view of all business, large and small, to municipal, provincial and federal governments." It is as the mouthpiece of business and industry that the Chamber of Commerce serves best. Without such an organization to make its needs and views known, business and industry might be in danger of having its vital importance to the welfare of the community as a whole overlooked or under-estimated. The Chamber of Commerce thus, in a very real sense, serves "the interests of all citizens," as Prime Minister Diefenbaker notes, without, however, at the same time speaking for all citizens.

It is only on those rare occasions when some Chamber of Commerce official displays that "what's good for General Motors is good for the United States" attitude that other classes in the community have reason to question its activities. Here in Belleville we have been spared this approach, which is one reason, we suggest, why the Chamber of Commerce here is held in such general high esteem.

Though I am always in haste, I am never in a hurry.—John Wesley.

Father of Modern Science

By Christopher Matthew in the Milwaukee Journal

When Sir Nicholas Bacon, lord keeper of the seal of England, presented his son Francis to Queen Elizabeth, she is said to have fondled the lad's hair, called him her young lord keeper and asked him his age.

"That two years younger than your majesty's happy reign," the answered.

Elizabeth had ascended the throne late in 1558. Francis was born early in 1561. Englishmen are celebrating the 400th anniversary of the birth this year.

Elizabeth seems to have made no response to her youthful greeting, but complained not to the many others he paid her later on.

Francis was only 18 when his father died suddenly, leaving him penniless. He determined to seek a place at court.

His uncle, Lord Burleigh, was treasurer of the realm, and his best friend. In due course Francis became the queen's confidant and lover. Through these powerful influences he hoped to be advanced himself to her.

The years alternately pleading and bullying, tried to get him the post of attorney general when it became vacant. But as a brash new member of parliament, he offended Elizabeth by questioning the need for higher taxes. Now he tried to regain her favor.

The speeches he gave were so well put that, as Ben Johnson wrote, "his hearers could not cough or scarce cleare their throats too hard for the Cook". But Elizabeth gave him no office.

During her lifetime Frances got no more from her than the honor of having Coke, her enemy, among the public prosecutors.

He was 42 when she died in 1603, a man of boundless ambition and debts. Already he had already been arrested for debt twice, but his genius was in advance in his lavish style of living. He indulged his taste for fine food and wine, exquisite clothes, town and country houses and retinues of servants.

When, at 45, he married Alice Barnham, "an alderman's daughter, and a pretty young maiden," most of her dowry was spent on a magnificent wedding at which he was clothed from top to toe in shining purple.

In a letter, Coke wrote: "A Yharried man is seven years at the least in his thoughts the first day." In his essay on "Love" he observed "that amongst all the evils, a melancholy and worthy person, either ancient or youthful, there is yet one that hath been transported to the mad degree of love; which always is like to spring and great business do keep out this weak passion."

Elizabeth's successor, James I, loved three things above all — flattery, wit and learning. Bacon supplied the first two before eating his first great work. "The Instauration of Learning." James made him viscount of Verulam and baron of St. Albans, 20 miles northwest of London, near which he had two mansions, one designed by himself.

There he died in 1626 and created Viscount St. Albans. Francis was at the height of his career.

A few weeks later he had been shorn of his offices and was a prisoner in the tower of London. A disappointed suitor had charged him with taking money for disposing of a suit at court.

He pleaded that the gifts had influenced his judgment. But his enemies clamored for his dismissal, and Bacon had no choice but to resign his office and three times he stood the mercy of the house of lords. They sentenced him to imprisonment at the king's pleasure, imposed a fine of £40,000, and declared him ineligible for any other public office.

"It was the justest judge that was in England these 50 years," he commented, "but it was the justest judgment that was in England these 200 years." Imprisonment (in the tower) was a king for mercy. James released him from the tower after two days and remitted his fine.

The last five years of his life he spent in the obscurity of his country home "harassed by poverty but solaced by the study of philosophy." He brought out the final edition of his "Essays" (in 1625), began to wrote an excellent biography of Henry VII and published his utopian novel of Utopia, "The New Atlantis," a never never land in the south Pacific where there were no politicians, only scientists.

Already at 16, after studying Aristotle at Cambridge, Bacon had thought that the Greeks had been "fruitful of contentious learning" (in 1605 Coke called its climax in "The New Organum, to give it its Latin title, which was still the work of a scientist who had called his survey of the science of Greece the "Organon.").

Bacon's New Organon — or Organum, to give it its Latin title — was dedicated to the king, who said: "It is the peace of God. It passeth understanding." Yet in it Bacon assailed the "idols" of the four "idols" that keep men from understanding. These were the "idols of the tribe" — fallacies common to the human race; "idols of the cave" — those peculiar to each man; "idols of the market place" — those arising from association of men with each other; and "idols of the theater" — those arising from systems of the philosophers."

His achievement was to establish that he is called the father of modern experimental science.

About a century ago the theory arose that Shakespeare, the "butcher" from Stratford, could not possibly have written his own plays. The real author, according to the adherents of Bacon, who testified to his authorship in cryptograms within the plays. Orthodox scholars have always treated the "Baconian" theory with contempt. Bacon had no talent for poetry, no sense of humor, no admiration for their style, qualities which bulk large in the Shakespearian plays.

There is more than enough honor for Bacon in the things he actually accomplished. But it will be wrote "I bequeath my soul to God. My body to be buried obscurely. My name to the next ages and to foreign nations." And David Durant observes: "The ages and the nations have accepted him."

While he was engaged with the balky animal, an automobile came along and frightened the horse attached to the buggy. The animal ran away, and a short distance down the road it and the buggy went over the, embankment and fell a distance of 20 feet. At this part the stream is rapid and the horse and buggy were carried out of sight. It was not until the outfit reached that part of the river behind No. 1 Firehall that it stopped. The horse was dead and the buggy was badly wrecked. The horse was a valuable animal, and Mr. Ostrom's loss is considerable.

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK

If you can make a different noise with your mouth, or in blowing or plucking a musical instrument, or by hitting something with a stick or a wet sock, or by almost any imaginable means, your future is assured for at least six weeks in the field of popular music.

Pop music is not merely frenzied, it is frenzied in spots. It is growing hysterical. The possibilities of the human voice have been explored, extended. Hiccups, gargles, are old stuff. The strangled, agonized sounds produced by singers have reached the point of no return. There just aren't any yelps, howls, squalls or whines within the compass of the human larynx, no matter how far south you go. So the latest pop records are fiendishly exploring what the call percussion. That doesn't mean drums, cymbals, vibraphone whiz whizz, wooden blocks and dried hollow tropical vegetables full of seeds. All those are classical by now. I hesitate to imagine what some of the new sounds are.

"What's the explanation, frankly?" I asked a record dealer.

"Pop addicts," he replied, "are like people who eat pickles but pickles. The only ones they can taste have to be sourer than the last."

Fluid Balance Simply Means Regulation of Body Water

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What does fluid balance mean? My doctor is giving me pills for it. — J.D."

Fluid balance means the regulation of water in your body.

Collectively, the amount needed for digestion, for normal purposes, for the blood, for the moistening of the mucous surfaces, for the various glands, for the tissues, themselves.

Moisture is present, in proper degree, in all living tissues, from the cactus plant, growing in a desert, boards what water it can acquire. A solid tree has a great deal of water, as we presently find out when we cut it down, saw it into lumber — and then discover that the wood shrinks noticeably in seasoning. As the water gradually evaporates, and the wood dries out, the shrinkage is considerable.

In the human body, the amount of water, or fluid, is regulated automatically in most cases. We lose moisture, by elimination, by breathing. If you breathe on glasses you can see how much moisture accumulates from one or two breaths. Those are the ways we lose moisture.

And how do we gain moisture? If we sweat, we lose it. If we thirsty." We get water in our food. Fruits and vegetables are as much as 80 per cent water, or more.

But in some instances the body either gains or loses too much or too little. The swelling of the body just before a menstrual period is one example of this. For most women it is no problem. Yet some may "gain" several pounds for a few days, and this is quite sensible, especially when the period starts.

Then, perhaps with fever, sometimes with illness, a person may lose moisture gradually. He may be able to drink water consciously.

The same is true after a wound or a hemorrhage, external bleeding. The loss of blood represents not only the chemicals in the blood, but the water which is a large part of our blood.

In such cases, we may give blood transfusions, or we may also give glucose solutions, or saline solutions, to replace the water as well as the chemical materials dissolved in the various fluids.

With some disorders, among them those of the heart and kidneys, the opposite may be true. Too much water accumulates in the tissues. "Dropsy" is thrown off in the opposite direction. Then we use drugs or transfusions to remove the excess, and to correct the faulty fluid balance.

"Dear Dr. Molner: We had an argument in school about tonsils and their function. I said that since they are not used they will disappear in a couple of million years. But organs we do not use will soon disappear in a few years. Is it so, and what organs? — H.T."

I presume, since we can establish no purpose for the appendix, that in time it may disappear. That certainly is not a valid supposition.

The appendix is the only unused organ I know about, although I sometimes wonder whether, these days, people use their feet enough. It may be worth the trouble of having 'em.

Interviewing Is an Art Says Sydney

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In his book of stage reminiscences, "A Victorian in Orbit," which I just mentioned yesterday, Sir Cedric Hardwicke mischievously gets back at the interviewers who have plagued him with pointed and pointless questions over the last 30 years.

Appended to the text is a droll "Handbook for Interviewers," in which Hardwicke gives some terse and irreverent answers to the same questions he has heard over and over again — and to which, until now, he had dutifully given solemn and pretentious answers, as befits a Knight of the Empire.

"What is your advice to young actresses?" is one frequent question. His admirably succinct, and quite sensible, reply: "Watch cats."

"What part would he has be made? "Too many." How many plays has he appeared in? "Too few." What is his favorite present asset? "An audience." How does he prepare a part? "I read the contract first."

To the most common question, that of "Hollywood or Hollywood?" he answers with almost tender irony, "I believe God is in Hollywood, I know so He created Hollywood to give Him a laugh. He must have a swimming pool. The price they had to pay was to surrender Heaven."

In my various travels around the country, impersonating a lecturer, I am often subjected to so-called interviews, usually by cub reporters or by radio and TV people with their microphones and tapes.

I have had an interview out of 50 does the interviewer know what questions to ask, or how to ask them. They are always the same tired and unthinking queries, and the average interviewer soon make stock replies. If I were awakened out of a sound sleep at 4 a.m. by a strange voice asking, "Where do you get your ideas for columns?" I would mumble, "I steal them," and fall right back to sleep without a break in my snores.

The apparent flippancy and brusqueness of Hardwicke's answers are an inevitable reaction to the same trite questions asked year after year. It seems that the interviewer really cares little about what the subject knows less; that tomorrow he will be asking idiotic questions of a virtuoso violinist, a volleyball player, and that, the interview as it "should be done," will make him sound like a fool, a knave or a dullard, or all three.

The art of interviewing is one of the greatest and most delicate in communications. In the hands of a master, like Bowell, or Lyons, or Lord Beaverbrook, or — for what is that but an extended interview by a highly credibly teacher-reporter? in the customary hands, what we usually get is people have you become an American citizen?" And who can blame him if he replies

"No. I doubt whether Englishmen could afford to lose India and myself in the same generation."

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE POTLUCK OF THE DAY

Acceptance is one of the great virtues of the human heart.

And not until one is fully equipped to accept life and all its offerings and its chances, is one able to enter into the full business of living.

We must learn to take the "potluck" of the day!

Sometimes it will rain. There will be days when it will be very, very cold. (Like this past winter). The very finest of many days will be wrecked with an appointment and discouragement. But there will be others that will be joyous with mirth and luck.

The law of averages touches the path of us all. Let us take what is put before us, as the product of our toil and thinking, knowing full well that if we would partake well, we must work and give well.

To none of us does it yet appear what we shall be at our last best.

I have always like to drop in on the crowd of people for whom it care — to sit at their table and chew the potluck with them.

And I never want them to apologize for what they give me. It would spoil it. We don't go to be fed, but to be fed with our sturdy and best, but with love, understanding and cheer.

And every dawn for all. And the conditions under which it arrives are the same for all.

You wouldn't be less brave or enterprising than the one next to you, would you? He dives in, willing to take what is given determined to make things come if they aren't around. "Potluck" for him — and glad of the chance.

Processed Milk Producer Put in Unfavorable Position Farm Union Local Told

The Ameliasburg Farmers' Union Local was privileged to have Mr. J. A. Johnson, the secretary treasurer of the Ontario Cheese Producers Marketing Board as guest speaker for the April meeting.

Mr. Johnson stated that through the years, the fluid milk producers in Ontario have had a preferred position compared to other milk producers, as they have been protected by Provincial Legislation. On the other hand, manufactured milk producers have been unprotected, and thus, even though they produce grade 1 milk have been unable to invade the fluid milk market although the fluid milk producers' surplus is absorbed in the manufactured products field.

This surplus in manufactured products such as butter, cheese and skim milk powder, plus the competition of margarine has put the manufactured milk producer in a most unfavorable position.

Last year, a Milk Marketing Committee of the various milk groups was formed, and it was decided to inquire into the marketing and pricing of milk in the Province of Ontario.

Dr. John Camerons, Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey, U.S.A., Dr. David A. MacFarlane, McGill Veterinary College, McGill University, St. Anne, de Bellevue, Quebec, and Dr. J. W. Wood, University of Manitoba, Winipeg, Manitoba, were engaged as a research group to study milk marketing in Ontario.

STUDY COMPLETED

There study has been completed and the resulting main points and recommendations are as follows:

1. The new plan will include a central producer board; 2. Quotas for the fluid milk producer will be frozen at the 1960 or 1961 level; 3. Additional requirements needed for the fluid milk market will be met by the quota shippers but they will only receive the secondary price for it. The different shippers will have to pay the full price and the difference will be paid into the equalization fund as established by the Central Board; 4. the average yearly increase for milk consumption has been about 50 million pounds and at 82 per hundred, the equalization fund would amount to $1,000,000 for the first year. The second year it would theoretically amount to $2,000,000 or the third year, $3,000,000. This equalization fund would be used to make a supplementary payment to shippet whose milk goes to the manufacturing field, but of class 1 quality. This will amount to approximately 25 cents per hundred for a 1,000 shippers during the first year; and in the second year, to about 50 cents per hundred for 2,000 shippers; 5. Those shipping milk which goes into the manufacturing field but whose quality is not class 1, will receive between 2 and 3 cents per hundred as a supplementary payment; 6. Additional requirements of milk for the fluid milk trade will be purchased from (first) quota shippers and (secondly) from those non-fluid shippers whose quality standards are equal to the class 1 section; 7. If there is not a large enough increase in the amount of milk used during the next year to create an equalization fund, it is proposed that a levy of 5 cents per hundred be made on all fluid milk. This amount could be used to increase the fund or to assist in the export of dairy products such as cheddar cheese. 8. The plan will have a tendency to improve the quality of milk generally.

Tim Gosling, Mr. Johnson stated that while this will not be a panacea for the problems in the diary industry, he feels it will contribute a great deal towards the equalization of prices between fluid milk shippers and manufactured shippers who produce a high quality product.

A spirited question and answer period followed with all in attendance thanking Mr. Johnson for coming out to discuss this proposed milk marketing plan.

Kelso Roberts Guest Speaker For Firefighters

Kelso Roberts, Q.C., Ontario's Attorney-General, will be the guest speaker at the annual district meeting of No. 2 District of the Ontario Professional Fire Fighters' Association to be held in this city tomorrow evening. Delegates from Ottawa, Pembroke, Cornwall, Smiths Falls, Brockville, Kingston, Trenton, Belleville and other points will be in attendance at the Canara Club for the occasion.

Special guests will include Tom Graham of Niagara Falls, president of the Ontario Professional Fire Fighters' Association and Ernest Hache of Ottawa, district president, as well as local dignitaries.

This is the first time for some years that the local fire fighters have been hosts for the annual district meeting.

Mrs. Whitaker New President Of H-S Assoc.

The Moira Secondary Home and School Association has been organized.

A meeting was held in the school auditorium on Monday evening. Mr. J. Musgrove, the principal, acted as chairman until a motion was passed to organize a Home and School Association at Moira.

Mrs. R. Jones of Belleville, gave a short talk on Home and School and its association with the principal and the teachers.

Mrs. L. C. Rapley of Peterborough, a member of the Ontario Home and School Council gave a lecture. Her subject "What is Home and School and its Purpose?"

OFFICERS NAMED

Mr. Stuart Whitaker, chairman of the nomination committee, proposed a slate of officers for the new association. Mrs. L. C. Rapley conducted the installation ceremonies and the executive committee was sworn in.

The committee is as follows: president — Mrs. N. Whitaker, vice-president — Mrs. Charles Hunt, past president — Mr. Art Loucks; recording secretary — Mrs. F. Rushlow, treasurer — Mrs. Alexander, corresponding secretary — Mrs. O. Bradley; executive members — Mrs. Robert Jones, Mrs. W. Pringle, Mr. Harold Farrow, Mrs. M. Whitaker, Mr. H. Bennett.

Mrs. N. Whitaker proposed a vote of thanks to Mrs. L. C. Rapley and Mrs. R. Jones for their help in their assistance and ing work in organizing the association in Moira.

PANEL DISCUSSION

Panel discussion of the subject, "What is Taught at Moira and What is Expected of It" was led by members assembled in the cafeteria for a half hour with refreshments supplied by the executive committee.

OPEN CHEMICAL PROBE

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The United States government began an antitrust investigation of the chemical industry Tuesday. A grand jury began hearings that spokesmen said might last six months or more. An investigator said the first phase of the probe is an examination of the manufacturing of caustic lye and chlorine.

He warned that dry weather up to now presaged fire trouble if the proper care is not taken. Rain is badly needed in the forest areas.

He outlined the various methods of fire-fighting from aircraft and helicopter down to plain "manpower".

Mr. Keenan said 85 parcels of crown land were sold for camp sites last year while 390 hunting camp permits were issued. This year, he said, 250 registered parcels of land are open for sale.

Provincial parks, he said had increased tremendously. In 1955 there were six. Today there are 90. Camp facilities catered to a quarter of million people last year.

Special timber work is being done to improve the natural habitat of deer thus maintaining herds at the highest level.

Mr. Whitfield gave an interesting outline of the work of the Fish and Wildlife department explaining the many phases of operation with regard to water conditions, restocking and research.

"His department", he said, "makes a general survey of from 30 to 50 lakes of the district each year.

Slides illustrated the work of electric sounding, temperatures of water, and water analysis. Tests of vegetation and organic matter were shown.

He said at the present time there were 250,000 speckled trout in hatcheries ready for distribution. This is done by truck and aircraft.

Some 60 lakes in the district are being tested and developed for speckled trout.

FIGURES DROP OFF

He said he would like to see more "summer fishing". Opening day's always large numbers of anglers but these figures drop off during July and August.

"The question of winter angling for speckled trout is not yet a reality", he said. However larger districts with larger fish and game organizations should make application and if such is the case winter angling for this fish might come about.

He said much work is being done on lakes reclamation. Forage fish are being removed and the lakes restocked. A number of lakes are "fed" by hatcheries fish, but research is now going on in an effort to produce spawning lakes.

He deplored the poaching of pickerel in the area saying the department is doing its' best to protect the spawning flan. Large patrols are out in an effort to check the practice.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Richard Art, 21 months old, accidentally strangled himself Monday when he reached for a kitchen wall telephone, became entangled in the cord and fell from his high chair.

Record Fish, Game Meeting Hears Department Speakers

The Belleville Fish and Game Association got it straight from the horse's mouth" last night.

A record-breaking attendance of almost of 350 learned about the inner workings of two divisions of the Department of Lands and Forests.

The crowd packed the upper auditorium of the Club Canara, President Gordon Magee said membership has reached an all-time high of 315, including juniors.

Special speakers were Russ Whitfield, Fish and Wild Life and Jim Keenan, Timber division of the Tweed District of the Department.

Special films, "Biology of Bob-white Quail," "Timber Herbicide" and "Trout Fishing" were shown Door prizes were distributed and a handsome special draw went to Derek Riordan, Maple Drive, Belleville.

Mr. Keenan spoke of the growth, preservation and maintenance of timber in the division, stressing the importance of fire prevention.

He said of the 89 forest fires in the district last year, 74 were caused by carelessness, 37 were caused by campers. Last year in the province he said 500 fires burned 30,000 acres.

ISSUES WARNING

Rev. J. Alastair Haig Named Principal of Albert College

REV. J. A. HAIG

Judge J. C. Anderson, chairman of the Board of Governors of Albert College, has announced that Reverend J. Alastair Haig, present Dean of Men of Mount Allison University, has been appointed principal of Albert College, duties to commence June 30th. The appointment has been approved by the Board of Colleges of the United Church of Canada.

Mr. Haig holds the following degrees: B.P.E., B.A., B.D., S.T.M. He graduated from the University of Toronto in 1953 with the degree of Bachelor of Physical and Health Education, attended the Ontario College of Education in 1953-4 and taught at North Toronto Collegiate Institute in the year 1954-5. He received his Bachelor of Arts at Mount Allison University in 1956 and during the period at Mount Allison University he coached the senior football team. He received his degree of Bachelor of Divinity at the Pastoral College in Toronto in 1958 and in 1960 he received the degree of Master of Sacred Theology at Andover Newton Theological School, Newton, Mass., and at the same time was serving as minister of a Congregational Church in Harvard, Mass. Mr. Haig is a well known athlete having played lacrosse with the Toronto Varsity "Blues," was captain in the 1954 season and held a place on the intercollegiate all-star team. Mr. Haig is married and has three children.

It is the unanimous view of the Board of Governors of the College that the College is fortunate in securing so outstanding a principal who has both experience as a teacher in a secondary school and as a minister of a church.

Dr. A. E. MacKenzie, the retiring principal, has recently accepted a position as co-superintendent of the Home Missions Council for Metropolitan Toronto under the United Church of Canada, and is also responsible for home missions in the Presbytery of Sincoe.

Friend Flees, Firemen Rescue Man on Sandbar

Stranded on a sandbar near the Canadian Pacific Railway bridge when his helper took to his heels with the arrival of game inspectors, an alleged pickerel poacher had to be rescued by city firemen early today.

The man had been lowered from the bridge to a sandbar in the river and was to be assisted back up the hill companion who was to wait on the bridge.

But the fish and game inspectors arrived and the man on the bridge made his escape leaving his friend on the sandbar. Deep water on both sides of the sandbar prevented the man from getting ashore on his own.

Finally city firemen were called and the man was rescued from his chilly stand. Police said the man would be charged with illegal fishing.

DEFRAUDED NEW CANADIANS

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto man was convicted Tuesday of defrauding New Canadians of $6,000 under the pretence of bringing their relatives to Canada from behind the Iron Curtain.

Janos Jeso, 33, was remanded until April 27 for sentence.

Witnesses testified they gave Jeso money because he said he had "connections" with the ministry of internal affairs, the RCMP, the secret police and the Communist government in Hungary.

Three Charged

BRANTFORD (CP) — James Stannard, 17, and two brothers, Ronald Newrick, 23, and Lloyd Newrick, 22, were arrested on armed robbery, car theft and possession of stolen goods.

Police seized nine guns, two of them loaded, and some ammunition.

Three masked men held up a confectionery store in the north end of the city Saturday night, taking $35 and escaping in a stolen car.

The car for people who like boats

A Volkswagen will cost you a thousand dollars less than most conventional cars, and hold as much to run. You'll save enough to buy a boat and trailer, 4Or a trip to Europe, or the best part of a backyard pool!

The car you'll get to go with it is designed and built to meet the needs and fit the pocket of the average family. Big enough for two adults, three growing kids and luggage. Small enough to park where other cars can't.

Because we don't believe in costly style changes, we can build more quality into the car. A VW doesn't date and it doesn't depreciate. It just keeps running around, year after year, looking as up-to-the-minute as the ones in the showroom.

You can expect to get 38 miles from a gallon of gas under normal driving conditions. You'll never need oil between changes.

You can cruise all day in the sun, or dawdle for hours in a jam. The Volkswagen can't boil over because its engine is air cooled. It's far from unusual for a Volkswagen to go 60,000 miles without a major repair.

If you'd like to buy a boat for anything else for a thousand dollars, ask your Volkswagen dealer. He'll show you the car that will retire your standard affinity.

VOLKSWAGEN CANADA LTD.

Trade between stations is a two-way street. What Germany is one of Canada's best customers. And every Volkswagen sold in this country helps Canada to sell Germany more Canadian goods.

Ladies' Night On Council Is Proposed

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — The idea of a ladies night on city council has been proposed by a former Sarnia councillor as a means of doubling the brain power of the municipal political system.

George Sirrett, explaining his proposal to a reporter, said the first step would be to have council and the board of education decide on a ladies' night when wives would sit beside their husbands and observe what is going on.

The following night the wives would be given the opportunity of voting on issues before their husbands cast their ballots.

Then on a third night the wives would be permitted to take part in discussions.

This would all carried on throughout the year, would bring a startling and intelligent new approach to municipal affairs, Mr. Sirrett says.

"On ladies' night, the aldermen's attendance fee would be paid to the attending wives. The wives get it in toto. Each which also pointed there was a high-er percentage of married working forces than in that of the male.

Mr. Woodcox, as the representative of light industry, knew a thing or two about that with W. T. Hawkins, Ltd. which including supervision of three plants, including the production office, training of young people to fore-sic operating to personnel management, purchasing, shipping and the maintenance pro-cedures. In addition to these many other tasks had fallen to her as the demands of progress branched out, and specialized office skills were required. Mrs. Woodcox had been employed with her company since 1949 and feels that during the course of her many and varied duties, "I not only helped the Company, but I helped myself to an interesting and colorful career".

A YOUNG SERVICE

Mr. Ellsworth, in the course of his remarks, reminded his audience that the National Employment Service was as yet a relatively young service, and that the employment service was free to workers and employers alike. "The aim of the service is to organize the employment market as an intelligible unit for the programs for the maintenance and achievement of the highest possible level of employment".

Statistics, as presented by Mr. Ellsworth served to emphasize the seriousness of the unemployment problem, which he said would probably become a long-term problem despite periods of recovery, due principally to the large numbers of unskilled people on the labor market. National Figures as of Feb. 18, 1961, revealed a total labor force of 6,362,000 as compared with 6,218,000 in 1960. Of this number, 790,000 were currently unemployed, or 11.3 per cent of the labor force, as opposed to 529,000 or 9.5 per cent of the labor force in 1960. Local figures as of April 14, 1961 showed 2,174 male workers unemployed and 648 female workers.

UNEMPLOYMENT SLIGHTLY HIGHER

In Belleville, the percentage of people employed was running slightly ahead of last year, contrary to most of the country, since in 1960 at the same time, there were 2,217 male and 663 female unemployed workers.

At the present time of the people on claim, 1,244 are married, and 742 are single.

Belleville B.P.W. Club Holds Panel, Elects 1961 Officers

A panel discussion was held, with its topic "Working Environment Conditions," with Mrs. Dorothy Brown as moderator, and panel members Mrs. Ruth D.A.J. MacDonald, manager of the Northern Electric Co. plant in Belleville; Mr. Cecil Hulser, manager of the Unemployment Insurance Office; Mrs. Ella Plain and Mrs. Shirley Woodcox, plant manager of W. T. Hawkins, Limited.

Adding a great deal of interest to the evening was the fact that it was broadcast "live" over radio station C.J.S.O. with Mr. Frank Murray, manager of the station, in charge of broadcasting facilities, Mrs. Marie Huffman acted as announcer during the broadcast.

In order to acquaint the listeners with the backgrounds of the panel members, Mrs. Huffman asked each member to comment briefly on the nature of their work and the area of their employment.

Mr. MacDonald, of the Northern Electric Company, outlined some of his many responsibilities as Plant Works Manager, including some interesting facts about his company's representation. As of March 1st, the Northern Electric Company in all its plants employed 15,320 persons, of which 4,123 were female or 23 per cent. Locally, a total of 1,700 people are employed by the company, of which 318 are females or 35 per cent and 71 were employed in the office, or 7 per cent of the workers. A slightly higher percentage, 10 per cent was employed in Belleville due to its industrial growth.

At the present time, there were no women employed in the engineering field, and to date none had applied. He further explained the company's system of grading jobs with higher rates comparable to the degree of skill involved. He also pointed there was a high-er percentage of married working forces than in that of the male.

Mrs. Woodcox, as the representative of light industry, knew a thing or two about that with W. T. Hawkins, Ltd. which including supervision of three plants, including the production office, training of young people to fore-sic operating to personnel management, purchasing, shipping and the maintenance procedures. Hairstyling Demonstated At Church Club

A social evening in charge of Mary Lou Group, brought out a large attendance of Contact Club members on Monday evening.

Florence Lennox introduced Michael of Michael's Hair Stylists, who, with the aid of his assistant, Skippy Whitmarsh, demonstrated their latest hairstyles — the Shella, the Cynthia and the Sabrina.

Michael is a graduate of the Lorier School of Hairdressing in Rome, Mr. Whitmarsh is a graduate of Bruno's, of Toronto. Their skill and artistry in creating new and becoming hairstyles was ably shown. Contact Club members asked many questions and learned some useful hairstyling tricks.

Shirley Lake expressed the Club's thanks to Michael, Mr. Whitmarsh and their three charming and patient models.

MELROSE SALAD SERVERS

The fifth meeting of the Melrose Salad Servers 4-H Club was held April 17 at the home of Mrs. D. McLaren. The meeting was opened by the president.

The business consisted only of the next meeting items and the visit of the home economist.

The discussion period concerned preparing vegetables for salads, making salads and making salad dressings.

Mrs. McLaren demonstrated how to make the French salad dressing. To use the French dressing, a tossed salad was made. A demonstration of lemon jelly and carrot salad was also done by the leader. The members demonstrated how to make celery curls, carrot curls, pickle fans, raddish fans and raddish roses.

United Church Sponsors Fashion Show

FRANKFORD — Last Wednesday evening, Frankford United Church Friendship Group was held in Rose Lowery Hall.

About 50 women and children modelled home-sewn clothes. These consisted of suits, coats, dresses and sportswear, an evening dress and a bridesmaid dress.

Clothes were also modelled that can be purchased from the Frankford Shoe Store. Ladies' shoes and children's shoes and carried bags from the local shoe store.

This was the first fashion show to be put on by this church and was especially interesting as most of the clothes were home-sewn and the remainder from Frankford stores. All were very lovely. A capacity crowd enjoyed it.

Mrs. Bruce Service was commentator, Mrs. Eld Martin was organist throughout the evening.

At intermission prizes were distributed that had been donated by other Frankford businesses.

Following intermission, Mr. Thompson, of Trenton, also of Trenton, gave a half hour demonstration of flower arrangements.

The show was brought to a close with Miss Vasile Rahel modelling a sari of material from Pakistan.

Mrs. Janet Beach thanked all who had helped to make the show such a success.

A.N.A.F. L.A. Initiates Two Members

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada held its monthly meeting Monday in the Memorial Hall, Picton Street. The president, Mrs. Ann Percy, called the meeting to order with two minute silence in honor of fallen comrades.

Two members were initiated and welcomed to the Auxiliary.

Mrs. M. Galbraith, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting, also the minutes of the Provincial Command meeting. The next Provincial Command meeting is to be held in Ottawa on May 20.

Miss Elizabeth Buckley, treasurer, read her report, followed by a financial statement.

Owing to the illness of Mrs. Wood Dracup, president Percy gave the report of the banquet of last week and banquets of this week.

Under new business it was decided that a flag should be used for Auxiliary No. 43. The annual donations to be made to the veterans' home, to Queen-ston hospitals, and the sanatorium.

The evening draws were won by Mrs. Ronsky and Mrs. Brady.

After the collection for flower fund, the meeting was adjourned until the third Monday in May.

A pot-luck lunch and social hour were enjoyed.

In the absence of the new president, who was unable to attend, the past president, Mrs. Atkins presided for the remainder of the meeting.

FUTURE EVENTS

"The Grandmothers" meeting will be held in May with Mrs. D. Leeming and Mrs. F. Doxtator as convenors to arrange next year's programme.

The Quinte W.I. millinery course will be held on April 19th-20th and 21st. There are about 18 members who signed to take this course. An invitation from the Parkdale W.I. was received which the Quinte W.I. were invited to attend a coffee party on May 10th, which event is planned.

Volunteers to bake for the May meeting were Mesdames F. Mitchell, D. Atkins, J. Garbutt, K. Vivian and A. Mason.

Sincere thanks were voted to the retiring president, Mrs. R. Atkins and to the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. F. Jeffery, for their wonderful efforts during the past two years in connecting, with the new hall.

The district annual will be held at Canniton, on May 18th and all conveners and the executive will meet on Monday night, April 17th, to arrange next year's programme.

Thanks were expressed to the hostess committee, Mesdames M. Mitchell, C. Grose, W. Kentrick, Percy, D. Robertson, for their work in arranging the lunches.

The meeting closed and a social half hour was enjoyed.

The president, Mrs. Maitland Harder, presided.

At the business session, Mr. Brian Thrasher told that he was holding a skating class at the next meeting on April 26 at Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Hacker.

The program was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grelig and Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Hacker, taking the form of a historical quiz, with Mr. Grelig with a hymn and the Bible reading from Matthew 6 with Mrs. D. Harry leading in prayer.

Mr. Fred Meyers was a guest at this meeting. The topic was "Our Community From the Beginning Until Now." They traced the farms back as far as possible to find out just who had been living there long ago. Maps were also made of the 3rd concession, making this a very interesting meeting.

IODE Provides Opportunity to Show Devotion

HAMILTON (CP) — Mrs. W. R. Morrison, provincial president of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire told delegates at their annual meeting here today the IODE provided an opportunity to demonstrate their devotion to the Commonwealth.

"It does not lie within the power of the ordinary citizen to display statesmanship, but personal loyalty, tolerance and seeing the other man's point of view are qualities we can all exercise," she said.

She said the word patriotism was heard less frequently and was greeted with satirical laughter by some people. "But without patriotism, without a sense of duty, without truth, the wall that is the Commonwealth would not hold."

Balanced Meals For Calorie Counters

By Mary Moore

Request from Reader: "Could you please send me some balanced diet meals for four adults, who want to go a calorie-count reducing diet. We are all in good health but a bit too heavy. I am 5' 4" and weigh 164 pounds. My husband is 5' 7" and weighs 182 pounds. I love to cook and bake and we are all good eaters. We have given up pastries also I have given up bread and have substituted crackers. My two teenagers are not too much overweight but are cooperating pretty well. I'd appreciate any help you can give . . . Mrs. A.C."

Since I know there are many of you in the same predicament I welcomed this request. Here goes:

EGGLETON W.M.S.—W.A.

MADOC JUNCTION — The Easter meeting of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. was held recently at the home of Mrs. Maurice Clancy.

The W.A. president, Mrs. William McMullen presided over the program provided by Mrs. Bruce Stapley and opened the meeting with a reading in keeping with the theme on Easter.

The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. McMullen and Mrs. Warren Harlow, with the reading of selected portions of Scripture. An Easter meditation followed with prayer by Mrs. Carl Bridges.

The Easter thank-offering was gathered and dedicated with prayer.

There were 4 visitors, 10 members and 1 child in attendance.

Mrs. McMullen spoke briefly and welcomed the visitors present.

Mrs. Carl Bridges offered her home for the May meeting and Mrs. Frank Smith and Mrs. Murney Kirkey were appointed to prepare the program.

It was decided that W.A. purchase a flower to be placed in the church; also several necessary items for use in the kitchen are to be purchased. Mrs. Stapley and Mrs. Clancy were appointed to buy these. There was a discussion on having a social meeting in May, as the Auxiliary here was organized 50 years ago on May 19th, 1911.

Mrs. Clancy was requested to interview Mr. Putman in regards to having him show his films on Africa.

Mr. Dyson expressed thanks for flowers sent to him, while in hospital and by Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. R. Stapley for cards sent to them.

The chapter from the "Study Book" was presented in an interesting manner by Mrs. Bruce Stapley, who had a large diary of Europe and Asia and pointed out the places visited by Miss Betty Thompson.

A reading, "There is Color in Christianity," was given by Mrs. M. Clancy.

Mrs. McMullen thanked the hostess and program convener.

A dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Clancy and a social half-hour was enjoyed.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

We are in that part of the year when traffic of all kinds is on the increase. This includes you, whether you are driving or not, because, according to the heading of an article in the publication "Canadian Motorist", pedestrians are traffic too. Watching traffic in Toronto the other day, we noticed many things that seemed wrong to us, possibly because we were away from home. When one drives in a completely strange place for the first time, all the traffic signs seem against one and are vaguely annoying. What happens at home, we are used to.

One instance we noticed was when a man stepped out on a crosswalk from in front of a parked car. Someone remarked: "It is dangerous on crosswalks, too, if you don't watch carefully." Then in reading the above-mentioned article, we noticed a list of the commonest motoring faults that endanger pedestrians:

Driving too fast for road conditions.

Failing to yield to pedestrians on crosswalks.

Driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Failing to stop at the sidewalk at a lane exit.

Parking too close to crosswalk.

Passing vehicle stopped at crosswalk.

Failing to yield to pedestrians when making turns on a green light.

We realized that the above incident had arisen because a car had been parked too close to the crosswalk. The second fault of failing to yield to pedestrians on crosswalks is one that might be stressed in any city, including Belleville. Some

Successful Living

Ashamed of Young Mother

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—I am so ashamed of my mother. She smokes and drinks and flirts with my father and other men when they come to parties at our house. Even when they are alone they act silly and throw things at each other.

If I say anything they just make fun of me. I am 16 and I have some nice friends. I don't want them to think my parents are queer.—SALLY.

DEAR SALLY:—Many a girl would give her eye-teeth for a mother who knew how to play. However, you may have a point.

There are times when a girl needs a mother who acts motherly. The woman who clings to youth so hard she appears ridiculous is being immature. And this makes you feel superior and critical.

Don't worry too much about what your friends think. You are coming into womanhood and into the spotlight. Your mother will come to see this gradually, especially if you do not make your disapproval too noticeable. Let her see that you need her. She is bound to grow older; and the day will come when you will prize any youthful qualities she is able to retain.

DEAR DORIS:—We have two pre-school-aged children. I am finding it very hard to make ends meet on my husband's small salary as an office worker, and want to go to work. I used to love my job in a government office. I could put the children in a day nursery. Would this be wrong?—STENO.

DEAR STENO:—Is it just the money? Some mothers find that being at home all the time is a very dull life indeed, while others thrive on it. Some women are just not born housewives and need very much to be out, at least part of the time.

If you have skill as a stenographer and there is a convenient day nursery run by trained nursery school workers, it might be worth trying. The nursery experience can help the children to develop independence. They still need your loving care during their hours at home, of course.

DEAR DORIS:—In a few weeks my husband will be retiring from his job. He likes to look forward to it, but I can't stand the idea of having him around the house and underfoot all the time.—HOME BODY.

DEAR HOME BODY:—Where do you want him to go? To the nearest billiard hall?

He has supported you all your life; made it possible for you to run a home—and learn to act possessive about it, as you do. Can't you see yourself as helping him to enjoy these years of freedom?

If you haven't found some common interests by now, it is high time you did. There are plenty of interesting things to do together. Older folk curl, skate, enter do-it-yourself contests, give volunteer service, and even write their memoirs!

Don't be such a stick-in-the-mud that you have to keep your nose in the kitchen sink while he finds new worlds to conquer by himself.

(Doris Clark will be glad to help you with your problems. Write to her care of this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope).

MODERN MANNERS

GRANDPARENTS HAVE PROBLEMS, TOO!

The following are inquiries, selected at random, from those who have become grandparents. While it is an honored and wonderful position to be in, it does have its problems, I know. I'm one myself, eight times over.

For example: Should grandparents allow their grandchildren to call them by their first names? I am against any child calling adults by their first names. But in this case it is a little different. When a baby first starts to talk, and has both maternal and paternal grandparents, he is very apt to call one pair "Grannie and Granddad." It confuses him when he comes in contact with the others. Usually, he finds his own names for the other two! Such is the case with me. I am "Cawie" to all of them, because the first one gave me this name. I do not think this disrespectful, because I know the reason for it. As a matter of fact, I love it!

Should a gift be taken every time you visit the younsters? No — and I feel very strongly about this! On special occasions, yes. Adopted for the everyday relationship, it fosters the idea is a child's mind that one means present. His love for you naturally will be based more on this concept, than on yourself.

Should we offer to "baby sit"? Yes, within reason. Let's face it. Young people can be rather thoughtless and may take advantage of you if you are not careful. Don't always be "on call." Offer once in awhile, when some special thing is coming up that you know they would like to attend. Make your "baby sitting" one of fairness on both sides. Refuse to be taken for granted at all times.

How far do you go when it comes to giving advice on the up-bringing of your grandchildren? The answer is "No place" if specifically asked for advice about something, give it to the best of your ability. Otherwise, mum's the word. You children have to make their own decisions about their children. You didn't want unasked-for suggestions when you were bringing up yours, remember?

Is it all right to take the attitude that "I couldn't spoil my own youngsters, but I will have fun spoiling my grandchildren!" To me, this is definitely the wrong approach. It just isn't fair to their parents to have "fun" spoiling them, and then allow their mother to suffer through bringing them down to earth again.

Fellow grandparents! Do write and give me your ideas on this subject. Do you agree, or disagree, with me?

Question — I expect to spend a week with some friends in the country. Should I take a gift with me? They have three small children. If I should take a gift, what should it be?
Mr. P. T. Y., New York.

Answer — It is considered proper to take a gift to your hostess in such a situation. Flowers, candy or a book are ideal. However, in your situation, where there are small children, I would suggest taking each one of them a small toy instead. Just be sure to write your hostess as soon as you return from the visit.

Question — I am a great lover of fish. I particularly like to order it when eating in a restaurant because they always seem to cook it so well. But I have a silly problem! I like lemon with my fish but I always succeed in squirting it right in the eye of the man on my neighbor! What to do?
Mrs. K. M. S., Baltimore, Md.

Answer — It's really very simple! Place the wedge of lemon in your right hand, and, as you squeeze it, cup your left hand over it. In this way, any "squirt" will hit your hand and not your partner!

The Experts Say

Beware of Waxing Floors More Than Once a Month

By DEIRDRE MUNGOVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — For most housewives, spring means one thing — mops, rags, soap, brushes, pails of water and lots of work.

If you're one of those women who annually roll up their sleeves, don their oldest clothes and wrap a scarf around their head, William MacEachern, supervisor of special contracts in a Toronto commercial cleaning company, has some advice.

That's assuming you're unable to turn your home over to a company such as his which will clean all your walls, ceilings, floors, carpets, windows and furniture upholstery in one day.

One suggestion is to rent a floor - cleaning machine which is equipped with brushes for scrubbing and polishing floors. But he cautions that floors will discolor and can be ruined if they are waxed more than once a month. Wash only if the floor won't shine; otherwise damp mop it with cold water and then polish.

STRIP THE WAX

Once a year, says Mr. MacEachern, strip the layers of wax on tile floors such as cork, linoleum, mastic, vinyl and vinyl asbestos and hardwood floors.

The recommended wax stripper which is sold by a commercial chemical company and not one you can buy in the supermarket," he said, emphasizing that ordinary products won't remove layers of wax applied over a great period.

His recommended washing tile floors with a good neutral detergent and plenty of hot water. Allow the water to stay on the floor 10 minutes and then scour with either a steel-wool pad or use the floor-cleaning machine. Pick up the dirty solution with mops or cloths and rinse the surface. When the floor has dried, apply two or three uniformly thin coats of wax with a cloth or a lambs-wool applicator. Dry and polish each coat separately.

"Rubber tile floors are in a class by themselves. They stand up well and have a good finish. But they can't be cleaned with soap, which will destroy the floor's composition. Rely on a recommended rubber tile cleaner."

SCRUBBING THE CORNERS

Inaccessible areas such as corners and floor edges must be cleaned by hand.

You can renew a hardwood floor's glow with a solution of varnish. It should be applied manually since the machine might ignite the fluid if it touches any nails.

Mr. MacEachern said the easiest and best way to apply a paste wax to hardwood is to place a large amount on a clean soft cloth, tie up the cloth ends and hit the waxed ball inside with your hands until you see the wax seeping through.

Walls should be washed with a recommended detergent once every two years depending on whether you live in an area that is clean or has considerable air, smoke, dirt. Always start at the bottom of the wall to prevent water dripping and permanently staining a dirty surface.

Use two large natural sponges, one for rinsing and one for washing.

Let a professional cleaner look after your furniture upholstery and carpets, Mr. MacEachern advised. An average living chesterfield will cost $8.50 to $9, an armchair $4.50, and carpets eight to 10 cents a square foot.

Windows won't streak if they are washed with a solution of vinegar and water applied with a lint-free cloth or a sponge and blade squeegee as used by professional window-cleaners.

Work on record book.

Young Couple Feted With Shower

WELLINGTON — A large number of friends and neighbors from the Swamp College and Nilles Corners, districts gathered at the Town Hall, in Wellington to honor Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pettitpas, a recent bride and bridegroom, with a miscellaneous shower.

Euchre was played during the evening. Mr. Glendon Sanders of Toronto entertained several times during the evening with some fine piano selections.

About 10 p.m. the honored couple were seated at a table when Mrs. Beden Alyea read an appropriate address and the sponsors of the party, Mrs. George Baitley, Mrs. Norman Allinot, Mrs. Robert Graham, carried in the many lovely and useful gifts.

Bill and Joan were assisted in unwrapping the gifts by two friends, Miss Marie Fellows and Mr. Archie Kingma; after which, the young couple both voiced their appreciation for the beautiful gifts from their friends and also thanked the ladies who sponsored the party. Delicious refreshments were served.

IODE Members Total 15,198 Says Secretary

HAMILTON (CP) — Membership in the 488 Ontario chapters of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire is 15,818, organizing secretary, Mrs. E. L. Hilton of Windsor reported at the annual Ontario meeting here today. Annual reports by provincial regents and lakes convenors were given.

Provincial treasurer Mrs. D. A. Bruce of Ancaster, said chapter reports showed disbursements of $424,888 and nearly $41,000 was raised by IODE members for other organizations.

Student assistance reached an all-time high with $98,526 going to 796 students. Education secretary Mrs. H. B. MacMahon said 188 students were the sons and daughters of veterans.

In addition to the scholarships, 34 bursaries and three interest-free loans were granted.

Of the $173,817 spent on services, $130,777 was administered by members in their own communities. The remainder, $47,040, was distributed by the British Save the Children Fund and Soldiers', Sailors' and airmen's Families Association. Mrs. J. A. Stuart of Hamilton reported. Osterio chapters have adopted 194 children in Korea, Germany, Austria, Greece, Italy and Lebanon.

Women's Activities

BELLROSE W.M.S.

The W.M.S. ladies of Melrose Church held their regular monthly meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. Milligan with a splendid attendance of members and several visitors. The president, Mrs. J. Milligan, opened the meeting with a few short introductory remarks on the "Easter Theme", after which Mrs. L. Wrens read the Scripture from Luke 23:1-9.

A brief business period followed when "Thank-you" letters were read and an invitation to meet with Shannonville W.A. ladies was received and accepted.

Mrs. R. MacFarlane kindly offered her home for the next meeting and it was decided to have the W.M.S. canvass early in May.

Mrs. Milligan took charge of the worship service and distributed to all present leaflets bearing the service hymns entitled, "Crown Him the Lord of Life", so that each could participate.

The leader for the month, Mrs. S. Demill took charge and read a lovely poem, "The Easter Procession", which was followed by an interesting Easter drama, "The Road to Emmaus", which was enacted in dialogue manner by the readers Mrs. Demill, Mrs. Milligan and Mrs. R. Hedgley. Both portrayed vividly the story and alone when it was discovered that Jesus had risen from the grave.

The various individuals who had been responsible for guarding the tomb and also the members of the Council were questioned. The women who had visited the tomb and found the stone rolled away were also interviewed and "Just as Jesus raised Lazarus from the Dead" so He, Himself, conquered death. He lives! He lives today and every Christian knows it and by his Resurrection He gives each believer everlasting proof that if he or she loves Him they, too, will never die.

Mrs. MacFarlane gave a reading, "A Dream — Or Was It All Alchemy" after which young Esther Sexsmith read a poem entitled, "Night Before Easter".

Mrs. L. Wrens gave a short prayer.

Mrs. J. Milligan thanked the hostess and all who had helped in the program and closed with the benediction after which lunch was served and a social time enjoyed.

ST. ANDREW'S GUILD

The president, Mrs. B. A. Evans opened the meeting with a prayer. Eleven members were present.

Plans were made for a rummage sale on April 29th to be held in the old Boyle Barber Shop, from 2-5 p.m. Anyone having anything for sale are to call Mrs. Evans or Mrs. Rogers and the articles will be picked up. Plans were also made to hold a bridge tea and bake sale on Wednesday June 7th. It was also planned to cater at the official opening of the New Bank of Nova Scotia on April 22nd.

Mrs. Lane had on display, material which she had bought to be used in making articles for the fall bazaar. Some of this material was given out to the members.

Mrs. Herrington served refreshments assisted by Mrs. J. B. Lavender.

Club Activities

KUM DOUBLE CLUB

HALLOWAY — The regular meeting of the Kum Double Club was held recently at the home of Harry and Edna McMullen with 20 in attendance.

The business was attended to. Several bills are to be paid and a letter was read from the Association for Retarded Children, which thanked the group for its recent donation.

Mr. Burgoyne is to be asked to refinish all outside doors of the church before anniversaries. The evening's collection amounted to $4.53.

The topic, "Choosing Worthy Goals", was presented by Eva Robson. A story was read by Lorna Hough, "Striving After the Wind."

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Lewis B. — My father makes so many rules, the other kids laugh at me.

Mr. W. B. — I don't want to raise a beatnik.

Lewis B. — I'm 13 years old and my father treats me like three. When I go to the movies with my friends, he doesn't just tell me to come straight home, but he tells Gus or whoever comes for me to make sure I don't go roaming around after the show.

The other kids get out after supper for a catch or a card game. They used to wait for me, but now they've given up. Dad won't let me down until he's checked my homework and, even then, he'll make me read an entire article for Current Events, or look up a few words in the dictionary. He's too strict and I want a show-down.

I'd rather be in bad with my father than with my pals.

Mr. W. B. — Lew's friends are a sad bunch, only he can't see it. They are just as neglected and abandoned as if they were orphans. If beatniks are those who just drift, grabbing the pleasures of the moment and running fast from real hard work, then that's where those kids are headed.

I have no duty toward them. My duty is toward Lew. I'm hoping to be able to move the family soon to a more stimulating environment, where I'm not the only parent who cares how my son fills his time.

Lew thinks I'm strict. He should have known my father and grandfather.

He'll thank me in the end. I'm not harsh, just firm.

The Council — Would Lewis rather grow up to be a leaf or a tree? His friends when he enters are "free" but only as a leaf is free — free to be wind-tossed, wind-swept, and wind-whipped. His dad is way of being a lonely, uphill, evidently thankless job of helping a tiny sink strong roots, so that his freedom, when it comes, can lead to health and wholesome pleasure, rather than to nothingness.

This is the same time, we must caution Mr. B. against ignoring Lewis's latent social needs at this time, his need to be "one of the boys." Until such time as the expected move takes place, Lewis must be helped to see face to front of his peers by joining them for intellectual pursuits. A scornful or snobbish attitude is wrong, however justified that they envy Lewis the blessing of a father who sets limits and takes a close interest. — "Is like a compass. Once you know just where you stand, you can venture forth in unconventional directions. You can wander off the beaten track, always knowing which way is back."

TO KEEP FIT—Many members of Parliament recognize the need for physical fitness in jobs that may keep them chained to desks for weeks and then send them out on a gruelling campaign trip. Interviews with various prominent MPs showed they participate in a wide variety of activities from swimming to snow-shoeing. Trade Minister Hees, at 10, keeps trim by daily walks, swimming and occasional skiing. Here he is shown skiing at Lake Louise, Alta. (CP Photo).

In this they fly in the face of a recent remark by Dr. David Bates of Montreal that physical exercise may be a waste of time for the man past his 45.

Sir Arthur Asbitor Minister Green, 65, keeps in shape with long walks in the Gatineau Hills north of Ottawa. Mrs. Green accompanies him.

"They're not just strolls, but long walks—four, five, sometimes six miles at a stretch."

"I do like to think that my walks, or 'route marches' as some of my friends call them, make a real contribution to my sense of well-being."

Paul Martin, 57, member for Essex East and former Liberal health minister who went on a rigorous diet to cut his weight from 215 to 180 pounds some years ago, spends 15 minutes a day swimming in the Rideau River in summer and in the Chateau Laurier Hotel pool in winter.

"Swimming releases tension, relaxing you and giving you a sense of well-being, a renewed feeling of fresh energy."

Mr. Martin also walks from his Sandy Hill apartment to the Parliament Buildings, about 2½ miles, and frequently home again at night.

George Hees, 50, minister of trade and commerce and a former Toronto Argonaut football player, covers 15 lengths non-stop in the Chateau pool daily, goes skiing when he gets the chance and walks a minimum of five miles a day.

"Relaxation is the secret. Whatever you do, no matter how heavy the pressure, how tight the tension, you can always unwind with a swim or a walk. To keep active you've got to relax."

TRIES PHYSICAL JERKS

J. W. Pickersgill, 54, former immigration minister who represents the Selkirk-Inland riding of Bonavista - Twillingate, says he walks a mile or so before going to the office each morning. On rising he spends 10 minutes "doing what I can" with the air force's 5BX fitness drill, a graduated series of exercises laid out by the RCAF.

Defence Minister Harkness, 57, goes snow-shoeing in the Gatineau Hills during the winter. In summer he swims, rows, golfs, cuts grass and chops wood at his Gatineau cottage.

Works Minister Walker, 54, and his wife ski "seriously" on the big hills at Mont Tremblant, Que., Stowe, Vt., and Blue Mountain in Collingwood, Ont. In summer, he exercises in his canoe on the Rideau, sometimes paddling to work from his house across Mooney's Bay.

Veterans Minister Churchill, 56, counts rowing, canoeing and walking as his major exercises, but says he is coasting physically on nearly 40 years of defense conditioning — tennis, soccer, hockey, basketball, lacrosse and hockey.

Will is the fittest of all legislators?

Joe Tremblay, who retired recently at 67 after 18 years as the Commons masseur, gives Liberal Leader Pearson, 63, top marks.

"He works hard and relaxes easy, but always in moderation. Physical well-being is a state of mind almost as much as body, thing."

Melrose

MELROSE — Recent Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Macfarlane were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Garvin and girls; Mr. Donald Masters and friend, Belleville, and Cheryl and Teddy Hall of Maynooth.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Macfarlane and Mr. and Mrs. Grant McLaren were Saturday evening supper guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Badgley.

At Melrose United Church on the 9th of April, the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was a part of the morning service, conducted by the Rev. R. F. Sherwin, B.A., B.D., assistant pastor of Bridge Street United Church. Two christenings took place, Maxine Marjorie Lazier, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Lazier, and Donald Charles Tuck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tuck. A large number of communicants were present.

Relatives of the Christened children were in attendance and later joined the children's parents in their homes for Christening parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLaren called on Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nielsen and family at Collins Bay, on Sunday afternoon.

Scout and Cub leaders with their wives and assistants, attended the banquet and dance at Club Canara, on the evening of the April 10th.

A huge pile of papers was collected by Scout Leader, Thomas Howard and helpers, on Saturday last. Mr. Reg Fox transported the truck load to Strathcona. The scouts are anxious to make some money to purchase tail equipment and plan another collection of gallon jugs and bottles soon.

At the regular meeting of the troops held in the Twp. Hall on Wednesday evening last a "going up" ceremony took place when Lynn Strachan and Billy Belnap advanced to Scouts.

Soft drinks and cookies were served as refreshments at this special meeting.

Quite a number called on Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Badgley, Napanee on Wednesday afternoon as they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. The community extends best wishes to them.

St. Ola

ST. OLA — Mr. and Mrs. H. Davidson of Downsview were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Philips.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Connely and two children from Carrying Place the Misses Edith and Barbara Philips from Trenton, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Philips.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Longmuir and family of Napanee visited Mr. and Mrs. Ed Longmuir over the weekend.

Mr. Gerald Baker, Coe Hill visited his sisters, Mrs. Elsie King and Mrs. Thomas Ham on Tuesday.

and Mike Pearson thinks fit."

Mr. Tremblay says Prime Minister Diefenbaker is in top physical shape, his drive undiminished and his vigor unimpaired by the stress and strain of office. He attributes Mr. Diefenbaker's condition to "an astounding change of pace, going like the very wind one minute and cat - napping the next."

Mr. Pearson himself said his plan for a man leading a sedentary but high-pressure life is to avoid the extremes between no exercise and too much and too strenuous exercise.

"Avoiding these extremes is my middle-of-the-road policy for keeping fit. Moderation in exercise and physical activity is the thing."

CAREER DIPLOMAT — Australia's newly-appointed high commissioner to Canada, David Osborne Hay, 44, served in Canada from 1950 to 1953 as commission secretary. He joined the Australian diplomatic service in 1939. He is shown with his wife, Allison, who will accompany him to Canada with the younger of two sons. (CP Photo).

CANBERRA (CP) — Australia's new high commissioner to Canada, David Osborne Hay, a senior career diplomat, is a staunch "Commonwealth man" looking forward to doing his share in strengthening and widening the ties between the two countries.

Although it is his first post as head of mission in a member nation of the Commonwealth, Ottawa will not be new to Hay when he arrives with his wife and younger son—Alan, 9.

He served in Canada from 1950 to 1953 as official secretary of the high commission.

That was his first posting as a diplomat but he had spent other years abroad for Australia as an Intratyrman under the broad rim of the slouch hat of the Australian "Digger."

A product of Australia's foremost school, Geelong Grammar, Hay returned from Oxford where he graduated and joined the diplomatic service in 1939. Within a year, he was with the first Australian troops in the Middle East and in the western desert campaign was severely wounded and won the DSO for outstanding bravery.

IN JUNGLE

Later service included difficult industry campaigns against the Japanese in the jungles and mountains of New Guinea. He ended active service as a lieutenant-colonel but has remained with the citizen military forces and has done a great deal of work for Legacy—the Australian movement which looks after the welfare of children of deceased servicemen.

Now 44, David Hay, tall, lean, with thinning hair, is looking forward immensely to living again in Ottawa. So is his wife Alison.

"We enjoyed every moment of our time there," he said in an interview.

"So you can imagine how delighted we were when one day I was called in and offered the post."

The Hays lived in Rockcliffe Park and have many friends they will be seeing again. He is a member of New Edinburgh Cricket Club. Both are keen tennis players and skiers.

From Canada, after his first sojourn there, Hay spent a year in Britain at the Imperial Defence College before he was appointed Australian ambassador to Thailand. Since then, he has been senior assistant secretary of the Australian external affairs department in charge of administration.

HAS TACT

That is a job that involves saying "no" pretty frequently and calls for unlimited tact, clear thinking and deep understanding of men and women. Those who have served with Hay in peace and in war say these are among the many qualities of this quiet-spoken, unassuming man.

He is interested in everything of mutual concern to Canada and Australia but he is particularly anxious to do all possible to build up strong, expanding reciprocal trade.

As part of his preparation for the role of spokesman for Australia in Canada, he has spent many recent weeks refreshing an already comprehensive knowledge of every aspect of the Australian economy and has been making on-the-spot studies of conditions and developments in the various states and territories.

Mrs. Hay, whose interests include interior decorating and fabric designing, hopes to further these interests with mutual benefit while she is in Canada. There will be special emphasis on the use of wool for fashion fabrics.

Their younger son will return to Canada with them but their elder boy, now nearly 16, will remain at his father's old school at Geelong, about 45 miles from Melbourne, the capital city of Victoria.

Operation Profit on Seaway Still Short of Meeting Debt Requirements of Authority

OTTAWA (CP)—A net operating profit of $3,451,889 in 1960 was reported Tuesday by the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority.

However, the revenue was still $9,339,498 short of meeting debt service payments of the authority, which runs the Canadian sections of the international waterway, including the Welland Canal.

The financial details were contained in the authority's annual report for 1960, tabled in the Commons by Transport Minister Balcer.

It was the seventh annual report of the authority but the first one to deal with a full 12 months' operating expenses in running and maintaining the giant waterway that bypasses a series of rapids in the St. Lawrence River between Montreal and Lake Ontario, as well as operating the Welland Canal.

In 1960 the Seaway authority earned $9,360,642, compared with $9,214,475 in 1959—the year the inland ocean highway was opened to traffic.

IMPROVEMENTS

Main reason for the jump was the $2,431,688 debt charge figure against a nine-month figure for 1959. But the amount also includes a year's interest charge on improvements to the Welland Canal, which is part of the seaway.

For the second year in a row, the Seaway authority failed to earn enough money from tolls on cargoes to meet its debt charges through the seven-lock St. Lawrence system to cover its operating and maintenance expenses.

After meeting a $92,190 charge for replacing movable capital assets, the authority reported a net loss of $8,431,688 for 1960. In 1959, the net loss was $6,688,- but this included almost $4,000,000 for depreciation, which is not provided for in the Welland project.

The authority must try to pay off the capital cost of the seaway by the year 2008 through its earnings from tolls on ships using the waterway.

FORECAST OFF

So far, the actual tonnage handled by the seaway has been well below the level first stated their intention to seek the debt relinquished because of ill - health by Solon Low Mr. Manning reiterated in an interview Tuesday night that he would not be available for the national leadership.

FIGHTS ARTHRITIS

Manning Sees Social Credit As Alternative

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit offers the Canadian people an effective alternative to socialism and the failure of the old-line Conservative and Liberal parties, Premier Manning of Alberta said Tuesday night.

In an address to a public meeting here, he decried what he called the trend to "bargain-basement" politics while suggesting that acceptance of socialism would lead to complete statism with consequent loss of individual freedom, responsibility and initiative.

Social Credit offered a philosophy of enlightened government, a modern adaptation of democratic principles, The movement had been grossly misrepresented as the "funny money" party.

"No Social Credit government ever advocated turning on the printing presses and rolling out the money," said the man who is Alberta's Social Credit premier since 1943, but has held office longer than any of the premier's provincial premiers.

But Social Credit did say that for every $1 worth of goods produced from the development of resources, it was the duty of government to see that $1 worth of purchasing power was put into the hands of the people who produced it.

Putting purchasing power in the hands of the consumer would have the effect of creating investment and ensure a buoyant economy. This could be distributed through dividends, increases in pensions, public works or other means.

Robert N. Thompson of Ottawa and Red Deer, Alta., president of the Social Credit Association of Canada, told the gathering of about 150 that between 2,000 and 4,000 persons are expected at the party's leadership convention here July 5-7.

He and Real Caouette, pres-ident of Le Ralliement de Credistes du Quebec, and George Hahn, former Social Credit MP for New Westminster, have stated their intention to seek the post relinquished because of ill - health by Solon Low Mr. Manning reiterated in an interview Tuesday night that he would not be available for the national leadership.

Cuban Issue May Affect Solution of World Problems

By CARMAN CUMMING

Prime Minister Nehru put his said flatly that the exiles have said flatly that the exiles have finger on a key factor in the future been training for the invasion in the U.S. and Central America for nine months.

of the Cuban invasion when he said that it might affect the solution of other world problems such as disarmament "and possibly Laos."

There is a two-fold danger: that the dispute between the U.S. and Russia over Cuba may carry over into other spheres of negotiation and that the Cuban needy administration may lose stature among neutral nations, particularly in Latin America.

Despite American insistence that only Cubans are involved in the attack on Fidel Castro's regime, the undeniable fact remains that United States help has given at least moral backing to a revolt against a government to which it is treaty-bound.

Although diplomatic relations have been severed, the U.S. and the Castro government still are tied bound under the Organization of American States treaty, which stimulates that no country has the right to intervene "directly or indirectly, for any reason whatever" in the internal affairs of another member state.

At the United Nations Monday U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson declared that the invasion had been launched from the U.S. by Cubans earlier State Secretary Dean Rusk also had stated U.S. policy of non-intervention.

But both officials conceded that U.S. sympathies are with the rebels and both avoided a definite commitment that the U.S. is not giving back - door aid to the anti-Castro attackers.

Meanwhile Cuban exiles were being openly recruited on U.S. soil. The New York Times has

However, the revelation that the rebels were reported to have suffered heavy casualties in an attack on Damba Monday. As they withdrew reports here said, they killed Negro women and children in a neighboring village.

The reports also said that at least three persons of mixed blood were killed when the rebels destroyed the northern Angolan village of Lucunga Monday.

The U.S. is picked up moslem, insurgent leaders from Latin Portuguese overseas territories to met for a conference Tuesday in Casablanca, Morocco.

Conference President Mario de Andrade of the Angolan Popular Liberation movement warned that Angolans would intensify their armed action against the Portuguese.

Miguel Trovoada, of the committee of liberation of San Tome and Principe islands off West Africa, said the Portuguese-ruled islands have the world's highest mortality rate.

"Ninety-five per cent of our children die before they are five," he said.

HITS SEGREGATION

SEAFORTH (CP)—A United States minister Tuesday condemned forms of segregation he said exist within Presbyterianism, Church in the U.S., and notably in his church in Canada. Rev. Robert B. Cunningham, secretary of the eastern area of the United Presbyterian Church in the United States, told delegates to the Presbyterian synod of Hamilton and London that while churches and the public condemn apartheid in South Africa and the color bar in the southern United States there is economic, political and racial segregation in churches.

Reinforcements Rush to Angola To Quell Rebels

LUANDA, Angola (Reuters)—Portuguese reinforcements totalling seven companies left by air northern Angola where Negro rebels were reported to have seized a vast northern area bordering the Congo.

Official Lusitania news agency Lusitania claimed the rebel force was being swelled daily by hundreds of Portuguese terrorists from The Congo.

The invaders, the agency said, were pouring into northern Angola by a rebel-held corridor in a supposedly-pacified area in the northern sector of the West African colony bordering The Congo. Dotting the corridor are the villages of Secandica, Quibala and Quinsada.

Meanwhile, officials there said that security forces were continuing their drive against the rebels and had arrested 68 persons, including some tribal chiefs, in the village of Carmona. The village has been another heavy rebel attack in recent days.

Twenty-four rebels were reported killed in an unsuccessful attack on the northern Angolan village of Castilo and a rebel cell was broken up in Novo Redondo.

The Portuguese air force reported, meanwhile, that rebel concentrations had been spotted elsewhere in northern Angola.

FOLLOW PREPARED PLAN

The Lusitania agency claimed that terrorist raids in the north now were following a well-prepared tactical plan instead of the disorganized attacks which characterized the early stages of the two-month-old revolt.

"Another nickel alloy we have developed is for use in storing liquefied gases at cryogenic temperatures as low as 320 degrees Fahrenheit below zero.

Thirteen, on March 16, the company announced a new nickel steel for applications involving exceptionally high pressure and stress.

The fact that these developments occurred in the same month that the Thompson project went into production symbolizes International Nickel's activities both as a producer of nickel and as a builder of new markets.

In 1960 the company delivered a record total of nearly 332,000,000 pounds of nickel, but more than 51,000,000 tons was purchased nickel, including nickel from the United States government or its suppliers which was sold without profit.

This year deliveries are expected to be as large as last year, but they will still include 60,000,000 pounds acquired from others.

Earnings for the first three months of this year, not yet available, should compare "not unfavorably," Mr. Wingate said, with the $18,000,000, or 68 cents a common share, earned in the last quarter of 1960.

Regarding the outlook he believed that there now are some indications that the looked - for improvement in United States demand for nickel has begun.

Appeal for Aid

VIENTIANE, Laos (Reuters)—The right-wing government today appealed to the United States to send military aid and an advisory group to the war-torn kingdom.

Foreign Secretary Thao Sopraseuth told reporters the appeal was made because of the "grave situation caused by certain rebel attacks on all military fronts over the last 24 hours."

Expect 75,000,000 Pounds A Year Rate in Few Weeks From Manitoba Nickel Mine

TORONTO (CP)—Nickel production at Thompson, Man., will reach a rate of 75,000,000 pounds a year in a few months, Henry S. Wingate, chairman and chief officer of International Nickel Company of Canada Ltd., said today at the company's annual meeting.

The $130,000,000 project, officially opened March 3, was described by Mr. Wingate as "the best news I can bring to this meeting."

Coupling with his description of new production an outline of developing uses for nickel, he said:

"On March 7 an experimental United States airplane—the X-15 —crossed the skies at 2,905 miles per hour. The metal skin of the airplane reached a temperature of 700 degrees Fahrenheit, yet retained its strength. This metal skin is made of "Inconel X" alloy, one of a series of high-strength high - temperature nickel alloys developed by our research staff and produced in our rolling mills.

Ten Are Killed In Crash of RCAF 'Copter

COLD LAKE, Alta. (CP) — Ten men were killed when a RCAF helicopter crashed Monday night while flying civilian construction workers over isolated bush and muskeg country, 175 miles northeast of Edmonton.

The nine survivors were in hospital where his condition was described as "fine."

Seven of the dead were civilian workers employed by the air force on an RCAF job.

The three airmen killed were LAC M. Hi Chapman of Winnipeg and Nanaimo, B.C. He is survived by his wife and daughter, Jennifer, Aylmore, Alta.; J. Doyle, Cold Lake and L. Le-Grand, Camrose, Alta.

The civilians were: T. Johnson, Pierreland, Sask.; L. Boudreau, Bonneyville, Alta.; J. Sanders, Aylmore, Alta.; J. Doyle, Cold Lake and L. Le-Grand, Camrose, Alta.

Says Homeland Only Invaded At One Point

OTTAWA (CP) — Cuban Ambassador Americo Cruz claimed Tuesday that his homeland has been invaded at only one point.

This was in Guantanamo Bay in the south coast of the island. He said fighting was going on between the invaders and forces loyal to Premier Fidel Castro, but could not say how it was developing.

Reports from the Caribbean had indicated landings took place at a number of places along Cuba's coast.

Dr. Cruz, in an interview, also said the government had established beyond doubt that an American aircraft carrier was operating off Cuba in support of the invasion. He asserted that the pilot of a Cuban plane had seen a bomber taking off from the carrier to attack Cuba. He did not say how it had been established that the bomber was going to attack Cuba.

A similar charge was made at the United Nations Monday night by Cuba's Foreign Minister Raul Roa. United States categorically denied it.

Checkoff Law To Be Tested By Labor Union

VANCOUVER (CP)—Labor is girding for a court battle against the provincial government's new labor legislation prohibiting political contributions from unions collected by payroll checkoff.

A labor official said Tuesday the 630-man Local 16-601 of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (CLC), will be the "guinea pig" in the test case. At stake will be the checkoff rights of almost 200,000 trade unionists in the province. If the union dues, running into millions of dollars a year, are deducted by their employers.

There are indications labor is prepared to take the case as far as the Supreme Court of Canada if necessary.

Labor's battle is against a requirement in the new legislation that to retain checkoff rights a union must file an affidavit saying the money will not be used for political contributions.

Shell Oil Company recently announced it was cancelling the dues checkoff for the OCAW local because the union had failed to produce such a statutory declaration.

ARGUES ULTRA VIRES

Labor argues that the affidavit section of the legislation is ultra vires of the legislature and cannot be enforced because it deals with future action. They say affidavits can be proposed but can only concern present or past actions.

Meanwhile, other companies have indicated they will stop deducting union dues from pay cheques unless union declarations are forthcoming. At least one union, the Pulp and Sulphite Workers local at Prince Rupert, announced it will not provide the declaration even if it means losing the checkoff.

It is expected, however, that the B.C. Federation of Labor (CLC) will eventually take legal action to compel its affiliates to protect their rights in the checkoff cases pending the outcome of the court struggle.

The law, passed at the recently-concluded session of the legislature, is being fought tooth and nail by CCF opposition spokesmen as being directly aimed at crushing financial support for the proposed New Party, expected to draw much of its support from labor ranks.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett's government replied it was merely to ensure that the right of every trade unionist to contribute or not to contribute to the party of his choice would be protected.

Leaders of Communist, West World Risking Prestige of Systems in Cuban Struggle

NEW YORK (CP)—The present struggle in Cuba, a land that has seen many battles in its turbulent history, is different than any other.

This time, the leaders of the Communist and Western worlds have become directly involved, taking opposite sides. They are risking the prestige of their way systems on the outcome.

The Spanish-American War in 1898 brought independence to Cuba, a lush, 700-mile-long island in the Caribbean just 90 miles south of Florida. But throughout the last 50 years struggles between the governing powers and revolutionaries have flared up periodically.

The sparks that ignited these struggles had their origins in the extremes of wealth and squalor that have been ever present in Cuba.

Sugar is the island's main crop. Secondary ones are tobacco and cattle.

POOR NOT HELPED

After the end of the First World War, a boom in sugar created millions a few almost overnight. But it did little for Cuba's landless peasants.

The island was ruled by a series of dictators who held power through military force.

One of the worst was Fulgencio Batista who ruled from 1933 to 1944, and again from 1952 to 1958. Graft, fraud. Administrations were corrupt.

But when the forces of the present premier, Fidel Castro, ousted Batista, Batista fled out of the country in 1958 and an eight-year regime of dictatorial repression by a new factor arose.

Castro showed a growing antagonism toward the United States. And he showed himself to be left-leaning.

Castro turned increasingly to the Communist bloc nations as a sugar market and source of needed imports. He also invited them into Cuba to assist in falsifying economy. Promised electric power failed.

FLED COUNTRY

Many persons who supported Castro in his fight to topple Batista fled the country because they were opposed to it turning Communist.

One of these was Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, appointed Castro's first premier in early 1959. Just seven months after his appointment he resigned in Havana's Argentine Embassy charging the revolution had been "betrayed by Communists."

Miro Cardona came to the United States. There he joined Castro opponents organized a coalition called the Revolutionary Council. It carried out about recruiting men to move back into Cuba and force Castro out. Miro Cardona disappeared from New York and all last reports was waiting for

CP Directors Thank Members On Retirement

TORONTO (CP)—Directors of The Canadian Press expressed appreciation Tuesday to two well-known Canadian newspaper men retiring from membership in the news co-operative.

They are Arthur R. Ford, editor-in-chief of the London Free Press, and Phillip S. Hisner, chairman of the board of the Southam Co. Mr. Ford's CP membership for the London morning Free Press was transferred to W. G. Trestain, and Mr. Fisher's for the Winnipeg morning Tribune to St. Clair Balfour.

Arthur L. Davies of the Kingston Whig-Standard noted that Mr. Ford had been a CP member since 1939, a director continuously from 1955 to 1957, treasurer 1962-64 and honorary president in 1948. A charming gentleman and good friend of directors, members said, he "always would continue as an honorary life member."

John Bassett of the Toronto Telegram referred to Mr. Fisher's outstanding contributions as chairman of two assessment committees of CP, and his generous help and advice as a younger members. Mr. Fisher has been a member since 1939 and served as a director 1952-56, chairman a year as second vice-president.

Other transfers of membership were: Community Press to those represented within the newspapers in the CP membership.

Saint John Times - Globe: From Stuart D. Thomson to L. W. Bewick.

Lindsay Star News: From St. Clair Balfour to Fred C. McGuinness. Two new members also to be effective before March 1, 1962, were approved Tuesday; they will bring into the co-operative Thompson, Ont., Conservator and Times and Leader, Quesnel, Journal, both weeklies planning daily publication.

Text of Message on Cuba To Khrushchev by JFK

Mr. Chairman:

You are under a serious misapprehension if you think the events in Cuba. For months there has been evident and widespread disaffection with Castro's dictatorship. More than 100,000 refugees have fled or emigrated from Cuba into neighboring countries. Their urgent hope is naturally to secure the help of Cubans in their struggle for freedom. Many of these refugees fought alongside Dr. Castro against the Batista dictatorship; among them are prominent leaders of his own original movement and government.

These are unmistakable signs that Cubans find intolerable the rule and the subversion of the 26th of July movement by an alien, dominant force. It is not at all surprising that, as resistance within Cuba grows, more Cubans have been using whatever means are available to return to their homeland to support their fellow countrymen in the continuing struggle for freedom. Where people are denied the right of choice, recourse to such struggle is the only means available to restore liberties.

As I have previously stated, and I repeat now, that the United States intends no military intervention in Cuba.

In the event of any military intervention by outside force we will immediately honor our obligations under the inter-American system to protect this hemisphere against external aggression. While refraining from military intervention in Cuba, the people of the United States do not conceal their admiration for Cuban patriots who wish to see a democratic system in an island only 90 miles away. The United States government can take no action to stifle the spirit of liberty.

I have taken careful note of your statements that events similar to Cuba might affect peace in all parts of the world. I trust that you will not doubt our sincere desire to maintain upon an entirely different basis the present tense atmosphere.

I continue to hope that you will co-operate in opportunities to solve problems of the cold. A prompt cease-fire and peaceful settlement of the dangerous situation in Laos, consistent with the United Nations in The Hague would be a welcome step in the right direction. The regime in Cuba could make a similar contribution by permitting the Cuban people freely to determine their own freedom by democratic processes and freely to co-operate with their fellow American neighbors.

I believe, Mr. Chairman, that you should recognize that free people in all parts of the world do not accept the claim of historical inevitability for the Communist revolution.

What your government believes is its own business; what it does in the world is the world's business. The great revolutions in the history of man, past, present and future, in the revolution of those determined to be free.

Afrikaner Nationalists Say Verwoerd Is Quite Right, Rest of World Is Wrong

Brian Barrow is a South African journalist long experienced in reporting the problems of his country.

In this dispatch he suggests that after withdrawing from the Commonwealth, South Africa will apply apartheid more vigorously than ever.

By BRIAN BARROW

CAPE TOWN (CP) — More than two months have passed since Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd took South Africa out of the British Commonwealth and South Africans are still trying to sort out their feelings.

When Verwoerd went to London his supporters regarded him as the infallible hero with some magic formula for South Africa's continued membership.

Now he is back, having failed utterly in his mission. But to his own people he is still a hero and still infallible.

The reasoning of the Afrikaner nationalists is simple, and it is this: The Commonwealth no longer matters to South Africa because it is controlled by black men. The "great man" did much more than keep South Africa in; he saved her from the domination of the black member states. The part played by "white" Canada does not count. Canada, like the rest of the Commonwealth, would learn, some day.

APARTHEID GOES ON

As the nationalists see it, Verwoerd is right and the rest of the world is wrong. He offered the panacea for peaceful coexistence — apartheid — which the Commonwealth turned down to its ultimate cost. To nationalists the future is clear. Apartheid must be applied more vigorously than ever.

The nationalist Afrikaner press has done its best to bolster this line. Verwoerd's own paper, Die Transvaler, published in Johannesburg, actually welcomed the prime minister's walkout.

"The fact remains that during the last few years the Union has derived little joy from its membership of the Commonwealth," it said.

The influential Cape nationalist newspaper Die Burger said South Africa could have remained in the Commonwealth if she had consented to bear the judgment of other members.

"To this our prime minister could not subject himself and that is why we are out—technically on our own initiative, but in fact because of an intolerable attempt to smear our national honor."

The whole effort of the government press has been to turn a devastating defeat into an honorable victory and to urge all whites to unit in apartheid's "finest hour" and to face the future together.

But there is a note of desperation in all this, probably because the only people who share their jubilation are the black nationalist leaders and some white liberals. They see South Africa's expulsion as the first great victory over racial discrimination. To them the future is also clear. They will fight apartheid more vigorously than ever.

Between these two nationalist extremes are the ordinary English and Afrikaans-speaking supporters of the United party, the main opposition group in Parliament. They view South Africa's expulsion as an unmitigated disaster.

These people are in the middle in more ways than one. Their immediate reaction, reflected in the English press, was to blame everything on Afrikaner nationalism and Verwoerd.

But they themselves are not without guilt, for the party they support, while more flexible and humane than the National party in its approach to racial problems, has principles traditionally rooted in racial discrimination.

Only the newly formed Progressive party has honestly acknowledged this fact and pledged itself to work for abolition of the official color bar. But the United party and the English press, which largely supports it, have for party political reasons skirted the issue.

The comments of some of the most influential English dailies are typical. The Cape Argus of Cape Town said: "National-ism's blindness, nationalism's ideological obstinacy, have brought us a close South African's rightful destiny within the Commonwealth. The tragedy is that the smallest of concessions might have saved the day."

The Cape Times: "We have been thrown out because of the policies of political nationalism, those narrow - minded and inflexible doctrines of racism which began the sabotage of South Africa in 1948 and came to their climax under the direction of Dr. Verwoerd."

English - speaking Natal, always deeply loyal to the Queen and Commonwealth, protested more loudly than anyone else. The Durban Mercury said: "The fact is that Dr. Verwoerd has been fighting for a principle that the world is no longer size the moral grounds either to concede or tolerate."

This comment is perfectly true, but if an apartheid measure such as the Group Areas Act were repealed tomorrow and Durban non-whites and Indians were allowed to buy land in European suburbs, these same English - speaking apostates of Natal would explode with horror and indignation.

This is the real dilemma in which the official white opposition finds itself. South Africa has been condemned solely because of her racial policies. But the white opposition, if elected, would, broadly speaking, follow the same policies, with minor concessions, of course. Indeed its only hope of getting back to power would be to follow these policies.

Sir de Villiers Graaff, leader of the opposition, has appealed to National party members in Parliament to ditch Verwoerd and form a coalition. National party members scorned this ill-conceived move. They know that in future elections more white people than ever will vote for them.

But also there is bound to be, through sheer force of circumstances, a significant swing to the struggling Progressive party, which now more than ever seems to be the last effective bridge between whites and blacks.

Vegetable Oil Producing Plants Are Big Business For Some Canadian Farmers

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Plants that produce edible vegetable oil are becoming big business for some Canadian farmers.

Canada still consumes more than she grows—importing peanut, cocknut, palm and other oils depending on current price and availability.

Until the Second World War, in fact, there was virtually no production in Canada. Today farmers are getting nearly $30,000,000 a year.

A plant resembling a gone-to-seed turnip has become the star performer. It's rapeseed, which yields edible oil for margarine, shortening, axle grease and other industrial use. And it's the crop that may help balance the Prairie economy long top-heavy with wheat.

Rapeseed was introduced in Canada during the war, along with soybeans and sunflower seeds, to help meet a severe shortage of oils and fats.

SPECTACULAR GROWTH

The first crop was sown on 3,200 acres. Last year rapeseed was seeded on 756,000 acres and the crop was worth more than $20,000,000, including export sales to Japan and Sweden. It was a huge jump in production from 213,000 acres in 1950.

The increase reflected the clearance given by the food and drug division of the national health department for use of rapeseed oil in margarines and shortenings.

More than two-thirds—550,000—of the acreage was sown in Saskatchewan, with 170,000 in Alberta and 36,000 in Manitoba.

Total acreage is expected to drop to 744,600 this year, with decreases in Manitoba and Saskatchewan but an increase in Alberta. Much rapeseed is grown on a contract basis.

Long popular in Europe and Asia, rapeseed had to overcome a flavor-reversion problem before it could win wide acceptance as an edible oil in North America. Its meal packs into high-protein food for livestock and poultry, although its use for feeding very young animals for fowl is not recommended.

ONTARIO CROP

While rapeseed is confined to the Prairies, another wartime import that produces edible oils is grown practically all in Ontario. Soybeans were brought into Canada from the United States.

Last year 256,500 acres were sown—300 in Manitoba and the remainder in Southwestern Ontario—and the crop was worth more than $10,000,000. An increase of about 3,000 acres is planned for this year.

The sunflower seed crop, confined to Manitoba and Alberta, was down in 1960 in value of $922,000 compared with $1,310,000 the previous year.

The fact that these crops are limited to certain regions has prompted agricultural scientists to search for new types of vegetable-oil plants that will produce more and flourish in a broader belt across the land.

At present Canadian and U.S. tariffs on vegetable oils are to Canada's disadvantage. A tariff board review may help both rapeseed and soybean growers in this country, giving them more market security although it might increase costs of oil-cake feeds to dairy farmers.

A legal case now going to the Supreme Court of Canada could also mean a lot to Prairie rapeseed growers. It involves a judgment of the board of transport commissioners that rapeseed isn't eligible for the lower freight rates set for cereals in the West.

This boosts shipping costs for rapeseed moving to eastern processors and the ruling has been appealed to the high court. The cabinet, however, may intervene before the court case and reverse the board order.

Commissioner Leaving Canada For High Post

OTTAWA (CP) — Sir Saville Garner, pipe-smoking sports-loving British diplomat known to his friends as "Joe," has been appointed top administrator in the Commonwealth relations office in London, it was announced Tuesday.

Sir Saville, 51, has been United Kingdom high commissioner to Canada since November, 1956.

He will leave in July to become permanent undersecretary of state in the Commonwealth relations office early in 1962 after visiting a number of Commonwealth countries.

In the next three months, Sir Saville and Lady Garner, his American-born wife, plan several farewell tours across Canada.

The tall, fair-haired high commissioner is concluding his second assignment in Britain's diplomatic representation here.

He was appointed senior secretary to Sir Alexander Clutterbuck, then high commissioner to Canada, in 1943 and became his deputy in 1946.

In his new appointment, he succeeds Sir Alexander, who retires from Britain's public service at the year end.

Sir Saville was well liked in diplomatic circles in Ottawa and among Canadian business men for the directness and plainness of his approach to Anglo-Canadian problems.

Dulles Confesses

Americans Have Big Mouths But English and Russians Better at Keeping Secrets

By SAUL PETT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Given a brain, a mouth and an ego to match, most people find it difficult to keep a secret.

This, in the opinion of a man whose life is devoted to keeping and breaking secrets, is especially true of Americans. The Russians and English are better at keeping their mouths shut. Americans, by nature, are extroverted, ebullient, ambitious.

"These are fine qualities for the insurance business but not intelligence work," Allen Welsh Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, told a friend recently.

"For most of us, the urge to show we know more than the next fellow can be a terrible temptation. Keeping secrets is difficult and you have to be trained for it. Even I have an itch now and then to tell more than I should."

Dulles, in Dulles' case, never gets irresistible. It was totally nonexistent one night in September, 1959, at an elaborate White House dinner for a foreign visitor. Coming through the receiving line, Dulles was introduced by President Eisenhower to a fat man identified as Nita Khrushchev.

"Oh, I know of you," Khrushchev gushed. "I read your reports."

Later, over after-dinner cigars, Dulles was led back to Khrushchev by Vice-President Nixon.

"You know Mr. Dulles, don't you?" Nixon said.

"Oh, yes, I read your reports," said the Russian premier.

"I hope you get them legally," said the American intelligence chief.

USE SAME AGENTS

"Oh, yes," said Khrushchev in a rare burst of coexistence comedy. "We get these reports from the same sources and the same agents. It's a pity that we don't get together and pay these agents only once and save money."

"Well, this would be a kind of sharing the wealth program," Dulles said, and the conversation ended.

As head of the most secret agency of the U.S. government, Allen Dulles bears the awesome job of keeping the president and National Security Council regularly informed on developments behind the Iron Curtain, in Laos, Cuba, The Congo and other trouble spots.

A large percentage of that picture is based on analysis of overt material—foreign technical journals, official and semi-official statements, press stories, speeches, maps, radio broadcasts, routine reports of American officials abroad. More than 200,000 pieces of "open literature" flow into the CIA document center a month.

A small part of the total picture comes from clandestine sources, from agents, from defectors, from the perennial mercenary of espionage who is in the business only to sell information. The number of secret documents reaching CIA each week runs into "the thousands."

DANGEROUS WORK

While modern intelligence is not the melodramatic bloodbath pictured in fiction—"We're not running a slaughter house," Dulles has said—it is still a highly dangerous business.

Agents do disappear. Agents do get killed without even their families knowing what they were doing to get killed.

Hollywood would never have cast Dulles in his role because he doesn't look the part.

At 68, he does not resemble his brother, the late state secretary John Foster Dulles. He wears his white hair parted in the middle, his complexion is ruddy, his blue eyes clear. He smokes or chews pipes constantly. Nothing in his manner suggests the master U.S. spy operating in the shadows of the world. He more resembles a contented museum curator worrying, at most about the whys on a Pantagonia crocodile, or the head judge at a dog show, also worrying mostly about to disqualify the vicar's hybrid tea rose.

One may safely assume that Dulles carries in his head a fat file on Khrushchev. He does not carry a gun and ordinarily has no guard unless carrying classified documents.

After a long career in intelligence, mostly abroad in the two world wars and has headed CIA since 1953 — Dulles has never been shot at or been the target of a kidnap plot, to his knowledge.

READS THRILLERS

Despite his long years in the business, Dulles still has a fresh enthusiasm for his job. Part of it appeals to what he admits is his appetite for escapist entertaste every good intelligence man needs. Apart from tennis and bridge, Dulles spends much of his off-duty time reading mysteries and spy fiction which, he says, is not entirely unrealistic except for its emphasis on guns.

In Dulles' experience, the qualifications of a covert agent (as opposed to a defector) must include high motivation, a conviction that the cause is valuable, a taste for conspiracy and analytical mind, and a capacity for anonymity, selflessness and abnegation.

A good agent never passes up a chance to collect material that might be useful if only in the remote future. A good agent never makes the same mistake twice. It was back in 1916, during the First World War, that Dulles learned never to ignore a potential source, however odd.

Dulles, then on a diplomatic and intelligence mission in Switzerland, had a day off when a friend suggested and suggested they ought to drop in on a "strange man" nearby with a "strange new theory." Dulles declined and went out to play tennis.

And that is why Allen Welsh Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency of the United States and an authority on the world-wide tactics and strategy of Russian communism, never got to meet Nikolai Lenin.

No Decisions Expected From NATO Meeting

OTTAWA (CP) — The NATO meeting of foreign ministers at Oslo early next month is expected to do little more than keep the alliance consultation machinery oiled.

Informed sources here say no firm recommendations are likely to emerge from the May-7 to 10 meeting—External Affairs Minister Green is to represent Canada — because the current series of little summits will also have been completed by then.

Informants said the NATO meeting should be regarded as just one in a whole series aimed at the broad objective of a revitalized NATO. Mr. Diefenbaker, British Prime Minister Macmillan, President Kennedy and Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany have all been dwelling on this theme lately.

This revitalization may well depend on the attitude of Gende Gaulle who, in recent months, has talked of defence as a "national" problem. Thus the Kennedy-de Gaulle meeting may be far more important than the NATO foreign ministers' conference or any of the other little summit meetings.

WON'T RESPOND

Canada is likely to be unresponsive to President Kennedy's call for more emphasis on conventional forces.

The attitude here is that Canada is one of the few NATO partners which has lived up to all its military commitments and doesn't want to take on more at this time.

This subject is expected to come up at Oslo along with the matter of a nuclear force being placed under NATO control.

170 Special Investigators Have Made $150,000,000 For Tax Dept. Since 1945

By JACK VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Gossips, informers and sleuths help the government collect millions of dollars from income and corporation tax dodgers.

The 170 special investigators working out of 29 offices across the country since 1945 have helped in the recovery of $140,000,000 in fines, penalties, interest and unpaid taxes.

Working unobtrusively, they operate in most Canadian cities and filter into the smaller communities in search of tax cheats.

Tax dodgers are a small minority among the 6,000,000 Canadians who last year paid more than $1,751,000,000 in personal income tax and the $4,777 corporations that chipped in another $1,070,000,000. But they cheat the government of millions each year.

Members of the revenue department's special investigations branch are trained as auditors and assessors as well as investigators. One of their problems is the age-old dislike of tax collectors.

Another is that they must be certain they have evidence and facts to show wilful intention on the part of the taxpayer to commit an offence before any charge can be laid.

The tax sleuths are reluctant to tell of the various ways offenders attempt to dupe the government, for fear of encouraging others. The main dodge is to withhold information on amount of income or just not to declare any.

"If fraud is detected, a full investigation is launched and for this members of a hand-picked 127-man team stationed in the offices throughout the country have special powers under tax legislation.

With search warrants they may enter premises and seize books and records. They may take evidence from witnesses under oath and go through a company's records in search of doctored books.

INFORMERS HELP

Investigations are touched off by information collected through regular audits, examination of tax returns and through gossip, casual conversations and informers.

A steady flow of letters pours into the 29 offices with information about suspected offenders. Some are motivated by a sense of loyalty, others have what tax officials describe as less-worthy reasons.

All the letters are checked individually with extreme caution and care. Charges aren't made unless the investigators are sure of their ground. They are careful to take nothing for granted.

In one case, a man bragged to another in a railway sleeping car that he had never declared any income although he had a thriving business. He ended up paying $100,000 in back taxes.

WINNIPEG BALLET

The Winnipeg Ballet was founded by London-trained Gweneth Lloyd in 1939.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mr. George Carlisle, president of the Hastings County Federation of Agriculture, attended a meeting of Zone 5 at Brighton on Wednesday. The meeting was held in the new Agricultural Building.

The speakers for the day included Mr. Roy Cunningham, Mr. David Crone and Mr. Richard Stewart. The theme of the meeting was "Not for Ourselves Alone."

Mrs. Sid Williams and Mrs. George Carlisle of St. Paul's W.M.S. attended Mount Pleasant-Rawdon W.M.S. meeting on Wednesday.

HOLY LAND SLIDES

Mrs. Carmon Alton, Tweed, showed her slides of the Holy Land and gave a running commentary at St. Paul's W.M.S. dessert luncheon on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. V. Richardson conducted the Easter thankoffering service on the theme, "Crown Him, the Lord of Life."

Mrs. H. C. Martin voiced thanks and made the presentation of a small gift.

Approximately 80 ladies enjoyed the dessert luncheon.

The tables were a bower of beauty with novelty spring flowers and the tasty viands were delicious.

Crown Alters Charge Against Polish Engineer

MONTREAL (CP) — Tomasz Biernacki, Polish engineer arrested last week and charged with spying for a foreign power, Tues. was charged with conspiring to establish an espionage organization in Canada.

The Crown asked for permission to alter its charge against Biernacki when he appeared for preliminary hearing. The original charge was withdrawn and a new charge laid. Preliminary hearing on the revised charge was postponed to Tuesday April 25.

In the original charge, Biernacki was charged with obtaining, collecting, recording and communicating information calculated to be useful to a foreign power.

The charge added that between May 16, 1960, and April 11, 1961, Biernacki "did acts preparatory to the commission of an offence against the Official Secrets Act in that he collected information preparatory to the selling up of an espionage or information that might be directly or indirectly useful to a foreign power.

The charge added that between May 16, 1960, and April 11, 1961, Biernacki "did acts preparatory to the commission of an offence against the Official Secrets Act in that he collected information preparatory to the setting

Says Former Trade Minister Informed in '57

OTTAWA (CP) — W. M. Gilchrist, president of Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited, said Tuesday that former trade minister C. D. Howe was informed March 19, 1957, of Britain's desire to buy quantities of uranium reflected in current contracts or commitments.

The statement was contained in a reply to the Commons research committee to a question asked last week by George McIlraith (L—Ottawa West).

Mr. McIlraith asked Mr. Gilchrist to give the committee the date on which the Crown-owned company informed the government of Britain's commitment to buy 12,000 tons of Canadian uranium in 1963-66.

"On March 18, 1957, W. J. Bennett, the then president of Eldorado, wrote to C. D. Howe referring to the desire of the United Kingdom to purchase uranium from Canada in the quantities which are now reflected in the commitments for buy 5,500 tons, 5,000 tons and 12,000 tons," Mr. Gilchrist said.

"On March 18, 1957, Mr. Howe acknowledged Mr. Bennett's letter and authorized Mr. Bennett to sign the necessary agreements for disposal the sale of these quantities."

The reply was the latest development in the current controversy over the British commitment to buy 12,000 tons of uranium in 1963-66 at a price of $16$2,000,000.

GUILD APPLIES

OTTAWA (CP)—The Ottawa Newspaper Guild, an affiliate of the American Newspaper Guild, announced Tuesday night it has applied to the Ontario Labor Relations Board for certification as bargaining agent for editorial employees of the Ottawa Journal. The guild said no date has been set for a hearing before the Labor Relations Board in Toronto.

CANNOT CLAIM

tape officer echoed through the courtroom, sometimes fading and muffled, as the prosecution played back extracts from a 1,500,000-word statement he made to his interrogators following his capture by Israeli agents in Argentina last May.

"I am not a tough person," said the man described by the prosecution as "more extreme than Hitler."

"If today I saw a small bleeding wound, I could not look at it. I could not be a physician."

Yet he said he watched the execution of Jews in Russia once and "there was a kind of fountain of blood spurting from the ground."

COULDN'T SLEEP

Eichmann maintained in his statement that the killing made him feel weak, and he had trouble sleeping.

He said he told Mueller that "this was not the solution to the Jewish problem because our own people were growing up to be cruel."

In reference to his own role, Eichmann said: "All the time in those 10 years I was in lower ranks than those of police and planning. I cannot claim that I had clear ideas. Those who planned and gave the instructions got off cheaply by suicide. Others are now in the dock to be found.

"Although it is quite likely that I shall be charged with being an accomplice to murder, I must say that I am not personally for the terrible things that have occurred. I am not guilty. I am fit for a sentence of death.

"I cannot claim mercy because I am not deserving of it. . . ."

DEATH FORETOLD

Eichmann said he had been told in January, 1960, that "I would be brought to trial and that I would be hanged on my 56th year."

That is so now. He did not identify the prophet.

"The first part of this prophecy has been pleaded not guilty, said the slight of Jews being gassed and burned in vans near Lublin was "horrible."

He had to avert my eyes. There was a smell of a smelling and shrieking inside."

The statement, made up of some 3,700 pages each initialled by the accused, was contained in two cardboard boxes each weighing about 11 pounds. It was submitted as evidence by the prosecution.

WERE DIVERSIONS

Eichmann said snacks started with Eichmann saying the Nazis used the "Jewish problem" to divert attention from the troubles of their own regime.

The prosecution theory was piled high with 77 tapes recorded, by Eichmann during eight months of interrogation. Defence lawyer Robert Servatius failed to object to the prosecution's playing of extracts on the understanding that he also could play parts of the tapes in presenting the defence.

Eichmann also responded to questions put to him several months ago by the Berlin-born Jewish police officer Inspector Avner Less, who stood in the witness box today.

Eichmann said of one Polish execution site that Jewish women in search of lice "were absolutely sealed off and the women were supposed to be asphyxiated immediately."

Less: How many (Jews) were there?

Eichmann: "I don't know—I couldn't look. I averted my eyes. There was screaming and shrieking. I was too excited to look at the van.

"I saw the van and saw the most horrifying sight I ever saw in my life. . . . The corpses were thrown into the ditch as if they were animals. Then their teeth were extracted.

"I took the car and drove away. . . . I knew I was washed up. . . . It was quite enough for me there!"

Less: "How many Jews were sent by you to Auschwitz extermination camp?"

Eichmann: "Hoess (Rudolf Hoess, executed commandant of Auschwitz) once told me 4,000,000 Jews were put to death at Auschwitz, but I personally thought the figure rather exaggerated.

"When we speak of figures, whether it is 1,000,000, 4,000,000 or 100,000,000, from the standpoint of principle, it does not matter."

WELCOMES NEWS

TORONTO (CP) — Announcement that Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation will sell more than $750,000,000 of its primary mortgage holdings was termed "welcome news for the house building industry" by Graham Lount, National House Builders Association president. "We have needed a secondary mortgage market to help stabilize the flow of mortgage funds for home construction," Mr. Lount said Tuesday.

Campbellford Scouting Outlined To Rotarians

CAMPBELLFORD — Larry Wilcox of Cobourg, District Commissioner of the Boy Scouts of Canada, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Campbellford Rotary Club this week. Jack Connor, assistant Commissioner, and Scout Leaders M. Bird, R. Fewelling, Jack Bryden, Ted Mein and H. Southern were also present.

Rotary president, H. M. Macmillan welcomed the guests and Rotarian Don Bennett introduced the speaker.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. Wilcox said that the Boy Scout movement, like the Rotary Club, had been active in assisting handicapped children. He said the Boy Scouts of Canada do not operate large groups of Scouts throughout the country. They loan a program of scouting to various sponsors, who conform to five specific conditions, which are the sponsor appoints an advisory committee of five to run the group or groups on their behalf; 2 — select leaders of good moral character; 3 — provide adequate meeting places; 4 — require each boy to carry out his religious obligations, whatever they may be, according to his own beliefs; 5 — operate according to the policy set forth by the Boy Scouts of Canada.

The Boy Scout movement includes 300,000 Canadian boys. Though the boys themselves and the average parent might have various interpretations of the purpose of scouting, the said purpose is quite simple. It may be expressed as an attempt to develop boys into good citizens.

There is no more apt time than the present to encourage good citizenship. Scouting teaches tolerance, self reliance, helping others and the necessity of living with people of different backgrounds, religious prejudice and misunderstanding.

village Monday night "but the Fidel forces have reclaimed it in a counter-attack, so that the attacking forces are in retreat back at the disembarkation point."

There were other indications that the outnumbered anti-Castro forces were under heavy pressure, and there was no word of any country-wide uprising against the pro-Communist regime.

The rebel Cuban revolutionary council, in a communique Tuesday, said the "freedom fighters" were being attacked in the Bay Matanzas area by heavy Soviet-made tanks and MIG jet fighters. The communique admitted "sizable" rebel losses of equipment a medical supplies.

Cuban exiles in Miami reported the recapture of Mayari, a town of 3,000 on the north coast of Oriente, indicating it had been in rebel hands.

Communist delegates at a session of the UN economic commission for Europe attacked the United States for the Cuban situation. When U.S. delegate Graham Martin replied that such propaganda was a "prostitution" of the work of the commission, the Communist delegations walked out of the session.

In Mexico, Asian, African and Latin-American students at Patrice Lumumba University staged a violent anti-American rally and got set to march on the U.S. Embassy again. Hundreds of Soviet soldiers and police guarded the embassy.

U.S. DEMONSTRATES

Pro-Castro sympathizers, with leftists and Communists in the forefront, whipped up fresh and violent anti-American demonstrations throughout South America.

Several hundred wrecked the Mexican-American Cultural Institute in Morelia, 170 miles west of Mexico City, and Director Eugene Kenny said he had to run for his life.

A crowd of 25,000 demonstrated in Mexico City in the capital's biggest demonstration in years.

Lazaro Cardenas, former Mexican president, told the crowd: "If the United States wants to attack Cuba it must declare open war, but it should not use weak people for attacking weak people."

1 KILLED IN CARACAS

One person was killed and 18 injured as a mob of 1,500 ran wild through the streets of Caracas, capital of Venezuela. They smashed windows in a Sears Roebuck store, overturned cars and shouted anti-U.S. slogans.

Eastern Junior Final

Beavers Are Underdogs

TORONTO (CP) — Moncton Beavers will have a weight disadvantage and perhaps a measure of fatigue working against them tonight when they open the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup final.

It remains to be seen whether they can call on enough speed and shooting accuracy to whittle St. Michael's College Majors down to size.

The Maritime junior champions will complete the long plane trip from New Brunswick only a few hours before skating out on the Maple Leaf Gardens ice to open the best-of-five series. The goal is a trip west to the battle for the Dominion crown against Winnipeg Rangers or Edmonton Oil Kings.

Beavers coach Ronnie Gaudet concedes the road will be rough but is not unduly deterred by the power of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A champions.

"There will be 15 of them and 15 of us and one puck," he said before departure. "If we control the puck more than they do we have a good chance."

The Beavers, averaging only 137 pounds, will give away a good 10 pounds to the Majors who play in a league where aficionados are common and from which the National Hockey League draws scores of recruits.

The Moncton crew reached the eastern final by disposing of Trois - Rivieres, the Quebec champs. The Majors went through three playoff rounds and took the final from the pennant - winning but crippled Guelph Royals.

The Beavers will look for most of their scoring punch from Delphis Legacy, Oscar Gaudet and Phil Doiron. Legacy and Gaudet accounted 12 of the team's 34 playoff goals. During the New Brunswick hockey league season Gaudet had 30 goals, Doiron 31.

Moncton played 53 games in the regular schedule. By contrast, St. Michael's ace Bruce Draper notched 40 in a 48-game schedule and Larry Keenan was in the 30-goal bracket.

until B.F. Goodrich took the bounce out of car tires

BFG took the bounce out of tires with "soft rubber." Why "soft rubber" tires? Car makers have done wonders with new suspensions, but it took the most of them, tires had to have less bounce. So BFG worked with car engineers to develop "soft rubber" tires. They proved so successful, that BFG Silvertowns are original equipment on '61 cars! "Soft rubber" smooths bumps beautifully. It's tough yet bounce-free. So give your car a new car ride with BFG Silvertowns. They offer every driver more savings and safety. Added rubber at points of added wear means up to 25% more tire life. RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Cinderella teams have an almost uncanny insistence of popping in Ontario senior hockey circles around playoff time, and strangely enough usually go on to win the Allan Cup.

The Whitby Dunlops were given the first fairy-tale nod in 1957 after a shocked Kitchener radio character had seen his beloved Dutchmen go down to defeat before the "upstart" Eastern Ontario senior champions.

The Belleville McFarlands were crowned Cinderella II in 1958 when they earned a red Allan Cup banner, but the Chatham Maroons missed the title when they won the mug last year.

Now along comes the Galt Terriers, a team which not only sat by the fireplace of the Eastern Ontario OHA division but actually emerged from its ashes. Perhaps it would be better to dub the Terriers the "Ugly Ducklings," because they raised anything but popularity when eventually "adopted" by the Ontario senior OHA family.

In fact the "family," an assortment of senior "A" remnants and self-styled forced labor from Western Ontario senior "B" clubs, admitted the Terriers on certain conditions. The Terriers bundled the obstacles and now represent Eastern Canada in the cup finals.

As Jim (Windsor Star) Mackay put it the other day, "This past winter saw previous senior "A" and senior "B" teams joining up in one grouping that was supposed to usher in the revival of the game in western Ontario."

"It proved anything but a success," said MacKay. "Stratford, Woodstock and Strathroy used up most of the winter boofing about the fact the Ontario Hockey Association forced them to move up a step. They'll probably go back to senior "B" next year or fold up."

It is no secret that Western Ontario fandom failed to take the mixed-up brand of hockey to their bosoms. Mackay said: "the calibre of hockey was lower and the attendance fatigued such." This from a writer whose Bulldogs led the league all season and monopolized the scoring race.

Rumblings that ripple the grapevine down this way occasionally would have one believe that all hope is not dead for a revival of upper-brackets hockey here next year.

Whether, I am told, would welcome a return to the senior ranks on a much more sane basis than heretofore, while Barrie hockey men are said to be interested. A Belleville "go-getter" mentioned the other day, "Let's get some hockey here next winter even if it means starting from intermediate "A" or senior "B" scratch again."

If such a thing should reach the discussion stage, it seems it would have to be a strictly Eastern Ontario set-up with the possible inclusion of Galt.

In fact if senior hockey, or call it what you will, is to survive, it would have to revert to the former eastern-western Ontario divisions. Clubs like Stratford, Woodstock, Welland, Strathroy would have no part of travelling this far east.

The picture in Windsor is not good. Mackay says it is very possible the 1960-61 deflation of the Bulldogs will be the end to an era in Windsor hockey. Simply because there may be no top-grade hockey in the district next season.

There has been talk, he says, of a new International League set-up, embracing the Chatham Maroons, Windsor Bulldogs, Toledo, Columbus, Muskegon, Fort Wayne and Indianapolis. But, he adds, the same enthusiasm is not running through the Bulldogs' executive chain.

This department has been asked several times, "Are we going to have junior "A" hockey here next year?" It seems to me a good stock answer is, "Don't hold your breath until it arrives."

As a parting salute to hockey, here's wishing the Dutchmen-Terriers all success in their quest for the Allan Cup—and who knows they may represent Canada in a world tournament.

Is Minnesota Another Miracle Club?

Wins Five In Six

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

It's too early to call Washington's move to Minnesota another "Milwaukee Miracle." But no matter how they fare in Boston today, the transplanted Twins must go home to Minnesota Thursday with a winning record.

By beating the Red Sox 3-2 Tuesday the Twins boosted their record to five victories in six starts and increased their first place lead in the American League to a full game over the title Cleveland Indians.

Rain, snow and cold weather wiped out the rest of the AL schedule.

Perhaps the most encouraging thing about the Twins is that each day brings a different player in a starring role. Four shared that role Tuesday, including a couple of pitchers not named Camilo Pascual or Pedro Ramos.

The pitchers who brought a gleam of joy to manager Cookie Lavagetto's eyes were Jim Kaat, 22, a southpaw making his first start of the season, and Bill Pleis, a rookie left-hander, only recently placed on the roster.

Kaat held the Red Sox to one hit until the eighth as his mates staked him to a 3-0 lead against right - hander Billy Muffett. When he weakened in the eighth, Cookie brought in Pleis, who squelched a Boston uprising and went on to hurl 1 2-3 innings of hitless ball.

Outfielders Jim Lemon and Leonie Green furnished the main batting support, getting six hits between them. Lemon walloped his first home run of the season, it came in the sixth and eventually proved to be the winning run. Green cracked four hits, scored the first run and sacrificed the second into scoring position.

The "Milwaukee Miracle" involved shifting Boston Braves to Wisconsin in 1953. The Braves won their first two games but at the end of six had only a 3-3 record. They finished the season in second place. The transplanted Washington Senators, now the Twins, have bettered the Braves' record so far.

ORGANIZER DIES

TORONTO (CP)—Burial service was held Tuesday for Mabel Ray, an early organizer of women's sport in the city, who died Sunday. She was 70. Miss Ray was an executive of the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation of Canada and president of provincial and Canadian governing bodies in women's softball. She organized and played for women's softball teams in Toronto in the 1920s.

Batters Yet To Show In Majors

By REN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Youth will be served, but as far as major league baseball rookies are concerned, the pitchers have dished out the impressive performances. The batters have yet to start cooking.

So there's little doubt that most of the highly-touted first year players of 1961 would soon forget their first week's showing at the plate.

Among those starved for base hits are outfielders Willie Davis of Los Angeles Dodgers, Doo Landrum of St. Louis and Leo Posada of Kansas City plus infielders Charlie Hiller of San Francisco and J. C. Martin of Chicago White Sox.

The most productive batting among the rookies has been done by infielders Chuck Schilling of Boston and Jake Wood and Steve Boros of Detroit. Schilling is hitting .444 (4-for-9), Wood, .417 (5-for-12) and Boros .400 (4-for-10).

More than a half dozen rookie pitchers have looked impressive. The list includes Joe Sisclain of Washington, Bob Allen and Frank Funk of Cleveland, Jim Duffalo of San Francisco, Terry Fox of Detroit, Bill Pleis of Minnesota, Jim Golden of the Dodgers and Ken Hunt of Cincinnati.

McClain won his only start. The others have looked good as relievers with Allen, Duffalo and Pleis picking up victories.

Tenth Title Defence

Brown Verdicts European Champ

By RONALD THOMSON

LONDON (AP)—Have crown, will travel, was light welterweight champion Joe Brown's pledge today after whipping Dave Charnley in his record 10th title defence but first outside the United States.

"I am ready to travel anywhere in the world to defend my crown," said the 30-year - old American with the elegant touch, who outpointed the British and European champion in 15 brisling rounds before 18,000 at London's Earls Court Stadium Tuesday night.

Even two sets of swollen knuckles and the actions of spectators who jeered the obviously correct decision couldn't dampen the spirits of the Baton Rouge, La., Negro, who may pocket as much as $50,000 from the bout.

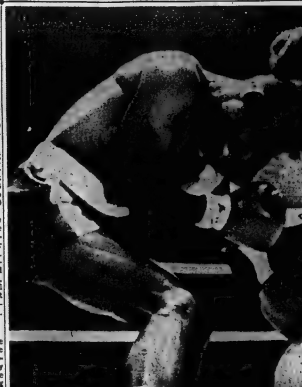
"I'll go anywhere to fight, he said, and that might mean the Philippines, where he has an offer to defend against either Flash Elorde or Bert Somodio.

Filipino promoter Lope Sarcal made the bid to Brown and his manager, Ezzo Mutual, within minutes of the final bell Tuesday night — a bell that rang off an outburst of booing from the homeltown crowd. Viscual made no commitment.

BOTTLE CROSSES PAN

Brawling broke out in some parts of the hall. A bottle crashed one fan on the head. Police escorted referee Tommy Little, the sole official, from the ring through a line of jeering fans.

Brown shrugged off the demonstration like the old pro he is.



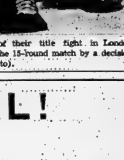
"Man, you get to expect this kind of thing when you're fighting away from home," he said. "After all, this isn't Houston."

Brown, who stopped Charnley on cuts in five rounds in their first title bout in Houston 16 months ago, opened a cut on the bridge of the Briton's nose in the first round that bled freely the rest of the way. Charnley fought back gamely in the last four rounds but Brown stayed in front.

After the bout, Charnley's right eye was swollen shut and he had another cut under his left eye. The blow that opened the nose cut also caused the damage to Brown's knuckles on his right hand.

SNIDER SIDELINED

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Duke Snider's right elbow is fractured and he'll be out of action three to four weeks, the Dodger baseball club said Tuesday. X-rays showed the extent of the injury suffered when the right fielder was hit by a ball pitched by Bob Gibson of St. Louis Cardinals in the fifth inning of Monday night's game.



OUT OF THE WAY — Lightweight champion Joe Brown of Baton Rouge, La., ducks under attack from Dave Charnley of Britain in first round of their title fight in London. Brown won the 15-round match by a decision. (AP Wirephoto).

Three Tied for Second

Purkey's Second Win Boosts Reds

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Purkey apparently wasn't listening when Fred Hutchinson, the Cincinnati manager, declared at the season's start that the team's fate this year was in the hands of the young pitchers.

The veteran right-hander, who will be 31 next July, pitched his second straight victory Tuesday night, a 9-1 triumph over San Francisco, and boosted the Reds into first place-in-the National League.

It was Cincinnati's fourth success in six starts and Purkey's second complete game. The rest of the staff, which includes Jim O'Toole, Jay Hook, Jim Maloney and Joey Jay, all in their early 20's, have only one complete game among them.

The Reds own a half game lead over St. Louis Cardinals, Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates, all tied for second place. Los Angeles dropped St. Louis out of a first place tie with a 5-0 night victory over the Cards and Pittsburgh moved up by beating the Chicago Cubs 5-3 in the only game played in daylight. Rain washed out the Milwaukee-Philadelphia game with the Braves leading 2-1 at the end of an inning and a half.

Purkey, Cincinnati's leading pitcher last season with a 17-11 record, permitted the Giants only six hits and lost his bid for a shutout when Willie Mays led off the last of the seventh with his second homer of the season.

Wally Post, Gene Freese and Gordon Coleman led a 10-hit attack on starter Billy Loes and two relievers. Post got a double and two singles, Freese drove in three runs with a pair of singles and Coleman clouted a three-run homer, his second of the campaign.

CRAIG WINS

Home runs by Frank Howard, Wally Moon and Johnny Roseboro accounted for the first four Dodger runs but the last and winning tally, in the sixth, was unearned. Pitcher Roger Craig, who went 5 2-3 innings and got the victory, opened the sixth with a single and moved to third when Bill Wills threw wild after fielding Maury Wills' sacrifice bunt. An infield out scored Craig.

Vinegar Boyer drove in two Cardinal runs with a pair of home runs. Stan Musial batted in the other two. Rookie left-hander Ron Perranoski preserved Craig's first triumph of the season, disposing of Wills with two outs and the bases full in the eighth.

Perranoski retired the side in order in the ninth fanning Boyer and Daryl Spencer, who drove in five runs Monday. Al Cleveland, the pinch hitter, was charged with his second straight loss.

The Pirates scored twice in the seventh to snap a 3-3 tie against the Cubs. Dick Stuart, who had driven in a run in the fifth with a triple, knocked in what proved to be the winning run with a single. A squeeze bunt furnished the extra run. Southpaw Vinegar Bend Mizell, with the help of Elroy Face, was credited with the victory as Pittsburgh opened its home season before 30,781, at Forbes Field.

Open In Galt Tonight

Allan Cuppers Square Off

GALT (CP)—Winnipeg Maroons and Galt Terriers, teams that almost had to beg for regular - season competition, meet here tonight in the first game of the Allan Cup finals.

Bookmakers were having a difficult time trying to decide who's likely to win Canada's senior hockey laurels, taken last year by Chatham Maroons over Trail Smoke Eaters.

Winnipeg playing coach Gord Simpson put his men through a workout four hours after they arrived at a plane.

"I know we have our work cut out for us," he said, "But if we work and skate we'll give a good account of ourselves. We certainly must have a pretty good club. They wouldn't have been good that they have compiled if they didn't have something."

At the beginning of the season it seemed Galt wouldn't even have a team. The Terriers were left without a league when Whitby, Belleville, Welland and Oakville withdrew from the eastern division of the Ontario Senior A circuit.

The western division took them into the fold, but it seemed the Allan Cup was out of sight because they would only be allowed to meet the division champion if they finished no lower than fourth.

Terriers started in the cellar Dec. 28 and won 11 of 13 games to finish second behind Windsor Bulldogs. Galt beat Windsor, then ousted Amherst in the eastern division of the Allan Cup playoffs. Galt racked up a 16-game unbeaten streak.

Maroons can't be called lackluster either—they have a playoff record of 10 wins in 15 games. And they had as rough a season as Galt, perhaps rougher.

They operated on an exhibition schedule most of the season before going into the cup playdowns. Coach Port Arthur Bearcats, Moose Jaw Pla-mors and Fort William Maple Leafs Whitake the western crown.

Simpson said Tuesday he'll shuffle his forward lines because one regular is missing from each line. In action will be Reg Abbott, Lloyd Orris, Bob Leader, Tom Marshall, Lou Goyal, Al McKenzie, Ted Randall and Ron Castelane.

Veteran Bill Hill, star Bill Junde, 40, heads the defence with Sheldon Bloomer, Lou Mueller, Bill Johnson, Doug Wilmer and Simpson. Goalie Gord Dibley was declared because of the death of his father Monday.

Terriers will have a full lineup, including defencemen Darryl Sly and goaltender Harold (Boat) Harvey who helped Trail win the world title and Floyd (Butch) Martin and Ted Maki who toured Russia with Chatham Maroons.

Maple Leafs Shut Out San Juan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The champion Toronto Maple Leafs have ended San Juan's International League honeymoon after one game, thanks to one of their pennant - winning pitching standbys, Bob (Hoot) Smith.

Smith pitched a 3-hitter Tuesday night as the Leafs evened the series at 1-1 with the new San Juan team with a 4-0 victory. The Marlins had won their opener in the IL on Monday night.

In the only other game on a rain - shortened inaugural program, Richmond blanked Rochester 3-0. Buffalo at Jersey City and Syracuse at Columbus were rained out.

Smith, who had a 14-4 mark in 1960, struck out 13 and allowed only two runners to reach third base. Steve Demeter, with two singles and a sacrifice fly, drove in three of the Leafs runs while Ellis Burton drove home the other.

Jim Pisoni's three-run homer in the first inning gave Richmond's Billy Short all he needed until the ninth inning. Then Fred Kipp came on with two outs and two out and retired the final batter.

Three Rated Tops for Marathon

BOSTON (CP)—The wise ones were making it a race between 30-year-old Johnny Kelley, of the United States and two Finnish finns in the 65th running of the Boston Marathon over 26 miles and 385 yards today.

Some say 230 is the bunion and blister boys—including nine Canadian representatives — were entered for the classic but the list will, as usual, be considerably reduced from the original field of 231 by the time the starting gun goes at suburben Hopkinton at noon.

The tousle-hatted Kelley, only U.S. winner since 1946, is the local pride and joy representing the host Boston Athletic Association but he has a tough assignment since Finnish runners have won four of the last seven races, including the last two.

LAST IN 1945

Canada hasn't had a winner since Gerald Cole's last of four victories in 1945.

Paavo Kotila, the Finnish farmer who won last year, is back but his countryman Eino Oksanen, 30-year - old Helsinki detective who won in 1959, was considered one of the strongest in today's race.

The weather forecast was for temperatures in the low 50s, partly cloudy skies, gentle winds.

A late entry Tuesday was Adolph Gruber, 40, Austrian champion and veteran of the Olympics at Helsinki, Melbourne and Rome.

The Canadian entries are Regis Ford Roland Michaud, Ronald Bouffard and Gunnar Wahlberg, all of Montreal; Danny Pucknell, Chris Picard and Paul Belliveau of Toronto, Sid Smith of Hamilton and Isaac Paul of Charlottetown.

Buenos Aires — Eder Jofre, 123½, Argentina, knocked out Sugar Ray, 120½, Dutch Guiana, 2.

Grid Boss Requests 'No Repeats'

TORONTO (CP) — General managers of Canadian Football League clubs got a reminder from commissioner G. Sydney Hailer Tuesday that the kind of no-trade loophole that allowed Sam Etcheverry to jump the league must not be repeated.

The commissioner emphasized that under CFL law, a team cannot guarantee a player that he will not be traded—with or without his consent.

While certain clauses in a standard player contract may be changed, he said, others cannot including those covering option, waiver and transfer.

Etcheverry, who had a no-trade agreement with Montreal Alouettes, claimed his contract had been breached last fall when he was traded to Hamilton Tiger-Cats without his consent. He refused to play for Hamilton and later signed with St. Louis Cardinals of the National League.

Chess Challenger Makes Gain

MOSCOW (AP) — Challenger Mikhail Botvinnik picked up another point in his all - Russian match with world champion Mikhail Tal Tuesday when the champion resigned the 11th game without resuming play.

Botvinnik, who now leads 8½ to 4½, needs four more points to retain the title in the 24-game series.

WILL MEET CLEROUX

MONTREAL (CP) — Harold Carter, Linden, N.J. heavyweight will meet Bob Cleroux, former Canadian heavyweight champion, in a 10-round fight here May 4, it was announced Tuesday. Cleroux has not fought since he lost his title to George Chuvalo of Toronto several months ago and resumed training two weeks ago.

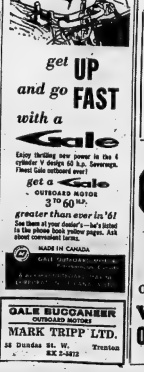
Skeet Shoot In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — About 100 shotgun experts will compete in the Ontario Open Skeet Shooting Championships next Saturday and Sunday at York Skeet Club near here.

Most shooters will be from Ontario, but around 20 are expected from Montreal, as well as some from the United States. The championship in the 12 - and 20-gauge classes will be fired Saturday in 50 - target events, along with the 100-target shoot for 20-gauge. The Ontario Open 410-gauge championship will be held Sunday.



Last year, L. J. Walkin of Toronto took the all-gauge, 20-gauge and high overall title for the four events. Morton Francis of Montreal won the 410- and 28-gauge events.

An expected entry this year is Rudo. Ldr. Barney Marinan of Ottawa, regarded as the best all-around skeet shot in North America. He did not compete last year.

The Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP) — Formplayers Hockey Hugo Dittfach had a good afternoon at Fort Erie Jockey Club Tuesday afternoon, won four of the eight races while Dittfach clicked on three winners.

Major Plaine, one of Canada's leading three-year - olds before breaking a bone in his foot in the autumn of 1959, returned to action in the feature race after an absence of 17 months and finished fourth.

Ramblers Liked Galt Team, Folks

AMHERST (CP) — Members of Amherst Ramblers hockey team had high praise Tuesday for the citizens and hockey club of Galt.

The Ramblers arrived back here by train after losing to Galt Terriers in the Eastern Canada Allan Cup final. Galt won the best-of-seven series 4-0.

The players said a wild brawl in the third game of the series made no difference in off-the-ice relations between the Ramblers and the Terriers. The Galt players drove the Ramblers to and from the rink.

Glen Elliott, a fan who accompanied the team to Galt, said he was "amazed" at the hospitality.

'Sleeping Sickness' Claims 40-50 Canadians Each Year

By ED SHORT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Forty to 50 Canadians die every year of encephalitis, a disease with a wide variety of causes and symptoms and no reliable medical cure.

Because of the lethargy usually displayed by its sufferers, it is often known to the layman as sleeping sickness. But unlike African sleeping sickness, which infects the bloodstream, encephalitis is an inflammation of the brain. Depending on the type involved, it may be harmless or fatal to up to 75 per cent of its victims.

Although encephalitis is transmitted by a virus, it cannot be passed on from one human to another. Its most common causes are insect bites, innocuous-looking cold sores developed by newborn infants and pregnancy, in approximately one in 5,000 victims of measles or chicken pox. The rare case occurs as a result of poisoning among industrial workers.

RESPOND TO DRUGS

Only the allergic variety has proved responsive to treatment. Drugs of the cortisone family, developed in the last 10 years, have dealt effectively with some cases of this type.

A vaccine has also been developed to protect horses, the only other animal known to suffer from the disease. But non - allergic encephalitis continues to defy medical efforts to find a cure.

"The body's own resistance just has to fight it out," a virologist explained.

Symptoms of the disease vary so widely that it has frequently been confused with other ailments. In the early stages a patient may suffer from fever, headache, double vision and—belying the popular nickname—insomnia.

Gradually, scientists are finding out more about encephalitis. The most insect - borne variety, which produces some 20 to 40 cases a year in Canada, is commonly implanted by a mosquito in a wild bird. The bird itself is unaffected by the disease but the virus, after an incubating period of a few days, is passed on through its bloodstream to another mosquito.

GENT. CANADIAN STRAIN

Only a few varieties of mosquito prey on both birds and humans. Ten days after biting a virus-laden bird, one of these is capable of passing the disease to a man.

The mosquito-born strains of encephalitis are most commonly found in the United States but occasionally spread into Canada. A mosquito-conveyed native Canadian strain occurs in the shield area of Northern Ontario and is believed to be carried by ticks infesting squirrels.

Because of the sparse human population of the area and the natural elusiveness of squirrels, cases of this type are extremely rare.

A milder form of the disease, meningo-encephalitis, often occurs in the poliomyelitis season and is frequently mistaken for polio because of the headaches, nauseau and fever that are among its most common symptoms.

Despite its fearsome sounding name, meningo - encephalitis usually lasts four to seven days and its patients invariably recover.

SARNIA INDIAN

Electric Power Commission, left a net outstanding liability of $1,800,000.

Chief Telford Adams of the Indian band said he was "amazed and disappointed at the government's action.

"You would think that somebody with the department of Indian affairs or the minister herself would have contacted us to inform us of her action before making a public statement," he said.

But he allowed that the cancellation may have been the result of "a kind of a mixup."

The chief said the Indian council had voted in favor of the government delaying action until a meeting could be called to determine the wishes of the band.

He said he read to E. H. Patterson, Sarnia superintendent of Indian affairs, a telegram to this effect which he wished sent to Ottawa. Mr. Patterson apparently was under the impression the chief planned to send the telegram himself. At any rate, the telegram wasn't sent.

Many Indian families have obtained credit on the strength of the sale, Chief Adams said, and "now there is no money to pay their bills."

WELL FOOLED MONEY

Federal officials said the company, formed for the specific purpose of buying the land, will forfeit some $2,082,500 in principal and interest already paid the band. All the land except 404 acres resold by Dominscond Ltd., reverts to the Indians.

A controversy which surrounded the resale of 175 acres to the Ontario Hydro within days of the purchase broke out anew Tuesday.

Statements by Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer and Kenneth Bryden, CCF financial critic in the legislature, raised the Hydro'purchase an exercise in bad judgment.

In the resale agreement Hydro paid about $7,000 an acre for a 175-acre plot.

Mr. Wintermeyer said cancellation of the contract means Hydro paid $1,250,000 for an "incomplete deal."

Two small parcels of land with a combined total of 2.306 acres, were part of Hydro's purchase, but they were not conveyed to Hydro. The matter is before the courts.

"This demonstrates bad business dealings," Mr. Wintermeyer said. "Surely Hydro could have completed acquisition of all the lands before the deal fell through."

MONEY NEGOTIATED

He said Hydro now is back in the position of having to negotiate with the Indians for the rest of the land.

Mr. Bryden said that under the agreement between Hydro and the company, Dimensional Investments, was supposed to have conveyed title of the two parcels of land to Hydro not later than Sept. 11, 1959.

"It not only failed to meet this deadline, but it never did convey the land and it is now out of the picture altogether."

Mr. Bryden said the two small parcels of land are vitally Hydro's desire because they straddle one actual and one projected Hydro transmission line. "HAS NO WAY

"Hydro has no apparent way of getting this land except by paying a very high price in addition to the $1,250,000 it has already paid," Mr. Bryden said.

The land now reverts to the Indians and Hydro's power of expropriation are ineffective against Indians."

Mr. Bryden called the report of a royal commission that investigated the Hydro purchase a "whitewash."

"This is a shocking state of affairs which now has been reached because the provincial government and Hydro permitted public funds to be used to finance an ill - conceived scheme of private speculators."

Mr. Justice George McGillivray of the Ontario Court of Appeal said in his 133-page report last November there was no evidence of wrongdoing by Hydro in the purchase.

"... There has been no substantiation of any allegations of impropriety, negligence or careless judgment," he said.

Energy Resources Minister Macaulay, second vice - chairman of Hydro, said the basic allegations against Hydro were that either Hydro had paid too much for the land or the Indians had been "fleeced" by Dimensional Investments.

"It's difficult to see how Hydro paid too much by paying $7,000 an acre," he said, adding that the Indians, by regaining all their land except 450 acres, had actually received $6,000 an acre from the company rather than only $2,200 an acre.

As for the two small land parcels, Mr. Macaulay said one was under a perpetual easement to Hydro and the other would not be required for a number of years.

At the Belle

THE GIRL WITH THE INTERNATIONAL FACE

For the coveted title role in "The World of Suzie Wong," agent-turned-producer Ray Stark selected a complete "unknown" without a day's acting experience, a Hong Kong English girl named Nancy Kwan.

Originally she lost out to the girl who created the role on the stage, unpredictable France Nuyen. But Stark placed her under a seven-year contract and installed her in the leading role in the touring company of the stage show. When Negro left the company in Hong Kong amid rumors of a bulging waistline, temperament and worse, Nancy was thrown into the breech.

Her co-star in "Suzie Wong," actor Bill Holden, and director Richard Quine, helped her adjust to her new role as a top movie actress. Nancy's stint has turned out so well in the Paramount Technicolor picture that her master Ray Stark has been searching for the right kind of role as a follow-up. Stark has already rejected an offer to star her in "West Side Story," as the Puerto Rican girl, Maria.

She mimicked with canny accuracy some of the greatest actresses in a variety of classic screen roles. Nancy appeared as an Amazonian Bill West and a South Seas island beauty, a Japanese geisha, a Brigitte Bardot-type, a Scarlett, a Foreign Intrigue - Mata Hari, a sari-clad Indian, a Egyptian temptress, a Latin dancer and a typical American secretary and Coke-drinking teenager.

Nancy and Bill Holden recently angered the allure of women around the world.

"In every land," said Holden who has visited nearly every land, "they accent the positive. Chinese women, for instance, have beautiful legs. They show them off by wearing skirts — stovepipes — slit high at the sides."

"The World of Suzie Wong" is holding forth Tuesday and Friday at the Belle Theatre.

Drama Special Said Static, Self-Conscious, Talky Play

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Cry Vengeance, Tuesday night's NBC drama special, gave the performers a chance to pull out all the acting stops. But it was a self-conscious, static and talky playlet.

It was an account of the last days of a Sicilian Robin Hood who has come to believe his murders are "executions" and that his idea of justice is above law and religion.

The central figure of the drama is the bandit's friend and follower. The story is that of the boy's disillusionment, his dreadful realization that the man he admires is evil.

But all this was confused by arty flashbacks, symbolic nightmares and lots of shouting and heavy breathing. With Ben Gazzara giving his all as the bandit and Sal Mineo, playing his friend, I kept feeling something very important must be eluding me.

ABC's news department had a carefully prepared documentary on Cuba ready for showing Tuesday night — another Close-up. But it was caught short by the explosion of revolution which immediately turned their program hopelessly out-of-date.

The Cuban situation, full of unconfirmed rumors and reports and a lack of pictures from the scene, puts television at a real disadvantage.

Marriage Not for Career Women Says Bette Davis

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marry again? Never, says Bette Davis. "I don't think it can work—not for career women," she says, "God knows I've tried. It's too bad that it won't work because I like men. I just can't stay married to them."

Bette's marriage to Gary Merrill recently broke up. She was previously divorced from Harmon Nelson and widowed by Arthur Farnsworth.

"I don't believe a happy marriage is possible for those people who have set out to do something in life," she adds. "Such people have to devote their full energies to what they are aiming to do. There isn't much left over for marriage.

"It's especially difficult for women in this (acting) business. It is time-consuming. And there is the matter of making more money than your husband does. I don't think that deep down inside a man he can adjust to that situation. He may say he does, but he doesn't."

IS SHE LONELY?

I asked if devotion to a career doesn't result in loneliness.

"Career people are born lonely," she replied. "Fortunately for me, I have my children. They acquired them later in life than most people do—they are a comfort to me now. You're always occupied when there are children around."

Miss Davis is doing her first Hollywood film in seven years—the last was A Catered Affair. She's now working for Frank Capra in A Pocketful of Miracles, remake of the Damon Runyon tale Lady for a Day which he filmed in 1933.

Astrological Forecast

BY CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, April 20

General Tendencies: You have a wonderful day for mentalizing whatever is of importance to you today or tonight, whether ideas or projects, for you know the right approach which will impress those who can aid you make such matters a success. Then later you can more closely plan what to do to please your romantic interest. Be tender.

Aries (March 28 to April 19) — If you pay particular attention to the ideas and desires of those dwelling with you, you can reach far more harmonious relations. Get prosperity in other conditions, P.M. Fine for inviting guests in and having leisurely fun.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) —This is an excellent day to contact those who can assist you in buying, selling, getting your talents recognized, etc. Get an early start and show real progress. Evening is then fine for going out and having a good time.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —Now you have the opportunity to increase income appreciably, since you have some excellent ideas how to expand. Confide in those close to you who can also be of assistance. They will then be co-operative instead of antagonistic.

Cancer (July 22 to Aug. 21) — If you quietly contact those who can go along with your constructive, personal ideas, they will readily co-operate and give you the backing you need. However, be sure you do not broadcast them thoughtlessly or they may be garnished.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) —Sit down and plan your future activities, contacting outlets early, then be off to see the key people who can help you to put ventures across successfully. The right social affairs are of particular importance now, too.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 23) — You can increase prestige now by doing more efficient work and handling some civic matter with impunity. Impress higher-ups with your true value as a citizen. Be dignified in all that you do.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 22) —You can find fine new systems of operating now and therefore, it would be wise to get in touch with everyone who can give you the information you need. However, first be sure you get all affairs with others cleared up.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Important you contact authorities in monetary or private matters so that you can put all of your affairs on a most secure basis. Follow advice given to the letter P.M. Fine for any romantic notions you may have.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — While associates may seem a bit excited and calculating, remember that they have to consider their own interests, too. So, be patient, precise and be sure to understand and appreciate their ideas, also in any new ventures.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — While you can find more efficient methods of operating now, be sure you also give an ear to the suggestions of fellow workers, who are very astute. Tonight is fine for getting your living quarters in fine order.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — This can be a most enjoyable day and night for you. Get any important work out of the way quickly and efficiently, then dress nicely and be off to see the person you admire and do the things that satisfy and please. Grow.

If your child is born today . . there will be promise of a tremendous success in this chart, provided you progress early years to self-reliance and not procrastinate so much deliberating over matters, otherwise timidity will lead to failure. Everyone makes some mistakes, and he, or she, is human, also. Fine chart for the leader, the big business man or woman, dealing with merchandise in large quantities, etc.

suggesting the over-anxious Cuban people had launched an invasion too soon; they had rejected advice to wait a little longer and had gone in with arms, equipment and trained manpower.

With Kennedy's moral commitment to encourage the invaders, any major victory for Castro and defeat of the rebels may have a depressing effect for the U.S. in all of Latin America.

Public reaction among the Latins seemed to give emphasis to an emotional display of sympathy for the Castro regime.

Mother of Three Given $23,036 In Court Case

CHATHAM (CP) — A 39-year-old mother of three, widowed by a traffic accident nearly two years ago was awarded $23,036 in damages in an Ontario Supreme Court judgment Tuesday.

Mrs. Dorothy Meyer of Blenheim was awarded $20,000 under the Fatal Accidents Act, $3,036 for special damages and $1,000 for pain and suffering of her late husband, Frank John Meyer.

Mr. Justice Wolfenden found William Sloan, driver of the car that collided with the Meyer vehicle, 100 per cent liable, ruling that the accident was caused by Sloan driving in the wrong lane.

A second claim for damages brought by Jeanne Hall, 23, of Ridgetown, was settled out of court. She was a passenger in Sloan's car.

Water Levels In Trent River At Low Point

OTTAWA (CP) — There may be difficulty in maintaining sufficient water levels for navigation in Southern Ontario's Trent Canal system this summer, Transport Minister Balcer told the Commons Tuesday.

Storage levels on the system are abnormally low, he said, and above-normal rainfall will be needed in the next few weeks if navigation levels are to be maintained during the summer.

The situation was under careful study, but at this point no changes were planned in Trent Canal regulations.

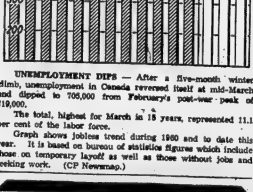
Mr. Balcer was replying to a question Monday by Walter Pitman (New Party — Peterborough) who asked whether a change was planned in the policy of water levels on the canal.

Paul Hellyer (L — Toronto Trinity) asked Tuesday whether the government has requested the Ontario Hydro - Electric Power Commission to reduce its power demands on the Trent system during the busy summer tourist season.

Mr. Balcer said no such request has been made.

Several Frauds Being Probed By Inspector

BOWMANVILLE (CP) — Inspector James Erskine of the provincial police anti-rackets squad said Tuesday his force is investigating "several frauds" to be a series of frauds by a confidence man.



Inspector Erskine said that during the last two years a man has approached residents of the Bowmanville, Whitby and Cobourg area, telling them his son had been arrested or injured in an auto accident.

Then he said he would borrow various sums of money for bail-out surgery for his son, the inspector said.

Inspector Erskine said in some cases the man returned to homes where he borrowed money and asked for more to pay off his former expenses. Sometimes he asked for more money to pay for special services and other medical expenses.

ENTRIES HIGHER

OTTAWA (CP)—A total 304,275 foreign vehicles entered Canada in March, preliminary vehicle permits, 24 per cent more than the 245,643 in March last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. Entries in the first quarter of 1961 rose 16.5 per cent to 806,000 from 692,802 a year ago.

UNEMPLOYMENT DIPS — After a five-month winter climb, unemployment in Canada reversed itself at mid-March and dipped to 705,000 from February's post-war peak of 719,000.

The total, highest for March in 15 years, represented 11.1 per cent of the labor force.

Graph shows jobless trend during 1960 and to date this year. It is based on bureau of statistics figures which include those on temporary layoff as well as those without jobs and seeking work. (CP Newsmap.)

Government Tries to Avert Railway Strike

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is starting to move again in a new bid to avert a country-wide railway strike scheduled for May 16, informed sources said today.

As a first step, Labor Minister Starr met Tuesday with Frank H. Hall of Montreal, chief negotiator for the 120,000 non-operating railwaymen who plan to strike for higher wages.

Today, Transport Minister Balcer is expected to confer with CPR President N. R. Crump and CNR President Donald Gordon.

The separate meetings are understood to be aimed at sounding out the disputants before a cabinet session set for Thursday.

In other UN business Tuesday a Canadian proposal for a full scale review of UN finances was approved and formally received prompt support from the United States.

Senator F. M. Blois, Canadian delegate to the assembly, submitted in the 99-member budgetary committee a resolution urging that the review be undertaken on the agenda item in the next assembly opening in September.

With the current assembly nearing the end of its sessional period, comment is scheduled for Friday—the committee is deadlocked on financing the Congo operation and Blois said the whole question of UN finances need overhauling.

CASTRO REGIME SAYS REBELS ROUTED

Kennedy's Plan Attacks Expense Account Living

Is Called First Step Toward Broad Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy today sent a tax plan to Congress which he said would help modernize American business and create 500,000 jobs.

The president said his proposal would attack "expense account living," discourage tax cheating and reduce the worrisome flow of U.S. dollars abroad without cutting into federal revenues.

Kennedy described his program as "a first though urgent step" toward broad tax reform in 1962—reform which he said could combine elimination of loopholes and discriminatory provisions with a lowering of basic tax rates.

OFFERS INCENTIVE

These were among the most notable items in the first-step package:

A special tax incentive for business to modernize and expand, withholding of taxes on dividends and interest, repeal of the special tax treatment given dividends, and discouragement of corporate investment in competing industrial countries.

Kennedy also proposed stricter curbs on tax-deductible expense accounts, elimination of foreign "tax havens" and collection of taxes from high-bracket income Americans — notably movie stars—who now defer them in the hope of escaping the U.S. income tax.

He said the business investment incentive would cut revenues by $1,700,000,000 a year. However, he said the other items would offset this and leave a net $1,000,000 to spare.

The key item was proposed tax incentive for business expansion and modernization. In essence, Kennedy would permit companies to subtract from their tax bills an amount equal to part of their annual investment in new or improved facilities.

UNPOPULAR PLAN

Many businessmen already consider legislation to establish a "tax credit" idea. Some have said they would rather be allowed to increase their depreciation allowances; that is, the amounts they can set aside, free from tax, to offset the inevitable aging of new or improved facilities which must be scrapped or replaced.

The plan likely to affect the greatest number of Americans was tax — including on dividends and interest.

To help reduce the flow of dollars abroad and the resulting balance of payments deficit Kennedy advanced several recommendations. The most important would tend to discourage U.S. companies from investing in subsidiaries in other industrial countries — principally Canada, Japan, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

Under present law, an American company pays no U.S. taxes on the profits of overseas subsidiaries unless it brings these profits home.

Kennedy asked congress to tax each year American corporations on their current income of the undistributed profits realized abroad by subsidiary corporations organized in economically advanced countries." He further recognized that to change these provisions would require adjustments in treaties. For this reason, he would tax only 50 per cent of overseas profits in the first year—1962.

ALL PARTIES SUPPORT BILL FOR DISABLED

Unusual Progress Made in House

OTTAWA (CP) — The government said the rare pleasure in this Commons Wednesday of introducing a new piece of legislation which was immediate praise from all parties.

Liberal and CCF speakers readily supported the introductory resolution for a bill which will provide support for provincial programs to train disabled persons in new vocational skills.

The socialist — quickly followed by some critical remarks from the government side — capped a day of unusual progress in the government's legislative program.

MPs gave final reading to a controversial tariff amendment, second reading to a new Canada - United States tax treaty and passed a bill to the bill to support training of the handicapped.

This progress was not, however, without some notes from the opposition side.

Liberal and CCF members refused to support third reading of the tariff amendments, on which they had already heaped much criticism in eight previous days of debate. It was sent to the Senate with such dissent.

FINAL JUDGE

The bill sets up the revenue minister as the sole and final judge of whether an imported product is of a type being produced in Canada or capable of being produced here, thus subject to higher rates of duty.

The Canada - U.S. tax treaty, two years in the making, went through third reading after a clause - by - clause committee debate which still commuted from Paul Martin (L — Essex East) who complained that it left "too much to be done by regulation."

Finance Minister Fleming said two years was not an unusual period for negotiating complicated tax treaties.

The bill seeks to avoid double taxation between the two nations.

Mr. Martin had some harsher words to say about a bill which proposes federal help for provincial jails. It was aimed at training the handicapped in new skills.

Such action, he said, was taken by the Liberals 12 years ago and there does is put on the statutes something that already is being done through North America's jails which

NOT SPENDING MORE

It did not authorize one additional dollar of spending in such work or make any expansion of the existing program.

Both Liberal and CCF speakers, including Mr. Martin, expressed agreement with the principle of the bill, however. Mr. Martin (Essex East), Mr. Grumes) and Walter Pitman (New Paffy — Peterborough) said the bill was too long in coming to retrain workers who have lost their jobs through a disabling illness or accident and thereby wiping out a position normally filled by a handicapped individual.

The Timmins MP said there are scores of cases of gold miners in his riding sidelined by silicosis. Surely something could be done to provide them with a working skill.

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret said Wednesday that gaiety is "an essential part of Christianity." The Princess President of the Church of England Youth Council, was speaking to the council's annual conference here of her visits to many British parishes.

Two Charged With Possession Of Blackjacks Found in Auto

TORONTO (CP) — A special detective squad investigating the beating of gambler Max Bluestein charged two more men Wednesday night with possession of blackjacks.

Police said Joseph Cleon Irwin, 32, and Feliznzo Goldenberg, 26 both of Toronto, were arrested after the weapons allegedly behind the dashboard of a car during the week-

A similar charge was laid last week against another Toronto man, Fred Gabourie, 35. Police said the same, two blackjacks are involved in all charges.

Gabourie was questioned after his coat was found in a downtown night club where Bluestein was beaten by a gang of men March 31.

VICTIM OF SHOOTING — The body of K. Sankara Pillai, 38, (inset) the first secretary to the Indian High Commission is removed from the High Commissioner's office in downtown Ottawa. He was shot and killed while sitting in his office. Shani Ferial, 38, was charged with murder. Ferial was described by police as a naturalized Canadian who came here in 1954 from Yugoslavia. Only Once When Quizzed Eichmann Showed Emotion

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann was cool and matter-of-fact—with one notable exception—during the long sessions when he told his story to his Israeli captors and a tape recorder, an informed source said today.

He showed a little feeling when he said he expects to get the death sentence," the Israeli informants reported.

"I know I may face sentence of death," said Eichmann in a recorded statement that was played back Wednesday for the three-judge court trying him on charges of mass murder of Europe's Jews.

"I cannot claim mercy because I am not worthy of it," Eichmann continued."

I should have hanged myself in public so that all Jews and Semites in the world would have had these terrible events emphasized for them."

"He was quite businesslike the rest of the time," the Israeli source reported, "but he seemed moved, a little emotional, when he read this."

Seventy - seven tapes were made of the long hours of interrogation that followed Eichmann's capture in Argentina last year.

The prosecution Wednesday

Anti-Castro Cubans Feel Invaders Waited Too Long

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba (AP) — Anti - Castro Cubans in Oriente province are reported fearful that rebel invaders waited too long to strike, that the Fidel Castro government had enough time to round up the leaders of any plot and is wiping out a position normally filled by a handicapped individual.

The Timmins MP said there are scores of cases of gold miners in his riding sidelined by silicosis. Surely something could be done to provide them with a working skill.

Prime Minister Says Red Bridgehead in Cuba Is Threat

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker says a Communist "bridgehead" in Cuba represent a threat to the whole of Latin America.

The prime minister, in a statement to the Commons Wednesday, declared bluntly that the "internationalization" of the Cuban revolution has become a danger to the Western Hemisphere that Canada cannot ignore.

It was the first time that Canada had officially and publicly accepted the view that the Castro regime is under the sway of international common-

INDIAN DIPLOMAT SHOT TO DEATH IN HIS OFFICE

Yugoslavian Held On Murder Charge

OTTAWA (CP)—Shani Ferial, 38, was remanded to April 27 without plea today when he appeared in magistrate's court on a charge of murder arising from the shooting death of an Indian in the Indian high commissioner's office Wednesday.

K. Sankara Pillai, also 38, first secretary, was shot to death at his desk by a man who walked into the office with a rifle.

Ferial appeared calm as he stood before magistrate Glenn E. Strike.

Slightly built, he wore a soiled white shirt open at the neck and with the sleeves rolled up, and dark trousers.

James Touhey acted as lawyer for the accused today but he told the court that Royden Hughes, leading Ottawa criminal lawyer, will represent Mr. Ferial at his preliminary hearing.

Only a few spectators were in the court room one was there from the Indian high commissioner's office.

The diplomat was left crumpled at his desk Wednesday by

Demonstrate All Around World For and Against U.S. Cuba Policy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Demonstrations for and against the United States over its Cuba policy continued Wednesday as the government of Fidel Castro claimed it had wiped out invading forces.

In Guatemala, pro- and anti-Castro factions clashed in front of the presidential palace Wednesday night and shots were fired. Three persons were killed. American diplomat, Edward Brown, second secretary of the U.S. Embassy, was hit by a bullet in the left arm while watching the clash.

The government said the shooting came from the pro-Castro group. Police broke up the riot with tear gas.

A bomb was thrown at the U.S. Embassy in Quito, Ecuador, but caused only slight damage. No one was in the building.

The Honduras University Students Federation co ndemned the Castro regime in a manifesto issued by Tegucigalpa, and said "A regime that is popped by the people and by the victims does not merit the least support sympathy."

Police broke up small pro-Castro rallies Wednesday night in downtown Rome and Venice, and 39 students were arrested in Rome.

Revolt Leaders Claim Invaders Join Guerrillas

Admit 'Tragic Losses' Amongst Holding Force

MIAMI (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro asserted today he has wiped out rebel invaders on Cuba's southern beaches and captured large stores of U.S. arms, including Sherman tanks. But he conceded his forces have suffered heavy losses.

The rebel leaders insisted the main invading force has fought through to guerrillas waiting in the Escambray Mountains of central Cuba to carry on the war against the pro-Communist regime.

Echoing Castro's claims, Moscow Radio charged U.S. marines are training strike and repeated Soviet government warnings that the use of American forces would have dire consequences.

Moscow said Castro had "dealt a colossal blow to the forces of aggression" but "this does not mean that the threat to the independence of Cuba has been removed. The activities of the interventionists have relapsed their criminal schemes."

An anti - Castro leader in Puerto Rico reported Wednesday night that a new landing had been made in Cuba. He did not give the location of the beachhead.

There were rumors—entirely unconfirmed—that more landings impended.

In New York, the Cuban Revolutionary Council said Wednesday night: "Regrettably, we admit tragic losses in today's fighting. Our action group is a small holding force. . . ."

The commissioner was quoted prior to the Castro government's claim of victory.

The Cuban radio said today seven more alleged terrorists—including Humberto Sori Marin —have been executed by firing-facing squads.

Sori Marin was a onetime Castro lieutenant and a former minister of agriculture in the Castro government.

The Cuban government communique claiming total victory over the invasion force that hit the swampy beaches of Cochinos Bay 90 miles south of Cienfuegos, said:

CASUALTIES 'HEAVY'

Signed by Castro as prime minister and commander - in - chief, the communique claimed the casualties, dead and wounded, were from which no escape is possible. But Castro conceded his forces paid a "high toll in courageous lives."

The prime minister claimed "large quantity of arms of American manufacture were captured, including various Sherman heavy tanks."

The U.S. - backed Revolutionary Council, which organized the force that landed Monday, said had said earlier that the "landings" were only a phase of its campaign to overthrow Castro. It disclaimed them as "an isolated action."

"We did not expect to topple Castro immediately or without setbacks," the council said in a communique issued Wednesday night in New York.

Toronto Man Stabs Wife, Then Himself

TORONTO (CP) — Roy and Ivy Griffin were sitting around the living room Wednesday night talking about the summer vacation.

They talked, with sons Kenneth, 28, and Clifford, 20, about the holiday at the cottage, Mr. Griffin told Kenneth to be sure and get a boat.

At 4:15 this morning, Clifford heard his mother screaming. His father, 56, was standing over his 50-year-old mother with a knife in his hand.

"I'm all right, "son," the father said, "call an ambulance for your mother."

The father went into the cellar.

When the ambulance got there to hospital, Mr. and Mrs. Griffin were dead of stab wounds. Neighbors described them as a pleasant couple. Mr. Griffin had retired from a pottery business.

Central Mortgage Approves Loan of $1,515,300 to City For Sewage Disposal Plant

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, through its district office at Kingston, today advised City Manager J. R. Reynolds that it has approved a loan of $1,515,300 to Belleville for construction of the city's proposed sewage disposal plant.

Mr. Reynolds said the amount of the loan approved by Central Mortgage was two-thirds of the estimated cost of the project.

The loan from Central Mortgage and Housing was made possible by recent federal legislation which allows governments loans to municipalities for sewage projects.

Mr. Reynolds said copies of the telegram received from Central Mortgage had now been forwarded to the Ontario Water Resources Commission and to consulting engineers Gore and Storrie. He said a request that the matter be expedited as quickly as possible.

The city is now in a position to call tenders for the sewage disposal project, including the trunk sewers leading to the east and west extremities of the municipality, but before this can do so detailed plans for the project have to be completed by Gore and Storrie.

It is hoped that the plans will be ready in time to call tenders and award contracts prior to the summer recess of council, it was said. Work this can be done has been expressed by Mayor Jack Ellis, chairman of public works.

"Civilization is social order promoting cultural creation". That definition by the renowned writer Will Durant could be called the reason for our whole existence given in the short space of seven words. And one of our great means of cultural creation is in the form of pleasant sounds artistically arranged to form what we call music. Music is the story of one's man's life and without it this world would be a much more unrewarding place in which to attain our achievements and goals.

Born at Frankford he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Ferguson and prior to his retirement had worked on the farm in the Frankford area. He was a member of the Full Gospel Tabernacle.

Pre-deceased by his wife, the former Jessie Mitchell, he is survived by two daughters Mrs. Edward (Gertrude) Hood, Toronto, and Mrs. Herman (Lucy) Crowe of Bloomfield and three sons, Earl of Napanee, Dale, Que., Raymond of Rochester and Harold of Bloomfield.

A sister, Mrs. Hannah Bajamquel of Niagara Falls also survives.

ARTHUR HENRY JONES

The funeral of Arthur Henry Jones was held from the Grant Funeral Home, Picton, to Mount Ida Cemetery, Belleville, with the Rev. H. R. Skibbard conducted the service in the church and the committal rites at White Lake Cemetery.

The bearers were Stanley Peck, Percy Martin, William Curtis, Joseph Langevin, Lorne Holmes and Wesley Hamilton.

MRS. MARIA KAFKA

The funeral of Mrs. Maria Kafka was held from the Funeral Residence of George F. O'Brien to St. Michael's Church this Thursday morning. Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rt. Rev. J. P. Sullivan while Rev. J. J. Bolger said the graveside prayers. Mrs. Kafka was the organist of the church and the musical organization can well be assured of the cream of musical talent in supporting that choral group.

The bearers were R. Forbes, C. McLean, N. Mischenko, M. Ryan, F. Liberty and W. Deren.

Grass, Marsh Fires Keeping Dept. Busy

After a respite of a week or more, grass fires are again keeping firemen busy on the run.

Shortly before noon today sirens were fighting a grass blaze in the west end of the city at the rear of the Drive-In Theatre, while yesterday afternoon firemen stood by a Messenger Hill marsh blaze set by from Belleville where they assisted against the spread of a big marsh fire.

Firemen said the blaze was in the marsh area although two trucks went to the scene they could not be used. Fire fighters stood by to prevent the spread of the blaze into the nearby bush. Black smoke rolling from the marsh blaze rose high into the air and was clearly visible from Belleville.

Vehicle blazes at two garages, one at B. and D. Motors on Front Street and the other to Burkitt's service station on North Front Street, also resulted in runs for the department. In both instances mechanics were working on the vehicles.

Ottawa Man Pleads Guilty To Ten Charges of Fraud

Joseph Georges Hardy, 44, of Ottawa, will be sentenced next Thursday by Magistrate T. Y. Wills on 10 charges of uttering worthless cheques and receiving merchandise by false pretenses. Total amount involved was $2,-139.10 in charges in addition to losses of about $500 because items of the merchandise was not recovered.

Hardy pleaded guilty to all charges in a brief session in city magistrate's court yesterday. The charges were laid by police departments in Belleville, Trenton, Smiths Falls and Ottawa and the offences were committed between June, 1960 and late last month.

City Police Inspector J. B. McLauchlan said his department began investigating Hardy last month when officials at Belleville General Hospital found some new women's clothing, still tagged, among the possessions he registered when he was admitted as a patient.

When Hardy was discharged from hospital March 28 he paid his $24 bill with a cheque, which later proved to be phony.

CHEQUE FRAUD

Inspector McLauchlan said Hardy also:

Opened a account in a bank at Trenton on March 24 with a cheque for $800. The cheque bounced.

Used his pass book to "prove" to three Trenton merchants that he had money in the bank. He issued a cheque for $56.90 in payment for some more women's clothing; issued a cheque for $35 in payment for receiving some men's clothing, and issued a cheque for $112 in payment for receiving a quantity of jewelry. The same day, March 24, he also summoned police to the rooming house and paid him $6 with a cheque which proved to be worthless.

Before going to Trenton Hardy opened a bank account in Smiths Falls last December with 25 cents. The next day he deposited $20 cheque in the account and, like he was to do in Trenton, used his pass book to "prove" to a new television set and a number of articles worth $538.95, and 2 buy watches, rings and jewelry valued at $194.85. The bank soon found out it was all through the record player had been removed from the police. he had sold the TV set for $85 to a travelling sales-cheque artist.

Approximately 200 Attend First Series Sacred Community Concerts

Quinte Secondary School was the setting for the first in the proposed series of Sacred Musical Concerts. Top recording artist Hank Snow was scheduled provided an evening of spiritual enjoyment to some 200 people who attended Sunday. Among those appearing were the White Sisters from Lexington, Kentucky, who were making their second appearance in Belleville. The three girls are well known for their superb styling and smooth, harmonizing. Also a young age girls were acclaimed the trio with the most perfect harmony. After appearing with such personalities as Ted Mack on the Ed Sullivan Show, they committed their lives to The Lord and from then on have been singing full time in religious circles. Currently they are appearing on many of the gospel color, religious T.V. program circuits.

TRIO SISTERS

The Trio started their evening repertoire with a new song written by Stuart Hamblen "How Big Is God". Following this, they went into a few lighter numbers to create the spiritual type. One of these included "I'm Here" and after an assortment of other numbers, they verbally gave their testimony of life in song by singing their testimony song "I've Found a Friend".

Rudy Atwood, another member of the musical staff for the evening, was the broadcast ing in Belleville for the second time. His cheerful and audience of some 200 at the 5th anniversary banquet of Youth for Christ a year ago. Many friends were out to hear him again.

Mr. Atwood appears regularly with the Old Fashioned Revival Hour over broadcasts from California. His delicate style and artful mastery make him a contemporary of out would be extremely difficult.

"I would guess," the source said, "that Castro and company feel they can control this thing."

Much of the actual power in the region apparently is exercised by half - baked youths who have been given quick indoctrination and armed with rifles and sub - machine guns.

Hundreds of Roman Catholic priests throughout the eastern half of the island have been arrested or subjected to humiliations of one sort or another.

These attacks on the priests, together with assorted inconveniences, have created considerable resentment against the Castro government.

The women have been unable to get cosmetics. They have had to cook with lard — smuggled Russian lard. Soap and detergents are commodities. While these seem little things, they may be the stuff of which revolutions and counter - revolutions are made in Cuba.

Assessing Castro's troops, the source said that they are much better than they were a year ago. They have been trained by the militia — an estimated half of Castro's 400,000 troops—have been abundant rifle training across the island like cheamen in the Canadian ranks have not kept up with them.

They often go hungry as a result.

Poacher Pays Fine of $50 For 22 Pickerel

Arnold L. (Green of Deseronto today was fined $50 in county magistrate's court for having a pickerel in his car.

Quinte without a permit.

Game Warden Reavey at 1:00 a.m. April 12 and found 26 pickerel in the trunk. A charge against Mr. Green and Green had a permit which allowed him to catch four fish.

Corporal Muir said the commission took the four largest fish and the rest returned, and that Green was then warned by the warden.

The corporal said all 26 fish had been speared near the shore of the Bay of Quinte at Deseronto. He seized a spear and a torch.

Corporal Muir said he believed the case was more serious than usual because "I'm sure the anglers had planned to sell the fish." He told the magistrate that maximum fine (there is no minimum) for violating the Tyendinaga Township's fish and game by-law is $50 or jail.

Magistrate Wills fined Green $50 or, in default of payment, 30 days in jail.

Corporal Muir said the fish had been speared in the Tyendinaga County Home for the Aged.

Green was tried in absentia.

AOTS Club Of Bridge St. Church Meets

The regular monthly meeting of the Bridge St. Church A.O.T.S. club was held on Wednesday evening with the president Mr. Cecil A. Ryde in the chair. The meeting opened by singing the National Anthem and prayer offered by Glenn Shaver.

Mr. Enos David faithfully performed the duties of Sergeant at Arms. The ladies group from the W.A. who served the lovely dinner were graciously thanked for their kindness by vice-president, David McLaughlin. Four new members, Messrs. Don Swift, William Tice, Robert Munroe and Jerry Greening were officially inducted into membership, after introduction by Mr. George Greatrix.

Mr. Vic White led in an enjoyable sing song with Alex Gordon at the piano. Mr. Gordon also rendered his usual humorous singing commercial as a compliment to the O'Neill Sales Limited, staged a pantomime "Men Are Men Out to the Ball Game."

Mr. Taylor Franklin conducted the brief worship period placing emphasis on our Christian responsibility locally and otherwise.

Mr. Gordon English, representing the Imperial Oil Co. Co. Limited, entertained with an educational film entitled "Western Oil Eastward" showing the many almost insurmountable obstacles which were met to come to install pipe lines to convey this most important commodity from Edmonton to Sarnia and thence eastward via the St. Lawrence Seaway. Mr. Charles Bristol extended official vote of thanks to the speaker for bringing the film and for his explanatory remarks.

The president reminded the members of the membership which has been extended to visit the members of King St. United Church, Trenton, Sunday on Tuesday evening next, supper to be as many as possible to attend. He also advised the members that the annual District A.O.T.S. rally four finals would be held at Elim Lodge on May 7th, 8p. and the next and hoped that a good sized delegation from our Club would be able to be there. The Rev. Robert Sherwin pronounced the benediction.

Barbershoppers Ready for Show

Last night the Belleville chapter of S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. spent several enjoyable hours ironing out the wrinkles and putting the final touches on their part of the performance for the tenth annual Harmony Night which will be presented this Saturday evening at the Belleville Collegiate Institute auditorium. The girls of the Sweet Adeline Chorus were occupied in the same manner.

The headline quartet this year is again the Barbiekers from London, Ont. The Rhythm Counts are a new quartet but are hailed by Provincials as Ontario's newest sensations. For a change of pace the Pritchard Harmony Four, "Pop" Babes and Their Brother," will also appear on the program.

Belleville's own quartet, The Keynotes, will round out the program. With the unfortunate absence of Alec Burns, away on business, Dali Kaye will drop down a notch to the lead slot.

The proceeds of this show will be donated to the Belleville School for Retarded Children on John Street, through the Belleville Lions Club, which is most interested and active in this project.

peared to be anticipating a mounting guerrilla campaign mounting guerrilla campaign which they hoped would steadily attract popular support.

The rebel council said the "tragic losses" occurred among a small holding force whose delaying action enabled the bulk of the rebel force to escape to the mountains.

MANY ARRESTED

Widespread arrests throughout Cuba were confirmed today by the Havana copresponded of the Communist Yugoslav newspaper Politika. He claimed Castro's security police smashed all attempts by Cubans inside the island to aid the invaders with a network of informers and "committees of alertness."

"The committees of alertness formed in houses and blocks have the duty to report everything and every suspicious man to the security police," the Politika correspondent reported.

The foreign office announced in London that three Britons one an information officer in the British Embassy—were in jail. A British woman who had been jailed was released Monday and joined her relatives in hospital.

Those executed in La Cabaña fortress with Sori Marin were identified as Gaspa Roda Vazyona, Rogelio Gonzalez, Manuel Cuellar, Rafael Diaz Asol, Vernon Gonzalez and Navarrete and Eugenio Fernando Ortega.

The Cuban broadcast said Sori Marin was arrested March 13 while trying to smuggle explosives to Cuba from Cayo Hueso Island. Last Tuesday the same radio station claimed Sori Marin had just been arrested and wounded while seeking to escape.

Two other "terrorists" were sentenced to life in firing squad in Camaguey, the broadcast said. They were identified as Pedro Iglesias y Romero and Rafael Lorenzo Reyes Ramirez.

Heavy radio jamming dispatch from Prague that the Czechoslovak press agency Ceteka reported from Havana that five Americans have been executed in Cuba for participation in the invasion.

The whereabouts of Castro was a mystery. Although a periodic speaker with a penchant for the limelight, he has not been heard over the Cuban radio or seen on television since the insurgents invaded Cuba Monday.

Raul Castro, the prime minister's brother and minister of the armed forces, was reported in Santiago, capital of Oriente province, where he has directed the campaign against rebels in the hills.

USING 'DNG STICK'

A long editorial in Pravda, the Soviet Communist party organ, attacked what it called the "big stick policy" of President Kennedy toward Cuba and repeated the warning made by the Soviet government Tuesday that U.S. support of the Cuban rebels would jeopardize the peaceful life of the United States itself."

Red China again proclaimed its support of Dr. Castro regime and said: "The Chinese people are fully determined to take all necessary measure in all spheres to help the Cuban people in their just patriotic struggle."

Prime Minister Nehru told the Indian parliament today that the anti-Castro invasion of Cuba could only have been launched from the territory of mainland, parts, of the United States or Central American states."

Nehru said Kennedy had said he would not permit U.S. armed forced to intervene in Cuba but "I do not see any difference between this kind of intervention and the kind of intervention taking place now."

Nehru's came to the United States' defence in the United Nations and denounced as extreme and without foundation the Soviet and Cuban charges that Washington is masterminding the Cuban landings.

Canada, which maintained friendly diplomatic and economic relations with Cuba after the United States broke with Castro, indicated a change in its thinking. Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Canada cannot remain indifferent to "this new danger" to the Western hemisphere from Communist penetration in Cuba.

Must Perpetuate Memory Of Fallen of 2 World Wars Says DVA Information Head

TRENTON — At last night's Vimy-VE banquet at the Legion Hall, guest speaker, Gordon Shiel, Vimy, chief of information, Department of Veterans Affairs, urged veterans to pass on their traditions to their families, to perpetuate the memory and deeds of the fallen and to foster the principles of patriotism, duty and public service.

"What if the need arose to do it again?", he asked. "Perhaps, like the great Athenian, gave us an answer when he wrote, 'Remember that prosperity can only be for the free; and that Freedom is the sure possession of those alone who have the courage to defend it'."

Presenting Mr. Andrews, Mr. Way told the Vimy veterans and other First World War veterans that he appreciated any reference to the Battle of Vimy Ridge with temerity, respect and humility. He said that the capture of Vimy Ridge had been a triumph for Canada. It was the first time that Canada had been entrusted with a major operation and that the results had established, both nationally and internationally, the reputation of Canadian arms.

He said that in some respects, the Second World War had been a testing time for Canada, too, and that the actions of the Canadian armed forces had demonstrated to the world that Canada was prepared to support fine words about basic human rights and the integrity of nations with solid deeds and genuine sacrifices.

Mr. Way said that VE Day symbolized the traditions of Canada from adolescence to maturity as a nation.

He described the various memorials Canada has erected to the memory of those who sacrificed their lives in the two world wars.

He spoke of the solemn memorial service, observed each year, at the magnificent Vimy Memorial in France. Canada has other special memorials to her fallen in the First World War in France.

MUTE TESTIMONY

In Canada, the National War Memorial, the Memorial Chamber and the Carillon in the Peace Tower, and dozens of other memorials to First World War casualties. In the Memorial Chamber, in the First World War Book of Remembrance is kept. It contains the names of 59,651 Canadians who died in that war.

There are no monuments marking the sites of major Second World War battles in which Canadian formations took part. Mr. Way said that would be difficult to select suitable sites from the point of view of those who served in the navy and the air force.

The Commonwealth Graves Commission, Mr. Way said, is a member, has erected many beautiful memorials around the world in England, Italy, Hong Kong and Canada, including Canadians, as well as their Commonwealth comrades.

In Ottawa two veterans' memorial buildings are connected with a memorial arch. Mr. Way said that some appropriate statue would be placed in front of this arch in the future. He said a memorial was to built on Nepean Point in Ottawa, which will honour those who died fighting in all wars in which Canada has participated.

The Veterans' Charter, which benefits all veterans of wars, and which will continue to give comfort and security to veterans and to their widows and children, is a practical memorial, he said.

Mr. Way was introduced to the veterans by Albert Cunnell, who shared the speaker's first duties as a reserve member of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Immediate past president of the Trenton Legion branch, William Lawson, thanked Mr. Way for his address.

CIVIC WELCOMES

A civic welcome was tendered to the veterans and their guests by Mayor James Mac-Donald.

Mayor MacDonald said that it seemed incongruous to give a civic welcome to people who were an integral part of Trenton. He said that the veterans of the two World Wars had given a fine example of courage and self-sacrifice to the people of the town.

Elmer Sandercock, bringing greetings from the Ontario government, said the Legion Hall in which the banquet was held was a credit to the Legion and to the town.

Following Mr. Sandercock's remarks, the president, turned upon Eben James to speak and Mr. James presented a framed silhouette to the Legion branch. The picture depicts a Scottish piper playing the "lament" for his fallen comrades. It is dedicated to those who gave their lives in the World Wars.

Rev. J. T. Irwin proposed a toast to the "Old Sweats." He said that those attending the banquet were undoubtedly filled with mixed emotions. They were happy to be together and saddened by the thought that many of their comrades had not come back from the battlefield or had died since the war years.

In reply, Exli Donaldson said that while there had been no glory or fame in the contestants in either of the World Wars, when the veterans considered the wonderful country they had been fighting for, they could only come to the conclusion that "it had been worth it." He urged the veterans to look at Canada and count their blessings.

WARNS COMRADES

President Craddock warned that unless veterans, who knew the horrors of war, made it clear to the present generation that war was useless and a threat to mankind, their sons and daughters might soon be fighting another war.

The Lenco Cup commemoration were intoned by John Silver, M.B.E. and were preceded by The Last Post, followed by Reveille by bugler Sgt. David Smith.

Vimy veterans attending the banquet were: Bill Ayres, Ben Calder, Bill Colterjohn, V. Cooper, William Dalzell, William Keating, Harry Barker, Ted Eidt, DCM, John Snider, Bert Bell-Irving, Ross Burtt, MM, Mike Harrison, Henry Pulford, MM, Norman Pulford, Edi Donaldson, Harry Lowe, G. Nokes, N. Nokes, Bill Luscombe, Bill Mitten.

Fred Logue, also a Vimy vet, was unable to attend the banquet as he is a patient in Kingston General Hospital.

An honored guest at the banquet was Charlie Baker, a veteran of the South African War. . .

Chile Thanks 426 Squadron And Canada

TRENTON — On Friday afternoon, RCAF Station Trenton will be visited by Mario Rodriguez, Chilean ambassador to Canada, his 17-year-old son, and the Chilean consul, Juan Donoeyko.

The ambassador will present what is called "Condor" to the members of 426 "Thunderbird" squadron.

This summer, RCAF North Star transport planes flew tons of food and medical supplies to Chile when the country suffered a series of severe earthquakes.

The ambassador's visit Friday is in the nature of being a gesture of appreciation by the RCAF and the Canadian people for the aid rendered to Chile at that time.

Bata Shoe Wil Be Host To 25 Visitors

TRENTON — Twenty-five managing directors of Bata Shoe companies in 17 countries of the free world will gather Sunday at Batawa for a week-long conference. The participants in this "Norman Tour", so designated by code to embrace the activities of the group, have visited American centres and will take side trips to several Ontario cities during their stay in Canada.

The international concept of the conference will create a need for interpreters, as some of the managers do not have a command of the English language.

The registry reads like a miniature United Nations: L. Silar, North, Africa; T. Sheikh, Pakistan; F. Seth, India; A. Carnecky, Kenya; J. Bazzanan, Kharioun, Sudan; A. Samek, Indonesia; S. Blazek, Egypt; A. Balek, Lima, Peru; R. Engel, Brussels, Belgium; E. Holecek, New Zealand; A. Dalchal, Pakistan; E. Rumsey, Tilbun, England; J. Svehlik, Nigeria; A. Konni, Kingston, Jamaica; J. Levasseur, France; P. Cowell, C. Marshall, F. Mencik, V. Otto Dalnki, Czech; A. Otto, Otlowe Dalcar, A. Cekota, C. K. Herz, of Batawa, R. Engel-Farry, Toronto, and Thomas J. Bata, head of the world-wide Bata organization.

The Bata Shoe Company of Canada, with headquarters at Batawa, has established branch plants at Picton and Campbellford and has warehouses and retail stores in most Ontario cities.

In Batawa, land holdings total 1,500 acres, with 250 dwellings, a staff house for single workers, two churches, two hospital centres, sports field, tennis court and ski run. The recreation centre, recently destroyed by fire, will be rebuilt.

The impact of this industry centred in Batawa is felt throughout the entire Quinte district.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CHAMP

Wayne Fytte, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. D. Fytte, Picton, won the Home and School Association public speaking competition held at Queen Elizabeth School, Picton. He spoke on the subject "Niagara Falls" and defeated eight other grade 8 contestants.

ing the members of the local branch for the fine work they have done with Trenton residents who have come under the supervision of the society.

He warned the group not to expect 100 per cent results with offenders as many persons who fail "out of the law are suffering from a childhood disturbance and may take a long time to adjust to society."

Seven individuals have come to the attention of the local branch in the past year. They have been given counsel and financial aid in some cases.

The Trenton branch will commence a campaign to raise funds with which to carry on its work.

Charles Thorn Plans to Quit As Dogcatcher

All stray dogs take heart — Belleville will be without a dog catcher after Friday night.

Today Charles Thorn stated he will quit the post of dog catcher — the reason, too little money and too long hours. The resignation is effective Friday, he says.

In the past Mr. Thorn has served the city in the dual role of dog catcher and janitor at the city police station, but this week he received notification from city hall that as of April 24th, other arrangements were being made for caretaking at the police building.

That left him only with the dog catching role for which he receives a salary of $2,000 per year plus $400 car allowance.

"You can't keep a family of nine on that," he said.

Mr. Thorn noted there had been no adjustment in the dog catcher's salary since before annexation.

Since annexation, calls and mileage travelled had greatly increased.

Castro and The U.S.

Fidel Castro ranted repeatedly against what he termed U.S. plans to invade Cuba. Most of us laughed. Now the invasion has come. Does that mean that Castro was telling the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth?

By no means. Only by a distortion of terms can this be said to be an invasion by the U.S. But, by the same token, it is equally misleading to pretend that the invasion could have occurred without the assistance, active or passive and more likely the former, of the U.S. government.

Invaders must have a base. If none of the invasion force sailed directly from U.S. territory to Cuba, (which only the naive would presume to be correct without much more convincing evidence to the contrary than has been provided), then the invaders came from Guatemala. And Guatemala is as close to being a U.S. satellite as can be imagined. Its government holds power by virtue of U.S. intervention —it has been openly stated by a noted U.S. columnist and he has yet to hear of our knowledge never denied that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency engineered the overthrow of a left-wing regime in that country which the U.S. regarded as Communist.

Does this mean that the U.S. is solely responsible for the invasion? Again by no means. But it does appear to be true that the pressure of events has forced the U.S. to adopt tactics similar to those which it used to deplore in those days before it became a first-class power. All of the other big powers, Britain, France, Germany and Tsarist Russia, to name only a few, throughout many centuries were continually meddling in the affairs of their neighbors, providing aid and succor for rebellious groups, whether within their own homelands or in exile. Communist Russia, of course, has converted this system of occasional meddling, on the basis of expediency, into a full-time, long-range policy extending not only to neighboring lands but into every nook and cranny of the globe.

The temptation is strong to pronounce a plague on all the houses of the interventionists, but we ought not to overlook the fact that such aid and succor for rebels can spring from noble motives and that without it many a tyrant would have ruled longer and wrought greater ruin!

The dividing line between providing a sanctuary for a refugee and arming a revolutionist is so thin that it will hardly be drawn in the same place by all of the people, all of the time. Even when a government permits its own citizens to volunteer for service in a civil war in another land, there can be two opinions as to whether this is justified. Were the members of the Mackenzie-Papineau fighting for democracy and aiding a legitimate government against the wicked assault of Fascist rapscreanries, or were they wantonly interfering in the internal affairs of Spain and if there can be two opinions about a country permitting its own nationals to intervene in the affairs of another country, then surely there is room for two opinions as to whether it is legitimate to permit refugees to train and prepare for an armed return to their native land.

The attitude of the U.S. towards the refugees from Castro's Cuban regime has been friendly in the extreme. The U.S. could hardly have gone further, short of active intervention against Castro. There is no reason to heap abuse on the U.S. for this attitude. It can be interpreted as easily as the product of idealism or of self-interest—and even if it were solely the product of the latter motive, of a desire to keep Communism from gaining a secure foothold in the Americas, it can easily be justified. The only possible criticism would be on the grounds that too many Americans are prone to take a holier-than-thou attitude when some other country adopts similar policies.

There is, however, one detail which should not be overlooked. In today's world, such support of rebellious groups from one country by the government of another nation is fraught with danger, for it could provide the spark which might kindle a major war. It may be legitimately asked whether the world can today afford the luxury of supporting revolutionaries, whether from idealism or self-interest is immaterial. But if the game has become too dangerous, then not only the U.S. and other nations of the West, but Russia and Red China, too, must recognize the this fact. The game cannot be played by two sets of rules and U.S. intervention in the affairs of Cuba has been no more than the wagging of a cautionary finger compared with the flat-waving in which the Communists are perpetually indulging, all the way from Laos to Berlin.

Some circumstantial evidence is very strong, as when you find a trout in the milk.—Henry David Thoreau.

Strictly Personal
'Down East' Should be 'Up East'

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices:

When an event is postponed to a later date, is it pushed "forward" or "upward"? It goes forward in time, but backward in that it comes later, and I can never decide on the proper way to put it.

How much do you know about the effect of speeding? If you hit a wall with a certain force at 30 miles an hour, do you hit it with double the force at 60 miles an hour? No, as any child can tell you — you hit it with four times the force at 60 miles an hour, and with nine times the force at 90 miles an hour. Paste that in your windshield.

The most serious indictment of TV is that many of the best and most intelligent programs come on when most people are asleep. It is as if newspapers printed their foreign dispatches and cultural reviews in 2-point type and inserted them in the washroom, after carefully blurring the ink.

Can some ardent New Englander tell me why Maine is called "down East" when it's obviously "Up"?

The teaching of foreign languages should be abandoned in high schools, as an absolute waste of the pupils' time and the teachers' efforts — unless we take languages seriously and begin them in the fourth or the fourth grade.

It's astonishing how one word can obliterate another in less than a generation: the word "Utopia" has been continually placed by "Shangri-La" in our time, and the only restaurant of the earlier era is "Utopian" as a political sneer. ("Utopia was coined in 1516; "Shangri-La" in 1939.)

The only time we don't mind being interrupted is by applause.

Smug people who secretly delight in finding flaws in everybody else's work should keep in mind the analect of Chang-Tze: "Of the five vices, the vice of the mind is the worst. That is the vice of the mind! The vice of the mind is self-satisfaction."

To advise a person to "stop worrying" is about as effective (according to tests now being run) the first sign of a stupid counsellor is that he calls for a display of will power when the will has been paralyzed.

The outside world is more a reflection of us than we realize: the sensitive person lives in a world of snubs and slights; the fearful person in a world of perils and pitfalls; for me what we call "reality" is a reflection of our own personalities in the prism of the universe.

The "celebrity" in modern times is one whose name and face and name are known in inverse proportion to the value and significance of his life-work.

Far Too Many Red Lights

Brantford Expositor

On the highways at night, many large vehicles look like illuminated Christmas trees. Is this sort of safety set-up being overdone? The traffic experts are the people to be asked. There may be a point where too many lights tend to confusion.

Specifically, are there too many red lights on the road to Hamilton? The Ontario Safety League quotes Dr. L. J. van der Horst, a Netherlands Government traffic police expert, in this connection. He says: "A study of any physical stimuli tends to weaken its effect. too much color would tend to reduce the effectiveness of red as a warning signal. Every vehicle has at least two red tail lights. Some of the recent models have four.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 29th, 1941.

Water levels of the Moira River are said to be the lowest this year than in any corresponding period for a decade. Lack of the traditionally heavy Spring rains is said to be responsible in the major part, with the more or less rapid disappearance of late winter snow also being a contributing factor.

Prices were exceedingly good beer today, and there have been more milk priced over the one-hundred-and-fifty-dollar mark, sold than experienced in this district in many years; and I might add that the grade of cattle is good and deserves the increased prices," stated Mr. M. Holstein breeders from many parts of the district were present and also three from New York State.

Lady Dick George having spent the Easter holiday with his parents has returned to Ottawa.

Since red is a danger signal indicating an obstruction, what is the logic behind two or more red lights on a moving vehicle."

What indeed? It seems that the automotive designers and engineers might do better off paying attention to basic matters instead of trying to make their vehicles too wide for the road and overequipped with warning lights.

Dr. van der Meulen suggests that moving vehicles should show one red and one green tail light, while a stopped vehicle (really a dangerous vehicle) should show two or more red lights and no green light. He also thinks that all lights should be equipped with an automatic device to make the tail lights to red as soon as a speed drops below 20 miles an hour. Above that, under his plan, the right hand rear switch is green.

The idea is that (once he got used to it) the driver seeing red and green lights would have developed "an expectancy for this color combination" and the disappearance of the green light from the expected combination would result in the motorist more arresting signal.

This might help to reduce the appalling number of rear-end collisions during the hours of darkness. Dr. van der Meulen addressed the Ontario Safety League meeting in the Netherlands as Government traffic police expert, in this connection. He says: "A study of any physical stimuli tends to weaken its effect. too much color would tend to reduce the effectiveness of red as a warning signal. Every vehicle has at least two red tail lights. Some of the recent models have four.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

FUMIGATION

In a great store in New York City which sells thousands of dollars' worth of rugs and carpets every year, fumigation of these floor coverings takes place once a week. Hard as it is to believe, every rug in that place is inspected and fumigated once a week. The reason, of course, is quite apparent — that firm doesn't intend to allow moths to get started. It would take only a few of these little pests to destroy in a short time some of the costliest fabrics in the store. The way to guard against them is to make sure that moths never get started.

So careful about rugs and so indifferent about souls. Few people in the world guard their souls as carefully as this firm guards its stock of rugs. Many people can be quite indifferent to the solid spots on their characters upon which moths thrive. They pay no more attention to their devastating little weaknesses than some people do to their rugs, which they literally allow to be consumed by moths before they do anything about it. But good housekeepers and careful storekeepers guard against moths long before they start to do any damage.

Having a man spiritually silling seems to be quite oblivious to the fact that what he needs is a thorough fumigation of his character.

Discipline Up to Parents

Cleveland Plain Dealer

"First, send your child to school every day. Everyone knows that even a good student gets behind and may become sad and discouraged after repeated absences.

"Second, send him to school rested . . . The time for him on school nights is at home, and early in bed.

"Third send him to school disciplined. By this I do not mean beaten or cowed or afraid to speak. But I do mean he should understand that in such simple language as 'Please sit down and be quiet for a little.' "

That was the windup of a wise speech by Charles Myers, a former juvenile court judge now president of the Ohio State Board of Education.

Myer laid it on the line "We cannot afford the undisciplined child today. . Study-halls should not be race tracks. In this area parents cause the effectively operate.

"Unfortunately we are passing through a period in which many parents who should know better and who want to be 'good to their children' forget their moral duty to them in the interest of and confuse the gift of a choice scooter with the gift of good honest training.

"We lost teachers regularly who finally tire of having their time frayed by the constant confusion caused by students, who should be ready for work in the classroom with a decent respect for the rights of others to peace and quiet." And

"Many students, as the result of organized school activities, are too tired to concentrate. Others are too excited to give attention."

Myers noted that there are too many home influences on the sights before class sessions, and too often school boards are kept out at night. "Too good causes" which seem to justify anything.

We hope that mothers and parents who need Myers' advice about how to discipline their children listen when they say Please sit down and be quiet for a little if they can't get their children to obey that command it's time for active disciplinary action. If indeed it's not too late for such action.

Would Limit Memoirs Ban

Dallas Morning News

The White House and Windsor Castle lately have packed their servants not to write memoirs.

At the same time there should be another secret preserving the privacy of "royal families" and not stop their servitors forever from writing books for them. Let's recommend a 20-year period as a reasonable statute. After that it should not matter too much and the indiscretions of royalty, politicians rather than scandalmongers.

Elizabeth Keckley's "Behind the Scenes" appeared in 1868, only three years after Lincoln's assassination, and the world would be poorer indeed if it could not read the images of Lincoln and his wife. Memoir-writing conservatives of Lincoln's privates have helped to complete many biographical pictures. We still can't understand why President Taft stuck in a normal-sized bathtub.

When these stars on the historical scene accept their roles, they should, in fairness, to good time we should hear what their intimates knew and thought about them.

Unquestionably President Kennedy will have a good steak without having the dimensions of his private life put on piece on the morrow but in 1980, giving him the benefit of re-election, it would be a benevolent ousness and a biographer may be able to make something significant out of it.

Perpetual silence as the price of certain employment shows a sense of schlesse beyound the call of a democratic or even of a constitutional monarchy these days.

To Your Good Health
'Emotional' Illness Better Term Than 'Mental' Illness

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain what is commonly called a mental breakdown. What is the technical name? I have looked in several books and cannot find a definition. What are the physical and mental symptoms that precede a mental breakdown? What hope is there for cure? — J. K."

The reason you can't find a definition is because mental breakdown isn't a term that means exactly anything. It's like saying that somebody has had "broke down," which can mean whatever you want it to mean — gastric ulcers, malnutrition, intolerable exhaustion, TB, cancer, or you choose one. There are even hypochondriacs whose health "breaks down" to their own satisfaction, anyway — when nothing really ails them.

By the same token, a mental breakdown can cover a variety of mental or emotional conditions, of various prognosis for cure, and of varying intensity, so that the illness is severe enough to prevent the patient from getting along in normal society.

For example, any number of us may have mild emotional problems, or one of the many "phobias", or unreasonably severe fears of certain foods, fish, eggs, cheese, poultry. Fowl, mushrooms, identify the protein content of milk.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble" is the title of my booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is, and how many thousands suffers to do something about it. For a copy write Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 6000, Chicago 80, enclosing a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover handling and postage.

Adrian Grigg, 25-year-old interior decorator, says, "I'm — a child who, although angry at his parents, felt that he was "supposed" to love them. He perhaps pretended to, but carried a terrible burden of guilt because he didn't. That sort of thing, and many others, are a misunderstanding if often bewildering study.

Under the pressure of such things, people sometimes finally take refuge in an emotional illness. They withdraw, mentally, emotionally, from the real world. In some extreme cases they retreat to a sort of protected infancy, unable to (or unwilling) to talk, read, or even feed themselves.

In other cases they may live in a world of imagination, hearing voices that do not exist, seeing things that are not there.

And so on up and down the scale. Their reasons, the powerful ones of sanity and the sick ones, may be valid, but it is so complicated that not even a book would cover the topic. It is called a schizophrenia.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is it unusual for a woman to become bald? — L. T."

Not very. Baldness is less common in women, but they more often resort to wigs or hairpieces. There seems to be an increase in the number of women who have partial hair loss.

Note To L. T. H.: You don't need a diet list to eat a high protein diet... Just remember to eat plenty of lean meat, fish, eggs, cheese, poultry. Fowl, mushrooms identify the protein content of milk.

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK

With the growing sophistication of childhood it is understandable that many of the games that interested the interest of the outgoing generation, when it was young, should be considered crude. Even the motor car usurping the streets that formerly but up with the game of marbles. With cars parked bed and toe along the curbs there is little room for the modern boy play marbles in the gutter all the way from here to all the way home? Run sheep-run, hide and seek — how much room really is having off in all directions when it is death to step off the sidewalk? Even hockey it has been sophistication that has been the death of most of the games of the outdoor age. Children don't want to be children any more. In the present time they have to spare from TV they want to be lawmen, gunslingers, spacemen, and above all, cowboys. It takes more greatest inspiration to the young ie yak.

What we oldies miss most are the tops. Not a candy shop, toy shop cigar store or hardware store in town but had a whole bin of painted wooden tops on display in the window at the season of the year. For a cent you could get a candy stick which would spin five minutes and shoulder of hardwood planks all competitors. There was a style and skill in spinning a top, a growing sense of mastery, and a respect for decent skill—a skill acquired down to admire the miracle.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

COURAGE WANTED

If we study the lives of outstanding men and women we are sure to keep running into those who have raised the flag of courage high in the air. It is the fact that they are forever working for the good of others that makes a man a hero.

Happily, courage can never really be defeated because courage is not born — it is refined. It is not only physical. It is spiritual. There is also that inner courage than physical, and that is intellectual courage.

Any brute man may have physical courage. But the man, or woman, who is able to have long untried lines — which may not always be right — and to express his or her convictions with sincerity and deep belief is a man or woman of the rarest courage.

Thinking is the hack of everything that is worthwhile and which aspires to greatness. There come times when we all have to think of ourselves — then the assertion of intellectual courage may be the thing to keep us standing erect in a mental world of great stress and disbelief.

True courage travels with the heart too. And it is something that keeps fanning the flame of aspirations. It takes courage to destroy — that something better may be achieved. Perhaps the greatest courage lies in the destruction of out-of-date ideas and viewpoints and replacing them with those that meet the call of the times and progress of mankind. Pooh-Lowell once wrote "Time makes ancient good uncouth."

Constantly, not everyone has learned the stimulus that courage brings. It takes courage to be quiet mental and bodily makeup.

I honestly feel that courage is not only the mouthpiece of success and happiness. It is success and happiness!

Navigation Season Opens As Bayanna Uses New Dock

A $57,000 dock addition at the Belleville Harbor was officially put into use today with the arrival of the "Bayanna," lake cooler, which docked this morning to open the 1961 navigation season.

The Bayanna, a self-unloading laker, docked with a load of just over 1,400 tons of American stoker coal for Corby's Distillery.

The boat arrived just in time," stated Elmer Middleton, engineer for Corby's, "we'd have been out of coal in another day."

The new dock has been leased to Harry Smith, Fuels.

The new concrete dock, built to replace a wooden structure which had fallen into disuse as result of decay, is 228 feet in length by 24 feet in width and with a 47-foot wing at the east end. It was built with Federal funds for the Belleville Harbor Commission.

Built during the winter months by Lightfoot Construction of Belleville, the new dock addition is on steel piling with a nine inch reinforced concrete deck. It will be used principally for the unloading of coal shipped to Belleville by water.

Harbormaster Mac Smith said the new structure would considerably extend docking facilities at Belleville for lake boats.

Taking approximately five months to complete the dock project provided winter employment for about 12 men, who otherwise would have been laid off for the winter.

47 Boys and Girls Pass Various Tests in Swimming

The second public school learn to swim program in 1961 which has now extended to non-swimmers in the grade classes of the city has provided instruction for 47 boys and girls of this city who previously did not know how to swim. One of the largest classes ever in the project, which is conducted by the Belleville YMCA as a part of the annual program of the Quinte Water Safety Council, 27 of the participants fully qualified for their beginner's certificates, whilst the others achieved various stages of advancement in the five-part tests.

The instruction was carried out in the local "Y" pool under the direction of Joe Ruddy, physical director and Carol Taylor, girls' and women's secretary.

Those who finished one or more stages of the tests were Bonnie Gallinger, Shirley Yanover, Stella Christopher, Sharon Baldwin, Lorraine St. Pierre, Carol Casilbo, Terry Chambers, Carol Green, Deanna Rice, Carol Davis, Kaye McQuaid, Jerry Bankey, Elinwood Baldwin, Jim Parkhurst, Wayne Parrinder, Billy Hurst, Hon Hanna, Allan Lusk, Gordon Thompson and Glen Payne.

The tests, by stages, are: ornene float: glide and flutter kick from push-off, distance of 18 feet; swim 40 feet, starting from standing position in chest height water; dive and swim 35 feet. The final test for the beginner's certificate requires a candidate to jump feet first into deep water and swim 35 feet, then turn, and swim back to the starting point.

Woman Raises Red Snails To Feed Fish

DUNCAN, B.C. (CP) — Mrs. Ronald Henslowe has an unusual hobby-heliculture — and her family barely tolerates it.

She raises tropical red snails, not for human consumption but to provide food for fish and to keep gold fish bowls and aquariums clean.

Two years ago Mrs. Henslowe bought four of the snails. By early this year there were 100 to 150 in a glass bowl ready to spawn.

The snails lay their eggs on the sides of the bowl, on shells and anywhere else they can find. They hatch from a jelly like substance in about four weeks.

Mrs. Henslowe feeds the snails on celery leaves and fish food. They grow to about the size of a dime.

She took up the hobby mostly for her own pleasure but sometimes makes a profit from it.

Bayside Local Assoc. Holds Social Meet

The Bayside Local Association Guides and Brownies held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Glydon.

DESERONTO — The April meeting of St. Mark's Evening Guild was held in the parish hall on April 11th.

Mrs. Margaret Lyons volunteered to canvass for the Cancer Blitz on April 24.

Discussion of regular business occupied the meeting for some time. The next meeting will be held May 8 with Mrs. Charles Gray and Mrs. John Hopson as hostesses.

Following the meeting a game of bridge and crib was enjoyed with Mrs. William Jackson winning the high score and Mrs. John Hopson the lone low score.

Miss Beatrice Rixen and Mrs. Walter Joyce, hostesses for the evening, served an enjoyable lunch.

University Training Makes Contribution to Standards Of the Nursing Profession

FREDERICTON (CP) — University training can make an important contribution to the standards of the nursing profession, says Miss Katherine MacLaggan, director of the University of New Brunswick school of nursing.

"We believe that nursing at the upper echelon of its practice must become professional in the connotation of scholarship and service," she said in an interview. "We believe that education for a professional occupation should take place at a university."

She added, however, that there is still a place for the hospital-trained nurse.

"We feel that while there should be, and from now on will be, a segment of nurses, another group of the nursing family—those lacking the opportunity or desire to be educated at the university level—is essential to the nursing service."

UNB IS FIRST

UNB has the only degree-granting nursing school in the Maritime provinces. The first class to receive Bachelor of Nursing degrees will graduate in 1963 upon completion of the four-year course. There now are 12 students nearing the end of their second year and 18 in the freshman class.

"This is the background education our hospitals will expect nurses of the future to have," said Miss MacLaggan.

"There is no group in our society for which administrative opportunities abound for women as in the nursing profession. Nurses administer 70 per cent of hospital care.

"It is almost impossible to compare a university student nursing course with one given by a hospital. I trained at the Royal Victoria in Montreal. This kind of course did not exist in my day."

Under the UNB course, students must have an average of 80 per cent in high school departmental examinations. This compares with 50 per cent required for hospital nursing schools and 60 per cent needed for entrance to other university courses.

Clinical experience is provided by Victoria Public Hospital here and the Moncton hospital. Per cent in high school and one at Lancaster, N.B., will make their services available for the first two years.

Miss MacLaggan emphasized, however, that the students are never "on duty" in hospitals. They are there to learn only.

Minerva Chapter Sponsors Successful Country Store, Tea

Pink and mauve roses decorated the white fence and pink and mauve colored garlands climbed the white arbor which marked the entrance to the tea room for the daintily appointed "Tea and Country Store" sponsored yesterday afternoon by the Minerva Temple by Minerva Chapter of the O.E.S.

The little guest counter tables were each appointed with white linen cloths and centred with an arresting tray of daisy and wicker and tulle cakes, divided by a lace doily.

Welcoming the thronging guests at the door were Mrs. Pauline Clare, W.M., and Mrs. Isobel Gerrow, wife of the Worthy Patron, whose warm smiles and hearty handshakes left much to make everyone feel at home.

Taking tickets at the door were Mrs. Edna Broad, Mrs. Verna Owen, and Mrs. Nellie Clarke, while escorting the guests to the tea room were Mrs. Dorothy Tugwell, Mrs. Grace Vanner and Mrs. Hazel Wess, and those taking tickets at the tea room were Mrs. Janet Williamson, Mrs. Christine Hall and Miss Edith Lanning.

The conveners of the tea and country store were Mrs. A. Fiskin, P.M., and Mrs. A. Jordan, P.M.

ATTRACTIVE TEA TABLE

The long tea table was most attractively appointed with white linen centred by an exquisite arrangement of mauve lilacs mingled with pink roses and fern in triple-tiered dish wood. Flanking this were the tall, three-branched silver candelabras with tall pink and mauve candles rising from lacy white doilies. Heavy silver services added to the lovely setting as did the dainty little serviettes with unique summer parasols containing pink and mauve paper flowers.

Those who presided at the silver services included Mrs. Hetty Gayler, W.M. of Picton, and Mrs. Dorothy Seaborn, W.M. of Consecon; Mrs. Loelle Brickman, W.M. of Belleville 88, and Mrs. Ruth Peck, W.M. at Quinte; Mrs. Eva Wotten and Mrs. Minnie Moorman.

Replenishing plates were: Mrs. Lisa Barnard; Mrs. Florence Bouiter; Mrs. Hazel Dickenson; Mrs. Grace Hendricks, and Mrs. Bessie McMullen.

Serving included: Mesdames, Irene Barry; Marian Johnston; Alice Furmidge; Ila Sine; Joyce Watter; Doris Pound; Vera Thrasher; Margaret Hunt; Mildred Kingston; Marjorie Colleyer; Helen Fitzgerald; Florence Lance; Hilda Hall; Georgina Kendall; Carrie Silver; Nellie McBurney; Miss Gordenia Cummins, and Mrs. J. Pine.

Replacing the tea pots and relish dishes were: Mrs. Lillian Hartley and Mrs. Dorothy Price. The kitchen conveners were Mrs. Lois Pound and Mrs. Helen Fitzgerald.

VARIOUS BOOTHS

Around the spacious assembly room were the various booths, each one decorated with garlands of mauve and pink in attractive manner, some with rose rosettes and some with bows of pink and mauve.

At the apron booth, conveyed by Mrs. Jane Cummins, assisted by Mrs. Ivy Cooper, Mrs. Kay Bushell, and Mrs. Jessie Bushell were displayed very dainty aprons in blue and white prints and floral backgrounds; some with deep flounces of blue chambrey; others in pink and tiny grey stripes, trimmed with fancy red and white rick-rack braid; blue aprons with yellow pockets sporting a blue tulip; and dainty aprons of white percales trimmed with green ties and bands, useful as tea savers and extra washing. Other assistants here were Mrs. Florence Vallery, Mrs. Ada Parsons; Mrs. Agnes Cathcart; Mrs. Frances Moon; Mrs. Dorothy Middleton; Mrs. Rena Orr; Mrs. Mabel Walsh; Mrs. Rhoda Grant; Mrs. Margaret Sinlair; Mrs. Rosella Clancy, and Mrs. Ethel Bonisteel.

The miscellaneous booth was a hive of activity with its miscellaneous articles; floor rubber clowns in yellow and black; pink and black; ruffled lace dolly, which would become the prized possession of the lucky ticket holder; knit tea cosey; cups and saucers; little figurines and hot pot holders; fancy embroidered pillow slips; costume jewellery; glass pitchers; silver medals; floral centrepieces; placemats; foam rubber bathroom sets; a beach and garden hats for adults and children.

Catering the miscellaneous booth were: Mesdames, Beatrice Hagerman; Vera Brewster; Lillian Waters, assisted by Mesdames Bessie Marsh; Helen Smith; Evelyn Douglas; Kay Irving Eyre, Thrasher and Mrs. K. Wardle.

The candy booth was an enticing place for many with its cellophane bags of mixed divinity fudge, maple creams, and walnut topped chocolates, with bonus eggs of the same. In charge of these were Mrs. Isabel Gerrow, Pauline Clare Merner; Mrs. Dorothy May; Mrs. Anne Chapman, assisted by Mrs. Ina Robinson, and Mrs. Meta Williams.

DELECTABLE HOUSEKEEPING

The housecooking, as usual, was three deep with eager purchasers of the delectable pumpkin, lemon, apple, cherry, blueberry pies; cream tarts; lemon tarts, orange and date loaves; angel cakes, cup cakes, chocolate layers; tea biscuits and buns; individual and cherry pies, oozing goodness as well as jars of apple jelly, and jams of several varieties. Convening here were Mrs. Athena Bowen, Mrs. Eva Heath; Mrs. Edna Dobbs; and Mrs. Lorraine Ferguson, assisted by Mesdames, Helen Bunter; Florence Fitzgerald; Flora Gelstorpe; Audrey Malcolm; Winnifred Simmons; Hilda Stine; Majorie Colleyer, Alice Furmidge, and Joan Pine.

Last, but not least was the men's booth, with its beautiful African violets; peony roots; shrubs; foliage plants; fresh eggs; baskets of potatoes; fruit baskets nicely fashioned with a bottle of Up, grapefruit and other fruits, a lovely tree in the some shade as silver pea son. Mr. George Pound and Mr. Don Dillon, assisted by Mr. Bill Adams, Mrs. Mary Adams and Mrs. Hilda Matthews were in charge of these.

SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS

Special attractions were the grocery paper filled to overflowing and the grocery baskets. These were in the following lucky ticket holders: the hamper to Garry Misner, 13 Church St., City; the grocery baskets to, Mr. J. Wonnscott and Mrs. Margaret Bailey; also of the city; the crochet frilly doily to Mr. Bruce Kelly.

Serving a delightful Country Store and tea delightfully convened.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Faul Mark 25th Anniversary

Last Saturday evening approximately 80 relatives and friends gathered at the 20th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Faul, 226 Coleman St.

The evening was spent in a social get-together, with music and singing of all favorite selections.

A buffet luncheon was served including the anniversary cake, sandwiches and coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Faul were the happy recipients of a purse of money as well as good wishes for their 50th anniversary with good health and happiness in the years ahead.

Bride-to-Be Honored by Gift Shower

FRANKFORD — A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. Ridley on North Trent Street, Monday evening in honor of Miss Edith Ridley, who will be married in May. Mrs. Angus Ridley and Miss Sharon Wannemaker were hostesses.

Games were played. A "Jumble Word" contest was enjoyed, the winners being Miss Zeka Halsall and Mrs. R. Patrick. A "Guessing Bag" contest was enjoyed, the winner being Mrs. Fred Cox.

Lucky plate winners were Mrs. Grant Patrick and Mrs. Jerry Foster.

Edith took her place in the honored guest chair, decorated with pink and white streamers, and thanked her many friends for the lovely gifts.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Angus Ridley and Miss Sharon Wannemaker.

St. Thomas' Sr. W.A. Sponsors Delightful St. George's Tea, Sale

The Irish colleens St. Patrick's, the Scottish, St. Andrew's, but yesterday afternoon the Senior W.A. of St. Thomas' Anglican Church celebrated St. George's Day by holding a delightful tea and sale in the Parish House.

The convenor for the event was Mrs. E. E. Morton, assisted by Mrs. J. Watson and Mrs. T. Simpson.

Receiving at the entrance to the appropriately decorated hall were Mrs. E. E. Morton, president of the society; Mrs. A. Green, president of the Evening W.A. and Mrs. A. S. McConnell, wife of the rector.

The complete color scheme and decoration of the tea room was the red and white of St. George's colors of red and white, which incidently are also the colors of the W.A. On each of the window sills which encircled the room were St. George's shields of red and white mounted on tiny pedestals and draped over the plaque was a huge flag representing St. George which was centred with a large shield of red, topped by a quet of colorful red and white carnations.

TEA ROOM HOSTESSES

The hostesses in the tea room were: Mrs. M. J. Clarke and Mrs. R. Sedgwick. The tea table was especially attractive with its large snow-white damask cloth centred with a beautiful arrangement of red roses, white pom-poms, mauve tall white snapdragons and flanked by red and white tapers in silver candle sticks. Glassing silver tea services completed this lovely setting.

Each of the little quaint quest tables was centred with a sparkling white luncheon cloth, centred with a miniature St. George's flag held by a centrepiece in the design of the Windsor Castle.

Those who presided at the tea table were: Mrs. Ronald Keel, Mrs. Jack Smith, Miss Bailey and Miss Lodge, while those serving were: Mrs. T. Smith, Mrs. Ken Bennett, Mrs. M. Smith, Mrs. F. H. Taylor, Mrs. Ken Brien, Mrs. F. Lancaster, Mrs. Acsers, Mrs. J. Winn, Mrs. D. Clark, Mrs. Ronald Keel, Mrs. Crocker, Mrs. C. Fisher and Mrs. H. Taylor. Replacing the dainty sandwiches and petite cakes and cookies were Mrs. Margaret Arrell and Mrs. J. Mastine.

SALES TABLES

In the adjoining Sunday school rooms were the various sales tables, in charge of all these was an enticing table of delicious homecooking which included: luscious cakes of all shapes and sizes; tarts, cookies, a variety of squares, pies, cup cakes, fudge, mincemeat, covering cream puffs as well as many other pretty goodies. In charge were: Mrs. Smith, Mrs. F. Clarke and Mrs. F. Leech.

The knitting table was in charge of Mrs. A. Athey and Mrs. H. Hamlet of the Evening W.A., had a lovely assortment of orange, lemon, grapefruit and orange peel in candied state. There was also a display of all types of greeting cards, note paper, seals and wrapping paper and this was in charge of Mrs. W. E. Shirley.

The candy table was also most attractive and here, daintily packed boxes of maple cream, light and dark fudge, little cups filled to the brim with the various assortments made and alluring spot for the "sweet-toothed", Mrs. W. Alker and Mrs. E. Shirley were in charge at this table.

MISCELLANEOUS BOOTH

At the far end of the tea room and backgrounded by a large window was a table of white carnations; white mums and stately gladioli, was the miscellaneous table, where a large assortment of various articles, such as tea towels, pot holders, tiny booties, coathangers, jewellery, knick-knacks and novelties were for sale. This was convened by Miss M. Lodge, assisted by Mrs. E. Bristol.

Tables were also on display, a number of articles for a bake which is being prepared to be sent to the missions, to Hong Kong and also Western Missions and included such items as: baby shawls, baby sets, flannelette pyjamas, knitted and crocheted quilts, and also several lovely quilts.

The treasurer for this most delightful occasion was Mrs. C. Coleman.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart B. Rosenberg

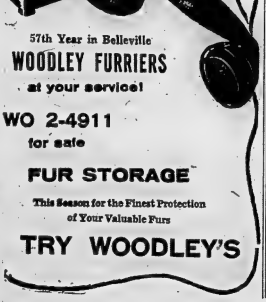
He was a very successful business executive, but most important of all, he was a decent human being. Great power had come to him; by his decisions he controlled the destinies of thousands of people. But on his desk he had a motto which gave the clue to the kind of person he was. It read: "Stop playing the god and become a man."

This theme, he said, reminded him, day after day, that he was only a mortal despite the vastness of his dominion. He realized that he was not going to live forever. "Actually", he said, "this is the disease which destroys most people. They live and work as if they believed that they will go on eternally. Some day, like all men, they will come face to face with the dark reality of human mortality. When the lights start going out, they may then realize how much they depend upon others for help, they will discover, too late I am afraid, that they are not gods after all, but only babies: like creatures".

Real greatness comes only to those who are truly humble. Sincere humility depends upon a belief in a power greater than ourselves. Those who never play the god, do not do so because they recognize a God above and beyond them. Those who lack humility do so because they have made themselves the centre of the universe. Their motto is "know it all", when, indeed, they know precious little. They seek to lord it over all, and in the process, become tin-plated tyrants — arrogant and insipid. When they are blatantly wrong and need to call for help, they cannot; the face they save can never be their own. They are known as "self-made men". And they glory in their strength to be, unaided, from the ground up.

Beware such man who reveal in themselves. They lead the band, making others dance to their tune. But the day of reckoning arrives; they melt like clay when a stronger might reduces them to human size. All they possess is an authority which is powerless to raise them from the dust which they are.

Men who would truly live are those who live with the knowledge that they are born to die. Immortality is not achieved by the property we have acquired, the castles we own or the personal empires we control. The "crown of a good name" outlasts all the temporal "glitter" which we have stored up.



"Stop playing the god and become the man!"

A real man is a speck of dust caught between two eternities — the past and the future — who knows how small he really is. Only when we appreciate how little we are, can we hope to become bigger than we are.

And life, being too short to begin with, has no room for littleness!

DON'T CONFORM

REGINA (CP)—"Women today tend to follow fashion blindly, without examining it from the point of view of becomingness," Anne Kerslake, queen of New York, educational representative for McCall's Corporation, told the Saskatchewan Home Economics Association. "They do this out of fear of being called original or individual."

Wooler WI Donates $248 For Slide

WOOLER — The annual meeting of the Wooler Women's Institute was held in the club room on April 12. About 40 members were present and answered the roll call by saying their membership fees for the coming year.

The president, Mrs. Hilliard Morrow, and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. John MacCallum, gave their annual reports, which showed that the branch had a successful year.

The two main projects for raising money this year was catering to the community sales at Heard's Blacksmith, and the annual fashion show which was held March 1st.

The slide installed in the W.I. park in the village for the children cost $248.

Then $300 was put in a separate savings fund in hopes that the Women's Institute may be canvassing for the Cancer Fund this month.

1961 OFFICERS

After the usual business was taken care of, all offices were declared vacant. Mrs. Percy Gooding conducted the installation of officers for the coming year. Mrs. Gladys Herrington read the slate of officers, which was as follows:

President, Mrs. Hilliard Morrow; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Mac Anderson; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Gerald Pinion; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. John MacCallum; public relations officer, Mrs. Hilliard Morrow; pianist, Mrs. Henry McColl; district director, Mrs. Henry McColl; branch directors, Mrs. N. N. Haggarty, Mrs. Fred Van Dusen, Mrs. Ken Dale; representatives to district annual, Mrs. Hilliard Morrow, Mrs. Mac Anderson, Mrs. John MacCallum and Mrs. Henry McColl.

Conveners of standing committees: current events, Mrs. Ervan Scott and Mrs. Vera Teal; home economics, and health, Mrs. Wesley Dawn; agriculture and Canadian industries, Mrs. Alfred Gooding; citizenship and education, Mrs. F. Smith; resolutions, Mrs. Percy Gooding; auditors, Mrs. Gladys Herrington and Mrs. Clarence Webster; sunshine committee, Mrs. Leland Bryant, Miss C. Valentine.

A busy year is planned for 1961 as the members are planning for their 60th anniversary on June 14th.

There will also be catering at the ploughing match in October which will just be some of the activities.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. T. U. — All I ask is that they sit and talk with me a little.

Charles U. — There are busy days. There's no time for idle chatter.

Mrs. T.U. — I'm 73, and in good health, and have my own little apartment. My three sons and my daughter are all in need of their own and, of course, the great joy of my life is seeing them and their families. They're good children, visit me regularly and frequently invite me to their homes.

But there's something important missing. It's patience. They dash in, ask me how I feel, don't even listen to my answer, and dash out again! If they'd only sit down, stay for tea, chat with me a while, tell me interesting things. And when I'm in their homes, it's no better. They're all away for TV. Even the children don't converse.

At my age, pleasant talk is the best treat and I'm a good listener.

Charles U. — I'll speak for the four of us in answering Mother knows. And when I'm in the stage of life where sessions speak louder than words. Mother knows, and when I'm in the right place. When we see she's okay, we hurry along on our way.

Take me, for instance. I stop up to see her every other morning on my way to work. Sometimes I'm doubled parked, sometimes I'm late, sometimes I've an extra errand to perform en route. I leave her the paper, kiss her goodbye, and skip.

There's more time to talk when she comes to my home. We discuss things at the table, the children tell her things. But why is yak so essential? It's deeds that count.

The Council — Mrs. U. might not feel so bad if she sat around more and discovered that polite conversation is extinct in many families. It's been replaced by eloquent "grunts"!

To get members of one's family to really listen requires the sort of attention-getting teaser the advertising boys use. Hint: "My new filigree doesn't like bath salts!" Even this: Charles might mumble "Hmmmm," while wondering why his car stalled twice that day.

What Mrs. U. is asking is the one thing her children won't give: themselves. They'll dole out some of their time, on the run, and gifts and postcards, from cruise sloporers. But she might as well stop asking them to pull up a chair and meditate reminisce, contemplate. Why, in that time they might be — well, attending a lecture on The Care of the Aging!

No, she might as well settle for the conscientious calls and invitations, sans palaver, at least she's not one of those neglected by children who seem to have lost her address.

Unfortunately, as folks grow older, there are fewer and fewer people in their circles who are willing to listen and learn. Mrs. U.'s best bet for that would be a new circle, such as a Senior Citizens group or even a neighborhood Golden Age Club, or even a discussion from she might organize herself.

Meanwhile, Mrs. U. can excuse Charles. When we've time to talk to him? "Remember that old Mrs. Doe who used to chase you?" And then some gossip about her! —Charles may be trying hard to forget Mrs. Doe, Mom!

FLOWER-ARRANGING

MONTREAL (CP) — The Takeys school of flower-arranging is being taught here by Mrs. Jacob Horiuski who calls it the "harmonious arrangement of space around flowers." She teaches a class of 30 each week, showing how she "follows nature as closely as possible" in arranging Japanese holly, moss and daffodils.

WI Discusses Suitable Books For Children

MADOC — An Extension Service short course on Books and Drama was held in the Memorial Library, Madoc on April 12th. This course was sponsored by the Madoc Branch of the W.I. with representatives from Ivanhoe and Marie-Rigaud Branches.

Mrs. Hamilton of Alton, Ontario was the leader with 18 ladies present.

The morning session consisted of a discussion of favorite books and authors and their relative merits. It was decided that reading is the basis of culture and that discrimination is necessary in selecting a library that will afford pleasure, relaxation and a wide range of information to the reader.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The afternoon session was varied in nature. A suggested list of books suitable for mothers or grandmothers to read to young children, was given by Mrs. Hamilton, who believes that it is the type of books read to them in pre-school years that forms the pattern of their reading habits later.

Poetry was touched on briefly, mainly to introduce those present to the picture forming to the younger readers.

A nostalgic touch was felt when each one present was asked to recall a poem memorized in school. As the majority present were grandmothers, poems from the old second, third and fourth readers were recalled and all agreed that the modern school readers are incomplete since they feel that the community is to be congratulated and urges more adults to take advantage of this really worthwhile service.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Eagner Shaw

DO OTHERS PUREN WHEN YOU SMOKE?

It would seem that our smoking manners need a little polishing over. If a letter I received recently is any criterion. The writer, who wrote it had every reason to be indignant. She is not alone in her complaint. I do assure you. A few quotes from her letter:

"While dining in a restaurant the other evening, I was practically smothered by the fumes from a pipe that the man at the table behind me was smoking. He not only puffed away at the end of the meal but in between each course. I flashly couldn't stand it any longer and got up nerve enough to ask him to please stop it. My only answer was a grin and a turn-ed back. He kept right on puffing.

I always thought a pipe should not be smoked in a restaurant. This one smelled awful. I think I'm right that it is permissible for a man to smoke a cigar after a meal, but not a pipe. The cigar is usually bad enough, but am I right about the pipe?

This lady most certainly is right! A pipe should never be smoked in a public restaurant — or in the home of friends, for that matter, unless permission is asked first. While a pipe may be ambrosia to it's owner, it may be actually nauseating to others. It is extremely thoughtless, and certainly not proper, to smoke one where others may be annoyed. There is a time and a place for pipe smoking, and a gentleman will not overlook this consideration.

The man who is rude enough to disregard others in his smoking habits, and, when asked, insist, refuses to do so, should be strictly shunned. The habit is fatal! The actions of the man mentioned in the above letter were inexcusable. Nonsmokers should take him aside and teach him his manners!

It is not only pipe-smokers who are guilty of bad manners. The cigarette-smoker should, also, should show a definite courtesy towards others. The habit of smoking can become more or less automatic, and it is easy to slip into a careless disregard of one's manner when so doing.

For example, the following bad smoking habits should be avoided like the plague:

Guard against blowing smoke in another person's face; always remove a cigarette from the mouth when talking; never air prisoners.

Successful Living

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Widowed Mother Seeks Help

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—My husband is dead, which doesn't bother me much because we were separated and never did get along. I have two boys, 10 and 14. I have been sick a lot and spend about a week of every month in bed. When I am up I have shift work, which keeps me away from the house eight hours at a time.

We need the money, for I am weighed down by bills, but the boys are not getting enough supervision. My 14-year-old is stealing and getting into bad company. I have tried the Big Brothers and a nice man comes once in a while, talks to him and takes him out, but it is not enough. He needs a man all the time. I've had all I want of marriage and can't afford to send the boys to boarding school. Please tell me what to do.—WEARY.

DEAR WEARY—You are putting the cart before the horse. You need your health and the boys need their mother around. It sounds to me as if the shift work is far too much for you.

These are the years that Mother's Allowance was made for. The Ontario government provides a living allowance which makes it possible for widowed mothers to devote their full time to raising their families. In your case you are in serious need of this help to protect your own health as well.

As for the boy who is stealing and getting into bad company, he needs his mother more than he needs a man. The Big Brothers can help you understand him and handle him, and provide the regular interest of a big brother, which can mean a lot, but not everything.

Your Public Welfare Department can help you apply for the allowance, and the worker will go over your debts with you to plan a way of taking care of them.

DEAR DORIS:—My mother is a great old sport, but getting forgetful and unsteady on her feet—at 80. She left the gas on one day and this could happen again with more serious results.

She won't move in with any of us children, as the grandchildren are noisy and get on her nerves. And we won't let her live alone any longer. Is an institution the answer?—DEVOTED DAUGHTER.

DEAR DEVOTED DAUGHTER—If you can talk her into it. Our old folks may lose some of their pep and alertness, but they feel just like people, inside. She'll be the last to admit that she is slipping.

An institution might well be the answer. There are some nice modern ones in Canada these days; places where outings and entertainments are planned; where mother can have a part in running the show; and where doctors and nurses are on call. No more shopping for groceries or struggling with washing or cleaning, except as she wants to help.

One of the nice things about being in such a place is the chance to have contemporaries for friends—people who share a point of view about politics and grandchildren and who will take on a challenger for a game of checkers at the drop of a hat. There are places where she can even have a room furnished with her own favorite chair and dresser.

To find the right spot for your mother, talk to your minister, your public welfare department or the family service agency in your city. Such counsellors can also help you talk your mother into the idea, by pointing out advantages; and they can help with application forms and the actual move, if such is needed.

(Doris Clark will be glad to help you with your problems. Write to her care of this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Dramatic Coverage

By TRACY ADRIAN

For glamorous coverage over evening and dinner dresses, here is a beautiful pure silk warp print taffeta stole made with a generous double border of silk mist taffeta.

The impressive rose design is in a choice of white and blue or white and red combinations.

Taking the place of an evening wrap, the scarf is an ideal selection for cruise and resort now and summer nights later on.

Maple Syrup Time

By Mary Moore

A dismal state of affairs existed. I had to make maple syrup desserts for 1961 with 1960 maple syrup. I chanted myself of my annual visit to the Pollock's at sugaring-off time or I would have used some of their top quality syrup.

My good humor began to return as I tasted the results of my testing. When I served all three desserts (see below) to guests including my brother and his family and my sisters (who are all considerate but unflinching critics) they rated them thus. No. 1 Maple Parfait (Wild); No. 1 Rice Pompadour (Peachy); No. 1 Maple Sponge (Wyn — because it is less rich and more economical). Characteristically Doris thought they were all just fine ! Pete was not home. So now the choices are yours.

Roast Prime Ribs of Beef; Yorkshire Pudding; Brown Gravy; Parsley Potatoes; Fresh or Fresh Frozen Green Peas; Endive and Watercress Salad with Roquefort Dressing; Maple Parfait (see Thursday); Coffee.

MAPLE PARFAIT:

This is one of those frozen desserts that is smooth and crystals do not form on freezing and it does not require beating midway. In fact you must not beat it when it is going through the freezing process. You could freeze it in sherbet glasses if they are not too delicate or in little paper cups if they have a reinforced top edge.

2-3 cup maple syrup, 2 egg yolks, well beaten, 1-3 pint (1 1-4 cups) whipping cream, 1-3 cup chopped pecans or walnuts.

Measure maple syrup into a rather large saucepan, bring to a boil and boil vigorously for 5 minutes. Immediately pour the syrup slowly into the beaten egg yolks beating constantly until light and fluffy, about 3 minutes. Chill thoroughly. Beat cream until stiff, then fold whipped cream and nuts into chilled egg mixture. Turn into freezing tray and freeze, without stirring until firm, 3 to 4 hours. 6 servings.

RICE POMPADOUR:

1-3 cup uncooked rice, 3-4 cup whipping cream, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar.

Cook the rice in 1 cup boiling salted water, covered until tender over very low heat. Drain and rinse with cold water, drain well and chill thoroughly. Beat the cream in a chilled bowl until it begins to thicken. Add salt, then gradually add sugar and continue beating until stiff. Fold in the chilled rice, 1-3 cup at a time. Maple sauce: 1 cup maple syrup, 1 to 3 tablespoons chopped nuts (optional). Bring the syrup to a boil and boil for about 3 minutes. Cool at room temperature. (Do not chill or it will become too thick). Just before serving spoon, 1 tablespoon of the syrup into each sherbet or serving dish, then lightly spoon the rice mixture on top. Sprinkle with nuts. 6 servings.

MAPLE SPONGE MOULD:

One and one-quarter cups milk, 1 1-2 tablespoons gelatine, 1-4 cup cold water, 4 egg yolks, beaten, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup maple syrup, 3 egg whites, 2 tablespoons maple syrup, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 2 or 3 tablespoons chopped nuts. Heat milk in top of double boiler. Meanwhile, soak gelatine in cold water for 5 minutes. Stir a little of the hot milk into the beaten egg yolks, then combine with the remaining hot milk in double boiler. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens slightly, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and add soaked gelatine and salt, stirring until dissolved. Gradually stir in the 2-3 cup maple syrup. Cool mixture in refrigerator until partially set, about 1 hour. Meanwhile beat egg whites until fairly stiff, then beat in the 2 tablespoons maple syrup and the vanilla until stiff. Fold egg whites and nuts into the partially set gelatine mixture, blending until smooth. Turn into a mould and chill until set, about 3 hours. 6 servings.

In the lower right is Maple Sponge Mould. In the upper left is Rice Pompadour. Mary Moore gives you the recipes for both of these seasonal desserts today. For good measure she includes a recipe for Maple Parfait that for creamy smoothness, cannot be excelled.

Young Couple Honored by Community

2ND THURLOW — Over 60 friends, neighbors, relatives and their families gathered at the Neighbors' Aid Hall on Friday evening to honor Mr. and Mrs. Norman Clapp (nee Doris Reid) who were recently married.

The bride and bridegroom received the guests, assisted by the former's aunt, Mrs. Clinton Grills, and grandmother, Mrs. Harry Grills, at the door.

Fourteen tables of euchre were in play. Prizes were donated by Mrs. Harry Grills and were won by the following: ladies — Mrs. Fletcher Reid; consolation, Mrs. Cecil Keene; men's — Mr. Cecil Keene; consolation, Mr. Gill Clapp, and lone hands, Mrs. F. Reid.

The gathering was called to order by Mrs. H. Thomson and Mrs. Ronald Atkins. The young couple was asked to be seated and Mr. N. Keene read an appropriate address which was signed on behalf of the community by Mrs. Harry Thomson, Mrs. Ronald Atkins and N. Keene, and expressed the best wishes of everyone. A welcome to this community was extended to the bride. They were the recipients of a lovely kitchen suite, a 20-piece set of dishes, and a lovely table cloth, from the community, and also received several lovely gifts from relatives including blankets, electric tea kettle, table lamp, electric coffee percolator and coffee carafe.

A suitable reply of appreciation was made when the couple thanked all for the lovely gifts and invited everyone to come to see them at their home, at 78 Bridge St. E.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses and assistants.

C.W.L Elects New Officers

CAMPBELLFORD — St. Mary's Parish Council of Campbellford C.W.L. held its regular monthly meeting which featured the election of officers for the coming year. Mrs. A. Clark, president, opened the meeting and presided for the business portion. Mrs. F. Freeman, secretary, read her report. Mrs. L. Doherty, treasurer, presented her report and suggested that more attend the bingos, which are the chief source of revenue.

The citizenship tea is to be held on Saturday, May 20th, at the C.W.L. rooms, when a draw will be held on an electric fryer and $5 worth of groceries. Final plans for this tea are to be discussed at the next meeting.

The first Monday of each month was established as the regular meeting night for the C.W.L., unless some need arises to change the date. Mrs. A. Clark and Mrs. C. W. Long are to convene for the lunches.

Following this portion of the meeting, the nominating committee, comprised of Mrs. J. Smith, chairman, Mrs. P. Monogan and Mrs. C. W. Long, with the spiritual director, the Rev. J. C. Moloney presiding, presented the following slate of officers: immediate past president, Mrs. A. Clark; president, Mrs. Emmett Kelleher; 1st vice-president, Mrs. F. McEvoy, 2nd vice-president, Mrs. C. W. Long; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. N. O'Keefe; recording secretary, Mrs. F. Freeman; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. H. Smith and treasurer, Mrs. L. Doherty.

Rev. Moloney installed the new officers and the Act of Consecration to the Blessed Virgin was recited in unison by the newly-elected officers. He asked that they accept their new office and as had been the experience in the past, he knew that St. Mary's Parish Council would prove themselves most worthy of the offices bestowed upon them.

The appointment of councillors will follow at the next meeting and some chairmen of the standing committees were selected.

Tasty refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting by Mrs. F. Freeman and Mrs. A. Clark.

Auditors Ask Raise in Pay From Council

DESERONTO — Mayor Sweetnam presided at the regular council meeting on Monday night for the first in several months. All members were present for the meeting with the exception of Councillor Meeks.

Mr. W. M. Smith who plans on erecting a new home on Main St. West requested some consideration from council on supplying water to his lot. This was referred to the Public Utilities Commission for a report on the cost of the project.

A letter from Mrs. J. B. Gould asking for the removal of a tree from in front of her home on Main St. East was referred to the Streets committee. This committee was also handed the request of A. Cockerham to have the ditch on the west side of Jarmyn St. cleaned and the complaint of G. Waddingham concerning the puddle of rain that collects on the sidewalk in front of his home on Dundas St.

William MacGregor, Mrs. Hazel Waddingham and A. Miller, all residents of North Centre St. complained of water draining from the end of Stanley street down across their lawns. Apparently considerable gravel and debris has been washed onto the lawns. Council asked the streets committee to take care of the matter.

A letter from F. Page Higgins, town auditors asked for a raise in the price of the audit to $600. After some deliberation council decided to advise the company that the mill rate had already been set and council could only refer the matter to next year's council.

Council filed the communication, from the Ontario Municipal Association regarding their convention at Renfrew.

Permission was granted to the Girl Guides to hold their annual cookie sale on May 6th.

The Board of Education asked the mayor and council to attend a meeting with the Deseronto and Napanee School boards on April 20 in Napanee. Council felt that it would be to their advantage to attend in a body. Councillor Detlor advised council that there was a number of views concerning whether the town should enter a school area or maintain their own school.

In reply to a question regarding the new radar in use by the police, council were advised that the summonses were made out by the local Justice of the Peace and then handled by the Belleville Court.

A. Hudson verbally requested consideration from council for the repair of the road from Main St. In to his feed mill. He stated that his deed gave the ownership of the road to the town. Council felt they could not assume any obligation.

INDIAN DIPLOMAT

a man who walked into the mid-town offices with a rifle. He came and left without being challenged.

A downstairs receptionist who caught a fleeting glimpse of a man in the lobby mirror was apparently the only person in the building to see the killer arrive or depart.

Mr. Pillai, 38-year-old career diplomat and father of two small children, died almost instantly of two .300-calibre bullets fired point - blank into his chest as he sat at the desk.

Minutes after the shooting a man walked into the RCMP offices a block west of Parliament Hill and reported the incident. He was detained and turned over to city police.

Two hours later police said a charge of murder had been laid against Shanti Feriji, 38, who came to Canada in 1951 from Yugoslavia and lived briefly in Toronto before coming to Ottawa.

B. N. Rose, press attache at the Indian High Commission, said a man called on Mr. Pillai Tuesday to ask about getting a job in India. Mr. Pillai had told him to come back in a day or so so his qualifications could be checked.

The man returned to the office twice Wednesday morning asking for the first secretary but Mrs. Jenny Tatbir, the receptionist, told him on both occasions that Mr. Pillai was busy and could not seen him then. The man left.

The external affairs department polised city police in the investigation of the slaying, the first of its kind in Ottawa history.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker sent a message of sympathy to the dead man's family through Mr. Chakravarty and another to the Indian givrnment.

Mr. Pillai was posted to Ottawa last year, arriving with his wife and their two children, a girl 14 and a boy four.

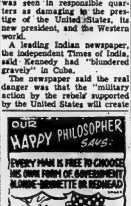
In Bucharest, 7,000 students and workers rallied Wednesday before the U. legation grounds. One group climbed the fence and pulled down the American flag.

In Paris, the reported victory of the Cuban government over the invading anti-Castro forces was seen in responsible quarters as damaging to the prestige of the United States, its new president, and the Western world.

A leading Indian newspaper, the independent Times of India, said Kennedy had "blundered gravely" in Cuba.

The newspaper said the real danger was that the "military action by the rebels supported by the United States will create an atmosphere of hostility and distrust . . ."



In Britain, the Guardian of Manchester argued that Kennedy was aiding the advance of communism in Latin America by his stand on Cuba.

In an editorial dealing with chev's note on Cuba two days ago, the Liberal newspaper commented: "He talks of 'evident and growing resistance to the Castro dictatorship' and of 'unmistakable signs that the Cubans find intolerable the denial of democratic liberties.' Of this he produces no evidence."

Kennedy Has No Indication Of Major Support of Allies

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Just three months in office, President Kennedy has embarked on a great political and military gamble to risk engagement of the communists on the fronts with no indication of major support by his Western allies.

Fully realizing that every American move in Asia will likely be more than matched by the Communists, Kennedy has decided to answer the appeal of the Royal Laotian government and provide between 200 and 300 military advisers in the fight against the advancing pro-Communist Pathet Lao.

And while he says there will be no military intervention by the U.S. in Cuba, reports indicate intervention taking place in civilian form on the side of anti-Castro rebels. The Cubans claimed Wednesday to have shot down a military plane piloted by an American.

In ascending to the presidency, Kennedy declared a willingness to seek peaceful solutions with Premier Khrushchev; Khrushchev, has thought to test him in a number of irritating situations.

DROPPING SOUVANNA

Kennedy's resolution to risk a military decision if necessary can be seen in the way the U.S. handled Prince Souvanna Phouma, the former neutralist premier of Laos.

Kennedy was prepared to grant the prince a one day-audience, Souvanna agreed to take time out from a lengthy Moscow visit. But when Souvanna delayed his Russian departure by one day in order to confer with Khrushchev on the Black Sea, State Secretary Rusk said he couldn't see him because of a previous speaking engagement. He suggested another date, Souvanna declined.

Any hope of establishing a friendly relationship between Kennedy and Souvanna was dropped. British diplomats say Souvanna is the only man capable of controlling a neutral coalition government in Laos but apparently Kennedy is not putting much faith in Souvanna.

By swinging more firmly to the side of the presiding Boun Oum government, Kennedy has taken a position that might change only with a military showdown or a decision by Khrushchev to ease off and agree to shift the test of strength to the conference table.

Dr. and Mrs. McVicker were among the honored guests seated at the head table. The guest speaker at the dinner was Mr. Pearson.

CAR FIRE EXTINGUISHED

A fire alarm shortly before five o'clock on Monday afternoon took the brigade to the property of Andrew Scero on the Bay Shore Road, where a car had taken fire. The car, owned by H. Calver, was parked between some cottages and could have caused considerable damage had it got out of control. Apparently the car had been out of gas and when it was being refuelled the fire was ignited and ignited. Fortunately the fire was extinguished before the arrival of the firemen who were on the scene within four minutes.

Young Escapee Given Year

SUDBURY (CP) — A young escapee from Burwash Industrial Farm, free for nearly three days before his recapture several miles away, was sentenced Wednesday, to one year in Kingston Penitentiary.

Albert Lloyd Gevanac, 23, of Hamilton, escaped last Thursday. He was found Saturday hiding in the home of Mrs. Walter Osthwaite.

Gavanac was admitted to the reformatory last September, for 21 months on charges of possession of stolen goods and breaking and entering after being convicted at St. Catharines.

Cross Canada Survey

Daylight Time Is Mandatory In Newfoundland and B.C.; Starts in Ontario April 29th

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Daylight time—annoyance to the farmer; joy for the late afternoon golfer — returns to most of Canada Sunday, April 30.

But although we've had first time off and on for more than 40 years, no Canada far from unanimity in our adoption of the idea.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows, in fact, that only two provinces—Newfoundland and British Columbia — make daylight time mandatory.

Alberta and Prince Edward Island remain on standard time the year round.

Practically all major centres in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario go on fast time April 30.

Saskatchewan is in a class by itself, perhaps best reflecting the national individuality Canadians exercise in their attitude toward daylight time.

Some Saskatchewan cities move their clocks ahead, Ottawa, having switched from Mountain Standard to Central Standard, manage to have fast time throughout the year.

With a few exceptions, folks who lose an hour of sleep April 30 will get it back Oct. 29.

While daylight time provides that extra hour of sun so appreciated by city-dwellers in search of late-afternoon recreation outside, it's a bother to many farmers who have never quite succeeded in switching old Bessie to the daylight-time habit. Others have found the fast time from being more widely adopted.

Their influence is strongly felt in primarily agricultural Prince Edward Island which sticks to Atlantic Standard Time by provincial decree.

However, in a move to placate city-dwellers, Premier Walter Shaw has announced the government will table the load in a new time trial. Offices and business places will open and close an hour earlier in summer months.

Alberta, which has a stake to prohibiting daylight time except in certain cases, last year had some demands for consideration of changes in the law. But the legislature hasn't taken up the question.

While both Newfoundland and British Columbia have statutes requiring daylight time to start April 30, they differ on the dates for return to sun time. Newfoundland reverts to standard time Oct. 29. B.C. goes back Sept. 24, a week later than last year.

Most Nova Scotia centres observe the April 30-Oct. 29 switch but a few places in the Annapolis Valley were undecided on their dates.

The April 30-Oct. 29 period also has been adopted in New Brunswick cities as Saint John, Moncton and Fredericton and most others. But Woodstock will be on fast time only to Sept. 30 and Bathurst to and from May 1 to Sept. 30.

Most Quebec centres are on daylight time from April 30 to Oct. 29 although the law permits changes to suit the time they wish. The Gaspe community of Mont-Joli has chosen to stick with standard time.

Just about every Ontario community will observe fast time on the same dates but there are exceptions. Over Fort William and Essex County, including Windsor, remain on standard time. Over in Kenora Windsor's adherence to slow time has its genesis in Detroit. All Michigan remains on Eastern Standard.

The fast farmers' influence shows up in parts of the Prairies. Winnipeg and Brandon alone are the only Manitoba communities to leave Standard Time, following the April 30 to Sept. 29 pattern.

Fort Saskatchewan, Regina Moose Jaw and Weyburn—to the Mountain time zone — are the fast farmers never round by adopting Central Standard Time. Saskatoon, Prince Albert, North Battleford and Swift Current, in the same time zone, will respect daylight time April 30 to Sept. 24.

No Place for a Laggard In This Age of Speed, Space CP Members Are Told

TORONTO (CP) — Governor-General Georges Vanier set the pace for Canada to seek her destiny through development of human resources, said Wednesday night "there is no place for a laggard in this age of space and speed. . . ."

The governor-general spoke at the annual dinner of The Canadian Press, Canada's cooperative gathering of news agency.

Gen. Vanier said the traditional view that Canada is assured a great future "simply because of the existence of great gifts of nature" is dangerously out of date. It will be prestige that Canada depends on its "breath for its livelihood. And the forests and minerals available the people would have found other means of support or else they would have gone somewhere else."

He touched on the waste of human resources through accidents and strikes, school withdrawals and stress.

The answer, he said, lay in dealing with people as individuals. "Let us always see to it that the group exists for the benefit of man and not vice-versa, for if things or organizations are put before people then human beings are sure to become cyphers."

The Governor - General was introduced to the more than 300 newspaper executives and their wives by CP president Senator John E. Motz of Kitchener, president of The Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association.

A text of his address was given to the press in advance of delivery.

The Governor - General paid tribute to the press of Canada through The Canadian Press from the days it had been one of its earliest days on the Prairies to its present-day role as "the standard-bearer of national unity."

He said the co-operative was the only way in which Canadians can be proud.

"We are indeed fortunate that, since 1917, the human press has been presented accurately and impartially to the peoples of Canada."

Gen. Vanier said education must be the "most powerful means" of achieving the greatest development of human resources.

"After formal education, the search must be practical and professional-training."

This, coupled with "imagination, initiative and resourcefulness . . . and the exercise of responsibility" would help to permit countries to "prosper and produce a high culture without exhausting their most rich natural resources."

The ultimate aim of education should be to "dispel primitive ignorance and . . . to teach children and adults to think."

All this would "raise the quality of the human potential" and "enable us to adapt to change and to master the problems of building a complex society . . ."

"I believe we have to make the fullest possible use of human resources in each of the seven ages of man. . . ."

P.M. May Take Personal Hand In Rail Dispute

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker today may tip his legislative hand and give the country a peek at plans for keeping 111,000 railwaymen at work once his federally-imposed strike ban expires May 15.

The last two days have been building up to what informants say is Mr. Diefenbaker's personal entry as arbiter between the principals—Frank H. Hall of Montreal, chief negotiator of the 15-union bargaining team and railway presidents Donald Gordon of the CNR and N. R. Crump of the CPR.

While ministers have been negotiating behind closed doors with these three men, the prime minister has declined to give any indication as to whether the Chatterton royal commission report on transportation, tabled in the Commons last week, would serve as the basis of a solution.

He has sidestepped the issue by saying Parliament would be told as soon as a solution is found—"based on the recommendations of the report or otherwise."

LEGISLATION EXPECTED

It was understood, however, that legislation was being drawn and might be introduced before the end of the month.

Labor Minister Starr met with Mr. Hall here Tuesday to hear the latter's views and Transport Minister Balcer met with the railway presidents Wednesday.

Both sides of the story were to be brought up in cabinet this morning.

The $97,200,000 grant recommended earlier this year in the mission report would give the railways $20 to $25 a ton for each of several months before the original strike date had been set for last Feb. 11.

The railways had refused to accept the recommendation.

Grabs Snarled Chute and Helps Soldier Down

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A paratrooper grabbed a chute that snarled parachute of another jumper Wednesday and helped him safely down.

Private Ron Lanzarotta, 20, of Montreal, and carried him 1,200 feet to the ground.

During the same exercise by paratroopers of the Royal Canadian Regiment, two men collided after jumping but both proceeded for about 100 feet before disentangling themselves.

In the first incident a freak updraught collapsed the parachute opened by Pte. Drum Major Joseph Lanzata as he neared the ground, a Cold Lake, Alta., base.

Private Lanzarotta's parachute would probably have collapsed, too, but still as it passed by him, and both.

Both men floated to earth on Barrett's parachute, with the latter's weight dangling about 10 feet below the other man. Lanzarotta landed safely and was taken to hospital. He was treated only badly shaken and in satisfactory condition.

The other two paratroopers who collided descended on their own 'chutes.

Supreme Court Orders New Trial For 2 Officials

TORONTO (CP)—A new trial on charges of municipal corruption was ordered Wednesday by the Ontario Supreme Court for Magistrate Frederick Hall and Harold Linden, former municipal clerk of Etobicoke Township.

Attorney - General Roberts launched an appeal early in February after Judge Robert Ferguson instructed the jury at sessions jury to acquit the two men of bribery charges last Jan. 11, after hearing argument by their lawyer.

Mr. Justice Hall, chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto Licensing Commission, and a former reeve, was charged with asking for a bribe to expedite a building permit in York Township, and Mr. Linden, a former councillor, was charged with accepting a bribe to expedite the same permit.

The Appeal Court ruled Wednesday that Judge Forsyth should not have directed a verdict.

TAKEOFF ON GLACIER — A DC-3 prepares to take-off from atop Leduc Glacier near Granduc Mine in southern British Columbia after delivering heavy machinery and supplies to the tiny mining community. The surface of the glacier, which is 750 feet thick, has been packed hard by men and bulldozers. Planers of Pacific Western Airlines make the flight regularly from Terrace, 150 miles to the south. (CP Photo).

Icy Airstrip Plays Vital Part in Mine Development

TERRACE, B.C. (CP) — An icy airstrip, watered and rolled frozen daily like a giant hockey rink, plays a vital part in the $50,000,000 development program of a northern copper mine.

Precariously located on the surface of Leduc Glacier, 3,000 feet above sea level, the strip is endlessly pampered by men and machines to make it hard enough to bear the weight of fully-loaded DC-3 aircraft, bringing in essential supplies for the Granduc Mines Ltd., property.

Some 100 tons of drilling equipment, food, fuel and blasting powder are being shuttled to the glacier by Pacific Western Airlines planes from Terrace, 150 miles south, in two-hour loads.

Between flights, bull dozers fussily criss-cross the strip to keep its surface smooth. Water is pumped from the mine into 500-gallon tanks on a sled and hauled by bulldozer to the landing area three miles away.

When flying ends for the day, the surface is watered and allowed to harden overnight, under the effect of the cold, to long sunshine to reduce the glacier to its natural softness.

But even the bulldozers can't turn the 5,500-foot strip into a glacier dream. Lacking navigational equipment, it's a seat-of-the-pants proposition when visibility is bad, made no easier by the fact that the runway is higher in the middle than at the approach end, forcing the planes to land uphill.

On takeoffs they literally leap from the summit of the strip, engulfed in swirling snow.

The airline, which discarded skis for wheels on its twin-engine DC-3s early in the operation, plans to design skis for larger aircraft, which also can carry more than double the payload. But the existing airlift has brought immeasurable improvement to Granduc's supply problems.

In past years, the company took days bringing in loads by motor train, using bulldozers and track-type snowmobiles. A DC-3 can make the trip in an hour.

Granduc has been idle for two years, awaiting changes in world metal markets that would make its operations economically profitable. Its last published figures showed $5,600,000 tons of ore grading 1.66 per cent copper, enough, it was presumed to have increased the tonnage.

Pravda Warns U.S Policies In Cuba Might Bring War To the Soil of States Itself

MOSCOW (AP)The —Communist party newspaper Pravda said today that United States policies in Cuba might bring war to the soil of the United States itself.

The government has said that a parachute would probably stop descent, and it did, but still as it passed by him, and both.

Both men floated to earth on Barrett's parachute, with the latter's weight dangling about 10 feet below the other man. Lanzarotta landed safely and was taken to hospital. He was treated only badly shaken and in satisfactory condition.

The other two paratroopers who collided descended on their own 'chutes.

"One can say that such a path is against the interests of the American people, of peoplesdize the peaceful life of the United States itself. The sooner this will be realized by the United States the better."

Pravda also said:

"The actions of the United States gravely endanger the peace of the world. But as N. S. Khrushchev's message to President Kennedy said: "There is still time to prevent the irreparable from happening. The United States government can still prevent the fire of war touched off by the interventionists in Cuba from spreading into a conflagration which could not be extinguished."

REITERATES SUPPORT

Pravda reiterated the Soviet statements of support for the Castro government.

"The road upon which the United States has embarked with its actions against Cuba is dangerous. It should not be forgotten that Cuba is not the mid-30s but 1961. Cuba is not alone.

"It can and has defended itself entirely by blockades nor by other means, because it is an independent state, an equal member of the United Nations. Cuba is a sovereign state. All progressive mankind, all the honest minded people side with it."

Pravda said:

"There was a time when the United States President Theodore Roosevelt proclaimed the 'big stick' policy. In those far off days the American stick was weighty though even then it was not the biggest.

"But the United States rulers are striving to pursue their policy with soft gloves, but with the soft fist of force. That policy cannot be crowned with success.

. . . . .

"Today one cannot proceed from the policy of big, long-range guns. Here because the other side has just as heavy guns as long and not less powerful.

"There is only one way of consolidating peace, that is cooperation, it is the policy of peaceful coexistence between states with different social systems."

Two Canadian Pilots Appear Stuck in Cuba

MONTREAL (CP)—Two Canadian pilots and their chartered airplane seem to be stuck in Cuba.

Donald McVicar, president of World Wide Airways, said the last word he has had from two of his veteran pilots came Saturday. They sent a telegram from Havana saying: "Arrived OK. Departing Tuesday."

The pilots are Ron Lippert, 28, a native of Kitchener, now living in suburban Pierrefonds and Guy Larose, 32, of Dorion, Que., just south of Montreal Island. Each has two children.

McVicar said he has tried through the Canadian consular affairs department, the telegraph companies and the telegraph companies to communicate with the men.

He said the plane is believed to be the only Canadian one in Cuba. It was possible it was being held in case Canadians need to be evacuated.

COULD CARRY 32

The twin - engined C-46 transport would be useless as a war plane, he said, but can carry 32 passengers.

Mrs. Larose said Wednesday night she is not yet overly worried, but "it's getting long waiting."

The plane flew 20,000 chicks to Havana on a charter from Murray and Robinson, Ltd., Toronto livestock brokers.

It was the second trip south for Lippert and his co - pilot Larose. Earlier, they flew a plane - load of chicks to Miami to transfer to Cubana Airlines plane. This time the flight was made direct to Havana.

ARCTIC ARSENAL

McVicar said the pilots have flown the same plane for many years. Their only weapon with them to the Arctic on DEW Line supply trips.

Last summer the two took part in a movie making air operation in which military and civilian planes evacuated almost the entire population of Gagoon, Que., as isolated mining town 100 miles northeast of Quebec City, when a fire threatened by a forest fire.

The movie made dramatic flights and rescued about 100 men women and children.

Patron Saint of England 'Demoted' by R.C. Church

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — St. George, the patron saint of England, has been "demoted" by the Roman Catholic Church in a move that is known about him.

His feast, which falls next Sunday, will not be observed by the universal Catholic Church, but will be remembered only in a brief commemorative prayer.

An issue of the Acta of the Apostolic See, the official Vatican Gazette, announced earlier this month the removal of the St. George's feast from the universal calendar of the Catholic Church and its relegation to a "commemoration" on the same day.

A spokesman for the Vatican authority dealing with saints and canonizations said: "St. George is an historic person but apart from that we know nothing about him."

St. George is generally accepted to have suffered martyrdom for his faith at Lydda, Palestine, early in the fourth century.

Nothing else is known of him with certainty.

The most famous St. George legend portrays him as the knight who killed a monstrous dragon which lived in a lake near Silene, Libya.

MONTREAL (CP) — Mayor Raymond Pitre of suburban Ste. Philomene Wednesday said the town council will hold a meeting Monday to decide if the town's name is to be changed.

Mr. Pitre was reacting to an Rome reports Philomena has been struken from the roll of saints.

Earlier Wednesday, a spokesman for Paul - Emile Cardinal Leger, Roman Catholic archbishop of Montreal, said the cardinal's office is awaiting confirmation from Rome before taking action.

One parish church and one school are named after Philomena — one in the Montreal archdiocese.

Other parishes and rural towns in Quebec also are named after Philomena.

WINS ELECTION

HULL, Que. (CP) — Armand Turpin, 49-year-old manager of a fluid glass firm, was returned for three years as mayor of this city Wednesday.

Newspaper Executives Look Ahead With Some Optimism To Economic Upturn in Year

TORONTO (CP) — Newspaper executives left Wednesday for their 1961 meetings look forward with cautious optimism to an economic upturn. They did so after whetches the big swing will come in six months or a year.

The newspaper men's views contrast with those of a year ago when they saw the construction and development of the 1950s beginning to pay off in the 1960s.

While they see bright spots in foreign orders for grain, new industries and an improved outlook for the tourist business they consider agriculture and the fisheries as uncertain.

Some blame Canada's economic troubles on over-expansion in the 1950s, the close tie-in with the United States economy and the resultant itself-and the belief that Canada is principally herself out of world markets.

An increasing population, vast natural resources and development of secondary industry are seen as factors in the country's long-term development.

The newspaper men, here for the annual meeting of the Canadian Press and Canadian Daily Newspapers Publishers Association, were asked to express their views on the 1961 outlook for their industry.

CAUTIOUSLY OPTIMISTIC

Their cautious outlook on the country's prospects for the year was reflected in their views of their own business where they expect sales to be slightly equally better than last year.

Publishers from the Atlantic provinces feel that their provinces are generally in a good economic position. A. H. Sutherland of the New Glasgow News, an independent paper, upturn six-12 months after the American economy rises; pointed to the new pulp mill at Port Hawkesbury as one of Nova Scotia's bright spots. But basic steel and coal were lagging because of lack of markets.

Ralph Costello of the Saint John Telegraph-Journal pointed to a new oil refinery, plans for a newsprint mill, shipyard expansion and the prospects of increased base-metal mining activity as bright spots in New Brunswick. Both Maritime publishers drew attention to the distance of their provinces from Canada's big markets and the high cost of transport.

A.-F. Mercier of the Quebec Le Soleil attributed Canada's economic recession to the fact that imported goods selling at a cheaper price than their Canadian-made counterparts and to too many raw materials being exported and too few being left finished products. Any upturn in business activity this year would be small.

Mr. Mercier said he saw little change in Quebec's economic outlook for 1961. The brightest spot was the Quebec government's measures to reorganize local economy; the darkest was the unions' drive for ever higher wages and shorter hours, which would price Canada's manufactured goods at lower prices.

W. B. C. Burgoyne of the St. Catharines Standard saw a mild recession on over-expansion in 1957-58, competition and the premium on the Canadian dollar and competition from low-priced foreign goods have since affected the cyclical nature of Canada's economy.

SEES UPSWING DELAYED

He saw the rebuilding of dwindling inventories as a factor aiding the economic upturn but it was difficult to say when its full force would be felt—"perhaps not until 1962."

On the long term, encouraging factors were the increase in expenditures in Ontario's population and expanding ever-expanding markets.

"Another factor which I think should be made," said Mr. Burgoyne, "is that economic expansion or contraction can be affected by the presence of, or absence of, aggressiveness on the part of the management of teams. . . . In this competitive business world the quality of active aggressive selling technique coupled with the best production techniques."

C. B. Binder of the Port Arthur News, spoke for northwestern Ontario increasingly optimistic with shipping, building and lumbering active. The tourist trade should take a big jump.

His part of the province, however, suffered not only from shortage of markets but from low ore but "from lack of recognition from both government and financial circles in eastern Ontario."

"It seems that investment is made only when investors are forced into it and the building of roads, badly needed to open up this hinterland area, is slow for the same reason. It doesn't do it is known that several ma-

Cobourg Doctor Goes to Congo

TORONTO (CP). —A Cobourg surgeon will be the lone Canadian doctor to be assigned by the Red Cross to the Congo, the society announced Wednesday.

Dr. F. L. Lawson, 47, a fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, will leave for Africa Friday to join a hospital at Camena in the northern part of the Congo.

Dr. Lawson was surgeon at Toronto General Hospital, St. Michael's and Kingston General hospitals and with the International Nickel Company of Sudbury.

He served in Korea as a surgeon specialist for three years and has been medical officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment at Port Hope.

for mine deposits have been known but there is no indication they will produce smokestacks and lunch pails in the near future.

'TOO FAR, TOO FAST'

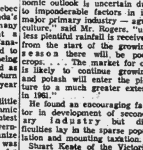
Ross Munro of the Winnipeg Free Press said he is inclined to share the view of James E. Coyne, governor of the Bank of Canada: "that we were too far too fast and have to pause a while to catch up."

Generally, Mr. Munro saw an upturn following improved U.S. economic conditions and that Manitoba had not been hit by the recession to the degree. Among the bright spots he listed the breaking of the logjam in grain exports, increasing industrialization, supplying the DEW radar line out of Winnipeg and the development of International Nickel Company's new site at Thompson in the north.

D. B. Rogers of the Regina Leader - Post flatly blamed "pricing ourselves out of export markets" for Canada's recession. He expected the normal return of confidence would contribute to the economic upswing which would manifest itself in renewed private investment for plant expansion and new projects.

"Saskatchewan's general economic outlook is uncertain due to imponderables such as its major primary industry — agriculture," said Mr. Rogers. "Unless plentiful rainfall is received from the start of the growing season the west will be poor crops. . . . The market for oil is likely to become growing and potash will enter into future to a much greater extent than at present.

He found an encouraging factor in the growth of secondary industry but difficulties lay in the sparse population and mounting taxation.



Stuart Keate of the Victoria Times spoke of "limped government" with dependence on trade and Canada's close tie-in with the United economy as pressing factors. He expected many U.S. pump-priming would help more than domestic upward, with the upswing coming in early fall.

B.C. MINES ACTIVE

Bright spots in British Columbia's economy were listed as increased mining activity, better supply and demand for newsprint, a "tremendous" boom in fishing, the province's third industry, and a "good" year in some respects by "an intransigent Communist-led union, the United Fishermen."

"Our natural resources make B.C. a province of definite promise," said Mr. Keate. "We have had a great deal of labor strife, and a result of this labor movement has introduced legislation which I personally think is good and labor regards as restrictive.

"Much depends on whether or not this presages a no - holds-barred fight. If we can achieve some measure of labor peace, the prospects are good."

"Jest a Second"

"Of course I didn't pay cash for that. I'm not that extravagant."

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—Even before Percy Martin retired from the job, he was involved in an entirely new career—a key post with the United Nations operation in The Congo.

Martin officially retired from the Canadian Army Pay Corps at the age of 51 and with the rank of lieutenant-colonel last Dec. 1. Nearly two months before that, however, he had come to Leopoldville to assume the post of chief auditor with the UN's headquarters here.

"The UN asked the Canadian government to find a chief auditor for the Congo operation and the request was passed on to the army," Martin said in an interview at his air-conditioned office in the United Nations headquarters building.

"It was one of those coincidences. Someone with a military audit background and a knowledge of French was required.

"I was told about the job in July and asked if I was interested. I went to New York in August to discuss the situation and agreed to come here. With accumulated leave and the like, I was able to begin a year's contract about the last week in September."

To make sure money supplied by the UN is not wasted has become the responsibility of Martin and six highly - trained auditors working under him.

MANY RUMORS

With the expenditure of large sums of money, there is an open season for rumors of waste, extravagance and even theft. Martin contends firmly that the accusations are generally untrue.

"In an operation of this size there is bound to be some waste and loss," he said. "However, many rumors of waste and missing property have been tracked down and proved either false or the result of a misunderstanding."

In the first hectic weeks of the UN operation here, before a firm system of checks could be set up, the contingents were given a more-or-less free hand to acquire what they needed. Many of the rumors concerning UN finances involve purchases, some unnecessary, during that period.

"Since the UN ordnance depot began functioning about the second week of September," Martin said, "it [free] certain stores and equipment are being accounted for properly."

Martin, a genial, active man with sun-burned face, had most of his staff at work by December.

"We were able to make ourselves fall fairly early and to recommend necessary changes in accounting procedures. And people were glad to get our advice. They hadn't had time to get into too many bad habits on handling finances."

To make sure bad habits don't develop is a continuing job. Members of the auditing staff travel constantly to the dozen or more field finance offices and military and administrative offices throughout The Congo, Martin said.

The auditing job is further complicated by hostilities involving UN troops, with the resulting loss of property.

"Generally speaking, we're operating on a peacetime basis, but occasionally there's a bit of war going on. Losses are reported from attacks, and, as necessary, we make damage."

Percy Martin was born 20 miles south of Woodstock, Ont., in Oxford county and went to high school in Windsor, Ont.

His war studies were interrupted by the depression and in 1934 he went to work for a finance company. That lasted until he joined the army pay corps in 1941.

His army career included stints in Europe during and after the Second World War, Korea, army headquarters in Ottawa and finally in Montreal as command paymaster for Quebec Command.

Of his new assignment, Martin says: "I wouldn't really be unhappy to stay another year. This is a great challenge."

His wife, the former Gertrude Burke whom he married five years ago, arrived recently for a few months' visit from the Martin home at Kingsmere, Que., on the edge of Gatineau Park.

"We're hoping to get in a couple of games of golf together," said Martin, who shoots in the low 80s on the tough 18-hole course here.

ROCKET LAUNCHED

TOKYO (Reuters)— Tokyo announced today that it successfully launched a Kappa II solid fuel rocket from the Akita range on the coast of northern Japan Tuesday night.

CONGO ASSIGNMENT — Percy C. Martin of Kingsmere, Que., retired lieutenant-colonel of the Canadian Army pay corps, now serves as chief auditor for United Nations operations in The Congo. From the balcony of his downtown apartment, Martin points out the sights of Leopoldville to his wife Gertrude who has joined him for a visit.

Daily Papers Association Head Resigns

TORONTO (CP)—Ian H. Macdonald, Scots - born newspaper man who came to Canada in 1926, was honored Tuesday for his contribution to "Canadian publishing."

At a dinner marking Mr. Macdonald's resignation as general manager of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association after 30 years with the organization, CDNPA president R. W. Southam, publisher of the Ottawa Citizen, said he had been a moving force in Canadian publishing for the last two decades.

John Bassett, former CDNPA president and publisher of the Toronto Telegram, said Mr. Macdonald's career had been dedicated to the belief that daily newspapers in Canada should live up to the highest standards of their profession and their responsibility as a vital force in national life should never be forgotten.

Mr. Southam made a token presentation. The association's gift is an expenses-paid holiday in Europe.

About 130 CDNPA members representing newspapers across the country attended. Attorney-General Kelso Roberts of Ontario had been Canada bas a generally fair and unbiased daily press—something essential in a democracy.

Canadian Wan's Contract

Liston Shakes Manager

NEW YORK (AP) — Sonny Liston, No. 1 world heavyweight boxing contender, may get his long - sought crack at Floyd Patterson's title next year if he satisfies all concerned that he is free of undesirable associates.

But his parting with manager Joseph (Pep) Barone Wednesday brought only lukewarm reactions from two of those most concerned—Patterson and Senator Estes Kefauver, sponsor of a bill to place boxing in the United States under federal control.

Liston said he bought his contract from Barone after a conference at Allentown, Pa., in which the manager agreed to accept $75,000 to be paid from Liston's earnings over the next two years.

The contract had two years to run and Barone said he had refused offers as high as $150,000 for it.

Liston said Wednesday night he had several offers for the contract. He denied he would be managed by former heavyweight champion Joe Louis who has been reported interested in acquiring the contract.

Frank de Rice, owner of a restaurant chain in Montreal, is one of those bidding. A former pro fighter, De Rice, reached at his winter home in Delray Beach, Fla., said he thought the contract could be bought for $120,000 or $200,000.

Kefauver has said Barone was only a front for Frankie Carbo and Blinky Palermo, alleged underworld boxing figures, and that he feared the heavyweight title would "revert to mob control" if Liston should win it.

Patterson, who has refused to consider a bout with Liston because of his associates, said Sonny "will still have to prove that he is free of all outside harmful influences" before he can qualify for a title bout.

Liston said that before signing with a new manager he would submit the name to Kefauver for approval.

PROPOSED GAMES SITE — Whistler Mountain in British Columbia's Garibaldi Park is one of six Canadian sites proposed for the 1968 Winter Olympic Games. The mountain's northern slope with a vertical drop of 5,000 feet is considered an excellent ski course and the valley immediately below would provide an area for Nordic and ice events. Officials estimate the site would cost $13,000,000 to develop. (CP Photo).

PLAN OLYMPIC SITE

Map locates Garibaldi Park in British Columbia, proposed site of the 1968 Winter Olympic Games. Officials say the park has excellent mountains for skiing and the annual winter snowfall since 1954 is about 12 feet. Whistler Mountain, the most likely site for the ski course, is 75 miles north of Vancouver. (CP Newsmap).

Finn Wins Over Kelly In Marathon

BOSTON (AP) — Eino Oksanen is a police detective whose persistent methods have extended Finland's domination of the Boston Marathon to three straight years.

For the second time in the last three tests, the 30-year-old Helsinki native used endurance and strategy to defeat John Kelley of the United States Wednesday.

However, the hero's role was reserved for Fred Norris of Britain, who helped Kelley on his feet when the latter was spilled by a stray dog 10 miles from the end of the 26 - mile, 385-yard event.

In a carbon copy of his 1959 performance when he conquered similar bone - chilling cold to whip Kelley in 2:22:42, Oksanen again bided his time in a stride - for - stride duel with the Groton, Conn., schoolteacher until he was sure his move to the front would not give adversary time to recover.

This time Oksanen moved ahead by 10 yards with half a mile to go and won by 128 yards, five clockings: Oksanen 2:23:29, Kelley 2:23:34, Norris 2:25:46.

CANADIAN IS 46TH

English-born Sid Smith, 42, of Hamilton, made the best showing among Canadian entries, placing 40th in three hours and three seconds. As the first Canadian, the 118-pound runner was awarded a trophy by the Canadian-American Society of Boston.

Billy Smith, a Scottish immigrant who lived in Hamilton for a time and placed 11th for Canada in last year's marathon, was forced to drop out Wednesday by leg cramps.

Kelley had great praise for Oksanen's determination and fortitude.

"I'd call him a relentless runner," Kelley said.

"Brideswasid again," mumbled Kelley when he crossed the line, referring to his role as runnerup for the fourth time in six years. He won in 1957 and was forced out by blisters and leg cramps last year.

Irish Clobber Beavers

TORONTO (CP) — Moncton Beavers bore the standard of the Maritime provinces into the Memorial Cup Eastern Canada final Wednesday night for the first time in 21 years. They got a horrible reception from St. Michael's College Majors before a crowd of 4,000.

The Toronto club, champions of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series, walked all over the easterners with an 11-2 victory in the first game of the best-of-five series.

It was strictly a romp for the powerful Majors.

The Beavers looked threatening only for five minutes of the second period, part of which time St. Michaels was shorthanded. The Majors added insult to injury in the third by whacking in three goals in 33 seconds.

Larry Keenan continued his torrid playoff pace, scoring two goals to boost his total output since the Majors finished the regular OHA season to 26 goals in 21 games. Other two - goal men were Billy MacMillan and Paul Conlin.

GETS FOUR ASSISTS

Roger Galpeau, Paul Jackson, Sonny Osborne, Bruce Draper and Brian Walsh notched one apiece. Andre Champagne got four assists, all in the third period.

Delphis Legacy scored for Moncton in the first period and Doug Hilman in the third, 10 seconds before the Majors' big outburst.

Rev. David Bauer, Majors' coach, doesn't figure it will be as easy in the second game, Friday night.

"I expect them to be at least 50 per cent better Friday night and I hope we don't beat them that badly again. After all they got into Toronto around 4 p.m. ate at 2 and then came down here and played their hearts out all in one day."

Moncton coach Ronnie Gaudet wasn't so dismayed as he might have been. "I thought St. Michael's were better than they showed tonight. We've played against bigger and tougher teams. I've never seen my boys so bad. I know they can play better and they will on Friday night."

COUNT THREE

The first three minutes of the game gave no firm indication of what was to happen. Then St. Mike's scored three goals before Moncton could answer.

Jackson grabbed a loose puck and poked it behind Cormier at 9:22 while Gene Gaudet was sitting out an interference penalty the goaltender had incurred and Moncton's Phil Doiron was also in the penalty box.

Osborne rifled in Conlin's passout from five feet out at 7:33 when Moncton was again a man short and Bruce Draper made it 3-0 when he took the puck from a faceoff in the Moncton zone and hit the top corner with a backhander.

Moncton's first goal came while Jackson was off for holding. Legacy took Oscar Gaudet's pass off the backboard's and beat Cheevers at 13:08.

Keenan got the only goal of the second period when he picked up a ricochet off the backboards and steered it into an open corner at 3:18.

SCORES SECOND

He got his second goal at 1:30 of the third period on a 35-footer from a difficult angle. Walsh poked a rebound between Cormier's pads to make it 6-1 at 3:32. Conlin scored his first goal at 6:06 and his second at 9:32.

After that, despite one last feeble gasp for Moncton by Hillman, who stole the puck from Majors' Terry O'Malley and scurried in to best Cheevers from 10 feet, it was all Majors.

The winner of the series meets Edmonton Oil Kings in the west for the Dominion title. A Maple Leaf Gardens spokesman said the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association is considering paring the eastern series to a best-of-three so the winner can get out west during the weekend.

Rousseau Leads Attack

Hull Defeats Soo 3-1

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Little Bobby Rousseau scored two goals and was a virtual one-man gang here Wednesday night as Hull-Ottawa Canadiens bounced back into playoff contention by defeating Sault Thunderbirds 3-1 in the fourth game of the Eastern Professional Hockey League finals, 2-2.

Canadiens recaptured their mid-season form to take play away from the Sault team in the early part of Wednesday night's game.

The series will revert to the Hull Arena for a Friday night encounter before coming back to the Sault Sunday afternoon.

The largest Sault crowd in two seasons of pro hockey, 4,723, watched the fast and furious action which was marked by 14 minor penalties, eight of them to the Sault.

Sam Pollak and playing coach Glen Skov, the masterminds for Hull, switched players on two lines, a move that made the difference for Canadiens. Rousseau, a whirlwind on skates, moved from wing over the centre between Cliff Pennington and Wayne Preiss who scored the third goal.

Rousseau's speed outclassed Sault skaters and resulted in two well - deserved markers. Norman Wasilewski scored the lone Sault marker in the third period when Thunderbirds put on tremendous pressure.

Goaler Ed Johnston was a standout for Canadiens in the last part of the game. Sault defenceman Matt Ravlick played a strong game as did Cliff Schmaus. Pennington, Rousseau and Skov played exceptionally well for Canadiens.

NOT HURT BADLY

DETROIT (CP) — A Detroit Red Wings sportsman said Wednesday right-winger Howie Glover was not seriously hurt when he collided with Ron Murphy of Chicago Black Hawks in Sunday night's windup game of the National Hockey League finals. Glover was helped from the ice and at first was feared to have suffered internal injuries, but the sportsman said Wednesday he received only a bruised chest bone.

Western Hockey

VANCOUVER (CP) — Portland Buckaroos scored in every period Wednesday night to defeat Vancouver Canucks 4-1 and win their Western Hockey League best-of-five semi - final series 3-1.

They will open the best - of-seven final against Seattle Totems in Portland next Wednesday night.

It is the first all - American final in De league's history.

Defenceman Jack Biondo scored in the first period, forward Arnie Schmautz and Larry Leach counted in the second and winger Bill McCulley in the third for Portland. Bruce Carmichael got the only Canuck goal midway through the second.

Cadillac

Model illustrated: THE FOUR WINDOW SIXTY-TWO SERIES

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Where logic endorses desire!

We doubt that he could tell you himself when the dream took hold in his heart.

Yet, there it had been over the years—and he kept it, and nurtured it, and planned for it. A Cadillac for his family!

He wanted it, of course, for those very virtues that have made Cadillac the most tempting possession of its time—inspiring beauty and dignity . . . masterful performance . . . exceptional comfort and luxury . . . and superb craftsmanship.

And so it was that he found himself—in this finest of Cadillac years—getting the facts first-hand from his dealer.

And the facts quickly fashioned a remarkable truth: that the reason to Cadillac is as logical as it is alluring—and as wise as it is wonderful!

The lowest-priced Cadillac, for instance, actually costs less than many models of other makes. And every Cadillac car represents an extraordinary bargain in terms of value received. The car is so soundly designed and crafted that it has reduced maintenance to the minimum.

And a Cadillac car is held in such regard that it traditionally commands a front-rank position in resale markets all across the land.

Little wonder that he decided this was a time for action—just as we know you will once the facts are at hand.

And need we remind you—they are no further away than your nearest Cadillac dealer.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

You can enjoy your first golden pan-fried pickerel fillets on Saturday, May 13, without feeling the heavy hand of the law on your skiljet or shoulder.

And you can eat your fill of succulent speckled-brown, Aurora, rainbow and Kamloops trout on Saturday, April 29, without fear of legal intervention.

In other words, my piscatorial pals, the pickerel season opens on Saturday, May 13, instead of May 15 and the trout season curtain rises on Saturday, April 29th, instead of Monday, May 15th.

The authority for this is the Ontario Fishery Regulations, 1961, on the front page of which appears: "If the first day of an open season is a Sunday or Monday, that open season shall begin on the Saturday immediately preceding that Sunday or Monday."

We queried Mr. Russell Whitfield, chief of Fish and Wild Life Department of Lands and Forests, Tweed district, yesterday regarding the pickerel season opening and Mr. Whitfield stated the regulations clause applies to all varieties.

There is a possibility that next year the pickerel season for Bay of Quinte waters may open on May 1st.

A recommendation to this effect has gone from the Tweed district headquarters to the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests. If given Ontario government approval it will be forwarded to Ottawa for federal ratification.

Speaking on the matter, Mr. Whitfield said the recommendation is now under consideration by the higher authorities.

The Tweed official said the recommendation has been forwarded after much scientific and biological work in the district waters. If given the green light by governments it will have at least one good effect. It will cut the poaching season short by two weeks.

A long-range research program on the game fish species of the Bay of Quinte initiated in 1957 by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests revealed that the pickerel population has one of the fastest rates of growth on record for the yellow species.

Nearly all the annual growth takes place between the beginning of June and the end of September. Average lengths for the corresponding weights are roughly as follows: one pound, 13 inches; two pounds, 16 inches; three pounds, 18 inches; four pounds, 20 inches and five pounds, 21 inches.

Male pickerel spawn first at the age of three; female at four. The reproduction potential of pickerel is extremely high, females producing about 45,000 eggs per pound of fish. The largest observed weighed ten pounds and was estimated to contain 450,000 eggs.

While the mortality rate is high, the poaching fraternity makes big inroads into the pickerel population of the future. This year the poaching has been "good." So has the "poacher-pinching" by conservation officers. Over 200 pounds of confiscated pickerel have been given to one institution alone this season thus far.

Results of a Bay of Quinte pickerel fishery survey revealed that evening fishing was found 12.7 per cent more successful, on the average, than morning fishing. Fishing before noon netted an average 22.9 per cent more fish than afternoon efforts.

Total pickerel harvest by anglers in the bay region in 1959 was estimated at 17,300 fish (31,140 pounds.) Fifty-four per cent of this yield came from May Bay; 37 per cent from the upper regions of the bay between Trenton and Napanee of which about half was produced by the area of the Trent River mouth. The remainder of the season's catch, nine per cent came from bays adjacent to May Bay.

Scale samples taken from angler-caught fish were used to determine fish ages. From this information the rates of growth and age compositions of the fish population are estimated.

Bruton Paces Tiger Win

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Detroit's winter trade with Milwaukee that brought outfielder Billy Bruton, catcher Dick Brown, pitcher Terry Fox and infielder Chuck Cottier for Frank Bolling may turn out to be the steal of the year.

All four ex-Braves played important roles in the Tigers' 5-3 triumph over Cleveland Wednesday, lifting them into second place in the American League, one game back of the surprising Minnesota Twins.

Bruton rapped a pair of singles and scored Detroit's first two runs. Brown also had two singles, Cottier, a late-inning shortstop replacement, drove in the final run of the Tigers' winning four-run rally in the eighth. Fox got credit for the Tiger victory by joining the Indians down scoreless on three hits—all singles—in the last three innings.

DEALS BIG BLOW

The most important blow, however, was delivered by Steve Boros. The rookie third baseman cracked a three-run double off reliever Frank Funk to spoil the Indians' home opener. Three bases on balls set the stage for Boros' game-winning blow.

Funk had entered the game in the seventh when the Tigers loaded the bases against starter Jim Perry and had temporarily preserved Cleveland's 3-2 lead by getting Jake Wood to hit into an inning ending double play.

In the only other game played in the American League, Washington defeated the Chicago White Sox 7-3. Rain forced postponement of the Minnesota-Red Sox game in Boston, and the Los Angeles-Yankee game in New York and Kansas City at Baltimore.

KUTYNA STARS

Marty Kutyna, a nondescript relief pitcher, performed beyond the call of duty as the new Senators won their second game of the season. Kutyna, a pickup from Kansas City last December, not only pitched six scoreless relief innings against the White Sox, but singled across two runs in the fourth to give the Senators a 4-2 lead. He yielded only four hits after replacing starter Ed Hobaugh in the third to get the victory.

Billy Pierce, who yielded to a pinchhitter in the fourth, was the White Sox starter and loser. He was clipped for two runs in the first inning on a walk, his own throwing error and singles by Gene Woodling and Harry Bright, who collected five of the Senators' 11 hits.

One of Chicago's runs was driven in by Joe Martin with a single. It was the rookie third baseman's first hit of the season, in 12 times at bat.

Win 3-1 In Third

Galt Rallies To Take Cup Opener

GALT (CP) — Galt Terriers gave away for the first goal to Winnipeg Maroons Wednesday night but came back for a 3-1 victory in the first game of the Allan Cup final that both teams agreed may be a long one.

The Terriers, tied up in the first period by the Maroons' persistent forechecking, broke out in the second and third and added the clinching goal in the last minute of play when the Winnipeg goalie was pulled in an attempt for the equalizer.

"I was pleased with our performance," said Winnipeg playing coach Cord Simpson. "But we'll be better. "It will be a hard, touch series that could go the limit."

Simpson coled the Maroons who have had a 10-day layoff since winning the Western title over Nelson Maple Leafs. He's also missing four of his regulars in this battle for the Canadian senior hockey title—including first-string goalie Gord Dibley and captain Fred Commerford.

Galt coach Lloyd Roubeil also looked for his club to improve. As for the Maroons:

"I hope they can't play much better than they did tonight."

Second game of the best-of-seven series goes here Friday night and the third Sunday afternoon in nearby Kitchener.

GAVE WEST LEAD

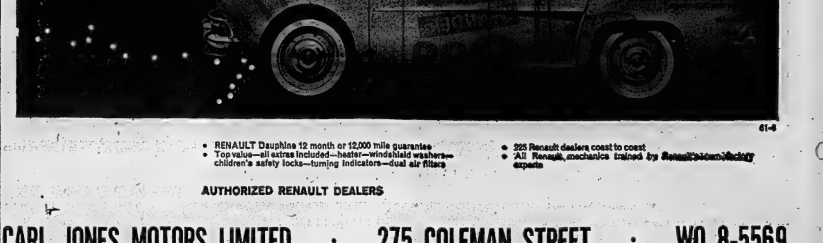
Tom Randall gave Winnipeg the early lead at 5:35 of the first period when he flipped Lloyd Ormsby rebound over the shoulder of goalie Harold (Boat) Hurley in a three - on - one Maroons break from their own zone.

But the first of Ted Maki's two unassisted goals tied it up before the period ended and Pete Kowalchuk put Galt ahead to stay on a 30 - foot blast of defenseman Darryl Sly's pass late in the second.

The Westerners turned in some hefty body - checking, particularly by NHL veteran Bill Juzda who had the Terriers' healthy respect after a few early encounters.

It was a collision with Juzda that sent Galt scoring ace Don Mader off with a four - stitch head cut in the third period. He returned to finish the game.

The victory was the Terriers' 18th in playoffs, 13 in playdowns.



Don Collins turned in a fine job in the Winnipeg nets. Over the route he had 32 stops to 25 by Hurley.

The teams shared six minor penalties called by referees Serg Sammarino of Trail and Cord Hamilton of Calgary.

Winnipeg — Goal: Collins; defence: Juzda, Bloemer, Mueller. Johnson. Simpson; forwards: Leiler, Abbott, Parker, Ortis, MacKenzie, T. Randall, Cadelease, Marshall, Joyal.

Galt — Goal: Hurley; defence: Maki, Vasey, Keeling, Sly, Neale; forwards: Wylie, Randall, B. Martin, Hogan, Kowalchuk, Mader, Aitken, Pietsch, Maio.

Has Six Homers

Moon Shines Bright For Dodgers

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Any day now they'll be calling sliced home runs over the left field screen in Los Angeles Coliseum "Moon-shots." That's because Dodger southpaw Wally Moon appears to have perfected the art of dumping homers in that sector.

Moon has hit six home runs in eight games, all over the Coliseum's 43-foot-high left field screen, only 251 feet from home plate. The Dodger outfielder claims a newly perfected "reverse English" swing has been largely responsible for his sudden rash of homers.

Moon adopts that unorthodox cut when swinging at inside pitches. The ball sort of caroms off the bat and takes off in the "wrong field" direction. When the pitch is outside, he merely reaches out and pokes at the ball.

Wally struck two of those "Moon-shots" Wednesday night to lead the Dodgers to a 7-3 triumph over St. Louis Cardinals. The first homer came with two on in the first inning. The second was a solo flight in the fourth. He walked in the sixth and slashed a run-scoring single—to center—in the seventh to account for five runs batted in with a perfect evening at the plate.

Cincinnati made it two straight over San Francisco with a 4-3 triumph and retained first place in the National League. Pittsburgh climbed into second place with a 4-1 victory over Chicago. Ralph stopped Milwaukee and Philadelphia for the second straight day.

Don Drysdale, although tagged for nine hits, went all the way for the Dodgers, to record his second victory against one defeat. Ernie Broglio was the loser.

Moon leads the National League in batting (.536), home runs (8) and runs batted in (11). In three games against his former Cardinal teammates, he has rapped seven hits in 11 times at bat, including three home runs and two doubles. Oddly enough, in 38 games against Cardinal pitching last a game apiece.

Wilsons Win Quinte Hoop Crown

Trenton Wilsons, who couldn't quite overtake Belleville Crawford Metals during the Bay of Quinte Basketball League's regular schedule, last night defeated the Crawfords 62-51 in Trenton to capture the league's playoff championship.

The Wilsons who finished two points behind their opponents in regular play, dropped the first game of the best-of-five playoff final then came roaring back with three consecutive victories to take the crown.

Last night's game was a close, hard-fought tilt from start to finish. Trenton led 27-20 at half time but the Crawfords fought back to a 46-46 deadlock midway through the second half, then Trenton pulled away for the decision.

Bob Burleigh starred on the Wilson attack, sinking 22 points, twice as many as any one opponent. Warren Whitley collected 13 scoring points while Arlen Burleigh hit for nine.

The Belleville scoring was evenly distributed but the big guns were unable to break loose against Trenton's defence. Phil Bennett, Bert Faulkner, Ted Batchelor and Bill Green each had 11.

The winners made good on eight of 21 foul-shot attempts while Crawford's had four of ten.

The Teams: Crawford Metals (62)t: Faulkner 11, Batchelor 11, Ahlardo, Walmsley 5, Masters 2, Green 13, Bennett 11, Moran.

Trenton Wilsons (62): Borden 4, Crews 2, B. Burleigh 22, Whitley 13, Theriault, Arlen Burleigh 9, M. Jeffery 7, T. Jeffery, Burke 8.

The Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP)—Blnewood, owned by Joseph Abrams of Toronto and ridden by Keith Robinson, won the featured Jackpot claiming purse at Fort Erie Wednesday defeating Windsor Forest by two lengths. Mengold finished third.

Charlie Boland, young rider from the Ontario district, was the apprentice ranks at the conclusion of Wednesday's racing. Boland won his first race on Cri de Guerre at Bowie, Md., in April 1960. In the intervening year he has racked up 122 winners, including two on Wednesday's program.

A jockey receives an apprentice weight allowance until he has ridden 100 winners but he has the privilege of retaining the allowance for a full year if as in the case of Boland, he rides 100 winners inside a 12 month period.

Blnewood paid $7.40, $4.20 and $3.20.

Two first-time starters, Roman Banquet and Blue Moss, combined for a daily double of $36.

Leafs Take Two From San Juan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Luck stayed bad for Johnny Kucks, the hard-throwing righthander who seemed headed for major league stardom when he won 18 games plus the decisive world series clash against the Dodgers for New York Yankees last five short years ago.

Kucks, who pitched into trouble, with the Yanks and couldn't win after they traded him to Kansas City, made his debut with Rochester of the International League Wednesday night.

Early into the ninth, he had a six-hitter and a 3-2 lead over Richmond. Then with one out, shortstop Ron Kabbes, made a two-base error on Ray Shearer's grounder. When Kucks walked Ritchie Windle, Artie Kay came in to relieve. A single by Tony Asaro tied the score and with two out, Pedro Gonsales' bloop single score Asaro and Richmond had a 4-3 victory and Kucks another loss.

Richmond's second victory without a loss in the young season featured a three-game Il. program that also saw Columbus rout Syracuse 11-2 and Toronto beat San Juan, for the second straight night, 7-1.

GAME POSTPONED

For the second time, rain and wet grounds forced the postponement of Jersey City's scheduled opener with Buffalo. They'll try to get their season started again tonight.

Paul Erickson was the winner in relief for Richmond against the Red Wings, who scored their runs on a two-run homer by Bob Johnson and a solo belt by Roger McCardell, both off Yvon Frank Carpin.

Columbus got 11 hits from three Syracuse pitchers, with catcher Don Leppert leading the way with a homer and three singles and six runs batted in. Right-hander Tom Parsons went the distance on a six-hitter, but was in constant trouble because of 10 bases on balls.

Bob Hendley and relief pitcher Raul Sanchez each drove in two runs for Toronto, which chased loser Dean Stone with a four-run burst in the third inning. Steve Ridzik was the winner with help from Sanchez, who balled him out of a bases-loaded jam in the seventh.

Injury Jinx Affects Major Loops

NEW YORK (AP)—The baseball season is only 10 days old but the injury jinx already has sent big names like Duke Snider, Harmon Killebrew and Charley Neal to the sidelines.

Snider, the Los Angeles Dodgers' outfielder, was put out of action with a broken arm when he was struck by a pitch Monday night and suffered a cracked bone above the right elbow.

Neal, also of the Dodgers, was put out of action on Monday's game when he aggravated an old knee injury.

Killebrew pulled a hamstring muscle in his left thigh while running in first base in a game last Saturday.

Manager Cookie Lavagetto also has been working under another handicap, Don Lee, who figured to be one of his starting pitchers, suffered a broken finger on his right hand when hit by a line drive in an exhibition game. He still is out of action.

Boston has been struggling along without Frank Malzone at third base. Malzone's right foot was injured before the season opener.

Cleveland has Dick Stigman on the disabled list and Baltimore's Billy Pelles is just coming around after a finger was broken in spring training.

Disaster struck St. Louis in Florida when Larry Jackson, the Cards' 19-game winner, suffered a broken jaw when hit by a piece of Bobby Del Greco's bat in an exhibition. The right hander hopes to get back into action late this month.

'Station Breaks' Will Be Longer, More Commercials

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Those commercials-filled moments between TV programs may soon be even longer and more commercials-filled than ever.

ABC has decided to expand its "station breaks" between programs next season from 30 to 42 seconds. If it goes through with its plans, the other two competitive networks will be forced to follow suit.

Meanwhile, the expansion is causing a fierce behind - the - scenes controversy, particularly by sponsors of network programs, who feel it is done at their expense.

In theory, station breaks are designed to give local broadcasting stations an opportunity to identify themselves between programs.

In practice, most stations use a few seconds to flash their call letters on the home screens—and devote the rest of the time to profitable local commercials. And although the television code of the National Association of Broadcasters, to which most subscribe, is specific in limiting that station breaks shall include "not more than two announcements," it is rarely so limited with three short commercials.

Broderick Crawford, who has been away from television since he and his partners quietly syndicated "Highway Patrol series a couple of seasons back, returns next season with a new action series, King of Diamonds, playing a professional man for the jewel industry.

Oil Kings Enter Cup Finals

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—Edmonton Oil Kings outbrough Winnipeg Rangers 7-5 Wednesday night to win the Abbott Cup, emblematic of Western Canada Junior hockey supremacy. Edmonton took the best-of-seven Memorial Cup semi-final series 4-1.

Tom Burgess scored what proved to be the winning goal at 16:31 of the third period when his 15-foot shot whizzed past Ranger goalie Keith Mickiash.

Len Lunde was credited with his second goal of the night when a Winnipeg defenceman batted the puck into his own net accidentally with less than two minutes left to play.

Oil Kings captain Don Chic fired three goals and Bob Cox the other for Edmonton.

Bryan Hextall scored two Ranger goals, Bob Storey, Tom Trosky and Harry Boechert rounded out others.

Pina Pellicer Gives Credit To Brando for Film Role

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A year and a half ago, Pina Pellicer arrived in Hollywood beautiful and unknown.

This week she was back again, still beautiful but now a star.

The transformation was caused by an erratic creator named Marlon Brando, who molded her untried talent into maturity in her first film, One-eyed Jacks.

The Mexican actress was here for the Academy Awards, as part of the delegation representing Macario, contender for best foreign language film. It lost to Sweden's The Virgin Spring, but that didn't dampen the thrill of Pina's return. She is enjoying plaudits for her work in the Brando film.

"I think it is wonderful, and all the credit must go to Marlon's direction," she said. "Think what he did. Besides himself, only Karl Malden and Katy Jurado were experienced performers. He had to help the rest of us along."

TAUGHT

She admitted that Brando needed to wring a performance out of her. He even had to teach her how to laugh.

"Crying was not too difficult for me," she said. "Laughing was hard. I didn't feel like laughing. So he would put me in front of the camera and then jump out from behind it wearing a funny mask. I laughed."

Pina came into the Brando world unprepared. Her English was scant. Her experience sparse. She had got interested in little theatre work while at the University of Mexico and had performed in only six plays in Mexico City. One was The Diary of Anne Frank. She did an excerpt from the play on television, and this helped bring her to the attention of producer Frank Rosenberg, seeking a co-star for Brando.

Astrological Forecast

Friday, April 21
By CARROLL RICHTER

General Tendencies: This is a day and evening when all kinds of problems are likely to come to the fore giving you the opportunity to show just how well you can handle them. If you allow yourself the luxury of being over-emotional or feeling abused by such traits, you can have a very difficult day. Use your accumulated wisdom to solve such issues now.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) —Since your ideas and those with whom you work or live closely are apt to be very different, be sure today that you permit others to air their opinion. Then carry through efficiently with all accumulated work. Don't be forceful.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) —Private anxieties should not deter you from doing your daily work, or you get far behind and can lose a great deal as well. Be careful while out driving or walking, and be sure you do not use words you may later regret.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —While money may seem to be no object at this time, being concerned with other matters as you are, be sure you do not inadvertently get yourself involved financially beyond your means because of your guard is down. P.M. have fun inexpensively.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Don't make any radical changes today and instead show how wise-minded you are and how conscientious in all that you do. Any feeling of being shunted aside due to being tired and out-of-sorts. Take health treatments you need.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Put aside all dull doldrum work and get out with individuals who are progressive and can help you to become more successful, too. However, don't mistake the gossipers for the doers. Learn about more modern things and systems. Grow.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Don't rely on your hunches today or pass them on to others unless they are apt to be very wrong. Work diligently at whatever your duties may be and rise above all attending circumstances. Show no envy of others.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)—Associates or higher-ups are all in a difficult mood today and may make things difficult, but if you stick to duties that need attention, you'll smile just the same.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) —No matter what you may be doing, there is bound to be an element of annoyance creeping up, but if you make it a point to retain equilibrium, then all will turn out well. A loss of temper could be expensive and unwise.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — In your desire to enjoy yourself now, you may take certain gambles that could be detrimental to your well-being. Stick to your job or duties diligently. Evening is then fine for having fun inexpensively. Be happy.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Put aside that new venture until a more propitious time. Use your time being very affectionate and courteous with kin to offset your rather bad disposition of the past. Avoid that possible separation at all cost.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — While you are anxious to get out to outdoor activities you also have commitments that must be kept. Yourself, be sure to schedule your time wisely to take in both. If a decision of one must be reached, forget outside interests.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Important you handle all those affairs that have to do with finances and properly today and this evening. Don't jeopardize any of that security you have so laboriously been building up. Set up better budget for future economy.

If your child is born today . . . early teach to overcome that tendency toward hyper-sensitivity and feeling sorry for himself, or herself. Then—be sure to give a fine education planned toward merchandising or trouble-shooting. There is great promise in the chart for real success in any field where new systems can be inaugurated in well-established industries. Give fine spiritual training, too.

began playing back excerpts at the trial, bringing into the record the former SS officer's own version of the Nazis' "final solution of the Jewish problem"— meaning total annihilation of Europe's Jewry—and the part he played in it.

The trial was in recess today while Israel celebrated its Independence day.

When the hearing resumes Friday, Attorney-General Gideon Hausner is expected to play back for court a recording of Eichmann's account of events in Hungary in 1944. Hausner told the court earlier Eichmann was a key figure in the killing of 437,402 of the 800,000 Jews living in Hungary at the time.

NEW FLAGSHIP — The Empress of Canada, new flagship of the Canadian Pacific fleet, sails from Liverpool for Montreal on her maiden voyage April 24. Largest ship ever built to go up the St. Lawrence River as far as Montreal, the 27,300-ton liner cost $21,000,000 and is the third Canadian Pacific passenger liner to bear the name Empress of Canada. CPR Tries to Lure Tourists Back to Ocean Travel With Empress of Canada

By CAROL KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LIVERPOOL, England (CP)—When the Empress of Canada—new flagship of the Canadian Pacific fleet—steams up the St. Lawrence on her maiden voyage late in April, her passengers will have a panoramic view of the scenery.

Special observation platforms have been build into the sun deck, big french windows are a feature of the tourist-class cocktail lounge.

The emphasis on windows and glass screens throughout the 27,300-ton liner gives an impression of spaciousness and informal luxury. With extra comforts like this, a determined effort is being made to lure back to ocean travel some of the thousands who might otherwise go by air.

None of the public rooms is labelled "first" or "tourist." Instead they are called the St. Lawrence Club, the Salle Frontenac, the Banff Club.

Following a post - war CPR tradition, the ballroom is shared by both tourist and first-class passengers. So are the movie theatre, shopping centre and indoor swimming pool. The respective lounges are at opposite ends of the ship.

Canadian themes figure strongly in the decor—the floral emblems of Canadian provinces, murals of Canadian scenes. Light figured woods, including Canadian maple, are used as panelling. Blues, greens and sandy tones dominate the color schemes.

The designers have even made it easier for passengers to find their way around. Red arrows point the way out of cabins and cabin doors are painted different colors on different decks.

The nine - deck Empress of Canada—carry 2,000 tons bigger than the present Empress of Britain, the previous flagship — will be the largest vessel ever build to go up the St. Lawrence as far as Montreal. She is scheduled to sail April 24, arriving May 1.

She has been specially designed to handle easily at low speeds in the narrow 150-mile stretch of the river between Quebec and Montreal.

The 27,300-ton liner cost $21,000,000 and is the third Canadian Pacific passenger liner to bear the name Empress of Canada. (CP Photo).

The pre-war Empress of Britain, 42,500 tons, could go on further than Quebec.

The new flagships' structural design is said to be the most advanced ever used in a vessel built in Britain for the North Atlantic service.

Her sleek clipper-type bow expands below the waterline into a bulbous shape. This innovation, combined with regular stabilizers, is aimed at cutting down pitching.

An advanced system of fire detection and control operates from a panel in the streamlined wheelhouse.

"We have done everything possible to make this ship fireproof," said Captain P. F. Dobson, master of the new liner. He commanded the old Empress of Canada, which caught fire and turned over in Liverpool docks eight years ago.

AVERAGES 28 KNOTS

The new Empress is divided into "fireproof zones, and automatic sprinklers go into action as soon as any blaze breaks out. So detailed are the precautions that it is said a seaman lighting a forbidden cigaret in a cargo hold would be instantly detected.

The liner is slightly higher in profile than her sister ships, Empress of Britain and Empress of England. Powered by turbine-driven twin screws, she has an average speed of 28 knots.

She was launched by Mrs. John Diefenbaker last May and was delivered to Canadian Pacific by the builders, Vickers-Armstrong, March 27, on schedule.

She has cost $21,000,000, will carry 1,048 passengers and 510 crew, and is the largest ship to have been built on the Tyne in the last 50 years.

The new Empress of Canada is the third Canadian Pacific liner to bear the name. The first went into service in 1922 and was destroyed by enemy action during the Second World War.

No Shipyard in Canada Is in an Exceptionally Good Position Workwise

By JOHN TORSTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LAUZON, Que. (CP)—Shipbuilding is a tough industry to be in right now in Canada.

That laconic statement by a young executive of Davie Shipbuilding Ltd. sums up the company's feelings and those of Canada's shipbuilding industry struggling to make a go of it while faced with a worldwide depression.

Davie, one of Canada's largest and best-equipped firms, is casting about for contracts to keep the yards going. But no new work is expected to start this year.

Four vessels are under construction. Two, both Great Lakes freighters, will be deltankers which could be commissioning two are naval vessels —a destroyer escort and a tanker—which will be completed in about two years.

These will keep only a handful of men on the job in this city of 11,000 which revolves around Davie. The yard, located on a bend of the St. Lawrence River across from Quebec City, can handle seven vessels in the buildings births and outfitting docks.

LAID OFF 1,500

Last year when Davie completed four ships, 2,200 men had jobs at the peak of construction. Now there are fewer than 900 at work.

"Employment is at its lowest in 20 years," says Davie President Richard Lavery.

"We are not too happy about the situation as it affects the men," adds Robert Blaich, Davie manager, "Lauzon depends on shipbuilding."

"No yard in Canada is in an exceptionally good position workwise."

All told, 10 commercial ships are on order or under construction in Canada's yards. This contrasts with last year when 50 such ships with a record tonnage of 157,419 were built in 16 yards across the country.

Government contracts, while more than welcome, do not offer large-scale employment, industry leaders say. But the industry feels the foundations for solving its problems must be laid by the government.

"What is principally wanted is a policy on the part of the government," says Mr. Lowery. There was "no lack of ideas" from the industry on what could form the basis of government policy.

RECOVERY TAKES TIME

The company says there have been indications the government will provide a stimulus to the industry. "However, immediate spectacular results in employment should not be anticipated since it takes considerable time from the decision of any owner to build a vessel until the first steel is rolled."

Every shipping and shipbuilding nation in the world, the industry says, receives some form of government help except in Canada. That, combined with lower wages abroad, has meant a spasmodic flow of orders for Canadian yards.

The industry feels shipping and shipbuilding go hand in hand. Thus, more support for Canadian shipping would mean more work for Canadian yards.

In the United States, with problems somewhat similar to Canada's, the government pays the difference between building a vessel at home and building abroad. This gives the U.S. a great fleet of freighters and tankers which could be commandeered in wartime. At the same time it provides tax revenue and employment.

COASTAL RESTRICTIONS

Again in the U.S., coastal trade is confined to American vessels alone. This not only gives shipping firms a break but provides work for builders of coastal vessels too.

Canada's coastal waters are open to any vessel flying a Commonwealth flag, says Mr. Lowery, giving some foreign vessels "a preferred position" to carry goods from one Canadian port to another.

When Canada's deepsea fleet dwindled after the Second World War, the backbone of the building industry became Great Lakes vessels, nominally the St. Lawrence Seaway, with its great economic promise, has created problems for the building industry, says Mr. Lowery.

"For the first time in history the United Kingdom has started to build Great Lakes ships." So far two lakers have been ordered in Britain.

Mr. Blaich says another factor in the work decline in Canadian yards is loss of repair jobs. Foreign vessels damaged in Canadian waters have temporary work done here, then sail home for a complete job at cheaper rates.

CASTRO IS PLANNING VICTORY PARADE

Will Not Yield Cuba To Reds Says Kennedy

Appears Poised to Strike Along Castro

WASSINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy appears poised to strike a direct blow against Fidel Castro's regime if other measures to smother the Cuban Reds said today.

Fidel himself, who has been reported by some sources as impacabilized, however, has yet to make a public appearance on radio or television.

The Cuban leader said that among the prisoners captured by the Cuban forces were the son of counter - revolutionary leader Jose Miro Cardona and the son of several officials of the Batista regime.

The Havana broadcast heard here repeated charges of direct United States intervention in the Cuban action. It said the guerrilla invaders were trained by 35 "officers of the Yankee army" in Guatemala, and conveyed to Cuba under the protection of "Yankee destroyers."

The Havana Radio Reminded the North American army" allegedly—captured from the anti-Castro forces.

The broadcast emphasized the weapons were "all of North American (United States) manufacture," and described them as "standard United States Army equipment."

Five Sherman tanks were said to be among the equipment captured. Also listed were Garand rifles, 30- and 50-millimeter machine-guns, rocket launchers, flame throwers, trucks, anti-tank guns capable of destroying a building, 6-millimetre machine-guns, mortars and radio equipment.

The broadcast said foreign reporters inspected the captured weapons.

The broadcast also said that the B-26, B-26 and F-86 aircraft, as well as amphibious planes supported the landings in the Zapata peninsula, in south-central Cuba.

START TO SURRENDER

Havana claimed Thursday that the surviving invaders had been trapped in a swamp area from which no escape was possible. Today it said that they began to surrender Thursday morning. It said four doctors and four priests were among the prisoners.

The Cuban statement identified other prisoners as sons of Quiroo, Urio, Diaz Argeulles and Emilio Ochoa, who were described as officials in the regime of Fulgencio Batista.

NO EMPLOYEES TO BE RELEASED BY AUTOMATION

Postmaster Makes Pledge to House

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's postal service will advance with the times, Postmaster-General Willis m Hamilton said on Thursday night, but he pledged that no permanent employee will be released to make way for machines as long a s he is minister.

"I can say . . . beyond any shadow of a doubt, so long as I am postmaster-general there is going to be no permanent postal employee who is going to be displaced or released because of the advent of machinery, automation or advanced methods," he told the Commons.

The minister was given his usual unsparing grilling by long-memoried Liberal MPs who recall Mr. Hamilton's own personnel economies as conservative postal critic.

But his department's spending estimates for the current fiscal year—$190,761,000 or $10,-000,000 more than last year—were approved after three days.

The Opposition has published off the budgets of the post office, citizenship and immigration and northern affairs departments and continues today with the finance and national resources.

GETS INDIGNANT

Mr. Hamilton showed indignant at times Thursday under detailed questioning and critcism that ranged from allegations of patronage to low wages and personal conceit.

Touching on other subjects Thursday night, Mr. Hamilton said it would cost too much to reduce to 2,000 from 2,500 the minimum population required to qualify a community for postal delivery by letter carrier.

It also would be inefficient to lower further the permissible mailboxes required in a community for rural mail delivery. This now was 80 per cent, lowered 10 per cent from the 90 per cent under the Liberal government.

The House of Commons is not a burlesque house," said Mr. Hamilton reprovingly at one point in the estimates, remarks by Arellus Denis (L — Laval-des-Rapides), his persistent postal critic.

THEFTS ARE DOWN

Postal thefts were down at 195 compared with 398 a year earlier, he said. The department $9,000,000 deficit anticipated this year would be due to salary increases granted to a "critical of his (Mr. Denis') disparagement of the service.

There had been "three or four

LONDON NEWSPAPER SAYS THIS IS HAVANA SCENE — This picture was obtained from the London Daily Express which said it shows Cubans beneath large banner which reads "Death to the Invader," dropped over entrance of an unspecified building in Havana. On either side of entrance are posters showing Cuban workers. Smaller lettering on banner advertises a meeting for Friday the 13th preparatory to a parade to the palace. Report Castro Led Defence Of Cuban Soil

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Fidel Castro personally commanded the military action against invading guerrillas, the Cuban Radio said today.

Fidel himself, who has been reported by some sources as impacabilized, however, has yet to make a public appearance on radio or television.

The Cuban leader said that among the prisoners captured by the Cuban forces were the son of counter - revolutionary leader Jose Miro Cardona and the son of several officials of the Batista regime.

If U.S. Had Indeed Invaded Cuba Would It Have Failed? --Stevenson

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Lost in a procedural wrangle in the United Nations political committee adjourned early today after hearing Adlai Stevenson declare that if the United States had started the Cuban invasion it would have finished the job quickly.

"Perhaps the best evidence of the falsity of the shrill charges of American aggression is the undeniable fact that this blow for freedom has not yet been struck by the U.S. armed forces," he said.

The 97 - member committee spent a morass of technical disagreement — adjourned at 2:36 a.m. (EST) without a vote on any of the four resolutions it regarding the Cuban fighting.

"Let me ask," said Stevenson, "if this was a United States military operation, do you think it would succeed or fail? How long do you think Cuba, a small almost defenceless island, could resist the military power of the United States?"

But Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin and Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa reiterated their charges that the U.S. organized the assault from Guatemala and Nicaragua. The U.S., they said, has refused to answer questions on whether it trained the rebels and equipped invaders.

Many public galleries were jammed during most of the session that began at 9 p.m. and the group of youths, apparently organized to applaud on cue, applauded vigorously for communist chairman Karel Kurka of Czechoslovakia and warmly greeted Stevenson.

They were especially delighted at his caustic remarks against assertions by Stevenson and President Kennedy that Fidel Castro is tyrannical.

Stevenson was quoted saying that American southern Negroes urgently asked for Cuban tanks and "white mercenaries" to help them in their struggle against a tyrannical government which had betrayed the ideals of the American Revolution. He said the message was signed by "Robert Williams, secretary - general of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People,"

'Germ of Rehabilitation' Specially Marked for Death -- Eichmann

JERUSALEM — Adolf Eichmann told Israeli questioners that those Jews regarded as the germ-cell of Jewish rehabilitation" were to be specially marked for death, his tape-recorded testimony disclosed in court today.

But the former SS officer said that this was not his idea, and he repeatedly denied that he had anything to do with the executions during the war.

Eichmann, on trial in Jerusalem for "crimes against the Jewish people and crimes against humanity" during the war, was interrogated for more than eight months before the hearings began. His words were recorded on tape and the tapes are being replayed in court now. After today's testimony, the court adjourned until Monday.

"The germs of rehabilitation," it developed, meant those Jews strong enough to survive the ordeal of the slave labor camps and potentially capable of procreating "a new Jewish development."

This was brought up during the Wannsee conference in Berlin Jan. 20, 1942, when Reinhard Heydrich, one of Eichmann's immediate superiors, told those present that Hitler had ordered "the final solution of the Jewish question"—and that this meant extermination.

Capt. Aviver Less of the Israeli police questioned Eichmann about the conference and this exchange was recorded:

Less: "What does this mean here, 'These Jews must be treated appropriately.'?"

Eichmann: "That is—that is—this is from (security' chief Heinrich) Himmler. 'Natural selection'—Choice made by nature'—that was one of his favorite terms. He liked to use these words."

Less: "Yes, but what does it mean?"

Eichmann: "Killed, killed,

Laos Cease-Fire to Start Tues. Says Prince Phouma

MOSCOW (AP)—Prince Souvanna Phouma of Laos said today he will reach Laos April 25 or 26, "which will coincide with the start of the cease-fire" in his Southeast Asian country.

An appeal for the two warring factions in Laos to lay down their arms is expected to be issued by British and the Soviet Union within 48 hours.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told diplomats in East and West had reached a compromise on the sequence of a cease-fire and peace conference which made it possible to publish a truce appeal.

British Ambassador Sir Frank Roberts had been saying he expects a agreement "very soon."

MOSCOW (Reuters) — British Ambassador Sir Frank Roberts conferred with Russian officials here today and said afterward that he expects an Anglo-Soviet appeal for a cease-fire in Laos would be issued "very soon."

But the ambassador said the appeal probably would not be issued

U.S. Navy Has Variety Of Anti-Submarine Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republic — voting 217 to 203 Thursday — to kill a House committee report severely criticizing Army and Navy missile programs.

The vote came after a few of the dedication instruments and weapons systems were cited as examples of waste.

Rep. Arends (R-Ill.) asked, "Do you want to use — or soon will have ready — if called on to repel the Communist world's 450-submarine force.

Rear Admiral Lloyd Mustin, head man in navy Anti-Submarine Warfare (ASW), claims U.S. anti - sub capability is very good. And he says there are some new "dramatic" means, still cloaked in secrecy.

Some others in the navy and industry which supply it, however, disagree with Mustin's estimate.

The destroyer - minded officer wrote recently there is room for more ships if U.S. destroyer forces are currently capable of disposing of the Soviet sub menace. He questioned the effectiveness of most present weapons against high - speed nuclear subs which can stay submerged indefinitely.

To date, the Russians have shown no nuclear subs, but U.S. Navy officials are taking for granted that such Soviet craft will be operational in the near future.

To prepare for that day, U.S. anti - submarine warfare teams

Havana Hears Rebels Killed By Thousands

Invaders Did Not Get Aid From Cuban People

NEW YORK (AP) — Leaders of the Cuban Revolutionary Council conceded today their cause had suffered a "grave reverse" but said the fight for free Cuba will go on "until the end."

HAVANA (Reuters) — Fidel Castro was reported today to be planning a big victory parade to celebrate the defeat of the anti-government forces who tried in vain to overthrow his regime.

Whereabouts of the Cuban premier was shrouded in mystery but press and radio reports here said Cuba's May Day celebrations in the city would be transferred into Castro's victory parade."

Cubans were still awaiting a promised "complete statement" on the fighting between Castro's army and the rebels, but unconfirmed reports filtering into the capital said bounties had been killed in battle.

Tension which gripped Havana after the rebels landings in Oriente and Pinar Del Rio provinces Saturday appeared relaxed with the government announcement that the Castro forces had won "complete victory."

But for the most part the man in the street appeared to be in a daze, out of touch with news of the fighting. A series of small parades a week ago through the streets of Havana Thursday but they consisted mostly of housewives trailing trucks loaded with soldiers.

There was nothing here to bear out Miami reports that Castro had been "incapacitated" by a bomb dropped last Monday.

INFORMATION WRONG

Sources here said the failure of the invasion resulted from the indifference of the Cuban people. The rebels also lacked information about the Castro regime's military strength.

Other factors in the government's favor included the power of vigilante groups, known as committees for the defence of the revolution, and roundups by secret police of persons suspected of opposing the regime.

Firing squads executed seven alleged counter - revolutionaries Thursday in Havana, three in Pinar Del Rio and two in Camagney. The latter brought the number of executions in three days.

There was no official reaction to President Kennedy's stern speech Thursday evening when the United States would not allow Communist penetration in the hemisphere to endanger American security.

CUBANS CHEATED

Cuban Communists, however, were hailing the defeat of the anti - government forces as a

Research Foundation to Endeavor To Keep Top Scientists in Canada

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Research Foundation will launch at once an expansion program to aid industry and induce top scientists to remain in Canada, J. Gordon Misener, foundation director, announced today.

Dr. Misener said in a statement the expansion will be in preparation for a "Canadian boom" in Canada's industrial and scientific development.

He announced: An expansion of foundation clientele, both Canadian and foreign; a number research staff to conduct new work; broadening of research to include newer technologies and technical specialization, and a physical expansion, including purchase of new equipment, enlargement of present facilities and, eventually, relocation of the foundation in a new "research community" in the Toronto-Hamilton area.

The program, to be correlated with Canada's industrial growth, has resulted from an extensive study of industrial potential and scientific requirements, Dr. Misener said.

Industrialists, economists and investors everywhere agree that Canada is on the brink of a great industrial expansion, yet our technical resources are inadequate and we have been losing some of our best technical manpower to the U.S.

"The prevailing increased opportunity for the employment of the research personnel trained by Canadian universities, we hope to keep these people in Canada and avail ourselves of their stimulating effect on our industrial economy. . . ."

Some of the technological areas in which the foundation hopes to provide expanded services include production engineering, electronics, manufacturing engineering, technical marketing analysis and engineering economics.

No commitments have been made as to the site for the new facilities, Dr. Misener said. But the program contemplated could be accommodated on the grounds of the foundation's new pilot plant laboratory in Toronto.

The foundation was created in 1928 by an act of the legislature.

START NEW DAIRY YEAR WITH SAME PRICE SUPPORTS

Butter, Cheese, Whole Milk Named

OTTAWA (CP)—Government price support levels for butter, cheese and cream whole milk will remain unchanged in "the new dairy year starting May 1," Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton, informing the Commons Thursday, made the announcement of studies to determine whether butter prices might be lowered to spur consumption and reduce stocks which totalled 105,650,000 pounds April 1. Stocks a year earlier were 100,650,000.

However, it is reliably understood that study is still under active consideration.

This would leave the door open for action to make butter more competitive with margarine and spreads while striving to maintain the returns to dairy farmers.

The agricultural stabilization board, which holds the bulk of the butter stocks, will continue to buy butter at the support level of 64 cents a pound for top grades delivered at Montreal.

Cheese support prices remain at 32 cents a pound top grade for Ontario and 31½ cents for Quebec top grade. Cheese stocks April 1 stood at 2,290,000

QUINTE TRAP CLUB GETS SEASON STARTED

With the bright, sunny weather which the Quinte area is experiencing the members of the Quinte Trap Club are just getting their 1961 season underway. This Sunday a shoot is to be held and those interested in trap shooting will have a chance to get out and establish their averages for the inter-club shoots which will be commencing in the not-too-distant future.

Bad-luck shooting, the club members will be making a concerted effort to raise a club house during the summer months on their property. This may be reached by interested persons by driving north on Sidney Street, turning left at the road just past the 401 highway, proceeding for two miles then turning right and following that road to its end. The club office lies on the left of the T-intersection.

FIREMEN ANSWER SIX ALARMS

Six alarms were answered by the local fire department yesterday. Four of them were grass fires whilst the fifth was a transportation and the sixth was a false alarm. The latter was received at 3:08 p.m. The grass fires which were put out were located on James Road (10:30 a.m.) and Station Road (11:32 a.m.), at Wallbridge (1:26 p.m.) and at the rear of the SACO foundry on St. Paul Street (7:15 p.m.). At 10:40 p.m. firemen were called to 319 Herchimer Avenue for a smoke investigation. No damage was experienced at any of the alarms.

TORONTO (CP) — Frank E. Lutes, president of the Dairy Farmers of Canada, said Thursday the organization is pleased that dairy support prices will be held at last year's level.

He added:

"We would hope, however, that there would still be some revision of policy to take into consideration the wide spread between the price of butter and the price of margarine, and the pressure on the farmer, who is squeezed between increasing costs, by production and unchanged prices for his product."

Y's Men Hear Fine Address On Outdoors

"Improving our lot in the outdoors" was the subject of an interesting address given by Sergeant Jack Glyden of the Search and Rescue Unit at the RCAF Station at Trenton to members of the Y's Men's Club held in the "Y" on Thursday evening with president Ken Hayman presiding. The club had a hundred per cent attendance and are on their way to capturing district honors in this respect. Hugh Watson served efficiently as Sergeant-at-Arms while Wes Scarrow acted as accompanist for the sing song and Jack Kuntze leading the singing.

At each meeting a talk on a particular flaw of the International flag set is given and Mr. Watson told of the progress of Y'sdom in Japan. The club in Japan is one of the oldest in the organization having been formed in 1928 and has 27 members with a fourth highest and the third highest in Asia. At the close of the meeting the club decided to send to the recent conference held in Toronto and exhorted the members to work hard at all times. "It is nothing to be ashamed of" said Mr. Hayman.

Bill Holway introduced the speaker of the evening and Ken Glyden told of the many things one should do in preparing for a hunting trip into the woods for a fishing excursion or a deer hunt. "You must be ready for the elements" said the speaker "and know how to use it or else you'll not be a success and you could become a casualty." He stated that a Scout knife was a "must" along with waxed matches, shelter, sing wire, soap and detergent to wash the dishes and medical kit while in the car should be a sleeping bag for the cold nights, chains and a piece of rope. Dehydrated foods can be easily carried and will sustain one for a long time.

In the event of being lost one should remain that one should be kept occupied but not to work too hard in an effort to conserve strength. He stated that the biggest problem was rain and one should always have sufficient covering. The compass should always be carried but it would be advisable to learn how to use it properly. He told Mollistenaut not to travel when lost and if having a certain area always part of the day. Be sure and keep your spirits up and don't panic was Mr. Glyden's plea. The thanks of the club were expressed by Robbie Clarke.

Kelso Roberts Tells Fire Fighters Provincial Police Force Geared To Take Care of Criminal Gangs

Attorney-General Kelso Roberts Thursday night said that if Canada let its guard down it wouldn't be long before "well-integrated gangs of big criminal gangs" would move in. But it is ever moved into Ontario, the provincial 1,900-member police force was geared to take care of it.

Mr. Roberts, brother-in-law of Mayor A. McLean Haig, was the principal speaker at a banquet staged at Club Canada by Local 497 (Belleville) of District 4 of the Federation of Ontario Professional Fire Fighters. Chairman was district president Ernest Hache, of Ottawa and guests attended from Belleville, Trenton, Picton Faris, Ottawa, Pembroke, Cornwall, Smiths Falls, Brockville and Kingston. District 2 stretches from about Deep River on the northwest to the Quebec border on the east.

NATIVE OF CITY

The attorney-general, a native of Belleville, Ontario, said he would use the same tactics in apprehending criminals as the FBI employed in the U.S. "When they send one agent to track down the notorious John Dillinger until he was run into the ground.

Mr. Roberts in the first of three addresses he will deliver in Ontario in the next few weeks will outline the effectiveness of Ontario's provincial forces as opposed to the radio broadcast and from Club Canada to any crooks within the municipal areas. "Be uniform and go straight," because "you'll find a day follows night they will be caught, eventually."

He credited Canada's criminal code, which is effective on a national basis, as being a deterrent to the organization of a large-scale organized crime such as exists in the United States where federal and state enforcement by federal agents is sometimes impeded by state laws.

He said the OPP have an excellent working relationship with the RCMP, which has a direct link to the International Police Organization in Paris for assistance when crimes are committed in Canada with international implications.

He said Interpol was used in tracking down those responsible for a million-dollar robbery at a Brockville bank several years ago. Investigations led police agents to Germany, Lebanon, Spain, the U.S., Australia and other places before the culprits were finally brought to justice. In Canada, the head of Interpol is the RCMP commissioner at Ottawa, Mr. Roberts said he considered the Brockville robbery one of the greatest sleuth and that those responsible had been dealt with by the courts.

Mr. Roberts showed a television portrayals of big-time crime, saying that "some of the TV performances we see today are . . . crime-provoking . . . they're not good entertainment."

He said one of the problems which confronts police in tracking down criminals was a segment of the public which is "anti-police" and the courts and the police as gangsters. He said the government is behind the plan to deliver three addresses in the provinces is to educate the public more about the police work. He will deliver the next address in Sudbury on Temagami April 20 and the third at Toronto May 11.

Assoc. Announces Third Concert Of Series 'Golden Curtain Quartet'

Bellerville Community Concerts Assn. have just received news that the Golden Curtain Quartet is available for their next season's series, and would like to announce this group as their third attraction —in addition to Lois Marshall program, and Ronald Turini, pianist. This is a mixed vocal group, each one of whom is a featured singer in the highly competitive Metropolitan Opera auditions held annually. They present a delightful program, ranging from Gilbert and Sullivan to Broadway — quartets, solos, duets, "sing" variety. It takes its name from the famous Metropolitan Opera House gold curtain. Its producer - director is Kurt Adler, renowned conductor of the Metropolitan Opera.

It might be noted that the organizers of this group, Lastlie Kaller, is their pianist and accompanist — so rare, that in all the history of Belleville Community Concerts has never heard one.

We would like to remind you that Saturday is the last day for joining Belleville Community Concerts Association —that you may join, or obtain tickets for, the Lois Marshall concert. Tickets may be had by Public Library, downtown office — or phone WO 8-7333 — or mail to P.O. Box. 92. Admission by membership only — no single tickets sold.

Adults $7.00 and Students $3.00. Advt.

Bible Society Sunday to Be Observed Here

The annual observance of Bible Society Sunday in Belleville will be on April 23 when the churches of Belleville will present the case of the Bible Society to their congregations.

There is a special significance in this year's Bible Society as the 350th anniversary of the Authorized Version of the Holy Bible is being marked and 1961 is also noteworthy for the Revised Version of the great Bible translation, the Revised Version of the New Testament, was published in March.

The annual meeting of the Belleville Branch of the Canadian Bible Society with the Rev. St. Margaret's Anglican Church, on Sunday April 30th. The 3:45 p.m. is to allow for those who attend evening services. The Rev. Canon Greene will be present. An excellent color film entitled "The Leaves of the Tree" will be shown. This film deals with the story of the translation of the Holy Scriptures into Ethiopia. The last which took two Swedish medical missionaries 63 years.

The meeting will be conducted by the president, Rev. D. B. McLean, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The other members of the executive are: Rev. L. A. Page, Rector of St. Margaret's Anglican Church, vice-president, Mr. Mervyn Crowson, secretary who succeeded Mr. William Blatherwick retired owing to ill health and Mr. J. Blackburn, treasurer.

The secretary for the Bay of Quinte District of the Canadian Bible Society, Rev. C. R. Rudd, whose office is now located in Peterborough, will also be present.

The Canadian Bible Society, auxiliary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, and itself a member of the world wide United Bible Societies Organization, had a most successful year. In this success Belleville had a fine share, having passed the $1000. mark in the 1960 campaign for the first time in the history of the local branch.

The Bible Society is being asked for twice the annual number of Scriptures produced and during 1961 the Canadian Bible Society is aiming at $750,000. Proportionately it is hoped that Belleville will raise $2,000

Obituaries

ROBERT IRWIN

CAMPBELLFORD — The death of a pioneer resident of Thurlow Township, Robert Irwin, occurred at the Campbellford Memorial Hospital on Monday. He had been in the hospital for a month previous to his death.

Mr. Irwin was born in Seymour, July 14, 1873, son of the late William Irwin and Agnes Linn. He spent his entire life on the farm in Thurlow and he and Mrs. Irwin celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary some time ago.

Surviving besides his wife, the former Emily Ann Frederick is one daughter, Mrs. Carl Cowan (Cora) and a sister, Mrs. John Younger. Two brothers and three sisters predeceased him.

The late Mr. Irwin was a member of Zion United Church and Sentinel L.O.L., Petworth's Corners.

Funeral services were conducted from his late residence by Rev. Gordon Whitehorne, pastor of Zion Church. A memorial service was conducted, on the previous evening by Sentinel Orange Lodge.

The bearers were: Elwood and Merlin Irwin, Ernest Bennett, Harold Redden, Jack Hammond and William D. Scott.

Honorary bearers were: Alfred Barnes, Chester and Bert Irwin, Wilfred Spencer, Fred Middleton and Ritchie Medicljohn.

Interment was in Zion cemetery.

MRS. GERSHEM CORSER

CAMPBELLFORD— Cynthia Ann Whelan, wife of Gershem Gershem V. Corser, passed away on Wednesday last at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Gordon Hardy, after a brief illness.

Mrs. Corser was born here at South Bay, Prince Edward County, 85 years ago, daughter of Henry Whelan and Sarah Ann Mary Ackerman. She came to Campbellford 50 years ago to live with Mr. and Mrs. Hardy. For 35 years previously she was a resident of Seymour township and prior to that lived in Belleville and Prince Edward County. Mr. Corser died in February, 1949.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Gordon Hardy of Campbellford; one brother, Robert Wadforth, South Bay; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Ackerman of Toronto and Mrs. Edith Fisher of Belleville; three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren also survive.

Rev. D. M. Smith conducted services from the home of Mrs. Hardy on Bridge Street.

Bearers were: Archie Clark, Charles McArthur, Wm. McKitrick, Harry Hardy, Gordon Hardy, Percy Brunton and Sam MacDonald.

Interment was in Friends' cemetery, Brighton township.

JAMES FREDERICK OSBORNE
Bannockburn

Lifetime resident of the Madoc-Bannockburn district, James Frederick Osborne of Bannockburn died Thursday at his home in Bannockburn in Kingston following a six weeks illness. He was in his 83rd year.

Born at Queensboro, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Osborne and had lived at Bannockburn for the past 30 years. The late Mr. Osborne had lived at Madoc and Wallbridge. He was a member of the United Church and of Branch 383 of the Canadian Legion, Madoc.

Prior to his retirement some years ago he was employed by the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

He is survived by his wife, the former Lily May Finlayson, two daughters, Mrs. W. (Pearl) Hannah and Mrs. C. (Jean) Lemmon, both of Bannockburn and a son Clarence of South Ste. Marie.

Also surviving are two brothers, Ira of Marmora, and George of Bannockburn, and 13 grandchildren.

"defeat for imperialism." Other Cuban officials, Premier Castro's speech a warning that another invasion attempt would not fail.

The government's 4 1/2 hour communique was broadcast repeatedly Thursday. Radio commentators termed the passage stating that any survivors of the Cuban exile forces had been compared to a "swamp area from which no escape is possible."

Police carried out extensive roundups of foreign nationals.

The Soviet Union, which has none of 18 Americans, in custody, has figure might be twice that high.

Staffs of The Associated Press and United Press International were either being detained or in asylum Thursday night. Mrs. Ruby Hart Phillips of the New York Times also was reported to have been taken into custody Thursday. Charges against the American correspondents were not disclosed.

This correspondent was allowed to move about Havana without harrassment throughout the invasion period but a total blackout of cable and other communication facilities prevented reporters from filing stories.

STORIES HELD UP

No foreign newsmen have escaped and the cable office accepted stories for transmission but they never were sent.

Telephone operators also accepted calls for overseas points but, until Thursday night, they never got through.

Militiamen with machine-guns were posted on the roof of the 10-storey building housing the British Embassy, Five Britons were arrested Thursday night, including correspondent Peter Hopkirk of the London Daily Express.

One of those arrested after the invasion, a tourist, Mrs. Grace Soler, was moved from her place of custody to a maternity hospital, where she gave birth to a baby girl.

Her husband, a Cuban who is a representative in Havana of a British auto firm, is still held by police.

U.S. NAVY

have been testing hit - and - hit techniques against U.S. subs.

More than $100,000,000 has been allotted for remodelling the Second World War destroyers, submarines and other types of vessels, most of them for anti-sub work. This modernization program, begun in 1958, involves installing the latest search gear and kill - devices.

The navy has an active fleet of 817 ships — most of them remaining from the Second World War — and more than 8,000 planes. Forty - five per cent of the ships and 15 per cent of the planes are primarily devoted to anti - submarine tasks.

The navy has high hopes for the LAMPS system, which drone helicopter called DASH (device, automatic, small, helicopter). This small 'copter can be sent out after a "fix" is obtained on a sub and ordered to be able to drop a pattern of torpedoes on the target.

Then there is ASROC, which is a four - part system including underwater sonar, an electronic fire - control computer, an eight - missile launcher and the solid - fule missiles themselves.

CONTRAIL TORPEDOES

The 15 - foot ASROC missiles, designed for firing from either destroyers or cruisers, contain either acoustic homing torpedoes with high explosive warheads or depth charge with nuclear warheads.

They are estimated to be capable of destroying a nuclear sub at ranges up to about eight miles.

Another powerful weapon, still in development, is the SUBROC, a guided missile designed to be fired from torpedo tubes of a submerged submarine, or from the surface. It travels through the air to re - enter the water for the kill.

2 Unidentified Men Save Baby From Death

TORONTO (CP) — Two unidentified men plunged into a smoke- and flames-filled apartment Thursday night to rescue a two-month-old baby, then left without waiting for thanks.

Mrs. David Thomas, her son clutched to her, screamed outside her blazing apartment for someone to bring out her baby, Doris, fire-fighters said afterwards.

Then the strangers, both Negroes, pushed past her and ran up the smoke-filled stairway to snatch the child from its crib.

Mrs. Thomas said she was cooking in the kitchen when cries from Michael, 16 months, drew her attention to smoke and flames shooting through the baseboards. In her panic she grabbed only the boy and fled.

Mrs. Geo. Drew Lays Stone Of Musical Bldg.

TORONTO (CP)—The cornerstone of the new Edward Johnson Building, which will house the University of Toronto's faculty of music, was laid Thursday by Mrs. George Drew, wife of Canada's high commissioner to the United Kingdom.

Mrs. Drew is the daughter of Dr. Johnson, who left Canada to study music and became known as the great Italian tenor Eduardo di Giovanni. He later used his own name in the United States.

The $3,000,000 building will be opened next September. It includes an 840-seat opera theatre, classrooms, a chamber hall, rehearsal halls, an electronic music department and a music library.

PUC Considers Town Water, Sewage By-Law

TRENTON — Members of the Public Utilities Commission have considered a by-law recently passed by town council and its hearing on and application, if any, to two resolutions passed by the PUC.

Sparked by an application for town services from a builder who proposes to build a motel in the Queensway Hotel area, outside the town's borders, council passed a by-law a few weeks ago, the terms of which are such that the town will provide sewer services to builders in Murray or Sidney township, provided the builder signs an agreement to the effect that he will pay the difference between town taxes on his property and the tax levied by the township. Other stipulations in the agreement are that the builder will not oppose annexation and will pay a $100 deposit, which is, each year, to be applied against his tax charges.

Commissioner H. H. Hilton said that he thought a resolution, passed May 1, 1956 by the commission, guaranteeing water service to persons when an existing line runs past their property, provided that the owner would install the necessary water pipes and turn them over to the commission, was sort of a protection combined with the by-law passed by the town. He asked that the 1956 resolution be considered.

Mayor D. J. MacDonald explained that the town's solicitor had to do with sewer services only and had nothing to do with water. Mr. Hilton withdrew his suggestion to rescind the 1956 resolution. However, he asked that this resolution be combined with another resolution, passed later, and referred with the by-law passed by the town. He asked that the 1956 resolution be left alone.

However, he asked that this resolution be combined with another resolution, passed later, and referred with the by-law passed by the town. He asked that the 1956 resolution be left alone.

Commissioner Clifford A. Baker asked the mayor if the town was considering annexation, stating the northwest border. He said that there was a "mixed up situation" along the boundary. Mayor MacDonald told the commission that he thought annexation consideration was being given to the annexation of some part of that area.

J. H. Page and Mr. Hilton will attend the next meeting of the commission and make recommendations to the commission.

There was a general feeling that there was a need for land to carry heavy fire insurance on the Sterling plant and similar big stations, but that clauses giving coverage against such things as riots, explosions, hurricanes, damage caused by crashing aircraft should be left in the policy.

"It could happen here," said the mayor, "I remember the Hurricane Hazel."

It was reported that the commission had decided, at a special meeting, that specifications and tenders be up and sealed tenders be called for a transformer and switchgear.

Items which will receive further attention are the "Operation Eckimo", a sales blitz on electric freezers, sponsored by Canada Wire, an independent manufacturer and various commissioners, the 1961 budgets for the electric and water departments, and items to do with the employees' union.

Jury Attaches No Blame To Car Driver

TRENTON — A coroner's jury and eight elderly Edmund Charles Rutter, a resident of Edwards Street, died of multiple injuries March 30th when he was struck accidentally by a car.

The jury attached no blame to car driver Ronald Yarrow of Trenton.

Chief Constable F. J. Tyrrell and Inspector Robert Rutherford testified that in their opinion street lighting in the area of the accident was inadequate.

Inspector Rutherford said Mr. Rutter had been wearing dark clothing. Chief Taylor said the Attorney-General's laboratory had established that the alcohol content of Mr. Rutter's blood was 2.1 parts per 1,000.

Traffic Gordon Steenburg said he examined Mr. Yarrow's car and found it to be in safe operating condition. He said there was no evidence that Mr. Yarrow had been drinking. Mr. Yarrow testified that he had a clear mind at that time. years of driving he had never had an accident.

Mrs. J. Downs Heads Trenton Drama Group

TRENTON — At Wednesday night's meeting of the Trenton Drama Group, the following officers were elected for 1961-62: president, Mrs. Jean Boyce; vice-president, Mrs. George Boyce; secretary, Mrs. Roland Boyce; treasurer, Bill Wilkins; publicity, Mrs. James Dobby; production chairman, Mrs. Marion Hohener.

A play directed by Jim Alexander, entitled "Over and Over, Joan Rickards and Harry Hall, will be entered in the Ottawa play festival in May.

The local group will conduct a membership drive in the near future. Last year there were 36 paid-up members.

It was announced that last year was a successful season for the group. The members hope to have an active season this year.

Public Must Concern Itself With Pollution

TRENTON — Ralph Harris of Toronto, an oil company public relations officer, was the guest speaker at last night's meeting of the Kiwanis Club.

He said that while industry is a "giution" as far as water waste goes, that the public could be done by industry to clean up the water supply. Excess by its waste products, domestic sewage was the worst threat to the water, he said. The old theory that "nature would take care of the problem" no longer applied, because nature cannot work quickly enough to prevent pollution.

Mr. Harris said that there was not lack of evidence that the water shortage and pollution were serious problems and that governments, agencies, as well as conservation authorities were doing something about it, but he said that the individual should also concern himself with the problems and let the legislators know that he was behind the government's efforts and that he was willing to pay for it.

"There is no Santa Claus" said the speaker. "It is the responsibility and duty of this generation to do something for the generations to come."

The speaker was introduced by Dr. Ralph Deacon, chairman and thanked by John Saylor.

President Norman Davis announced that the Trenton Salvation Army Corps. Mr. Smith said that the Salvation Army in Trenton was grateful to the Kiwanis Club for its assistance. He said he anticipated that a door-to-door campaign for funds which the local corps will conduct on May 2, would be successful, as the club members were to be canvassing. Norman Campey is the chairman for the Kiwanis contribution.

Roberts pressing Britain's demands for an early end to the fighting in the tiny Southeast Asian kingdom, had a 45-minute meeting with George Pushkin, a Soviet deputy foreign minister in charge of Southeast Asian affairs.

Robertson met Thursday night with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and said his brought agreement was "very near."

UNIES PROGRAM

Britain, with American backing, has been urging Russia to join in a three-point program aimed at restoring peace in the jungle war between right-wing government forces and Communist-led leftists.

This calls:

1. For a joint cease-fire appeal by Britain and Russia, in their capacities as co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina.

2. For a revival of the Laotian truce supervisory commission—made up of India, Poland and Canada — to verify the cease-fire; and

3. For a 14-nation conference on the future of Laos, to be convened in Geneva May 5.

HARRIMAN'S VISIT

Russia has agreed in these points but has not publicly approved of the third. It demands that a cease-fire must precede an international conference.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, premier of Laos, said in a Moscow television broadcast Thursday night that he was convinced after his talks with President Khrushchev that Russia wanted Laos to be neutral and independent.

Meanwhile, Prince Souphanouvong, his half - brother and leader of the pro - Communist Pathet Lao guerrilla organization, arrived in Moscow Thursday for talks with Soviet officials.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lynch Happily Wed 60 Years

Sunday, April 16th, was a "day of remembrance" for Mr. and Mrs. William Lynch, 153 Church Street, as they observed the 60th anniversary of their marriage.

Commemorating the happy occasion, Mr. and Mrs. Lynch offered a Mass of thanksgiving in their parish church, the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, following which a reception was held in their honor in the Knights of Columbus Hall on Front Street.

Highlight of the reception was the family dinner when the happy couple were joined by their six children, 15 grandchildren and 15 great grandchildren and other relatives. Many friends called to extend best wishes and renew old acquaintances.

Mrs. Lynch is the former Delphina Frechette, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Prosper Frechette, while the groom of 60 years is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Lynch, all of this city.

WED IN 1901

The couple were married in 1901 by the Rev. Monsignor Farley.

Congratulatory messages in honor of the anniversary were received from Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, Premier Leslie M. Frost; W. Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A. for Hastings West; Lee H. Grills, M.P. for Hastings South; Mayor A. M. Haig, Police Chief Walter Probert.

The couple also received a framed scroll from Provincial Secretary Hon. John Yaremko, on behalf of the province.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynch also were the recipients of many beautiful flowers and other gifts.

Until his retirement Mr. Lynch was Fire Chief of the Belleville Fire Department.

Of the reception Sunday afternoon the tea table was attractively decorated with a lovely floral arrangement of white roses and 'mums, white tapering candles in silver candelabra and silver tea service.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. A. Ethier, Mrs. Fred Robinson, Miss Therese Donaghue, Miss Anna Lafferty, Mrs. Bronson and Mrs. C. Frechette.

In the evening Mrs. J. Legault, Mrs. Ethel Lee, Mrs. I. Holland and Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Johnson served while Miss Mary Jane Lynch supervised the guest book.

Guest attended from Ottawa, Watertown and Clayton, N.Y., Kingston, Tweed, Port Hope.

Serving tea were Mrs. Thomas Lynch, Jr., Mrs. William Johnson, Miss Margaret Donaghue, Mrs. A. Kinlee, Miss Betty Holland, Miss Mary Derwick, Misses Marjorie and June Lynch, Mrs. Roy Johnson, Mrs. Bill Lynch, Mr. Jim Lynch and Mr. Tom Lynch Sr.

Canadians Ignoramuses?

Professor Moffat Woodside of the University of Toronto recently described Canadians as a bunch of uneducated lazybones who are too smug to realize they are in trouble. He was addressing an alumni banquet on the West coast. Said Prof. Woodside: "Our influence and prestige is shrinking at a rapid pace but we stubbornly maintain the rest of the world has everything to learn from us and we have nothing to learn from it."

Before we condemn the professor of oversimplification or of dealing in abstract generalities we might note the facts on which he bases his statement. In supporting this theory that Canadians are unaware of the power shift from the West to the East he noted that Canadian students have no chance to study Chinese, Arabic, Russian, or Turkish alongside the old curricular regulars such as German, French and Spanish. A companion to this lack of oriental orientation on the subject of languages is a failure to provide adequate study in the history of the many eastern nations with their literatures and philosophies. This ignorance on the part of Canadians makes it difficult for us to see or understand these peoples' views.

Canadian education is too shallow, according to Professor Woodside, since it deals mostly in reading, writing and arithmetic and the mastering of educational specialties graduates, meet [illegible] during the early years of high [illegible]s a mere literacy which "is a liability [illegible] in assessing what is just exposes a [illegible] propaganda and advertising."

Finally, the professor explained, the older generation is setting a very poor example for the younger of today. "How can you expect a youngster to study hard if the father works seven or eight hours five days a week and spends the rest being entertained passively?" he queries.

When we examine these reasons there appears to be a certain amount of justification for Professor Woodside's criticisms of Canadians. We should not, however, only set the university level that this criticism should be levelled. The secondary school system, with its great numbers of students, appears to be centred on producing as many high school graduates as possible. This goal is a worthy one to be sure, but we can hardly say that it is being achieved when the standards for the provincial exams that only about 20 per cent of those entering high school ever graduate from grade 12, which must be considered a minimal satisfactory education in today's society.

The techniques employed, although they have improved considerably both in format and diversification of lines of study, still centre on the same old subjects which are required by the colleges and technical schools of ten and twenty years ago. There have been quite a few important changes even in that short time but we seriously doubt if ogs educational system is geared for little more than a preparation suitable for the period immediately following World War II.

The study of eastern civilizations in today's secondary school curricula is probably even less than that devoted to the study of Rome and Greece. Yet which, we may ask, is more important for Canadians if they are to adequately understand the world they live in today and the era which they will be living in for a number of years to come?

We must conclude that Professor Woodside's remarks are painfully true. We, as Canadians, know very little about the new centre of world affairs. We may be able to recite the battles of Napoleon or Bonaparte, the feats of Richard the Lion-Hearted. But what know we of Buddha or Shinto or Peter the Great or even Marx and Lenin?

In this respect we are, perhaps, ignoramuses.

We should not be.

Conditions Vary

The number of unemployed Canadians in mid-March was lower than the number without work in February. That is good news. But some reservations need to be made. Although the number of unemployed dropped by 14,000, the greater part of this decrease was the result in a fall in the size of the labor force. This declined by 10,000, while the number working increased only 4,000.

It is important, too, to note regional variations. In the Atlantic, Quebec and the Pacific region, the nation's main industrial areas, the size of the labor force declined and the number of jobs increased, in the Atlantic region a decline in the size of the labor force was fully offset by a decline in the number of jobs, while in the Prairie region, while there were 13,000 more jobs this was fully offset by an increase of 13,000 in the labor force.

Mboya Coolly Confident

Ottawa Journal

There was analytical calm to Mr. Tom Mboya's address to the Canadian Club. Some, having heard of his oratorical prowess, might have expected a fervid rhetorical appeal to the Canadian nation, they listened to quite a different kind of speech.

The most impressive part of it all was the way Mr. Mboya took for granted the inevitability of an African independence and eventually, unified, for that matter. There was no "ifs" or conditions, no doubt. "Self-determination" by "the indigenous peoples" (in contrast to the "European settlers") was not something to be argued any more; there was only the practical business of consolidating independence and making it work.

Consider too Mr. Mboya's coolness in assessing Africa's attitude towards the power bloc. He believes that its continent can keep out of the struggle of the Cold War, having no energies to expend on anything but its own problems. "Positive neutralism" was the phrase he repeated. Perhaps there was also a trace of idealism here. The Kenya leader believes it is possible for the African countries to maintain a simultaneous friendship with East and West. Such a person can "why we should be judged enemies of this camp if we are friends of that camp."

Perhaps there was more idealism in his life-enhancing concept of democracy shaped specially to African needs. Mr. Mboya said "in order to secure stability and good government," many African countries must rely on a single party system. The criterion for democracy would be the number of political parties but, he said, whether or not basic human rights are guaranteed. Theoretically one might assent both to this and to the possibility of working out new forms of democracy.

But it is one thing to talk of positive neutrality, another to maintain it. It is one thing to talk of adapting democracy to African needs (for any continent or country) must also be able to adapt itself to democracy. Mr. Mboya obviously has great confidence that Africa will succeed. The world can hope his trust is well placed.

German Wine Now Alcohol

Financial Post

Certain developments on the fine wine front deserve the close attention of connoisseurs, wearied winebibbers and all ordinary civilized folk.

What used to be the be-all and end-all of wine is beginning to "wear," that is, to change into alcohol. Restaurants are removing it from their wine lists. Even hostesses, in fact, refuse to drink it before dinner.

Germany is now awash with wine. Not only is it holding great stocks of the potent 1959 vintage, but the 1960 yield was so bountiful that it is being stored in amazing pools and plastic emergency tanks, according to the Times of London.

Couldn't Canadians help solve this problem of German abundance? Couldn't we, for example, ship Niagara and practicality by building fallout shelters in the form of wine cellars?

Remember this though, if the wines aren't coming: Don't forget that corkscrew.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

40 YEARS AGO

April 21st, 1921.

Complete mystery surrounds a terrible explosion, that was not only heard, but seen by Fire Chief Wm. Lynch at the Belleville Collegiate Institute late Friday night. Chief Lynch was proceeding along Church Street when he observed what appeared to be a small flame emerging from the south side of Collegiate building. He immediately started across the campus to investigate when there was a terrific and deafening explosion. A thorough search of the premises was made but no evidence of the debris was found. No explanation for the blast could be brought forth by the authorities today.

The fourth annual Spring Festival of St. Michaels Parish was brought to a successful conclusion last night and attracted a large representation of citizens of Belleville. Rt. Rev. J. F. Nicholson, M.C., V. G., expressed appreciation in all the kind words he spoke in the Festival, the purpose of which is to raise funds that was to build a convent. One-half of the parish he expressed profound appreciation for the kindness of the dear and gracious non-Catholic friends and neighbors who had so generously aided this enterprise, their co-operation materially lessening the spirit of friendship existing among the people in this beautiful city of Belleville.

A citizen in that section of the town, on ordinary barnyard rooster, and his neighbor, in his proud possessor of a game cock of high degree. Yesterday the two birds met, the former unexpectedly and to the surprise of the neighbor, the game cock put the bird of high pedigree out of business in one minute and three quarters. Zog's Deeds Like Name

Montreal Gazette.

The rather pathetic death of King Zog brings back memories of the flamboyance of the days when he was the ruler of that small, mountainous country of Albania.

People in Europe and North America showed an astonishing interest in this man at one time. Apart from the fact that the years between the two world wars were marked by the emergence of strutting bombastic dictators, there was King Zog because of his name - - - no like more astonishing "heroes" that stride the pages of the comic books.

He seemed to be a comic book superman and, in fact, like a man who made himself king, draped himself in comic uniforms and covered his chest with medals, wrestled with assassins, and flaunted his personality.

On one occasion, before he had named himself king, he entered parliament to make a speech. An opposition member pulled out a gun and shot him. He merely wrapped a handkerchief round his wound and proceeded to make his speech. On another occasion, he disarmed an assassin, beat him up, and handed him over to the police. What more could the comic books ask for?

Yet, on a more serious level King Zog grappled with a deadly problem as ruler of Albania. His small country was coveted by both Yugoslavia and fascist Italy. Eventually, the Italians invaded and conquered the country. But for years Zog was able to balance between the two countries, losing first to one and then to the other.

Now that era has passed. Albania is now ruled by the magnificent of the Communist satellite countries. The name of Zog faded, with only a few flourishes of the old flamboyance. He was already able to [illegible] Now some people may drag their memories back to reflect on his astonishing career.

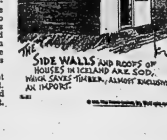
STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

LIFE AT ITS BEST



The English word "thrill" is derived from an Icelandic word meaning "serf." When a man in ancient times became a slave other lords sought to get him or through accumulation of wealth, some stood him again as at the door-post of his house and punctured the cartilage of his ear. This was called "thrilling the ear." The man after that was "a thirl," from which we get the English word "thrill."

All of which constitutes a helpful little parable! A thrill is generally coaled upon as a something quite desirable. We speak about thrilling experiences, and it is always intended to convey the idea of pleasure. But it means an exciting kind of pleasure. The derivation of the word leads us to see that a life made up of thrills is really not a happy life. There must be a life of service. These people are of little value either to themselves or to others. Life for them becomes an avid seeking after new and exciting experiences, and when a person gets to a place where that is the main object of his life, he is a slave indeed.

The way, to get the best out of life is to live it to the full. That will mean some less and sorrow, but triumph at the last.

The Sorrow Of 'Exclusive' Social Clubs

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

At dinner the other night, a member of an exclusive club was defending the club's policy of limiting its membership to white Anglo-Saxon Protestants with the proper prep school credentials.

"We want to be free to choose our associates in the club," he said, "and we think that this freedom of choice belongs with life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Now I have no objection if any private club or organization wants to limit its members to red-headed men with one leg and a maternal grandmother named Fortescue-Fortescue.

It is our privilege to be as silly or as exclusive or as narrow as we like. What I object to is calling this "freedom of choice" or "freedom of association." It is the exact opposite of these.

When a club arbitrarily limits its membership to one kind of person, it is not making a choice, but rather than granting it. It is cutting off from possible membership all those who, despite their high personal qualifications, do not happen to have one leg and a grandmother named Fortescue-Fortescue.

The members of the exclusive club actually have voted away their right to choose. No matter how much they may like and respect a man named Stallion-Fortescue-Fortescue, cannot associate with him in the intimacy of a club setting. They might invite an Einstein to talk to the group, but never to join it. The very fact that a person is not eligible for membership in exclusive clubs are so infernally dull—sameness inevitably leads to boredom.

It is also said by the proponents of the exclusive club that, after all, it is a "social" club, and should be run as one is really hurt by not being allowed to join for reasons of ethnic or religious background.

But this, too, is a delusion and a hypocrisy. The social club and the country club are much more than "social." They are where business associations start and where deals are made. A firm would be foolish to entrust to him an executive who would not be welcome in the city club or the country club—for he would be an unfair handicap to business success.

As I say, we have a right to be as foolishly "selective" as we like. But we must not try to cover up until our selectivity is on a par with the Nazi's search for an "aristocratic" as possible in terms of seeking the "best." What's the difference, after all, in seeking the best out of the widest possible base of candidates. To do less than this is to make a mockery of the whole democratic process.

Now that era has passed. Albania is now ruled by the magnificent of the Communist satellite countries. The name of Zog faded, with only a few flourishes of the old flamboyance. He was already able to [illegible] Now some people may drag their memories back to reflect on his astonishing career.

Arthritis Discomfort Varies In Intensity and Location

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have arthritis in my back. Do you think it advisable to have a cast, or would a good garment be suitable? — R. G. M."

It depends to a considerable degree on what kind of arthritis is involved. Let's take the type that's common after age 30 or so — osteoarthritis, which is a result of gradual changes in the bone spurs, with the wearing of the vertebrae becoming thickened. (A similar situation can occur in the fingers, producing knuckle or bumps at the joints below the tips.)

In this type of spinal arthritis, discomfort varies both in degree and location. It may be through the buttock area, or it may radiate down the leg as in sciatica, or it may be confined to some portion of the spine area.

In such cases, especially the latter, some good supporting garment usually helps considerably. This may range from a simple girdle to a reinforced steel steys. Some men can wear shorts with a broad elastic top that provides plenty of support comfort.

There are other side. A firm mattress, perhaps aided by a bed board sheet of plywood or the like between the box spring (not) often eases or prevents much of the pain that often you wake up in the morning.

Weight and posture are important, so trim off that fat if you are carrying some excess. Stand erect, walk erect, sit erect in a chair that gives your back some support.

Finally, rest is very important, exercise is extremely useful in this kind of arthritis. I don't mean that it has to be strenuous, but it should be such that it moves the joints through all the various directions in which they are supposed to move. Distortion results if you are persistently continues, besides which you may find that your muscles stiffen further stiffening of the joints.

Then there's rheumatoid arthritis, the inflamed, dangerous type that can attack persons of age or youth, and can deform fingers and hands, or cause severe spinal deformities. This type needs immediate and intensive medical care, and a cast may be required.

Since casts are cumbersome, garments or supports are better or similar supports are preferable except in severe cases.

Another cause of back ache may be a result of gout. Gout is caused by too much accumulation of just the big toe. In such cases, comfortable shoes and supports for the back may not be.

And as a further reminder, occasionally other diseases may play a part in back aches and spines — brucellosis, trichinosis, tuberculosis of the spine. These aren't common, in the sense that I just mention them so folks don't keep in the back of their minds the thought that preserving our health sometimes involves more than just a pill at a time. An aching back or "arthritis of the spine" may be [illegible] of some underlying disease.

THE PACKSACK
BY GREGORY CLARK

It was a good many years ago that the advertising profession learned that the mass people are worse than no words at all. This discovery led to the development of the modern art of advertising which consists of its best in the maximum effect with the minimum of words — a picture, a phrase: and that's it!

This refers, of course, to the printed word. When it comes to TV and radio advertising, the principle does not always work at all. Nagging rates very high in the estimation of the advertising specialists who write the commercials. If the nagging commercial, and the singing commercial, which is nagging of a worst, were not successful, they would never have been abandoned some years ago. The nagging has been developed by adhered to, at enormous cost by the advertising profession is of advertising which are effective.

Public advice and literature nagging has been condemned as one of the major evils. The nagging wife, the nagging husband, the nagging boss have provided the basis of a thousand tragedies and comedies. But maybe we have been wrong. Maybe nagging is the thing that makes the wheels go round in real life as in TV and radio.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TOO MUCH

The epitaph on the tomb of tragedy is — Too Much!

The ordinary physician could easily diagnose nearly every one of his cases by the simple phrase — Too Much.

People worship too long before superlatives. Too much applause, too much attention, too much pleasure, too much money, too many cocktails parties.

There can be too much of anything.

Splendid living lies in a balanced plan. Play is essential to sound work. Too much business can kill the good father, and too much house cleaning stops the idea of love in a home.

There is too much talk of war — "cold" and "hot."

It is possible to read too much, to think too much, to work too much, to love too much. Excess is the cruelest sneak thief in the world.

Trust the man with a healthy hobby. Select for your friend that one who does not think too much of himself.

Beware of the person who talks too much!

They say you cannot have too much of "a good thing." But you can. Too much deadens and destroys. It takes away all appreciation.

Even a hero's life is shrouded with obscurity. He whom we acclaim today as a young hero now may be passed unnoticed on the street tomorrow.

Most of the great of the earth are remembered by but a few years.

Try not to do too much. Try not to be too much.

There is at least one reservation, however. You cannot give too much of what you are — or love too much.

WILL NOT

ibility that another invasion operation of the kind that failed to achieve its primary objective this week might be mounted by the Cuban Revolutionary Council at some future time.)

TALKS TO NIXON

A few hours after the president's speech the White House announced that he had conferred for 75 minutes in late afternoon with former vice-president Richard Nixon, his Republican opponent in the presidential campaign last year. The announcement said he wanted to bring Nixon up to date on Cuba and other problems, including the crisis in Laos.

While House press secretary Pierre Salinger said that in critical times it is customary for the president to talk with opposition leaders. That particularly includes members of Congress, Salinger said.

The White House also disclosed that Wednesday afternoon the president had held a secret meeting with chairman Jose Miro Cardona and five members of the Cuban Revolutionary Committee.

Miro Cardona asked the president to use his influence with the Organization of American States to prevent the execution of men captured by Castro.

Miro Cardona also asked that the president act through the OAS to try to assure the captured men adequate medical attention.

ARE DISAPPOINTED

Kennedy virtually conceded in his speech to the editors that the invasion, which had the moral support of the U.S. government, had proved a severe disappointment to officials here. He said the news from Cuba "has grown worse instead of better."

He also said that if the United States ever had to intervene directly it would not "expect or accept the same outcome which this small band of gallant Cuban refugees must have known they were standing."

Crushing of the rebel beachhead raised the question of whether there had been bungling in military planning. To that end had American military experts been involved in the weekend invasion secret?

Kennedy said there had been no military intervention by the U.S., but last night changed this to "armed forces" instead of military. He made clear his sympathies were with the rebels, depicting the Cuban affair as a "struggle of Cubans patriots against a Cuban dictator."

Perhaps an indication that American intelligence had been weak in the Caribbean is the Kennedy statement at now it is clear to him "that the forces of communism are not to be underestimated in Cuba or anywhere in the world."

One Cuban exile suggested that Kennedy had blundered by stating in advance of the struggle that the U.S. would not intervene.

Emilio Nunez Portuondo said this may have been one reason why there was little evidence of defection among Cubans to the side of rebels when fighting began. Cubans would not put much faith in the strength of a rebel force standing alone.

Rebel Radio Broadcasting From Mountains

MIAMI (AP)—A new rebel radio station reported to be located in the Escambray Mountains in Cuba began broadcasting Thursday that anti-Castro forces which entered Cuba last weekend had carried out their mission.

The station, which identified itself as Radio Escambray Libre (Free Escambray) said the invading forces in the mountains reinforcing guerrillas who have been holding out there for months under the command of Maj. Eville Duque and Maj. Osvaldo Ramirez.

The anti-Castro revolutionary council in New York had reported a linkup with those holdouts by invading units.

certainty."

Heydrich was quoted as telling the group at Wannsee:

"The remnant (of Jews) able finally to survive all this . . . must be given treatment accordingly, because these people, representing a natural selection, are to be regarded as the germ-cell of a Jewish rehabilitation should they be allowed to go free."

Eichmann said he attended this conference. But he represented himself as little more than a glorified secretary and that not speak at the conference.

The tape testimony showed that Eichmann continually said the responsibility for a given action, against the Jews belonged with some other department than his. He repeatedly said the initiation of the actions came from "higher authorities" or that what was done on the spot was the work of "local authorities."

"I am guilty of complicity, of course, I am guilty as an accomplice, I cannot absolve myself from that nor make excuses."

Eichmann said if he had taken part in the actual extermination program 2,400,000 more Jews would have died during the Nazi reign.

"I myself did not kill," the former chief of the Nazi Jewish affairs department said. "For otherwise 6400,000 would not have been found again when the counting took place. . . ."

VICTOR SAVED SOME

Less, crediting the allied victory for the Jewish survival, he said: "If the war had gone on longer, then these 2,400,000 too would probably have no longer been alive."

Eichmann maintained he was only concerned with the transport of Jews and was not connected in any way with the actual extermination program which claimed some 6,000,000 victims.

The killing of Jews was Hitler's order and "orders from the fuehrer had the power of law."

The Boy Scout Ladies' Auxiliary of 1st Cannifton Corbyville met recently in Cannifton Church Sunday School rooms.

The president, Mrs. Furmidge ,reported Mrs. Middleton had 22 scarfs ready to hand in, and secretary, Mrs. Brownson read an invitation to the Regional Conference, at Campbellford High School, April 22 from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Furmidge, Mrs. Hanna and Mrs. Pope planned to attend. Mrs. Furmidge announced that on May 1st a First Aid film would be shown to the Cubs and Scouts.

The mothers made plans for lunch. Thank-you letters were read by Mrs Brownson from Mrs. Hanna, Mrs. Holgate, Mrs. Pope and Mrs. Thorton

Plans were made for a cuchre to be held in Corbyville later on, the ladies donating prizes.

Mrs. Furmidge announced that May 10th a pot-luck supper would be held in Eastminster Church in Belleville. This is an annual event for all Belleville District Auxiliaries and it is hoped all members will attend.

Mrs. Furmidge thanked the conveners for lunch for the going-up ceremony.

It was reported that many in the group who have been ill recently were remembered by the Auxiliary.

Mrs. Furmidge gave a lovely reading on Scouting.

Many thanks Mrs. George Shorey for this report.

trumped-up incidents of patronage" alleged out of 1,000 appointments a year, Mr. Hamilton said.

He spoke at length on plans for machines to handle some postal work and denied Liberal suggestions that such planning might interfere with postal job opportunities at a time of high unemployment.

"We are not in the process of jamming in machines and equipment at a great rate," he said.

He still felt it would take five years to develop suitable machinery such as sorting machines and another five to introduce them without displacing manpower.

An annual staff turnover between seven and 12 per cent should permit this.

TWO DIE IN CRASH

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Francis Fowler, 39, whose wife gave birth to their 10th child in a Niagara hospital Wednesday was one of two men killed Thursday in a head-on highway collision seven miles east of here. The other victim of the Trans-Canada Highway crash was John Kapulica, 22, of Toronto and Port Arthur.

Sunday School Lesson

Life Is an Inside Job

By ROY L. SMITH

Life furnishes each of us the materials out of which we fashion our careers, our characters, and our championships. But we furnish the motives, the attitudes, and the goals.

The Book of Genesis says that God created the heavens and the earth, and then it goes on to say that God gave each of us the power to make choices and decisions, and it is these that make life.

A certain amount of fortune, good and bad, comes to each one of us. But upon each of us there rests the obligation to make something eternal out of them. All of us, doubtless, know those who seem to have discovered the secret for making success out of difficulties, and those others who have made shipwrecks out of opportunities.

As a wise old Negro maid remarked to a patient in the sanitarium, "I've been working here for ten years, and I have learned that it makes all the difference in the world what kind of environments a person's got inside of them."

THAT'S ALL THEY HAD

The hard working father of a rather numerous family died, leaving behind him a huge fortune, or a respectable estate. But he had been so busy making money that he had never had time to make men out of his sons.

Within the space of less than ten years three of the boys had run through their inheritances. One of the daughters had married a ne'er-do-well who thought he was "marrying into money." And the fifth member of the family, though still in possession of his money, had lost his home, his good name, and his own self-respect.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for April 23, "WHEN HUMAN WISDOM FAILS," Job 4: 1-9; 5:8-16; 11: 1-20; 21; 33; 14-24.

"They had everything, but they lost it, because they didn't have anything inside of them," was the way a humble man of the neighborhood described their end. Yet there had been a time when they had laughed at the warnings of their pastor and when they had bidden their religious friends a hot and cynical farewell.

They had everything out of which they could have made a great life, but all they had to show for their money or their years were great tragedies.

In every case it had been an inside job!

This week's lesson consists of scraps of a conversation between Job, the wise man, and some of his frivolous admirers. Their advice has been so pitifully silly, so short-sighted, and so devoid of all godly spirit of eternal wisdom. He calls it "empty nothings."

A long procession of expensive cars filed slowly down Michigan Boulevard, each one piled high with gorgeous floral tributes. Drivers were in uniform, and passengers were in top hats and striped trousers. It was gangland's last tribute to a slain mobster.

That evening in the newspapers there appeared big pictures of the little people who rode in the procession, and editors commented on their editorial page concerning the temper of the times that permitted the gangsters to live.

Back in expensive flats, probably, grieving survivors pasted up newspaper clippings, filed letters of sympathy, and made lists of those to whom proper acknowledgments were to be sent later.

It was all empty nothings. The gangster's day was done, his name was excoriated, his sons were doomed to disgrace, and his money was to be divided between the lawyers.

And for all this a life had been spent!

The accounts of life are never settled until the last bill has been paid, and sometimes that is a shocking thing to contemplate.

No man can hope to get through a world as complex as ours a life as unrelated and unbalanced as the one we have to live, without the wisdom that comes from God. Only with such wisdom are we able to distinguish between the true and the temporary values of life.

Cancer Society Forms New Branch

FRANKFORD — The Frankford branch of the Trenton and district unit of the Canadian Cancer Society has decided that "Cancer Week" will be held during the last week in April. There will be a door to door canvass Monday, April 24, in the village of Frankford.

The following is a list of the committee of the Frankford branch: president, Mrs. J. C. McDonald; secretary, Mrs. G. Bancroft; treasurer, Mrs. D. McDonald; education, Mrs. B. Brown; women's service, Mrs. R. Rowe; bandaging, Mrs. H. Abbott; transportation, Mrs. J. Riley; campaign chairman, Mr. B. J. Williamson; assistant, Mrs. J. C. Goff.

Anyone interested in the newly-formed branch of the Canadian Cancer Society can receive information from any of the above committee.

H.S. Board Appoints New Sec.-Treasurer

TWEED — At a special meeting of the Centre Hastings High School Area Board, held last Thursday night John R. Bancroft, Tweed, was appointed to succeed the late G. C. Moore as secretary-treasurer of the board.

Mr. Bancroft is office and sales manager of the Consumers' Veneers Ltd.; a position he has held for the past two years. Previously he was the cost accounting department of Stewart-Warner Ltd., Belleville, for five years. Before coming to Tweed, Mr. Bancroft lived in Oakville and was manager of a branch office for James A. Cooke Motors in Toronto.

He will take over his new post on a part time basis immediately, but will carry on the secretary-treasurer since the Centre Hastings area has established. It is understood that there were nine applicants for the position.

Mr. Bancroft is married to the former Mary Spencer, Oakville, and they have a son, Blue Costigan" a popular tournament sweeper service, Mrs. R. Rowe; bandaging, Mrs. H. Abbott; transportation, Mrs. J. Riley; campaign chairman, Mr. B. J. Williamson; assistant, Mrs. J. C. Goff.

Anyone interested in the newly-formed branch of the Canadian Cancer Society can receive information from any of the above committee.

Dr. A. C. Forrest Tells WMS Of Impressions of the East

"The Christian Church today is shrinking while the world is throbbing with revolutions; the Communists are determined to recapture every revolution, and intend to take over," stated the Reverend A. C. Forrest, editor of the United Church Observer as he addressed the Women's Missionary Society at the annual dessert luncheon yesterday afternoon in Bridge Street Church Sunday School assembly rooms.

Dr. Forrest's address was introduced by the Reverend Harry M. Davis, has travelled extensively in Japan, Africa, India and Cuba, gave some pertinent facts of life in the Far East and his impressions gained thereby which were both startling and challenging.

When he landed from the plane in Ghana, Africa, the people came out from the grass jungle, their little children shielding the effects of enthusiastic hunger with protruding stomachs, sunken eyes and spindly legs; similar in Cuba, India and the West are surfeited with food and the luxuries of life.

There is much sickness, disease and illiteracy. When he arrived at Nigeria alarge the difference was evident, here the plane was sprayed with insect exterminator, the disease carrier was treated with marked certainty, but the conflicting districts the people want to learn to read, to become something.

What is the role of the missionaries to carry the Gospel; to teach, to evangelize, to heal. Heretofore the Christian Church was a most revolutionary force, it was noted that then the Christian Church grew through adversity, but in times of plenty it has dwindled. The people in the underdeveloped world need evangelizing both spiritually and physically. In Accra he found the rich were rich indeed and the poor poor indeed; little children asking by sign motion for a crust of bread, begging for a morsel of food.

One day Dr. Forrest went for a walk for about 4 to 5 hours' along the city streets, where people are sleeping, covered in the hot sun; and little children dirty and ragged everywhere. Feeling hungry he went to a roof garden, with its fine cuisine dinners, gleaming silver, and sparkling crystal where he had a steak dinner for $3., and just a mile or two away, people hungry, and poor and miserable. They did not care so much for themselves, but they wanted their children to have a chance, to have a chance.

Mentioning Cuba he stated that the revolution in the beginning was a needed one. Anyone not siding with the government cannot leave the political party, and return to former occupation, he is just shot.

TWO ROOM SHACKS

Not far from the city of Havana, the people live in two-room shacks and two families they have no meat, and can scarcely afford bread, worn out of the 12. In Oriente province there was no doctor until recently when a friend of Dr. Forrest came to help. The people simply deluged him with pleas for help for their little ones, even Sundays were no rest days for the doctor. One case he described was of a little one the father had carried three or four miles to the doctor, to be treated. The doctor asked that if the little one should become sick at its stomach, to bring it back immediately. The father returned, but it did come sick, but the father waited till dusk, and when the child arrived, there was nothing that could be done to save its life.

A lot of the sickness is due to the ignorance of people who do not know how to ask for help, and never had a doctor. They have a doctor, but have no funds for vegetables; and no coverage, if they were provided these things they might become independent and start a livelihood.

Dr. Forrest said he wished he was sure God would take care of Dr. Forrest, and of himself; but God does not take care of things, but through His Christian Church. In China in early times, there were Christians; but today, there is persecution; in Japan when the Japanese left, the missionaries left, and when they returned, then disappeared. God always works through His fiactful people.

In Russia no Christian may teach at university, and no Christian may be a teacher.

WHAT MUST BE DONE

What must the Church do about this? The answer is simple, what God is doing, is doing the work of your Christ and your people. Even in Africa what has been able to get along, will say, "a mission-ary." Africa is the field for the school; a mission board says we are not growing is due to Christian misattories.

Something must be done to touch the hearts of the people to bring them up to give a few years of Christian duty every year. Dr. Forrest suggested they will do more to witness for Christ, than most of the years because than most of the money we give; the meetings we attend. The call of prayer and sacrifice for the Church, is to give, and give more than ever before in his challenging address. "Can we whose souls are light-ed with wisdom from on high,

Can we by men benighted the lamp of life deny?"

Dr. Forrest was thanked by Mrs. Davis, who also extended, thanks to Mrs. Dallas, convener of the delightful dessert luncheon which followed Dr. Forrest's message.

Those at the head table were: Dr. A. C. Forrest; the Rev. H. M. Davis and Mrs. Davis, the Rev. Dr. J. Bragg and Mrs Sherwin; Mrs. N. C. Carson and Mrs. W. G. Anderson.

Split music was provided throughout the luncheon given by Mrs. Barclay. The tables were tastefully and attractively adorned with lovely floral arrangements.

Those taking part in the luncheon included the following: Mrs. A. Bell, Dr. C. G. Hibbard, Mrs. C. B. Morgan; treasurer — Mrs. M. C. Hodge. Mrs. H. Rollins; publicity Mrs. F. C. Hastings County W.A. Visits County Home

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Hastings County Home for the Aged was held in the library room at the home on Monday, Mrs. M. Leslie, president, Mrs. A. Daniels was absent and Mrs. R. Wallbridge acted as recording secretary.

Mrs. W. Kempston and Mrs. R. Ray reported the travelling tea and sewing which is popular with the residents. Mrs. G. Day, convener of entertainment, said 23 birthday cards to the residents for March.

Mrs. R. Archer mentioned the Kiwanis theatre party last week for the residents and expressed deep gratitude to Mr. Fred Rawson for supplying transportation.

There was a discussion regarding the bazaar in October and the convener appointed for the various sale tables.

Everyone assembled in the large dining room to join the residents for the usual birthday tea.

Mrs. Townson and Miss Latham poured tea while several ladies served birthday cake and cookies.

The general meeting will be May 15 at 2.15 p.m.

C.A.R.S. E.A. Plans Future Events

The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to C.A.R.S. was held at the home of the Misses Rita and Gladys Mae donald with the president, Mrs. Jarvis presiding.

It was reported that the bake sale had been a real success, thanks to the many friends of the Society who had sent cookies. Mrs. Ross Mac Donald, who had so kindly given the use of his store for this purpose.

Tentative plans were made for a meeting in June to acquaint more women with the work of the Society and a motion was made and carried to present to the Women of the Moose for the use of the room for the meeting.

Miss Miller, physiotherapist, spoke briefly of her work.

The next meeting will be spent making plans for the rummage sale, question of location sale to be held the end of the month. Donations of rummage and furniture were being constantly received and it was hoped that by the next meeting would equal the donating one. The meeting adjourned to enjoy a social period with refreshments served by Mrs. Hume and Mrs. Stock.

RAWDON — Mrs. Burton Morton was a guest of St. Paul's Sunday W.A. on Tuesday evening and gave a delightful talk "The Life of Pauline Johnson," the Indian poetess. Mrs. Morton also recited "The Cattle Thief." Mrs. Percy MacMillen gave a reading entitled "The Pilot of the Plains," which is considered one of Miss Johnson's best loved songs.

Mrs. William Morton was in charge of the program and introduced these two ladies. Later she voiced thanks and presented each with a gift.

The program included a devotional from Revelations and

SOCIAL PORTION

Bridge, euchre, dancing and a social session were then enjoyed by all. Prizes for the euchres were given as cook prizes, bridge and euchre prizes and spot dances.

Ladies' Night at Moira Lodge No. 71 is always an interesting and entertaining event and this year proved to be no exception to the high standard entertainment committee, under the chairmanship of Bro. Claire Faulkner, Bro. Ken Hinchcliffe assisted on as other job well done.

Ladies Business Bowling League Enjoys Banquet

The Ladies Business League completed their bowling season with their annual banquet in the Genesta Room.

The ladies of the church served a most delicious turkey dinner with all the trimmings, which every bowler enjoyed to the full.

Each team was presented with prize money according to their final standing, with the "Hit a Mrs." team getting most of the league captained by Rose Locke.

The high average was won by Margaret Fairbairn, the high triple by Violet Christopher and the high single by Betty Vince. The bowlers will all be looking forward to next season.

The new slate of officers for other good season next year, 1961-62 are, pres. Helen Haddick, vice pres. Lil Summers, secretary Win Smith and treasurer Jean Spencer.

'Motor-Safety' Talk at H-S

Motor Safety was the feature topic at the regular meeting of S. S. No. 2, Ameliasburg, Home and School Association held on April 10th. Mr. Chief Frost, Safety Committee chairman, Belleville, was guest speaker, the R.C.A.F. Lecture, entitled, "Do You Drive Safely?" and "The Fatal Second". Both films were designed to stress the responsibility that drivers have to others and themselves to drive safely at all times, and point out the consequences of "danger signs" on the road are not always heeded by traffic authorities, but are by other signs like toys and bicycles. Both films gave clear evidence that small children are playing nearby. A moment of relaxation at the wheel is the part of a driver could lead to the death, or injury of many that could never be erased.

H-S POOL LIST

During the meeting, lists for prospective pupils were in force to drive their children to the Belleville Y.M.C.A. to attend the swimming pool. Mrs. Fairbairn and those wishing Children's Art Classes to be instructed by Mrs. Dolly Cain for the week during the summer, were distributed for consideration. It was decided to give some form of recognition to the graduating pupils who have taken part, they will be announced later. The Secretary, Mrs. Earl Sweet, gave a report on the Belleville Home and School Council meeting on the most discussion. "The Role of the Parent in Education."

The Ways and Means Committee, under the chairman, Mr. Ian Moore presented plans for a social evening of Bridge, Euchre and Cribbage at the school (Redeservice) on April 26th at 8.00 p.m. and the admission will be 50 cents per son. There will be many prizes and refreshments will be served.

The program committee has arranged with Dr. G. H. Craig to give an illustrated talk on "Water Safety", which will be presented at the annual meeting held at the school on May 10th. Craig's topic is one of utmost importance, especially this time of year, when the holiday season is approaching. He will give a demonstration of artificial respiration, which is the work of the association. It is the general feeling that every parent in the nature should be attended by everyone who is interested in saving a life. Non-members will be welcome.

Bethlehem White Shrine Installs 1961-62 Officers

On April 13th one of the highlights of the Bethlehem White Shrine of Jerusalem, No. 11, took place in the IOOF hall, Belleville when Sr. Katherine Bullock, Matchless Queen, assisted by High Priestess, with Sr. Doris Elvidge, Chaplain, Sr. Lillian of Shepherds, amidst a setting of gold and white blooms and ferns.

Gifts to the incoming, WHP, Sr. Ruth Warren Armstrong, retiring WHP, presented at the meeting. Many out-of-town guests were present.

Before retiring WHP Mar-ion Armstrong presented each of her officers with a gift and in return was presented with a dinner ring, the gift of the Shrine for her year. Her niece, Sol. H. Armstrong, had the honor of presenting her with her PWHP jewel and Sol. J. Armstrong presented her with Mrs. Armstrong with his PWOS pin.

The ceremony of installation was very beautifully performed by the installing board, headed by Sol. Martha Armstrong, assisted by the following staff:

2ND THURLOW — A delicious turkey dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Houston, Shannonville to observe their 50th anniversary.

The guests who attended were: Mrs. Bruce Reid; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Grills; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Grills; Mrs. Will Grills; Gray; and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grills, all of Friends and neighbors called in the afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Houston was the former Pearl Grills daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Grills of the 2nd of Thurlow and is a lifelong resident of the district. Mr. Houston also of the 2nd of Thurlow.

On April 12th, 1911, Arthur Houston and Pearl Grills were united in marriage at the home of the bride by the Rev. W. T. Wilson. They were both members of St. Paul's Church where they both attended. Their only attendant was Pearl's sister the bride's youngest sister, Mrs. William Reid (Nellie) of Rawdon. The wedding music was played by the bridegroom's cousin, Mrs. Ernest Reid (Kathie) of Ivanhoe.

Following the honeymoon in Toronto they returned together new home on the 2nd of Thurlow, where they farmed for 15 years before moving to Shannonville due to the ill health of Mr. Houston, where they now reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Houston have one daughter, Mrs. Wilfred (Ina Reid) one grandson, George Reid and a great granddaughter Jill all of Belleville.

A large number of cards graced the living room from well-wishers and friends. A lovely pot of 'mums was received from the W.A. and the W.M.S. of the church. Other lovely gifts were presented to them.

several poems and music.

At the close, refreshments were served and Mrs. Don Williams expressed thanks.

INVITATIONS FOR THE INFORMAL OCCASION

Informal invitations are more generally used today than the formal. With summer just around the corner, they will be more than ever in evidence. Informal cocktail gatherings are popular, as are Sunday brunches and suppers — all to be held in the garden, if you are lucky enough to have one! Even a little postage-stamp back yard will suffice for these entertainments. Of course, the favorite of "get-at-it" during the summer months, is the cook-out.

How to extend invitations for these informal get-togethers! It is very simple, really. If the group is to be a small one, a telephone call is the best way to handle it. If quite a number are to be asked, a brief note, a calling card, or a fold-over "informal" card, which is a little larger than the calling card, may be used.

The folded-over "informal" is perhaps the easiest one to use. It may be engraved on the outside as follows: "Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harold Dow," with the address also engraved in the lower right-hand corner. Or the plain white fold-over card may be used, with the name and address handwritten. The invitation itself is written inside.

One a calling card (which also should contain the address in the lower right-hand corner) the invitation is written across the top.

There are no actual rulings with regard to the wording that should be placed on these cards when ordering or making your friends. The usual approach is somewhat as follows:

(Always handwritten, never typed) "Sunday Brunch, May 14th, at 12:30 o'clock." Figures may be used, rather than spelling them out as you would on the formal invitation.

It is perfectly proper these days to ask for an acknowledgment. This is accomplished by placing the initials "R.s.v.p." in the lower left-hand corner. These initials are from the French "Repondez, s'il vous plait," meaning "Please reply."

Those replying to these invitations may also use a note, calling card or fold-over "formal." If the calling card is used, the answer is written by hand — across the top of the card— and is worded somewhat like this: "Looking forward so much to seeing you on Sunday, May 14th, at 12:30 o'clock." This should be placed on the inside of the folded-over card.

Question — My daughter recently gave birth to a beautiful baby girl. She is anxious to send an announcement, particularly to friends who live in other cities, but is afraid those receiving it will think she is asking for a present. What is your opinion on this subject? — Mrs. L. H. M., Boulder, Colo.

Answer — By all means send the announcement. Those receiving them are in no way obligated to send a gift. They may do so, or not, as they wish.

MARSH HILL W.M.S.

MARSH HILL — The Easter thank-offering meeting of Marsh Hill W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Harold Detlor with 12 members and one girl present.

Mrs. Allyn Finkle, president, opened the meeting with a reading, "Easter Morning."

Three members contributed to the birthday box.

The members were asked to bring an article for the bale to the next meeting.

Mrs. Frank Finkle gave a reading on "Stewardship" and Mrs. E. B. Finkle readings on "World Peace" and "Temperance."

The members received sending 30 cards and making two calls and four hospital visits. Mrs. Allyn Finkle read a letter from Miss Leah Rodgers, missionary for prayer.

Mrs. Walter Lindenfield presided over the worship service, the theme being "Known Him The Lord of Life," which had been prepared by Dr. Winnifred Thomas.

Mrs. Harold Detlor favored with a solo, "Low In the Grave He Lay," accompanied by her daughter, Miss Gwenda Detlor.

Mrs. Walter Lindenfield read "First Easter" and Mrs. Walter Lindenfield gave the chapter from the study book, "New Ways of Speaking."

After the benediction, the hostess served refreshments.

W.M.S. WORKSHOP

Miss Marion R. J. Thomson, B.A., a graduate of the United Church Training School in Toronto, and field secretary of the W.M.S., who will be conducting workshops for leaders and interested workers in C.G.I.T., Explorers, Mission Band and Baby Band groups, will be at Foxboro United Church April 26 from 9.30 a.m. to 4.00 p.m. for the East and West Belleville sections of the Presbyterial.

POPULAR HOSTESS — Mrs. George Drew, Canada's first lady to Ontario since 1957, hosts rest and gaiety to the formalities of diplomatic life.

In her Mayfair home, the wife of Canada's high commissioner to London entertains royalty, ambassadors, politicians and scores of visiting Canadians. Here she arranges flowers for one of her popular receptions. (CP from AP).

Mrs. George Drew Known In U.K. as Wonderful Hostess

By CAROL KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Canada's first lady in the United Kingdom is a friendly, vivacious woman ideally suited by temperament and background for the role.

"She's a wonderful hostess," is one of the comments often heard in diplomatic and press circles about Mrs. George Drew, wife of the Canadian high commissioner.

"The best we've ever had," says Lady Baxter, wife of Canadian - born Sir Beverley Baxter, who has spent a quarter of a century in British politics.

Florenza Drew has had almost four years of entertaining various diplomats and visiting Canadians but her zest for meeting people is as high as ever. Receptions in the lofty first-floor drawing room of the Drews' Mayfair home go with the swing of a family party.

Being a hostess comes naturally to the slender Mrs. Drew who has been filling the role since before the days when her husband was Ontario's premier and later national leader of the Progressive Conservatives.

GOT EARLY START

Her mother died when she was 8. Her father, the late Edward Johnson of Guelph, Ont., was a coffee general manager of the Metropolitan Opera and often had to entertain distinguished guests, Young Florenza—the name is Italian for Florence where she was born—learned social arts at an early age.

She finds her social round in London not much different from her experience in Ottawa, except that she has to plan her parties weeks in advance. Londoners tend to keep appointment books months ahead.

The Drews give a Royal dinner about once a year.

"The Queen is the perfect guest," says Mrs. Drew. "She is always so gay and relaxed. The Drews' 17 - room, five - storey West End house is a home away from home for Canadians in London.

"Would you believe it—I meet more Canadians here than I ever did in Canada," she says.

Recently the Drews gave a reception for Canadian actors, singers and musicians working in London. Mrs. Drew was touched by the flood of thankyou notes she received afterwards.

One man wrote: "We Canadians are not clannish but it's so nice for us all to get together sometimes."

GAVE UP OPERA

Mrs. Drew is keenly interested in the arts and regrets that her engagement book rarely leaves a free evening for the opera or theatre. Before her marriage in 1932 she toyed with the idea of becoming an opera singer, following in the footsteps of her father, a great tenor.

"But I'd have had to sing like an angel to make the Metropolitan," she laughs.

She is widely travelled and speaks Italian, German and French fluently, with a smattering of Portuguese and Spanish. Italian was her first language.

She runs her elegant London home with a staff of five. Her Scots cook, Agnes Mitchell, has been with the family for 23 years. The furniture and decorations, an easy blend of period and modern, reflect her own mixture of dignity and informality.

The Drews have two children — Sandra, a poised and friendly 21, and Edward 23, a Toronto businessman. Sandra was married a year in Ottawa to a London banker, and now lives five minutes' walk from her parents' house near Hyde Park.

QUESTION:

I wrote to you a short time ago asking for a recipe for Dad's cookies. I went to thank you for the recipes you sent, I tried the molasses cookie recipe but it did not turn out to be what I wanted.I am sending you a sample cookie from the bake shop which is the kind I would like a recipe for. If you do not appear to have as much or maybe you no molasses, I you could help me out with this problem I would appreciate it very much . . Mrs. A. B.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

FRIDAY

Tomato and Clam Juice Cocktail; Breaded Smelts with Sauce Tartare; Creamed Carrots; Frenched Green Beans; Rice Pompadour (see Thursday); Coffee.

ANSWER:

Okay then, try the two that follow.

OLD-FASHIONED COOKIES:

2-4 cups shortening, 1-2 cup white sugar, 1-2 cup brown sugar, 3 tablespoons honey, 1 egg, 2 cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking soda, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cup dessicated cocoanut.

Cream shortening, then cream sugars into it. Mix remainder in order given. Form into uniform balls and roll in granulated sugar, place on greased cookie sheets, press flat with fork. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. (so they will not brown too much), for about 12 to 15 minutes. Makes about 3 1-2 dozen.

CRISP COOKIES:

1-2 cup sifted flour, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup brown sugar, 1-2 cup granulated sugar, 1-2 cup shortening, soft, 1 egg, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup dessicated cocoanut, 1-2 cup Scotch oatmeal (not rolled oats).

Sift together flour, soda and salt into bowl. Add sugars, shortening, egg and vanilla. Beat until smooth, about 2 minutes. Stir in oatmeal and cocoanut. Shape into balls and roll in granulated sugar and place on greased cookie sheet. Press with fork to flatten. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 10 to 13 minutes.

QUESTION:

Do you have a recipe for Ginger Marmalade? What I would like is the ginger alone . . . Mrs. G. M. G.

ANSWER:

I am sorry to disappoint you, but I cannot locate a recipe for ginger marmalade alone. I will give you one calling for oranges and lemons and ginger and hope some of our readers will send in the specific recipe you are seeking.

ORANGE GINGER MARMALADE:

(repeated from September 3, 1959).

Peel off skins in quarters close to the pulp from 4 oranges and 2 lemons. Break up pulp and remove seeds. Add 1 cup water and simmer in covered saucepan for 45 minutes. Boil rind from oranges and lemons with 5 cups water in covered saucepan for 20 minutes. Drain and discard water. With spoon scrape out white part of skins, leaving only yellow rind. Shred yellow rinds just as thinly as possible in pieces about 1" long. Simmer shredded rinds again in 5 cups water in covered saucepan for 15 minutes. Drain and discard water. Mix cooked pulp with rinds. Measure 4 cups of mixed rind and pulp. Add 2 cups chopped preserved ginger and 6 cups sugar and mix well. Stir constantly and bring to vigorous boil over high heat. Boil hard for 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, add 1-2 cup liquid pectin. Stir well, let stand 3 minutes only, stirring occasionally. Pour into glasses and cover with melted paraffin.

Club Activities

FR. ED. — BELLEVILLE L.C.

The regular monthly meeting of the Prince Edward-Belleville Ladies' Club was held at the Y.M.C.A. parlors on April 12th.

In the absence of the president, the 1st. vice-president, Mrs. Baird, took the chair and opened the meeting in the usual manner.

After welcoming remarks, Mrs. Baird read a poem, "When Somebody Cares," written by the late Helen B. Anderson, who was well known by the club members.

The report of the pot-luck supper in March was read by the secretary also a letter from the Y.M.C.A. building committee.

The treasurer gave a detailed report on the finances of the club.

The corresponding secretary reported three cards and two rose bowls had been sent to ill members.

A thank you note was read from Mrs. Walters and Mrs. Baird and Mrs. Geraline personally expressed their thanks for cards. There were 30 members and two visitors present.

Mrs. Weese, program convener, presented the following program: "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today" was sung, followed by prayer by Mrs. Farnsworth. An Easter message "He is Risen" was read by Mrs. Parliament. Mrs. Reed favored with two beautiful solos, "Calvary Covers It All," and "No One Ever Cared For Me Like Jesus," with self accompaniment on the accordion.

Mrs. Nora Earle, guest speaker, chose as her topic, "What Women Should Know About Insurance," giving the history of insurance, how it affects people today.

A question and answer period followed.

Mrs. Parliament thanked each one who had contributed to the program for the afternoon.

Mrs. Baird closed the meeting.

Mrs. Weese and her group served lunch and a social half hour was enjoyed.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Gerard L. — She does a thing for spite, to annoy me.

Violet L. — He's a fusspot. He should live and let live.

* * *

Gerard L. — Off hand, you'd think our marriage a perfect one. We're both high school graduates, same religion, same background. Our families cause no trouble. We have a nice home and a comfortable income. All the "big" things are fine.

Still we argue most of the time! It seems to prove that it's the "little" things that can make or break a marriage. things like consideration and thoughtfulness. Such things never occur to Vi.

For example, who does she settle down next to me in the living room to do her nails? She has other times and other places for that and she knows I can't stand the smell of that stuff. Why, does she not read newspapers in bed and keep me awake with the rustling? Can't she bring along a book or a small magazine?

* * *

Violet L. — You never saw a man with so many crotchets. What alarms me is that I am the one who brings them all out in Gerry, who should seem to annoy him as much as I do. How come he can work around chemicals all day and not be the least bit annoyed by the odors, but insists on every whiff off my nail polish? I don't have "other times and other places" as he says, to attend to odds and ends like that. I like to do it while I watch TV or chat. Of course, if he prefers, he can treat me to a store bought manicure each week, and wait till I get home after it, for his dinner.

As to the newspaper, this is something new. It never used to bother him. That's trouble. I never know what new thing will get his goat. It is one he can't stand, or marriage?

* * *

The Council — The easy answer here would be: Save up for two bedrooms. But that's too easy. Besides it's not on the side of Good Marriage, which is the side we're plumping for. So, to Gerald we say: When you look at Violet, don't see red, see a very human gal you must make allowances for and get used to. And to Violet: In a good marriage you can't just be Yourself. You must be your best Self.

In simplest terms, marriage offers each a chance to be supremely kind to the other. With this in mind, Violet can easily do her nails in the bathroom. Maybe he's had his fill of chemical odors in his laboratory. And she can read her noisy newspapers before bedtime, say while Gerard does the dishes. (What say, Gerry?)

Gerard's right about the "illusion" there. We reveal the "internals" of the marriage which are more important, for the long haul, than the externals. One long-married wife remarked recently, "I love him because he lets me talk." A husband of a 43-year-old marriage said, "The nicest thing she used to do was sneak my comb and comb out, soak it in ammonia soda, and put it back spic and span, without saying a word!" Just small kindnesses.

As time goes on, the "crotchets" that appear only new adjustments must be made. But this is a small price to pay for membership in the most wonderful club of all — the happily married. Certainly Violet isn't the only one who annoys Gerry. But he speaks up to her, his forever-after mate, while he grins-and-bears the rum snapping, knuckle-cracking associates he can walk out on with the 5 o'clock whistle.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—You my hobbies are important. So do I—love.

We used to sit and watch television night after night until I got serious eye strain. A few months ago my wife and I heard about classes to learn to make your own furniture. The result is that between us we have made a coffee table, and a footstool. I build them; she finishes and varnishes them. Now we are working on putting together a Hi-Fi which we have always wanted but could never afford.

Our hobby has made all the difference in our lives. Please tell others about how good it is to do something with your hands.—JOE-JOBBER.

DEAR JOE-JOBBER—You're right. One woman bakes bread; one man paints pictures; together a couple I know is building an aeroplane. The satisfactions of seeing something lovely emerge through your personal handiwork is beyond all expectations.

With Canada's shortening work week, thoughts are turning more and more to using leisure time agreeably. Perhaps others will write and tell us what they are doing about this?

DEAR DORIS:—I'm having mother-in-law-to-be trouble. She pretends to be a good friend, but I think she tried to break us up. She nags my boy friend about going out so much and talks about how old she is. She never has to go to bed though and does all her own housework. My boy friend says her illness is all in her head. She sees a psychiatrist and boasts about it.

One day she said nobody could make the kind of a breakfast her son liked but her and to keep peace he agreed. Then I fought with him about it after—I'm sorry to say. But she drives me nuts.—JITTERS.

DEAR JITTERS:—Just don't let her come between you. Her particular mental twist makes her connive for sympathy and attention by complaining. Let's hope the psychiatrist can help.

Meanwhile, keep your head. Don't react to her; tell yourself she is ill, and believe it. It is the truth.

DEAR DORIS:—What do you think of a strapless evening dress for a 15-year-old? My husband is positively shocked because our daughter wants one for the high school dance.

After a big argument he agreed to let me write to you and go by what you said.—MOTHER OF ONE.

DEAR MOTHER OF ONE:—I think it's a lovely idea. Is it her tender age that bothers him? Daughter is going to grow up, willy nilly. Help her, don't hinder her.

Remember when you were in your teens? How much you wanted to be in the swim with the grown-up girls? Can your husband remember how the glamor girls with the formal gowns which showed their lovely shoulders simply devastated him?

Maybe they are starting younger, but I'm all for a culture which starts early in helping young people to mix socially. And if they are going to be in the swim they have to look the part. The way to decide about styles is to find out what is being worn and go along with it.

Groom Pays But How Do Costs Run?

By tradition and practice, the wedding is supposed to be the bride's show. But often the groom doesn't get enough credit for his share in the setting.

Just consider what would be missing without the items the man pays for:

—The bride wouldn't have an engagement or a wedding ring. The man pays for both. He gets one break — if there's a double ring ceremony the bride buys his ring for him.

—There wouldn't be many flowers. Formal etiquette decrees (although local custom varies) that the groom buy the bride's bouquet, corsages for the two mothers and boutonnieres for men in the wedding party.

—Bride and ushers would not get gifts.

—The clergyman who performs from $150 for a ring stone set in yellow gold to $500 for a perfect one-carat stone. Of course bigger stones cost more, depending on number of carats, and quality, of the stone.

The bride's wedding ring usually a plain, untooled gold band, can cost as little as $10. Set with 10 or 12 tiny diamonds it might run up to $200. The groom's wedding ring is larger and wider than the bride's and costs about twice as much.

The bridal bouquet can run from $15 to $25 while corsages for mothers start at $5. (The bride supplies bouquets for her attendants.) Usher boutonnieres cost $1 each.

Jewelry or a similar lasting object is the usual choice for the groom's gift to his bride. forms the ceremony would lose a contribution.

—There would be no honeymoon trip.

COST ACCOUNTING

Let's look at what these expenses add up to:

Diamond engagement rings. This could be a pearl necklace, a locket or a plain stone on a chain which could be worn with the wedding gown. It's generally a $25 item.

FOR THE BEST MAN

Neckties, cigaret lighters or men's jewelery are customary gifts for the best man and ushers. Average price is $5 to $10 each.

The clergyman's fee generally depends on the size of the wedding. For a small ceremony $5 or $10 is considered enough while it may run up to $50 for a larger affair. In a big social wedding the clergyman might receive as much as $500.

The average wedding trip, according to one survey, lasts two weeks, is by automobile and costs about $400. Package trips are also popular to New York City, Miami Beach, southern California, Hawaii and Bermuda.

So don't write the groom off as an incidental item. He's a vital part of the wedding formalities!

Watch Your Health in Travelling

Whether you are following your husband to a new military assignment, or laying plans for a honeymoon, health should be a definite consideration.

Medical experts suggest that a small travel kit, tucked in with the new clothes, may be an invaluable asset, especially if the plans call for extended travel into foreign or offbeat areas.

Because a wedding is a time of extreme excitement and fatigue, there's extra need for such preparation then so that illness won't ruin the honeymoon.

The travel medical kit should contain a number of easily-obtained items: aspirin, a cold remedy, an antacid, a laxative, an anti diarrheal for "traveler's stomach," an anti-motion drug (for car, air and sea travel), a small packet of sterile pads and adhesive, a topical disinfectant and a thermometer. (A suggestion is to carry your aspirin, antacid and laxative in the form of medicated chewing gum, which does not require water as the pill forms do.)

A doctor suggests that when the couple get their pre-wedding medical examination, they discuss their itinerary with the physician and any special conditions relating to health. He also cautions the adventurous to be careful of what they eat and drink in those cute, off-the-beaten path restaurants. While they may be "finds" of one kind, they can easily be the source of trouble in the form of "traveler's stomach." To be safe, he says, the honeymooners should eat and drink only in hotels and restaurants with recognized high standards.

But since severe upset stomach can occur even if you are careful, he recommends that the honeymooners take along an anti-diarrheal tablet containing thihexinol, which can be obtained with a prescription at the local drug store.

Those honeymooners going abroad—and these trips are gaining in popularity—should keep in mind that in a medical emergency they can always contact the consulate if they are not familiar with the facilities available in the area.

GUEST BOOK

Many brides like to purchase a guest book for the wedding, which is usually bound in gold or silver moire. Sometimes this book is given by the wedding consultant to the bride as a present.

Don't Let Rain Dampen Wedding

Happy the bride the sun shines on—and smart the one who doesn't let rain worry her.

Preparation is the answer. Take these tips from leading photographers, who know how to protect top models and costly styles on outdoor locations.

—Beg, borrow but have on hand plenty of umbrellas—big ones. There should be one for each member of the wedding party.

—In a hard downpour, wrap the bride in a sheet. (Plastic is good but can be hot.) Fold the sheet around loosely, tucking the gown's hem up hobble style to prevent splashes.

—Carry veil in a pillowcase, folded carefully so it doesn't get rumped looking.

—Use hair spray lightly to keep hairdo in curl.

—Have different shoes or plastic boots on hand; change into wedding shoes at church.

Too many brides are tempted to delay leaving the house, hoping bad weather will clear. This only insures running smack into the wedding guests when she's not looking her best.

It's smarter to get to the church well ahead of time and put on finishing touches there. The wedding party can thus be calm, cool, collected—and dry—for that march up the aisle.

Big Handbag Helps Traveller

Big bags that take kindly to travelling are just as valuable to their owners when they come home.

Where travellers, checks and passports once rested, there can be accommodated a pocket book, other purchases that otherwise drop easily, a scarf for sudden chills, and even a spare pair of nylons.

It's hard to imagine a bag that's too big. And with the variety of shapes and materials available, a becoming bag trousseau is easy to assemble.

Good all-round companion is a flat satchel in scratch-proof grained leather with side gussets permitting it to spread open for easy access. Some satchels of this type are mounted on a padded leather frame and include a detachable leather passport case, as well as the more usual accessories.

Gay straw bags come in sizes big enough to carry a complete complement of beach accessories as well as the usual purse addenda. One such is double-handled, trimmed in sturdy cowhide and lined with sandy canvas. It's sturdy enough to house parcels from the store, too. A cane satchel striped bag is also well matched, lined in a water-repellent print, and especially for swimmers. A light lunch can be encompassed too, without fear of leakage.

For girls who never have enough room in their luggage and don't want new husbands to suffer from planeside overweight, there are lightweight canvas carry-alls, leather-bound and shaped like small suitcases. Closed with a side-to-side top zipper that is snapped down at one side for security, these are bags to carry on shopping trips at home too, since they are large enough to hold a myriad of small parcels.

Another smart bet for tripping and toting is the gigantic vertically oblong canvas satchel, closed with a fold-over front flap that is secured with a lugged-type lock. Suede-lined, the bag features two inside compartments, one zipper-closed for securing money and papers. Even the open tote space in leather-trimmed canvas and provides a zippered inside compartment for "valuables" insurance.

Gifts Can Be Fun And Practical Too

What fun to get wedding presents! But the delight wears thin when the wrappings disclose the seventh toaster and the 10th pair of candelabras.

There is one foolproof way of avoiding such duplications: have everyone give cheques or cash. But this coldly practical solution takes much of the fun out of giving.

However, for young couples who'll be setting up housekeeping at an army or navy base, or starting out on a college campus, money is most welcome.

On the other hand, gift buying these days can be a pleasant revelation to those who think of wedding presents only in terms of the classic crystal, china and silver.

There is a host of new products that combine beauty with utility, satisfying the desire to give something that's pretty as well as practical.

Casino Gifts

The trick is to tailor your gift to the newlyweds' own taste. Few working wives appreciate elaborate silver that requires time consuming polish-work.

The great majority of brides still prefer a touch of beauty in gifts—"something I wouldn't buy for myself but want to own." This means avoiding the silly, the commonplace, the gimmick that are sometimes offered in shops as wedding presents.

But there are a number of offbeat but highly practical items to consider. Let's look at some:

$10 or Less

Spice rack with selection of spices
Clamp type bedlamp
Doormat
Indoor or outdoor clothes drying rack
Set of adjustable bookshelves
Ironing board, pad and cover

Many Things Can Be Rented

Bridal rentals are a big business.

The white runner for the church aisle . . . the reception punchbowl . . . formal dress for men in the wedding party . . .

All these things and many more can be rented at rates based on the service and equipment required.

Arrangements can be made on short notice. But generally bridal rental services should be notified at least a month and sometimes as much as three months in advance of the ceremony.

Tents are available for garden weddings — either decorative side tents to protect refreshment tables or elaborate canopied complete with wood-en floor for dancing.

Smaller items on the rental list include display and refreshment bowls and cups, silver, china and glassware service and even potted palms.

Bridal rental services are usually listed in the telephone directory. They're welcomed by both budget and luxury minded brides.

Formidable Wedding

Gay crowds swirled around me. Waiters with bottles of champagne dashed about on their mission. The dance band was played "Mack the Knife" and the bride was whirling about with her father.

But in the midst of this gaiety I was a sad, lost soul.

My high heels were sinking into the damp grass. The only people I could identify were my children. And I don't like champagne.

It was a wedding I had looked forward to with enthusiasm. My favorite niece was to be joined in union with an ex-jet pilot. The clan was gathering, and we had flown in earlier to be a part of this happy throng.

All went well at the church where we were led with honor to the second pew. But our real problems began after the ceremony. How did we get to the bride's home? How long were we supposed to stay? (It was then 4 p.m.) Where did we eat dinner — if at all? And who were all these people?

As we milled around outside the church, I tried to resolve the relationship of my second cousin's daughter to my son, and kept wondering why people I couldn't recognize were calling me "aunt."

A good Samaritan offered his car and we went through a police barricade to the reception. Neat planning on the part of my sister-in-law, who is the executive tyke, propelled us via a chain of marquees, into the back yard, again, and to a waiter with a trayful of champagne glasses.

I peered through the hordes of people looking hopefully for some other liquid. Nothing in view. It didn't seem socially correct to insist on a drink, but the lassena was giving me a mighty thirst.

Tables which could accommodate about one-tenth of the guests were clustered around a dance floor. The aged, in a burst of strength, had pre-empted them, and I being only middle-aged, stood.

My sons; conditioned by debparties, had discovered the bridesmaids and were in safe hands. My husband, who is a duplicate of his brother, was receiving all kinds of good wishes, and occasionally digging up a long-lost friend of his own. I was just lost.

Two hours later, I slunk into the house via the back door, and persuaded a sympathetic waitress to find me a libation. A second cousin whom I shall remember in my will found me a chair, and I sank down to rest.

A son appeared at my shoulder. "Too bad, Mom. It's lobster newburgh. Not another thing."

Lobster and other sea food delicacies bring livid welts to my face and torture to my gastric valve.

I took to scrounging for myself and came upon a slice of Canadian bacon, which would have made a neat sandwich if there had been any bread. So I dined on wedding cake and coffee.

Next time I go to a wedding, I'm going to eat a cheeseburger beforehand, wear flat-heeled shoes and carry a canvas stool. Then prepared, I'll be selfsustaining, and not even the most formidable wedding will throw me.

If there is to be a special candle lighting service, this should be rehearsed first. Usually the tapers are lighted by a staff member of the church about half an hour before the ceremony.

Color 'Comprehensive' Guides Decorating

Be it ever so humble, a bride's new home can be a place of beauty—if she selects textile colors that express her personality.

Is she a cool, calm, sea green kind of person? Does she like to live dynamically and brightly with orange and red? Is she sensitive, fragile—the kind of girl who would find the delicacy of Japanese design more suitable?

This approach to an over-all plan for decorating is suggested by Dorothy Liebes, prize winning textile designer, as an essential prelude to any actual furniture purchases.

"In her own work as rug and fabric designer, she uses a device she calls a "comprehensive", which the bride can easily assemble herself for color study.

Scrutinize Samples

It involves merely glueing fabric and wallpaper samples on a small piece of cardboard, in very close proximity, and then studying the combined effect. Included should be the wallpaper sample, pasted on first, then swatches of possible upholstery fabrics, rug samples and drapery material samples.

Mrs. Liebes tossed a stack of comprehensives on a work table to demonstrate. An "earthy" room emerged, mingling sandstone and terra cotta tones. Woven beige and orange leather stripes were suggested for one chair, a warm brown floor covering, light beige wallpaper, and a rust tweedy fabric for a chair.

Strong blue and gentle lilac were at home on another comprehensive, where the wallpaper was a gently floral stripe mingling the two colors on a white background.

"Here's a good one for a study," said the designer. "It's a Congo theme, and the brown and white rug would look well on a cork floor; African art for wall decoration.

"These comprehensives give you a chance to study fabric 'textures in,'" she explained, displaying a quiet board that used grasscloth wallpaper as a background.

"When you paste up these samples, you see immediately that your room is too shiny—too much gloss. Or maybe the room is too woody, and you can counteract that with a linen weave in the upholstery."

Intensely interested in the use of bamboo and plastic blinds as room dividers, screens, and even shades, Mrs. Liebes designs them to pull together the color elements in a room. One wall in her workroom is stacked with rolls of aluminum "ribbon" in every conceivable color, which she weaves into the blinds' design, or covers with yarn to give duplicate to a rug design.

Essentially practical, Mrs. Liebes urges the new homemaker to take advantage of today's synthetics. "You can wash spots out of nylon rugs and off nylon-covered furniture, so why not take advantage of this to cut down on household chores? Some of her plastic blinds go right into the shower, I tried shaving cream on mine at home, and it worked wonders."

And as parting advice to today's young couples who may be on the move a great deal: Make your furnishings portable. If you're buying a room-size rug, stick to standard sizes like 9 by 12 feet that should fit any living room, anywhere. Area rugs are invaluable. They can be used directly on the floor, on a rug before a fireplace or a chair grouping, in hallways, everywhere."

THREE ST. PATRICKS?

Armagh, a city in Northern Ireland, is one of three that claim to be the burial place of St. Patrick.

Rites Gain Depth From Tradition

Bits and pieces of bygone days live again in the beauty of our modern marriage services.

Even primitive tribes dignify marriage as a ceremony marked by both solemnity and celebration. Among the early Hebrews, Greeks and Romans, the bride's father performed the ceremony. Rise of the early Christian church added the priest's blessing to the ritual. And in time the church took on an increasingly important role with all marriages performed by the clergy.

There are different points of emphasis in the wedding rites of various faiths. If you are planning your own wedding or are a wedding guest, the church ceremony will take on added interest if you know what the ritual signifies.

The Protestant wedding ceremony is probably the most familiar in this country. But there are a number of variations according to denominations and one of the most striking is that of the Friends or Quaker.

No Music

In this, the bride and groom make their vows to each other after a period of silence and without the assistance of a clergyman. Orthodox Friends omit music at the meetinghouse in keeping with a goal of strict simplicity.

In most church ceremonies, the bride is "given away" by her father, recalling ancient times when the bride was "purchased" by her groom.

However, in the Orthodox Friends ceremony, the bride and groom walk together in the processional, as was done in the early days in this country; her father does not "give her away."

A vital part of the Friends' marriage is the "certificate." This document is signed by the bride and groom after they have married themselves, and then by guests who witnessed the ceremony.

Many Protestant services are patterned on the Episcopal marriage ceremony, which includes a betrothal service and the marriage ceremony itself. These include the exchange of vows and blessing of rings.

Some years ago there was much discussion over the bride's promise to "love, honor and obey." Now the controversial "obey" is replaced by "cherish" in many churches.

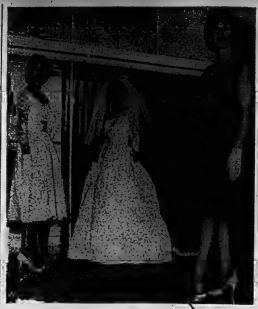
The Roman Catholic wedding ceremony itself is not greatly different from the Protestant. But it is often followed by the impressive ritual of the Nuptial Mass, in which special prayers are said for the bride and groom. They join the priest at the alter at various times during the Mass for this benediction.

The ancient Jewish marriage ceremony reflects that faith's 5,000-year history with many symbolic touches. A conspicuous feature is the rectangular canopy, or chupah, under which the bride and groom stand. The canopy symbolizes the couple's new home.

At the rabbi's side is a small table with a decanter of wine and glasses. After the wine has been drunk, the wine glass is broken or ground under the groom's heel, recalling the sorrow of the Jewish people at their destruction Jerusalem.

An essential part of the ceremony are the "seven blessings," usually given in Hebrew. The rabbi also gives a personal address to the bride and groom.

Groom With Father



In some Conservative and Orthodox Jewish rites, the groom's father walks with his son in the procession while the bride's father escorts his daughter. The two mothers also take part in the procession, walking together. And the men wear hats or some form of head covering.

The Eastern Orthodox Church has one of the most colorful of all modern wedding ceremonies. Oriental in feeling, it takes place at a flower-bedecked table in front of the sanctuary and near the centre of the church.

Only vocal music by a choir accompanies the service; no instrumental music is permitted. During part of the ceremony the bride and groom hold candles, representing the light of God.

Richly ornamented crowns are held over the couple's heads while the priest reads the New Testament account of Christ's presence as a guest at the wedding feast of Cana.

Wine in a cup is blessed and the bride and groom drink from it, symbolizing their unity and sharing of life's joys and sorrows. The priest binds the couple's hands together with a handkerchief, leads them three times around the table and blesses them. Then they are declared man and wife.

Models display informal wedding gown, sweeping formal gown, and bridesmaid dress.

To Mother . . Leave Your Hair Alone

"What in the world will I do with my hair?" is the pitiful cry often raised by the mothers of the wedding party.

They want to look their best as they walk down the aisle. Should the "best" be a remade hair style?

According to a hair coloring expert, many mothers at this point become carried away.

"Don't do it!" she advises. "Your children want you to be pretty and proud, not ultra-stylish. They prefer you to look like your own sweet self."

Here are her suggestions for accomplishing this and still being as fashionable as next season's coulure:

1. If your hair is predominately grey or white, examine it for unflattering, yellow streaks; artificial overtones of blue or violet. Remove yellow and emphasize your hair's dramatic silver or white highlights with a silver white temporary color hair rinse. Steel grey or metal or smoke grey rinses will cancel out blue tones and deepen a beautiful soft grey color. These temporary color hair rinses take seconds to use, wash away with ordinary shampoo and can easily be applied at home.

2. Blend out gray in blonde, red and light brown hair with an amber brown rinse. A warmer gypsy brown temporary color hair rinse will shield the gray in darker shades of brown and red.

3. Give your favorite hair style a ("new" look by combing hair up and away from the upward line is especially important around chin and neck. A soft forhead wave can sweep up and back to add weight to facial contours. This season hair should be no longer than its natural length at the nape of the neck.

4. Small, pert "doll" hair just couldn't be more flattering to the mature woman. If you are short, don't let floppy brims and deep crowns engulf you. Taller women should consider their hair-do first and let their chapeau complement it.

5. Be sure to color-co-ordinate your costume so that your entire ensemble — head toe — flatters your hair in color complexion tones. Begin your color theme with your hair. Choose your dress, hat and accessories next. Then pick out your lipstick, eye make-up and other cosmetics.

Leave your complete flower arrangements for your wedding in our capable hands.

How to Organize A Kitchen Cabinet

A bride's best friend may be her can opener. But that's only the beginning of her kitchen trousseau.

Some girls go overboard in the housewares department, buying enough gleaming pots and pans to equip a topflight restaurant.

Others acquire a skillet here, a roaster there, and get by with an assortment of mismatched utensils that make for wasted cooking time and irritating storage problems.

It's wise to check for basic needs before venturing into the dazzling array of materials, designs and colors now offered by kitchen manufacturers. Make a list of what you need to keep your kitchen well organized.

Considering the wear and tear they take, buy the best utensils your pocketbook allows. Stainless steel or heavy aluminum is the top choice for pots and pans.

Many women like the added decorative touch of copper bottomed pans of the new bright enameled ironware. These may cost a little more so let your budget be your guide.

Regardless of material, make sure lids are tight fitting handles easy to grasp and heat resistant.

The list of recommended minimum needs below would cost between $50 and $60 complete. (Nor electricity appliances are included as they're likely to be among wedding or shower gifts).

Many brides manage on less at first. But as they find that the following make for most efficiency.

Saucepans — Two one-quart and one two-quart; one double boiler(glass is good, for checking the water level in bottom section).

Skillets — One 7-inch, one 10-inch, with covers.

Dutch oven — One. For use on top of stove or in oven; may be used as large casserole, covered roaster and chicken fryer.

Open roaster — One, with rack.

Baking pans — One 8 x 1 1-4-inch glass pie pan with slightly flared sides, for pies, cake or bread; two six-cup 8 x 1 1-4-inch muffin pans for individual pastry shells, cup cakes, etc. two 9 x 1-1-2-inch round cake pans for layer cakes; one 10 x 6 x 4-inch pan for meat loaf, loaf cakes or baked dishes; one 13 x 10 x 1 1-2-inch cake pan for cake, also for roasting and baked dishes.

Casseroles — One one-quart, with lid.

Cooky sheets — Two 14x10 inches.

Coffee maker: — One drip or percolator, preferably glass because it is easy to clean.

The new cook will also need: One set of measuring cups and spoons, glass or metal (not plastic); set of mixing bowls (stainless steel is durable, and good looking!); colander; flour sifter; chopping board; rolling pin; pastry cloth; grater; three sizes of stainless steel knives with sharp blades;

Long handled spoon; rotary beater; pancake turner; flexible spatula; kitchen scissors; pot holders or padded mitts—and one (or two) durable can openers.

For cleanup chores: dish drainer, rubber sink mat, sponges and chore baits, steel wool or abrasive sided sponge.

Changing Name Not So Simple

Do you remember skipping rope to the old rhyme:

Mary now, Mary ever
Jones now but not forever)

Well, now that you're a bride-to-be, remember your name won't be the same — you have to change it for official records.

Make a list of the documents you carry and immediately after the honeymoon take steps to alter them in keeping with your shift from Miss to Mrs. Here are the principal ones:

—Driver's license: police stations or license issuing agency can take the information needed to change your name.

—Payroll: your pay cheques should be made out in your new name; most firms have a form you can fill out for this.

—Bank account: you may want to open a joint account; if you keep one by yourself it should be under your married name.

—Insurance policies: write to your agent with change of name information. You'll probably also want to make your husband your new beneficiary.

—Savings bonds: if you are on a payroll deduction plan, you can fill out a name change form at your place of employment.

—Stocks and bonds: check stock certificates on procedure for change of name; some require notarization.

—School records: check with the registrar on what you should do to have your new name listed.

—Charge accounts: your husband is now legally responsible for your debts; officially, credit accounts must be in his name.

—Library card: name change can be made at local branch.

TWEED

Council Debates Request For Part-Time Constable

TWEED — At a recent local council meeting, a request by Chief Walter Higgins for the appointment of a part-time constable sparked another lively discussion. "The hiring of an extra constable would be a month earlier than last year, but one man cannot continue the long hours on duty, that have been necessary, for the past several weeks", Chief Higgins stated, in making his request. At the same time he asked council to select one working shift in a 24-hour period, and designate this shift as their choice when he should be on duty. The chief's report for March indicated 23 occurrences. He noted that since the gang disturbance in Tweed on March 20th, there have been 10 occurrences.

"I was not under the impression that any thing definite was planned with regard to the hiring of an extra constable this year", noted Reeve Douglas Spencer, "with the prospective cost of the Board of Administration, I don't know whether the village can afford another extra constable at any time this year.

Councillor Burton Thompson said: "the demands of Chief Higgins are getting higher all the time. Where is all this going to end insofar as the taxpayers are concerned?"

"We are getting into a terrible hassle in regard to this police situation. I wonder how best we could support our officer in the discharge of his duties?" questioned Councillor Allen.

WE'RE TOO LENIENT

"This business of these teenagers creating trouble has got out of hand" Councillor Higgins said, "I don't think there was enough clamping down at the start. Otherwise these disturbances might have never occurred."

"But the hours are far too long for one man; I can't continue to do it" interjected Chief Higgins.

"When do you mean then that you'll be on duty eight hours and off 16 hours?" questioned Councillor Thompson.

"Yes that's what it means".

"The nature of your work, I would think, would take more than 8 hours in every 24, "noted Councillor Thompson. "You are not like a man working at a machine or a desk all the time; it isn't steady and demanding work hour after hour.

"What I'm asking of this council is only reasonable, the duties are too heavy for one man. What we should be discussing is a part time constable" Chief Higgins interjected.

OBJECTS TO ATTITUDE

At this point, Councillor Thompson and Chief Higgins got into a heated discussion in regard to the chief's attitude in discussing his duties.

"I asked you a civil question and I would like a civil answer. I don't like your attitude at all." Councillor Thompson said.

The Chief said he was prepared to sit down anytime and discuss amicably with Council what his duties actually are.

Councillor Hodgins said "Well I think its too early to hire an extra man."

Chief Higgins: "All I can say is, I'm putting in hours that are far too long. A police business has to be operated systematically, the same as any other business and that takes time."

Councillor Thompson: "Let's be fair it's simply a matter of expenses. We can't permit police costs to keep on getting higher and higher all the time.

"I spent 34 hours on duty without a break last weekend. There's no social life for myself and family whatsoever, I realize the council has its financial problems and I'm open to any suggestions that will clarify things", the chief replied.

"It's impossible to budget for these things when we don't know what they are going to cost" said Councillor Allen.

MIGHT GET HELP

Discussion turned on the possibility of having the provincial police supervise the community for one or two days a week.

"If we make a request for the O.P.P. we will have to pay for it," Councillor Thompson noted.

Higgins said, "I work every weekend. I think a police officer should at least have two days a week off, with no responsibilities."

Councillor Thompson: "If we go through with this arbitration and get a raise, what we want, it could cost the town $10,000 next year; that would include your wage, car allowance, and an extra constable which you have requested. This thing could just keep on going up and up. It's got to stop somewhere."

Reeve Spencer wound up the advisability of installing parking meters on the main street for the village, but few opinions were expressed.

Hodgins: "Well we certainly can't ask the provincial police to help us out and then appoint a constable at the same time."

Chief Higgins: "I'm definitely going to cut down on my hours. The facilities of my office are available to the provincial police or you wish to approach them."

Dr. Allen: "Let's get some further information before we approach the provincial police, or do anything further about our present situation."

HEARING MAY 12

Hearing of the evidence before the Board of Arbitration in connection with Chief of Police Walter Higgins' salary will likely take on Friday, May 12, at 10 a.m. It is expected that the hearing will proceed in the Crown Court House, Belleville, before Judge W. S. Ormond, Q.C. Secretary to M. Ross, Belleville, barrister, will represent the village of Tweed, while Robert J. Pringle, also of Belleville, will appear on behalf of Chief Higgins. The Board of Arbitration follows a request by the chief for an increase in salary to $600. The application was turned down by the Reeve and council. The Board of Arbitration was instituted by the Trent Valley Police Association of which Chief Higgins is a member and an obtgor. Outcome of the hearing will be of interest to all communities in this immediate area.

NEED FRENCH ARMY

OTTAWA (CP)—The solution to some of NATO's most pressing military and political problems lies not in Europe but in Algeria, in the opinion of authorities here. They said yesterday that if Franke could persuade Algerian premier the French army, or most of it, could be returned to Europe to take its rightful place in the NATO shield.

Canada's Farmers Show Increase In Production

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's farmers achieved a 47.6-per-cent increase in production last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday.

Its index of the volume of agricultural production is an estimated 154.2 for the year compared with 45.1 in 1958. This is five per cent above the previous average of 184 in the 1955-59 period.

The index, which does not take prices into account, is based on 1935-39 production totalling 100.

A decline in livestock production was more than offset by larger production of grains, potatoes, tobacco and maple products.

There was a gain of over six per cent in Ontario. The Ontario index for 1960 was 154.9 against 145.9 in 1959.

Yet-Unborn New Party Will Do Well in Next Federal Election, Says S. Knowles

By GRAHAM TROTTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

One of the chief architects of the yet-unborn New Party says it already is a fact of Canadian political life and will do well when it meets the test of its first federal election.

Stanley Knowles exudes confidence in his book The New Party (McClelland and Stewart) in which he relates step by step the conception and birth of the new left - wing party whose founding convention will be held in Ottawa July 31-Aug. 4.

"Time and the electors of Canada will give the answer, but there are-reasons for believing that the prospects are good. Indeed, it is not so much a case of having to contend that the New Party will do well; rather is it a matter of assessing the reasons for the tide that appears to be running in its favor."

Mr. Knowles sets out numerous reasons and also replies to arguments against the New Party in his readable 182-page volume. As a vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress and former commons whip of the CCF—the two organizations sponsoring the new movement—he is admirably equipped to describe the beginnings of the New Party.

SEES STRONGER LEFT

As conditions favoring the New Party, he cites Canadians' desire for a real choice between right and left, a renewed public interest in Parliament arising from the 1956 pipeline debate and the feeling it needs strengthening, a belief that political decisions should be made on the basis of principles, and a revolt against the emptiness of a materialistic, affluent way of life.

He also sets out a number of immediate factors:

1. The "attempt to shackle the trade union movement" which in British Columbia and Newfoundland legislation has set the clock back at least 40 years." This had put labor on its toes, "It knows that its only chance of stemming the tide of old party anti-labor legislation is to elect the New Party to power, and this adds immeasurably to the New Party's chances in the next election."

2. Disillusionment of farmers with the present government for not providing legislation aimed at lifting party prices. "The New Party can look for support in farm areas greater than might be expected."

3. The government's "failure" to improve the old age pension and its indecision and procrastination.

"Add these immediate factors to the general approach that marks the thinking of our time, and there is reason to believe that the New Party will do well when it meets the test of its first general election."

Then Mr. Knowles, chairman of the national committee for the New Party, sets out to answer the critics.

To the "bogus argument" that farmers and industrial workers cannot work together in the same party, he asks: "Has either of (the old) parties ever suggested that because it had industrial workers among its supporters it would not expect farmers to give their support as well, or vice versa?"

To the "bogus argument" that relationship with the trade union movement is inimical to the New Party's success. On the contrary, this was one of the principal preventive strengths. It would give the New Party the impetus of a long tradition of service to the common good.

"One of the most fictitious arguments" was that the New Party would be dominated by American trade union leaders because of the influence in it whose locals will affiliate with the party are international union. The fact was that the unions of this country make their own decisions and run their own affairs.

NOT UNION-DOMINATED

Well into the book though Canadian, wouldn't the unions dominate and run the New Party?

"Domination, even though Canadian, would be the surest way to avoid domination of the party by the trade unions expressed more frequently with greater determination, than in union circles. Within the ranks of labor, as labor had wanted "its" presence group of its own unit per its own control, it would have formed one long ago."

Up to the time the founding convention draws near, "the support for the New Party in the trade union movement is infinitely greater than . . . the nervous early statements had hoped would be the case."

Thousands of farmers were taking part in the project, but so far mainly as individuals. However, the farm organization knows that it can come to them and "sooner or later their place is with the New Party."

CONFIDENT OF QUEBEC

There is also a "very good reason to believe that Quebec labor . . . will give the New Party the support it needs to make it an all-Canadian movement."

Many thousands of Canadians had been persuaded to cast their lot with the New Party "not so much by documents and statements about the structure of the party as by the opportunities they have had for genuine participation in the actual building of the organization."

This was achieved through a succession of study papers discussed at hundreds of group meetings starting in late 1958.

"This effort represents what is probably the greatest example of mass participation in the forming of a political movement in Canadian history, and is probably the secret of the progress made.

"Since two years had been allotted for these discussions, there was no suggestion of pressure 'from the top' for quick decisions, The result was that support grew 'from the bottom.'"

Financing of Congo Crucial Item in Drive to End UN General Assembly Session

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Financing of the United Nations Congo operation was the most crucial item caught in the squeeze as the 15th General Assembly drove to finish its annual sessions today.

The 99 - country assembly had sight of ending in an effort to meet the April 21 closing target set last month but it appeared certain that debate will continue at least until early Saturday.

The session opened Sept. 20 with the biggest diplomatic array in history, recessed from Dec. 21 to March 7—and still has a record of unfinished business.

It appeared that such an all-out cold-war items as Hungary and Tibet would be put over to the next assembly opening in mid-September.

The budgetary committee recommended Thursday a Canadian - supporting resolution setting aside $90,000,000 for the Congo operation. But the committee vote of 43 to 26 with 16 abstentions was less than the two-thirds needed for approval in the assembly.

Intense private negotiations were undertaken to improve the margin so that the UN operation, on the verge of bankruptcy — as is the world body itself—can continue.

Faced by a Latin - American revolt and Soviet - bloc opposition, Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold warned that without money he cannot keep the peace operation going and he is without power himself to order it halted.

He threatened to go back to the Security Council for further instructions — a hint he would have to ask authority to pull the 17,000-man UN force, which includes a 260-man Canadian contingent, unless the assembly gave him a majority for financing.

The United States has pledged nearly half of the $100,000,000 required to keep the UN Congo force going until the end of October and Hammarskjold will borrow to fill the gap left by refusal of the Soviet Union, France and others to contribute.

On other topics, the assembly early today called on Portugal "to consider urgently the introduction of measures and reforms" looking toward independence for Angola, its big colony in West Africa.

MILITARY BUDGET

The United Arab Republic has announced a military budget of $350,000,000,000 for the 1961-62 fiscal year.

Newsmen Freed All With Castro

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—All American newspaper men in Havana have been freed and are now with Fidel Castro in Matanzas province, a Cuban employee of The Associated Press said today in a telephone call to Miami.

"Fidel is with the press in the country," he said, "and there will be good information, stories and pictures, in the afternoon."

"That's funny, Dad," said Ken, looking up from where he'd stacked his new blocks on the floor. "This way I have seven more blocks in the bottom layer than the other way."

"You've built up a solid rectangular pile on a square base there," commented his father. "What was the other way?"

"The same, but with fewer in the square base," the boy replied. "I used up all my blocks each time."

That could mean a lot of blocks! What would be the least number?

Court Interpreter Sees Man Who Helped Beat Her Baby To Death in Red Prison

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 34-year - old immigrant housewife said Thursday that while acting as a police interpreter recently she came face to face with the Yugoslav she says helped beat her baby daughter to death in a Communist prison 12 years ago.

Mrs. Louise Balogh said she recognized the man when police here called her in to interpret while they were questioning him in connection with a morals charge.

The man, a laborer who came to Canada 10 years ago from Yugoslavia, has since been sentenced to two years in prison on the morals charge. Police said the immigration department has a deportation order against him.

Mrs. Balogh has since ceased to act as a police interpreter because of telephone threats she said she received after interviewing the man with police.

Asked who might harm her family, she replied simply: "Reds."

She said Mrs. Balogh told them six soon as she saw him that the man was one of four Yugoslavian Communist police officers who captured her along with her baby daughter Rose and her son Leslie as they fled Hungary.

She said the man was one of four who punched, kicked and whipped Rose, then less than a year old, and slammed her against the wall of the prison in Zenejanin, Yugoslavia in March 1949.

"They were all beating her to try to make the answer their questions," said the pretty housewife.

Mrs. Balogh said she finally escaped the prison with her son in January, 1950. Leslie now is 15. They have four other children, Louis, 8, George, 6, Elizabeth, 4, and Gordon 1½.

RCMP were called in on the case at the time but city police said the RCMP officers concluded there was nothing they could do. So far city police files are concerned the case is closed and Mrs. Balogh said she does not intend to pursue the matter because "apparently there is nothing that can be done."

Harkness Denies Volunteers Supplied With Canada Arms

OTTAWA (CP)—An assertion that Canadian volunteers fighting against the Castro government of Cuba were equipped with Canadian Army weapons was denied Thursday by Defence Minister Harkness.

H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) said in the Commons the assertion was made Wednesday night in a news broadcast over station CJOH by a Kevin Griffin.

Mr. Griffin had said he was one of 100 Maritimers who volunteered to fight against the government of Cuba at a salary of $200 a month—still unpaid—and further that the volunteers were equipped with Canadian Army rifles, Bren guns and grenades.

The CCF member asked the government for comment on the report.

Mr. Harkness said he had been told that Griffin said the weapons were .303 rifles, Bren guns and sten guns stolen from Camp Gagetown, N.B. Such weapons have never been issued to Gagetown, the minister declared.

"There have been no thefts at Camp Gagetown since Jan. 1 of this year except for one pistol," he went on. "Therefore the allegation that these were Canadian rifles, Bren guns and Sten guns stolen from Camp Gagetown is completely incorrect."

Mr. Harkness said Griffin served in the navy for some time, finally being released on the basis of stability rating. Subsequently he enlisted in the army under his father's name, and served in 1957 from January to July. When his proper name became known he was released again on the stability rating.

External Affairs Minister Green said he had no knowledge of the kinds of activities described by Griffin.

"My understanding is that he did not suggest he had been recruited in Canada. The policy of the Canadian government has been and is not to tolerate the recruiting of Canadian citizens by foreign agents on Canadian soil. . . . No export of military equipment to the Caribbean region has been authorized since July of 1960."

USED CARS ARE OUR BUSINESS

NOT JUST A "SIDELINE" TO FACILITATE A NEW AUTOMOBILE FRANCHISE!!

HAND PICKED USED CARS
Every car on our lot has been hand picked by our buyer. He is an expert and has appraised every unit and buys them on their individual merits and values.

MORE COMPETITIVE PRICES
Our prices speak for themselves. We make competition, we don't meet it. Every unit on our lot is priced by the Canadian Red Book and that is at least $200 less than local retail.

BETTER FINANCING FACILITIES
We sell with "NO DOWN PAYMENT" and yet we are able to offer Belleville's lowest finance rates. We make payments to suit the budget, and not budgets to suit payments.

A REASONABLE GUARANTEE
We do not guarantee our cars forever but we do Guarantee them for a reasonable length of time with a guarantee that protects you and your investment . . . what more could you want.

1956 BUICK
And it is a 3-door hardtop, established in powder blue, this unit offers the best value in the city. It's immaculate and offers radio, new tires, full chrome dress.
$999
NO DOWN PAYMENT AND ONLY $41 PER MONTH

1956 Monarch
This one is unbelievable at the price. It is finished in Regal blue with Diehard guaranteed white sidewalls. New white wall tires, automatic power brakes make it the big buy.
$899
NO DOWN PAYMENT AND ONLY $38 PER MONTH

1957 DODGE
DELUXE SUBURBAN
This one is like new. It is finished in sky blue and white and includes V-8 motor, new white walls and has only 19,000 miles, it is worth $1595 easily.
$1395
Cash, Trade or Terms

USED CARS ARE OUR BUSINESS
And that is our only business. We buy our cars and we pay only the value of that used car, not the price we have to allow to take it in on a new unit. When we buy a car we have only "X" number of dollars invested and all we want is a reasonable profit. On the other hand, when a Used Car is taken in on a new one, the original investment is still there and the profits must be greater to cover that investment. Secondly, we buy only the cars that we want and we aren't forced to take just any car that the public happens to trade-in. In the Used Car business, our premises can be smaller, our staff is smaller and so our profits can also be smaller and this means savings to you.

1955 PONTIAC

Canadian Garden Service

By Gordon Lindsay Smith

EASY DOES IT

The trouble with most gardeners is that they are too eager and enthusiastic. They want to rush things; start planting before the soil is really fit; sow too much seed and far too deep, and finally stop planting far too soon.

These are the commonest mistakes and all are usually corrected after a season or two. The main thing is to work with nature who proceeds in leisurely fashion.

Despite the natural urge to to get out with a spade and rake the first time the sun gets really warm, there is no need to rush. Most plants prefer warm air and warm soil and will only lie dormant until these conditions are met. Very often things planted several days or even a week or so later will catch up and do better than those rushed into the ground while the soil is still cold and damp. There are a few exceptions of course, like grass seed, sweet peas and nursery stock, but generally speaking it is best to err on the late than the early side.

GIVE THEM ROOM

And many new gardeners are also inclined to sow seed far too close together, forgetting that though the seed may be tiny the plants resulting will require room to grow and thrive. Even the finest seed like that of the alyssum, lettuce, poppy and so on should be spread thinly and one can easily do this by mixing with a little sand or fine soil and sowing the mixture. Of course the finer the seed the more shallow the planting. Merely pressing tiny seeds firmly into the soil is sufficient, while larger such as beans, peas or nasturtiums should be covered with about a scant inch of fine soil.

But perhaps the most serious mistake of all is to stop planting too soon. In most parts of Canada one can go on planting a succession of flowers and vegetables right up to early July and in even the colder areas it is usually possible and highly desirable to make at least two sowings of such things as lettuce, radish, spinach, carrots, beets and so on. By making several sowings we spin out the harvest and have a really productive garden.

SHORT CUTS

Using new and earlier varieties is one way of extending the gardening season. There are several others. One is to use some well started plants, or bedding plants, as the professional calls them. These are either bought or one can grow them from seed in flat boxes or pots in a bright window. They are started several weeks ahead of the regular seeding time and transplanted to permanent quarters in the garden after all danger of frost is over. In this way we gain or add to the setting or flowering season two weeks to a month for such things as tomatoes, peppers, cabbages, petunias, zinnias, snapdragons, and all sorts of other things. Sometimes we use only a few started plants for extra early bloom or meals and the main sum depend on sowing seed outside at the regular time. Another short cut is to sow while there is still some danger of frost and protect with sheets of glass, or miniature tents made of waxed paper or translucent plastic. In this way we can add at least a fortnight to the season.

WHAT'S IN A NAME

Common names for flowers, vegetables and shrubs can be misleading. That is why the catalogue usually lists also the scientific or Latin name which is the same in any part of the world. The common name may vary from one locality to another. Sometimes it is the windflower, in other places the anemone, sometimes the red hot poker, sometimes the Tritoma. Spirea and bridal wreath are both used for one of our most popular shrubs. Many people seem to think that painted daisies and pyrethum are two different flowers, but they are the same. So are bergamot and bee balm, snapdragons and antirrhinum, digitalis and foxglove, bellcherry-sum and strawflowers, cactus-actelsia and California poppy and so on. The rose of sharon is sometimes called the hollyhock bush but it is neither a hollyhock nor a rose, it is a hibiscus.

Easy to Add Bathrooms in Most Houses

Every bedroom deserves a bathroom, say the home planning experts, and this convenient arrangement need not wait for a "dream" house of the future.

In fact with the latest developments in bathroom and product designs, it probably can be had quite easily in your present home. It's not out of the question even if you live in an old, one-bathroom house.

The trick lies in making full use of all available space. An area under the stairs may be perfect for an extra powder room on the first floor. A roomy, old-fashioned closet upstairs might yield the necessary footage for an extra lavatory, powder room or complete bathroom. A back hall off the kitchen could house a "mud room" for washing up after work or play in the yard. And, lavatory-dressing tables can be installed right in the bedrooms.

SPACE UTILIZATION

Don't forget your present bathroom, either. Even if it measures as little as 9 x 12 feet, you can transform the area into a one-and-a-half bathroom arrangements or two complete bathrooms.

If your bathroom is still smaller, you may increase its usefulness by adding a fixture or two. The installation of twin lavatories or the small home dental lavatory can go a long way to solving morning and evening bottlenecks in this all-important room. And, by building partitions, you can insure complete privacy, as well as multiple use of all your bathroom fixtures.

If available space measures 10' x 13' 4", you can install two complete bathrooms in the most economical of all arrangements — with the toilet, lavatory and bathtub in each room installed against a common wall. This places all six fixtures close down to waste supply pipes ,thus lessening the amount of costly piping needed.

NEW COMPACT TUB

If your present bathroom measures 7' x 12', you may transform it into two complete bathrooms by using the American-Standard Rostal in one bathroom. This compact tub, measuring only 30" x 15", takes no more space than most shower stalls, yet provides combined bath and shower facilities.

If you may choose a bath-and-a-half arrangement. Suggested layouts of this type include the partitioning of one tub in a room of its own easily accessible from two powder room areas.

MULTI-USE BATHROOM combines washing and laundry facilities. Ideal for the busy, working housewife, who can take care of laundry in same room where clothes are discarded for washing. Cabinet-lavatory provided ample storage space for towels, etc. American-Standard.

ADDED STORAGE in the powder room is smartly provided by this cabinet-lavatory. Vitreous china ledges are handy for arranging toiletries; round cabinet provides storage space. American-Standard.

COMPLETE BATHROOM can be arranged in even small areas, through the use of the new compact bathtubs (38" x 39") which take up about the same space as a shower stall. Rostal Receptor.

Low-Cost Expansion Possible

The need for additional living space is often what comes to mind first, and most forcibly when the family gives thought to the matter of how its present home can be made to serve its requirements more comfortably and conveniently.

If the family has increased in size, perhaps one or more extra bedrooms will get top priority on the home improvement schedule. Or possibly indicated for early consideration will be a study where Dad can read or work in peace, a sewing room for mother, a playroom for the children or a family room for everybody to enjoy.

First step in any such program is to evaluate the house in terms of the practical possibilities for remodeling to create the desired extra room or rooms.

Fortunately for those concerned with expanding a home's living facilities, almost every house has unused space that could readily be converted into useful extra rooms.

ATTIC CONVERSIONS

In many homes an unused attic will provide ample space for one or two extra rooms — bedrooms for the children or guest rooms. Another good piece of useable space is the basement, which often offers excellent possibilities for an attractive recreation room, family room, hobby room or TV lounge.

Usually it is possible to have an extra bedroom in either of these areas, in many homes the plumbing lines are so located that they can be extended to the floor above or below at modest cost.

Still other possibilities for conversion to more useful purposes are offered by an open porch or attached garage, either of which can often be made into a comfortable den.

Once you have decided which area of the house offers the best possibilities for remodelling, the next question to consider is how much, if any, of the work involved you will be able and wish to do yourself.

ALLOCATION OF WORK

The answer in each case, will depend in large measure upon the "handiness" of the homeowner, the amount of time he can or is willing to devote to the job, and the complexities of the project itself.

Do-it-yourself can be the answer for some people on some jobs. But it is usually not feasible when major alterations are involved, or when you want to add a porch, remodel a carport or put a dormer in an attic. Plumbing and electrical work also call for specialized outside help.

Having decided who is going to do what in connection with your remodelling project, the next thing is to call in the required general or specialized (plumber, electrician, etc.) contractors for competitive bids.

If you are going to do most or all of the carpentry work yourself, make a rough sketch of the doors, windows or special architectural features, such as corners or stairs. Mark down all measurements and take this sketch to a reliable lumber dealer. From it he will be able to give you an idea of what the job will cost. Often, too, he can give you some practical tips on ways to make your remodelling job easier and less expensive.

PAINT SYSTEM

To keep upkeep in use while it is being helped, split the painting job into two halves. Do every second step the first day. Allow this to dry overnight and paint alternate steps the next day.

Storage Space Problems Are Often Solved by Built-ins

Big home or little home, large household or small, there is hardly a family that can say it has adequate storage space. The lack may be general — from attic to the basement — or it may be confined mainly to certain rooms ,such as kitchen, bathroom, or family room.

Lumber and lumber paneling are ideal for creating built-ins to correct the lack of storage facilities, for lumber will fit into any decorative scheme and it is relatively easy and cheap to work with. This is especially true of softwoods and some of the most readily available are the species that grow in the western pine region.

Built-ins naturally should be appropriate to the room. This sounds elementary, but it takes some planning and forethought to work out the sort of built-ins that will do the best job in a specific situation.

For example, storage space in a kitchen should be coordinated with work areas. Drawers and cabinets should be planned to hold items used below counters and cupboards to contain lighter items should go above. Consideration should be given, too, to space for mixers, toasters, blenders and other small appliances that a housewife may not wish to keep out all the time.

In a bathroom — even in a small one — there usually is space to box in the area under the basin. This will provide room for towels, extra soap and bathroom tissue, and perhaps also for bulkier things such as hot water bottles. If the bathroom is fairly good-sized, then cabinets may be built on the wall to hold these supplies, medicines and other necessities.

A family room, of course, can provide storage space for myriad belongings. These include movie and slide projection equipment, card tables and games supplies, hobby materials and radio - phonograph equipment. Space also might be set aside in this room to display a collection of old china and glass, athletic trophies or, perhaps, prized examples of photography .

The storage wall is another concept that works in many rooms and will provide a great deal of varied storage space.

It is most useful, perhaps, in a child's bedroom, where a wardrobe closet arrangement will hold both hanging and folded clothing and drawer or cupboard can be utilized for sports equipment and toys.

However, it can be used almost anywhere to advantage. These built-in units can be designed to cover a whole wall and will save space often occupied by furniture.

Be Careful In Your Choice Of Carpeting

When it comes to carpeting for the stairway in the home, today's young homemaker is in the same boat as the one that was Lady Macbeth and her "damned" spot. The stairs can be just as treacherous. The advent of acrylic fibers, however, has provided a boon in shedding light on the problems at hand.

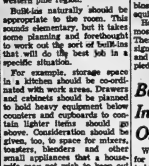
The four major points to be considered when selecting carpeting for any area in the home — comfort, safety and beauty — claim special attention when applied to the stairs.

Carrying laundry, answering the phone, finding out why Johnny is crying, a ringing doorbell — these and other interferences causes countless trips up and down the stairs for a young homemaker during the course of the day.

She knows better than any other member of the family how important is a well-chosen runner. When stairs are poorly covered, her legs remind her of it at the day's end. The bounce and spring in Acrilan carpets can relieve her of the feeling that they had to be lost as though she were endeavoring to strike oil for the summit of Mount Everest.

HAVE BENEFITS

These carpets have acoustical benefits, too, which are especially advantageous with young children on the scene, who have an innate knack for making a stairway sound like an echo chamber.



Because the stairway is merely a transition rather than a living area, young people are sometimes inclined to give too little care to fibre content texture, pattern and even the color of a runner. These factors are actually important in the selection of stairway carpeting which many times must serve as a blend between upstairs and downstairs carpeting.

If a runner is to be installed do-it-yourself fashion, measure the length starting at the first crotch, which is the juncture of the floor and the riser. Continue up to the second crotch, the juncture of the first tread and the second riser.

The measuring should continue right up to the top, rather than meddling the sum total of stairs by the first figure, for there may be variations in the height of the risers. runner light in color.

An extra inch should be added to each step to allow for a pad to be tacked to each tread, thus providing the carpet with longer life.

For safety sake, use slip-proof carpeting, and if your stairway is a dark one, use a lions in the height of the risers. runner light in color.

Laundry Centre Can Appear Almost Anywhere in Home

Upstairs, downstairs, in the hall closet, the family room or even the bathroom — you never know where the modern homemaker is going to place her laundry centre. In terms of convenience, time and labor saving, any one of these locations is ideal for a laundry, according to the Maytag Home Service department.

With the neat, handsome design of today's automatic wash-dryers, the only real wash-dryer, the only real limits in selecting a location are adequate plumbing facilities and space.

The kitchen has already been established as a popular spot, for convenience and simplified installation, but this doesn't mean that other locations can't be as practicable.

The family room is another popular choice, especially in one-storey homes. Plan the laundry area at one end of the room, preferably near existing plumbing connections. If you add sliding doors, a screen or similar decorating device, the units can easily be concealed when not in use.

Another popular arrangement is a separate utility room. This is particularly good if space is no problem, for it allows room for ironing, sewing and other related activities in one central area.

In the two-storey home, upstairs is a convenient location since it saves needless stair climbing. The bathroom — if it is large enough — is a good choice. Plumbing is handy and cabinet space can be easily added.

Older homes often have wasted hall space, large closets or small unused bedrooms — all of which can be easily converted into a laundry.

Double purpose is served by this bathroom which includes washing and drying equipment. Tile divider between tub and laundry equipment houses piping for both. Fixtures and fittings by American-Standard.

PUTTY HINTS

Before putying, dust your hands with whiting or flour. This will prevent the putty from sticking messily to your hands.

Asphalt, Used For Milleniums, Comes of Age

Half a million years ago, give or take a century or two, an exploring cave man came across a pool of natural asphalt, dipped his hand into it, and then wondered for days afterward why no amount of scrubbing would get the black, sticky mess off his hands.

The reason, of course, is that asphalt was then, as it is now, the most effective waterproofing agent known.

It took man thousands of years to catch on to the value of asphalt after his first sticky discovery, but it's a fact that asphalt has been in regular use as a basic construction material for more than five thousand years.

One of its earliest uses was as mortar, by the Babylonians, for some of history's first brick walls. The asphalt was frustrating to the beauty - minded Babylonians because it failed to add to the appearance of the walls. But it was unbeatable as an adhesive, and held the walls together for centuries.

Another dawn-of-history use for asphalt was as a caulking material for the seams of the wicker basket that floated the baby Moses safely in the bulrushes. Asphalt kept the water out efficiently, but if Moses had been older, he might have walloped an objection to his sticky, black surroundings.

Though its ages asphalt has been the ugly duckling of construction, from the walls of Babylon to its early use in the twentieth century as a roofing material. But its durability and waterproofing ability outshone its lack of beauty.

Today, thanks to the development of modern asphalt shingles the ugly duckling has grown into a swan. Asphalt, in the form of colorful, mineral surfaced shingles, now is used to make homes more beautiful, as well as to provide a waterproof and fire-resistant roof.

The change came about when it was discovered that millions of mineral granules in color applied to asphalt shingles not only improved their appearance but protected the asphalt from the drying rays of the sun and the wearing effect of wind and water, making them tougher and more durable with a coat of rock.

This mineral granule surface also provides the shingle with a soft, textured appearance, and the choice of pigments make the many solid and blended colors available in asphalt shingles possible.

Since the roof is the largest exterior surface of the house, many color consultants and architects choose the roof color first. This is easily explained since the roof is usually the first thing seen when approaching the house.

An added advantage to home beauty is that roof colors often help correct poor house designs. If a house is tall and awkward-looking, a dark shade of asphalt shingles will appear to lower the exterior lines. White or lighter shades of asphalt shingles will appear to enlarge or expand a small structure.

Pender Respects Basilio

BOSTON (AP) — Champion Paul Pender refuses to underestimate Carmen Basilio whom he meets in a middleweight title fight Saturday night.

The scheduled 15-rounder at Boston Garden offers a contrast in fistic styles between the clever - boxing Pender, making his second defence, and the hard-hitting challenger appearing in his 11th championship test.

Pender's crown is recognized only in Massachusetts, New York and Europe. But the 30-year - old ex - fireman from Brookline, Mass., expects to get nearly $80,000 as his share of an expected $100,000 gate plus $75,000 in television rights.

Giving away four years in age and five inches in reach, Basilio expects to reap about $50,000.

"This is a good fighter," Pender said Thursday night after a light workout in sweat togs. "I'm making no miscalculations with Basilio."

Pender, a 12 - to-5 favorite, would not reveal his fight strategy but the figuring is that he will try to keep Basilio off balance with his left jab and mix in Carmen's announced body attack plan. The bout is likely to go the full 15 rounds to a decision.

DON'T UNDERRATE

"I didn't take this fight to lose," said Basilio. "Just don't make the mistake of underrating me. If an opportunity arises I'll try for a knockout but no overdrive. I expect to have to chase him. His style is not aggressive."

What if Basilio loses?

"If I feel after the fight I have gone too far downhill I'll quit on the spot," he replied. "I don't intend to keep fighting just for a paycheck."

The bout will be carried by ABC-TV and will be seen in the Toronto area on CFTO-TV.

Al Singer Dies at 51

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Singer, the Bronx beauty who won and lost the lightweight boxing championship on first-round knockouts in 1930, died of a heart attack Thursday. He was 51 although the record book listed him at 53.

As a box office attraction during the golden 20s and early 30s, Singer won the lightweight title when he was 20 by knocking out Sammy Mandell in 146 of the first round July 17, 1930. The following Nov. 14, Tony Canzoneri knocked him out in 1:06 of the first round.

Singer had a 60-8-2 won-lost-draw record, including 24 knockouts.

Thompson Has Stroke Lead Over 'Chick'

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Australian Peter Thomson blistled the last two holes Thursday for a five - under - par 65 and a one - stroke lead over Chick Harbert in the first round of the $40,000 Houston golf classic.

Grouped at 67 were Jack Burke, Julius Boros and three newcomers — Jerry Pittman, Johnny Pott and Gordon Jones.

Al Balding of Toronto was one of the six players tied at 69. Jerry Magee of Toronto fired a 71.

Fred Pletsch To Become Chatham Cop

CHATHAM (CP) — Fred Pletsch, star forward for Galt Terriers, Allan Cup finalists, was given the green light today to change uniforms at the end of the hockey season.

Pletsch, 28, was hired Thursday as a Chatham policeman. Provided he passes the necessary medical examination and his present employers are willing to let him go by that time, he will join the force May 5.

Pletsch, who beat out four other applicants for the vacancy left open by the December death of Const. Frank Parker, is on loan to the Terriers from Chatham Maroons.

Wants Rodden In Sports Hall of Fame

KINGSTON (CP) — Former National Hockey League referee Red Storey said Thursday night Mike Rodden should be made a member of Canada's new Sports Hall of Fame.

Storey was guest speaker at a Kingston sports dinner and Rodden, in failing health, made the function his first public appearance in more than a year.

"Mike Rodden made football in Hamilton," Storey said, "and he was an idol in my area.

"It he doesn't make the Hall of Fame it's because there isn't one."

Rodden, who is known to be well over 70 but won't admit to his age, is one of the few Canadians who can lay claim to success as a player, coach, referee and sports writer. He was an all - star intercollegiate football player four consecutive years, coach of three senior Big Four football teams and coach — for two games — of the NHL's Toronto St. Pats. He was a referee for 1,187 NHL games.

Sports editor of the Kingston Whig - Standard until a few years ago, he still writes three sports columns a week.

Mantle Almost One-Man Yankee Show

Homers Twice Scores Three

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Early Wynn was one triumph nearer today to his 300-victory goal but the veteran Chicago White Sox pitcher was still three lengths behind Spahn in their spirited race to see who gets there first.

The 41-year-old righthander, after three failures, finally notched his 285th major league success pitching the White Sox to a 5-1 triumph Thursday over Washington Senators. Spahn, the brilliant Milwaukee Braves lefthander, was slated to try for his 299th victory in Pittsburgh tonight in the National League.

It was the first victory of the year for Wynn. He made two unsuccessful tries for win No. 285 last summer and failed in last four innings in the 1961 season opener at Washington April 10.

New York Yankees, idled since Monday because of foul weather, swept a doubleheader from Los Angeles Angels 7-3 and 4-2 to surge into a second place tie with Detroit. Minnesota, due to open its home season today, leads the American League race by one half game.

TIGERS WIN

The Tigers pounded out an 11-4 victory in Cleveland. Kansas City, Baltimore and Boston, along with Minnesota, were not scheduled.

Wynn received solid home run support from his White Sox Mates. Among the 12 hits off loser Hal Woodeshick and two relievers were four-baggers by Roy Sievers, Jim Landis and Al Smith. Wynn, tagged for nine hits, yielded a run in the third when Marty Keough tripled and scored on Cool Veal's fly. Wynn pitched himself out of a bases-loaded, none-out game in the sixth with the Sox ahead only 2-1.

Mickey Mantle was nearly the entire show in Yankee Stadium where the defending champions increased their victory string to four. The slugging centre fielder, drove in all three runs in the Yankees' game last Friday and rest in five more in Thursday's opener, hitting his second and third home runs of the season. He had only one single in the second game but drew two walks that started Yank rallies and scored one run.

NEEDED HELP

Righthanders Art Ditmar and Bob Turley were the winning pitchers but both needed late inning help. Turley walked nine in 6-3 innings of the nightcap before giving way to Luis Arroyo, Eli Grba and Ned Garver were the losers. Former Yankee utility outfielder Ken Hunt hit two doubles, a triple and a homer for the Angeles, who lost the services of third baseman Eddie Yost with a hairline fracture of the middle finger.

The Tigers jumped on Cleveland's Gary Bell for four runs in the first inning, featured by Rocky Colavito's double, and added three more in the fifth on Norm Cash's home run with two on. Frank Lary pitched his second victory while Bell went down in his second defeat. Detroit's Steve Boros was hit by pitched balls in the seventh and eighth innings, forcing in a run each time.

They die hard!

A commercial traveller friend, not the type usually associated with the farmer's daughter stories, tells me that down Montreal way the Habitants' faces are still in mourning over the fate of their beloved Canadiens.

Len Branson, a sports writer for Hockey News, is still wiping away the salty tears. He says in an article "Old clothes were revived to properly paint the sad picture of the once mighty Canadiens bobbing home after being soundly beaten by the hustling Hawks.

"The end of an era, they say."

"We say, Phooey!"

"Anybody," writes Branson, "who says the Canadiens aren't still the most powerful club in the National Hockey League is out of his mind. Over a 70-game schedule there isn't a club in the world who can touch the beaten Habs."

There, mes amis, is loyalty that cannot be equalled.

Come, come, Mr. Branson let's face the facts—and the records.

I meekly submit that any club, the Chicago Black Hawks, or the Shawinville Bagiers, who can walk into the Montreal Forum and hang a 3-0 collar on the mighty Canadiens deserves the time-worn leather medal.

Like the Yankees aficionados last October who went around the town yakking through wet eyeballs," the better team lost," Habitant fans are taking solace from the same hoary old cliche.

From this angle, and from subsequent events, play-offs wise, the Canadiens went down before a Black Hawk team that had not reached the heights or exercised its true potential.

Stanley Cups or any other big-time professional pewterware are not won on records, or what might have been. They usually are won on the field of honor and in most cases it is taken for granted the "better participant emerges victorious."

In fact Mr. Brannon does not think too highly of the upstart Hawks that pinched the pewter from his beloved Habitants. Says he: "The third-place Chicago Black Hawks finished a poor third, 15 points back of the Toronto Maple Leafs. No one can tell me that the same club in 1961-62 will close that gap."

Come, come, again, Mr. Brannon. May I introduce Mr. Rudy Pilous, Mr. Tommy Ivan and Mr. Jim Norris. They may have news for you. As a tip, I might tell you that this trio has ideas that may gap-closing to be done, will be the job of five other clubs in the National Hockey League.

Brannon says "while no official announcement has been make about how the Canadiens hope to get players they need to maintain their NHL supremacy, there is little they can do but trade."

Supremacy, Mr. Brannon?

They know their weaknesses and they know the players they want, says the Montreal writer. "It all depends on what they have to give up to get them."

"Ten members of the 1960-61 club," Brannon writes, "are sure of their jobs next season. The remainder could end up anywhere from here to Squaw Valley."

The ten are Jacques Plante, Tom Johnson, Jean Guy Talbot, J. C. Tremblay, Boom-Boom Geoffrion, Jean Beliveau, Henri Richard, Dickie Moore, Don Marshall and Bill Cayette. The rest can be had, yes verily, even the great Doug Harvey.

"So," says Mr. Brannon, "don't feel sorry for the Canadiens. When it comes to talking trade they're still in the driver's seat. They still have more to offer than any other club in the league. And the other five clubs have to strengthen more than the Habs."

Tsk, Tsk, Mr. Brannon, the smart-alec Black Hawks had no less than five Canadien cast-offs in their glory-and-gold lineup. They are Ed. Laurent, Litzenburger, Ab MacDonald, Hay and Baltour.

Montreal trade-bait could, like many sports "deals" turn into boomerangs.

Hull-Ottawa Sweeps EPL Awards

OTTAWA (CP)—Hull-Ottawa Canadiens completed a sweep of individual awards in the Eastern Professional Hockey League with Thursday's announcement that centre Cliff Pennington had been named outstanding rookie of the 1960-61 season.

Pennington was earlier chosen to the all - star team, the most valuable player to his team and the most gentlemanly player. The other individual award — outstanding defenceman — went to Al MacNeil of Canadiens.

Pennington, considered an outstanding National League prospect won the EPHL scoring title in his first professional season. He scored 36 goals and established a record for assists with 58.

The unanimous choice of sportswriters for the award, Pennington was trailed in the voting balloting by teammate Bobby Boutassa and Pat Preston of Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds.

CHOSEN TOP ROOKIE

SEATTLE (CP) — Portland Buckaroos goalkeeper Don Head was named rookie-of-the-year in the Western Hockey League for 1960-61. Head, 27, who played for Canada at the 1960 Winter Olympics, had seven shutouts this year and a goal average of 2.74 a game. He received 118 of a possible 120 votes and second place Bruce MacGregor of Edmonton was second with 39½.

Third Game In Kitchener

Czech Trip Gave Maroons Chance

GALT (CP) — Coach Gold Simpson Thursday credited a mid-season trip by his Winnipeg Maroons to Czechoslovakia for the team's advance into the Allan Cup senior hockey finals against Galt Terriers.

Simpson, in an interview after the team worked out in preparation for tonight's second game in the best-of-seven series, said the Czech trip gave the team theis, first chance in years to engage in something close to league play.

For several years the Maroons have been a team without a league. The nearest senior team is 800 miles away from the Manitoba capital.

Simpson, who worked Wednesday's been a substitute for regular league play, "It would be different groups every time out till we got together for the playoffs.

"This season we had to start early because of the trip to Europe," he said, "and we stayed together when we got back."

"It must have made a difference, because every other year we lost in the western final to the B.C. team."

The Maroons are not planning any changes for tonight's game, despite the fact they're down 1-0 in the series. Galt won the first game Wednesday 3-2.

Don Collins will continue to rub for Gord Dibley in the Winnipeg goal. One of the three Galt goalie came while he was benched for a stich attacker, Simpson said of Collins' performance: "I couldn't have asked for a better job."

Simpson, when worked Wednesday as a fifth defenceman, has only rearguard Doug Mosser in reserve.

Terriers, who have won 28 of their last 32 games, also plan to stand pat with their lineup.

Galt officials Thursday announced hockey advance in each of the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh games.

The clubs will play their third game in Kitchener Sunday, returning here for the fourth game Monday. The other four games, if necessary, will be here Wednesday and Friday and in Kitchener Sunday.

Wanted! Coaches For Minor League

An organization meeting of the Belleville Minor baseball and softball leagues will be held Monday night at the Recreation Centre at 7:30 o'clock.

Russ Soule will represent the baseball and Allan Sills the softball and hopes to have extended their invitations for all interested parties to attend.

The need for coaches and umpires is again pointed out and it has been stated that unless more persons are willing to take an active interest this year, the number of teams taking part will have to be reduced.

Anyone who wishes to coach but who cannot attend Monday's meeting is asked to call the Recreation office.

Cards, Pirates Giants Tied

Braves Score 5 In Ninth For Win

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Charlie Dressen has a tendency to peg off, but even his detractors admit he usually knows what he's talking about.

The outspoken Milwaukee Braves manager has maintained that all his Braves need to win the National League pennant is a strong bullpen. He blames last year's failure to win the flag on the flop of relief pitcher Don McMahon.

Dressen's claim received strong support Thursday night when the Braves overcame a 4-1 count with five runs in the ninth inning and one in the 11th to nip Philadelphia Phillies 7-6.

Dressen must have derived as much satisfaction from the flashy pitching of his relief pitchers as from the spectacular rallies of his hitters. After his starter, Lew Burdette, was rocked for 10 hits in 8 innings, the Phillies faced four relievers — Ken Mackenzie, Seth Morehead, McMahon and Don Piche. They yielded a total of six hits and Piche got the victory.

CLIMBED INTO 4TH

St. Louis Cardinals and San Francisco Giants climbed into a three-way tie with Pittsburgh Pirates for second place, a half game behind the league-leading Cincinnati Reds. The Cards belted Los Angeles Dodgers 11-3 and the Giants edged the Reds 2-1. Chicago Cubs shut out the Pirates 3-0.

Pinch - hitter Mel Roach's three-run homer and Frank Bolling's two-run double produced the big rally for the Braves in the ninth inning. Two innings later, Roy McMillan was hit by a pitched ball by Johnny Buzhardt, advanced to third on a throwing error by Bob Malkmus and came home with the winning run on a single by reserve catcher Charlie Lau.

The Phils' big inning was the fifth, when they got four runs on four hits, including a three-run homer by catcher Clay Dalrymple.

Righthander Glen Hobbie won his first game of the season for the Cubs with a six-hit shutout over the Pirates. He struck out seven men and walked one. The Cubs got 10 hits off southpaw Joe Gibbon and Clem Labine and scored what proved to be the only run they needed in the sixth on rookie catcher Dick Bertell's single following a double by Andre Rodgers.

SUPER HURLING DUEL

Mike McCormick won a southpaw hurling duel from Jim O'Toole permitting only four hits for his second Giant victory. Until he gave up a run in the ninth, he had hurled 17 straight scoreless innings. McCormick was responsible for the winning run when he led off the third with a single. Joe Amalfitano forced him, went to third on Harvey Kuenn's infield out and scored when Willie Mays grounded into a double play.

Giant manager Alvin Dark shook up his lineup, benching Willie McCovey, Jim Davenport and Charlie Hiller. He moved Orlando Cepeda from left field to first base, Harvey Kuenn from third base to right field, Felipe Alou from right to left and played Jimmy Davenport at third, Jose Pagan at short and Amalfitano at second.

The Cards pounded Dodger starter Stan Williams and his inept relievers for 17 hits, including two home runs by Daryl Spencer and another by Ken Boyer.

St. Louis second baseman Julian Javier had four hits. Curt Simmons — with the help of Bobby Miller, won his first game of the season.

Leafs Win Third Over San Juan

Johnny Schaive, who never was much of a hitter in his big league tryouts, seems to have blossomed out as a power hitter with Columbus Jets.

The stubby second baseman batted .232 but hit only nine homers for Charleston last season. He connected for his second homer in as many games for Columbus Thursday night and paved the way for the Jets' second straight victory over Syracuse Chiefs, 3-2.

Jersey City Jerseys finally got their season started, rallying in the eighth to beat Buffalo Bisons 5-4. The defending champion Toronto Leafs made it three out of four over the San Juan Marlins 10-4. Richmond and Rochester were idle.

Schaive's eighth-inning homer off veteran Jackie Collum only tied the score at 2-2 for Columbus. But rightfielder Donn Clendenon followed with a triple to the centre field fence and scored the winning run on a wild pitch. Clendenon also made the first Jet run, reaching first on an error and then scoring on catcher Don Leppert's single. It was Leppert's fifth straight hit and seventh run batted in.

Jersey City shelled Dick Ricketts for five runs in the second inning, then had to come from behind with three in the eighth to win. Two Cuban players struck the big blow for the former Havana club. Ultus Alvarez doubled to send Angelo Degres home with the tying run, then Alvarez and Jim Pendleton scored the winning counters on Dan Morejon's double.

A scanty crowd of 300 at San Juan saw Toronto win an errorfilled game after spotting the Marlins four runs in the first inning. Billy Moran made four hits and drove in two runs for the Leafs and Sparky Anderson batted in three runs.

Julio Cotay's homer marked the Marlin rally. But Toronto tied it in the fifth and then hammered relief pitchers Grover Gregory and Hal Dietz for five more runs in the eighth.

Depends on Tonight's Score

Might End Junior Series

TORONTO (CP) — Moncton Beavers say they're a long way from being counted out in the Memorial Cup semi - final series.

They aren't making any excuses about their bumiliating 11-2 defeat at the hands of Toronto St. Michael's College Majors in the opener of the best-of-five junior hockey series Wednesday.

But the Beavers say "we can't be any worse" and the Majors might be in for a surprise in the second game tonight.

If the Beavers are any worse, it could mean the end of the series. A spokesman for the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said Thursday the series might be cut to a best-of-three affair if tonight's result is similar to the first engagement.

"We can't predict what is going to happen," said Lionel Fiserv of Ottawa, the CAHA official who will watch the game and make the decision.

"If it's a decent game, there's no point in curtailing the series. It's not fair to the Moncton on the spot like that now. After all, they've been idle 10 days. They were pretty good for two periods, then collapsed."

NOT SURPRISED

Beaver Manager Don Ramsay was not only surprised at his team's flop, but said the Majors showed less class than he expected. He was confident Moncton still had a chance to pull the series out of the fire. The winner of the set meets Edmonton Oil Kings in a best-of-seven series for the Memorial Cup and Canadian junior crown.

Toronto coach Rev. David Bauer was more worried about his own team than Moncton. He didn't like the way Majors were the game despite the lopsided score.

"If my boys are content to play like that and still beat them, they might play the same way against Yarmouth in the final—and Edmonton could take us to town," he said.

Want Public To Own Tiger-Cats

HAMILTON (CP)—The Hamilton and District Labor Council has thrown in its lot with a movement advocating continued public ownership of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football League. The league has insisted on private ownership.

The labor council voted unanimously Thursday night to accept an executive motion to endorse objectives of the newly-formed citizens' committee for public ownership of the Ticats. The committee wants the club operated as a community enterprise.

Alderman William Foley, secretary of the labor council and a member of the committee, warned that if the Ticats in private ownership went bankrupt, taxpayers would have to pay off debentures on the new stadium.

He said debentures on the $750,000 addition to Hamilton Civic Stadium amounted to $100,000 a year.

The Tracks

NEW YORK (AP)—A kidney cold knocked the Rica Rica's Bal Musette out of Saturday's $75,000-added Wood Memorial at Aqueduct, but a field of six to eight is expected to start in the final major eastern horse race for three-year-olds before the Kentucky Derby.

Mrs. Kathryn Price's Carry Back, co - favorite with Fourand - Twenty for the May 6 Derby at Louisville; is the 8-5 favorite for the 37th running of the Wood over 1¼ miles. Carry Back won the Flamingo and the Florida Derby on the winter circuit.

Other certain Wood starters are Ambiopoise, Bowl Over, Rifling Away, Dr. Miller and Covered Bridge. Globemaster is a likely starter and Stan the Man mounts and won with all.

If eight go, the Wood will gross $87,300 with $56,873 to the winner.

Little Difficult to Explain Humor of Ernie Kovacs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—It is little difficult to explain Ernie Kovacs' humor. His specialty is the sight gag, a form which requires few words and in Kovacs' case usually defies them.

Thursday night during a free-wheeling half hour of madness on ABC, Kovacs presided over a series of blackouts. They included a fire hydrant that opened from a dog; a pilot who took off without his plane; a woodchopper who felled the bottom instead of the top of his tree.

Kovacs also stowed the housewives how to keep kitchen floors clean with Jiffo, the magic .45 that dispatches children before they can dirty things up. That gives you an idea.

It was a most unusual program, mostly because Kovacs is refreshing and completely unbridled. His short specials will henceforth be a a monthly affair, but Ernie can keep the gags coming.

After a day of conferences, CBS now plans to go ahead to-night with the broadcast of Jackie Gleason's Million Dollar Incident—with all mention of Bulets Durgom, Gleason's former agent - manager, erased by the tape.

A New York judge Thursday barred the telecast as long as it included Durgom's name. The agent complained he was portrayed in the program without his consent and that it held him up to "ridicule and contempt."

Bobby Darin Would Like To Be Legend When 25

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Rock 'n' roll singer Bobby Darin would like to be a legend by the time he's 25 on May 14. But he admits he won't make it.

"How can anyone be a legend when he has been exposed to the public only 2½ years?" he asks. "More people in the world don't know who I am than know who I am. That doesn't make you a legend."

But "will make it eventually ally?

"Absolutely," he says. "And I might add to my statement: I would like to be a legend by 25, and institution by 30."

Such statements make work more difficult for the let's-try-to-understand - Bobby - Darin society. Non-members of the society take the easy way out. Like the way who commented about Will Rogers: He said he never met a man he didn't like, but then he never met Bobby Darin.

Darin won't be cast aside. He's still starring in such important movies as Too Late Blues and s e l l i n g records, though admittedly not in the same quantities as before—"nobody is."

Asked for examples of legends in show business, he could name only three dead and one living: Al Jolson, W. C. Fields, Clark Gable and Frank Sinatra. Are any of them his particular idols?

His reply: "I'm my own idol."

Astrological Forecast

Saturday, April 22

By CARROLL RIGHTER

General: Tredecician: The early morning finds you able to see clearly how to put your plans of a specific nature across. Then the afternoon and the evening are splendid for deciding the policies and principles under which you can wisely operate in the future, and since it is Saturday, you can get in touch with many contacts to discuss and arrange this.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) —Do necessary repairs and put all in order during morning hours. Remainder of the day and evening can then be devoted to the hobbies and pleasures you prefer. Be sure to night, however, that you see most affectionate with loved one.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) —Take particular care while out driving or walking this morning and think before you speak. After lunch, install the gadgets that will help to make your work around the house easier, more pleasant. Be fundamental in all that you do.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) —Handle all financial affairs wisely during the morning hours. Later, get any reports filled out that are necessary. Then get together with most congenial companions and go out and have a ball. Be charming, carefree.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Regardless what may suddenly come up, pin that smile on your face and refuse to become depressed or disturbed. Later, look into new ventures that will help to bring you a far greater income in the future. Put that brain to work. Grow.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Try not to lose your temper this morning because of some private anxiety. Get out later with the person whom you truly enjoy and forget problems. Be sure you accept any invitation to some delightful social affair this evening.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) —Take the opportunity to assist others this A.M. and gain prestige. Later, concentrate upon future activities that will bring a greater income. Evening is fine for going out to a nightclub to hear that wonderful new artist.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)—If you don't carry through with civic or credit affairs in A.M., you are apt to meet with lots of bad will. Remainder of day and evening then are fine for social gatherings or affairs.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) —Be sure you send your reputation above all things this A.M., although you may be sorely tempted to act imprudently. Develop the remainder of the day to bring very nice to higher-ups, amusing them, increasing good will.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Don't take any action on that several problems, and especially do not follow any inaccurate intuition you may have. Get out with charming companions for a delightful day and evening of pleasure and relaxation. Be gay.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Don't permit an associate to rob you of prestige during A.M. because of some bit of sudden temper. Be certain to keep any promises you have made. P.M. Come to a real understanding and then have a lovely time socially tonight.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)— If you have too fierce daily or trust any helpers that way, you can have a very painful time of it now. Keep on even keel. P.M. Get out to some charming spots with partners most prone to veil understanding while having a grand time.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) —You may find that the plans you made for having a good time in A.M. are not turning out as you anticipated. Leave the undesirable and help those who look to you for assistance instead. Have a cheerful attitude. Be generous.

If your child is born today .; he, or she, will be the type of individual who will early evince a desire to win out over others in an argument. This is fine provided you teach tolerance and help to overcome that natural meanness in the nature early. Then the child becomes especially fine for the study of law, whether male or female. Give much ethical training, too ; and the fine shining legal light is very much in this horoscope.

WANTS LOWER TAXES

PORT CREDIT (CP) — Income tax incentives to encourage industrial development was urged Thursday night by Jack M. Soules, immediate past president of the Canadian Construction Association. Mr. Soules, who headed a recent Canadian construction trade mission to Latin America and the British West Indies, said among the "eye - openers" to members of the mission were the "taxation incentives which those countries encouraged business investment."

MORTGAGE LOANS — NOTICE

To those contemplating building or re-financing we suggest getting application in as early as possible. We do our own inspections and valuations and can, therefore, give immediate action. Advisory service free. Money advanced as building progresses.

Cross Canada Survey

Still 1,000 Miles to Go Before Trans-Canada Hwy. Is Finished Perhaps by '64

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Completion of the Trans-Canada Highway, once set for the end of 1960, isn't in the books for this year, either.

With about 1,500 miles of the 4,500 - mile route still lacking pavement, the provinces' plans for 1961 construction cover less than half that mileage.

Work is complete, or virtually complete, in four provinces—Prince Edward Island, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. In each of these the terrain allowed fast and relatively cheap building.

In the other provinces the road is there and open to traffic but large portions still are not up to federal standards set for the two-lane paved route.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that work planned for this year will bring about 450 miles of the highway up to standard.

Completion of the whole highway appears certain by the extended deadline of Dec. 31, 1965, set by the federal government for its cost-sharing scheme. Ottawa pays half the cost for 90 per cent of the mileage in a province and 90 per cent for the remaining mileage. The road—longest national highway in the world—has been under construction since 1950. The original completion target was Dec. 31, 1956.

QUEBEC ENTERED LAST

At April 1, value of federally-approved work by the provinces on the highway totalled $625,698,588, of which $301,002,485 has been paid by the federal government.

The breakdown by provinces: Newfoundland $37,481,877; Prince Edward Island $9,035,543; Nova Scotia $23,264,000; New Brunswick $53,582,300; Quebec $3,215,000; Ontario $200,264,894; Manitoba $33,554,383; Saskatchewan $27,852,050; Alberta $27,047,407; British Columbia $180,280,542.

Most of this year's construction will be in Ontario and Quebec.

Ontario, with 900 miles of its 1,453-mile portion still below standard, plans to spend $2,600,000 in 1961. Five bridges or underpasses are scheduled for completion.

Quebec didn't enter the federal-provincial pact until last October and this year will embark on the first phase of a $260,000,000 program designed to bring its 400 miles of existing highway up to the Trans-Canada specifications. The route, already paved, needs extensive widening and safety engineering.

The other main gaps in the coast-to-coast pavement are in the Maritimes.

SPEED-UP IN N.B.

New Brunswick has cut its Trans - Canada Highway program this year because of other urgent highway needs but will spend more than $5,000,000 on about 50 miles of work. So far 194 miles of the 390-mile line are finished.

"Substantial" spending is planned in Nova Scotia which still has almost two-thirds of its 218-mile share below standard. Only 101 miles are paved but work has speeded up in recent years with 60 miles of paving handled in 1960 alone.

Prince Edward Island's 72-mile route is finished, except for a half-mile section in the Charlottetown area where the $1,000,000 bridge is to be completed shortly.

Work is slowing in Newfoundland, which paved 90 miles last year and has about one-third of its 384 miles finished. The province wants to concentrate on new roads to isolated sections this year and Highways Minister R. Howe says Trans-Canada work won't even come close to last year's effort.

ROAD TO ROCKIES

From Ontario westward the highway now stretches without a break to the Rockies. Alberta and Saskatchewan completed their portions in 1960 and 1957, respectively, and Manitoba has all of its share ready except for a short bypass at Winnipeg. There is a paved alternate route to this bypass, however, which makes the ribbon of pavement intact across the province.

British Columbia still has to clean up about 50 miles of its 332-mile share. Work is going ahead at a steady pace there and the highway will be nearing completion by summer's end.

One of the toughest sections is through Rogers Pass in Glacier National Park. The federal government is spending $21,000,000 on this 27-mile stretch through treacherous avalanche country.

OLD AND NEW — With all but 1,000 miles of the 4,500-mile Trans-Canada Highway paved to standards set for the national project, a spectacular transformation has taken place in parts of the country. Top photo shows the Fraser Canyon highway in British Columbia 100 years ago. A recently completed section of the same highway, now part of the Trans-Canada route, is shown in the bottom photo. Construction cost about $100,000 a mile, twice the national average, because of mountainous terrain. (CP Photo).

Toll Rises

OTTAWA (CP) — The death toll from traffic accidents in Canada rose to 175 in February from 161 in the same month last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Thursday.

A total 2,906 persons were injured compared with 1,331 in February, 1960.

Sharpest rise in the death toll was in Quebec, with 44 persons killed compared with 25 a year earlier. The Ontario death toll was up to 68 from 66.

Quiz Captives For 6 Hours On Havana TV Show

Son of Rebels' Chief Says Invasion Failure

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Prisoners taken during this week's fiasco in Cuba were packed with invaders picked up in the wake of last Saturday's rebel landings, it became known Saturday as the proclamation of victory from Premier Fidel Castro.

It dawned on the reported 350 prisoners taken from invading forces including the son of the rebel movement's leader were interviewed on a television program that lasted nearly six hours in Havana.

At the end of the 6½-hour show, seen in Key West—only 90 miles away— it was announced that these were the first 12 to be interrogated, indicating there may be more such programs.

The show also was on radio, with every station in Cuba hooked up.

Jose Miro Cortes, whose father, Jose Miro Cardona, is president of the revolutionary council, told questioners that the excursion was a complete failure. He said he was radio operator with the insurgent force.

CONVINCED BY U.S.

The prisoners generally refrained affirmatively to leading questions about such matters as U.S. complicity in the invasion. Many said "American propaganda" about miserable conditions in Cuba had led them to join the rebels, but that they found conditions excellent.

One prisoner said he left Cuba Jan. 23, 1959 with 12 others on a boat. This was less than a month after Fidel Castro took over. The group said it was taken to Vieques, an island off Puerto Rico, then to Puerto Rico and, finally to New Orleans. Latte he stayed at a base in Louisiana for 17 days.

He was trained as a frogman, the prisoner said, and his mission was to mark one of the beaches for the invaders.

A prisoner named Juan, who said he was a 28-year army man and had served under dictator Fulgencio Batista, said he was recruited in Miami this month and left Opa-Locka air field on the outskirts of that city on a seven-hour flight.

HAVANA (Reuters) — Cuban jails today were packed with invaders picked up in the wake of last Saturday's rebel landings, it became known Saturday as the proclamation of victory from Premier Fidel Castro.

It dawned on the reported 350 prisoners taken from invading forces including the son of the rebel movement's leader were interviewed on a television program that lasted nearly six hours of nine Cuban newspaper men. The rebels' remarks ranged from denunciation of President Kennedy to a virtual defence of their action.

Castro's return was eagerly awaited here. His last public appearance in Havana was on April 16. Friday he was reported to have led mopping up operations against rebels.

A photograph said to have been taken near the scene of bitter fighting appeared Friday on front pages of two Havana papers and showed Castro carrying a light machine-gun and smoking a cigar.

JAILS CRAMMED

A wave of fresh arrests Friday brought thousands more into already-overcrowded jails. Relatives of detainees were permitted to visit jails in the food and reported that prison living conditions were worsening steadily.

It was difficult to find anyone here who did not know at least one person under arrest. Similarly, it was a hard job to find someone in Havana who did not know at least one man killed or wounded in fighting that broke from loyalist or insurgent forces.

No official casualty toll was announced by the government, but unconfirmed reports said "thousands" were killed in the fighting.

Newspaper photographs showed that pitched battles were fought between armies equipped with modern weapons. The government here has still not acknowledged that MIG jet fighter planes helped crush the invasion.

Jose Miro Torres, son of the revolutionary council president Jose Miro Cardona, appeared on the TV program. He wore a camouflage jacket and stubble beard and was interviewed for 45 minutes.

Describing a withdrawal from an attack by 30 tanks and militia travelling in trucks, Miro Torres said: "They fought and beat us."

The invasion was a complete flop."

Another prisoner said: "I was completely influenced by ideas of North American instructors. All of us now feel Kennedy is liar."

The prisoners told of being trained in Florida, Louisiana, Guatemala, Nicaragua and Guatemala by Americans and Germans.

External Affairs Minister Green rejected a CCF suggestion that Canada protest to the U.S. against that country's "proposed intervention in Cuba."

Northern Ontario CCF MP Douglas Fisher said resources in the near North are sitting idle while the government gets ready for North.

T. D. Garland (L — Nipissing) said Canada's worsening tourist deficit indicates the government should accelerate spending on tourist promotion.

The private members bill of CCP Leader Argue to further restrict interest rates on small loans was "talked out."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Although scattered showers will occur throughout Southern Ontario today, sunny periods will make it a pleasant day. The threat of showers will persist through Sunday but generally sunny skies and agreeable temperatures are expected. Cooler air will move into Northern Ontario during the weekend, but under the influence of a warm sun, temperatures will not be far below seasonal normals.

HISTORIC SITES, PARKS, TOURISTS MAJOR TOPICS

Members Debate All Phases of Dept.

OTTAWA (CP) — Tourists and their favorite stopping places — parks and historic sites — were a major topic of discussion in the Commons Friday.

Most of the day was devoted to further study of the 1961-62 spending estimates of the department of Northern affairs, totalling $82,707,000. That opened the door for MPS to debate all phases of the department.

J.R. Garland (L — Nipissing) appealed to Northern Affairs Minister Dinsdale for an increase in the federal tourist promotion budget. Discussions with tourist industry leaders at a recent conference in North Bay had convinced him that all was not well in the industry. He said present federal spending now amounts to about 10 cents per each tourist, in contrasted this to Bermuda's expenditure of $12.50 per tourist and the European average of $9.50.

Federal leadership is needed if Canada is to reverse the deficit trend in its tourist industry, he declared. A bi dity should be launched to steer Canadians away from the United States and into Canadian regions.

TOURISTS DECEIVED

There was derision of the government's northern vision, however, prompted by Conservatives to rally to the support of Mr. Dinsdale.

Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) and Charles S. Granger (PC — Grand Falls - White Bay - Labrador) said the vision doesn't point the right way.

Mr. Fisher said resource development lags in spots a lot more south than the Yukon and Northwest Territories. Mr. Granger said the vision has been pointed northwest rather than broadly north.

Mr. Fisher and five supporters stoutly defended Mr. Dinsdale, who unveiled last October and facing his first Commons examination, against a suggestion that he hasn't done much.

Praise made by Mr. Fisher, who expressed disappointment with Mr. Dinsdale's record on the TV program. He wrote the CCF MP said needs vigorous leadership.

Leader Named In Manitoba

WINNIPEGG (CP) — Gildas Molgat was named leader of the Manitoba Liberal party Friday as he collected 415 of 860 votes on the first ballot at a leadership convention here.

The 34-year-old businessman's victory over three other contenders for the post vacated last week by former premier Douglas L. Campbell.

Kennedy to Meet Eisenhower To Talk Over Cuban Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presi. dent Kennedy meets with former president Eisenhower today in an evident bid to rally strong national support for critical steps which he may consider necessary to deal with the Cuban crisis.

A white House announcement of the session at Camp David, Md.—emphasized Cuba as the topic for the conference. But it did not rule out the prospect that discussions could cover a broad range of intensifying cold war conflicts with Russia.

Before flying to Camp David by helicopter, Kennedy had a scheduled meeting with the National Security Council, presumably to discuss possible future moves against the government of Cuba in the wake of this week's abortive anti-Castro invasion.

The president was reported to have ordered a study of reasons for the defeat of the rebel invasion attempt which began last weekend with the United States disclaiming any part. It was generally believed here, however, that backing of U.S. money and arms.

The president was understood to have promptly Conservatives to rally to the support of "Mr. Dinsdale."

Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) and Charles S. Granger (PC — Grand Falls - White Bay - Labrador) said the vision doesn't point the right way.

Mr. Fisher said resource development lags in spots a lot more south than the Yukon and Northwest Territories. Mr. Granger said the vision has been pointed northwest rather than broadly north.

Downgrade Latin America's Role as Cuban Peacemaker

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The General Assembly opened today approved a vague formula for peace between Cuba and the United States after downgrading Latin America's role as peacemaker.

Douglas Fisher (CCF — Port Arthur) and Charles S. Granger (PC — Grand Falls - White Bay - Labrador) said the vision doesn't point the right way.

Canada Rescues Resolution To Review Finances of UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The 13th United Nations General Assembly ended in the most spectacular in the history of the world body, ended at 6:02 a.m. EST today on a last slight sitting in which it did an abundant job in Congo financing.

The assembly first rejected and then accepted—with slight amendments—a resolution providing for $100,000,000 to cover the costs of the UN operation there from Jan. 1 until Oct. 31, when a new assembly will be in session to review the situation.

The Canadian delegation scored a double victory, in biggest of the annual meeting, in the final set minutes when a resolution calling for a full-scale review of UN finances, the greatest problem facing the world body.

Canada had submitted the resolution and then disowned the draft when it was amended out of recognition by Latin-American countries. But the assembly voted by the majority of the main offending provisions this morning.

The final marathon session, which began at 9:36 p. m., reflected the stormy tone of the whole session which opened in mid - September, adjourned at Christmas and then resumed March 7.

Acting on two Congo resolutions in the final debate, delegates threw themselves into

Two Are Killed In Collision At Owen Sound

OWEN SOUND (CP)—Two persons are dead and seven others in hospital following a head-on, two-car collision on Highways 6 and 10, six miles south of the Owen Sound terminus.

Dead are Mr. and Mrs. G. Filsinger, of the Desboro district, 15 miles east of here.

In hospital are the Filsingers' daughter, Ruth, 5, with a broken leg and several scalp cuts; Herbert Walker, of Owen Sound, with a broken leg; Wilfred Filsinger, Chatsworth, fractures and lacerations; Jack Jordison, Owen Sound, undetermined injuries; Earl Sinclair, Owen Sound, injuries and facial lacerations and his wife Muriel with severe scalp and facial lacerations.

Sinclair and his wife were travelling south and the other six were in a small European car driven north by George Filsinger.

The accident occurred on a level, straight stretch of highway during a fine drizzle.

PUBLISHER DIES SUDDENLY IN DOCTOR'S OFFICE

Victor Sifton Giant Among Newsmen

WINNIPEGG (CP)—Victor Sifton, one of the giants of Canadian journalism and a recognized authority in the fields of defence, education and business, died suddenly Friday at the age of 54.

Mr. Sifton, editor and publisher of the Winnipeg Free Press and board member of the national newspaper group, F. P. Publications Limited, suffered a heart attack in his doctor's office shortly after taking his usual morning walk in pulling out the day's paper.

Funeral arrangements were expected to be announced later today after his return of Mrs. Sifton from Brockville, where on March 18 Mr. Sifton had given his daughter, Carolyn Girma, in marriage to Earl Leonard Crowe of Ottawa.

The family survivors include his other daughter, Mrs. Donald Kennedy of Massilck, Ont., his brother, W. J. general manager of The Free Press, and his brother Clifford, Provincial Judge of the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix and the Regina Leader-Post.

WAR EXPERIENCE

Mr. Sifton, one of five sons of Sir Clifford Sifton, was an officer in a Western Canada newspaper tradition and during his war service with the Canadian Army in the Second World War, as major general of ordnance, he conducted a supply operation regarded as the biggest of single store ob-merchandising in Canada, and was named a commander of the Order of the British Empire for what the late C. D. Howe, then munitions and supply minister called "very exceptional service for Canada in a most important field."

He was also president of the Manitoba division of the Red Cross Society during the war years, and in the post-war era served from 1932 to 1939 as chancellor of the University of Manitoba after long service on the board of governors. In Mr. Sifton's early career, after combat service in the First World War that also him the Distinguished Service Order and command of his unit the age of 22, he was a successful businessman in the brokerage and mining fields.

But his major interest was journalism, first associated with The Free Press which he joined in 1935 as general manager after having served as president of the Sifton family newspapers in Brandon and Saskatoon during the difficult early years of the depression.

He was the genuine president and publisher of The Free Press after the death of his uncle—son of the late John W. Dafoe, and in 1953 became sole owner of The Free Press on a recapitalization of Sifton interests which saw Clifford become owner of the Regina and Saskatoon newspapers.

Gaullist Officials Arrested, State Of Siege Declared

Army, Police Leave Cancelled in France

PARIS (Reuters) — French paratroopers under the command of four right-wing generals seized Algiers today and defied the French to retake the city.

The rebel troops captured the Algerian capital in a lightning overnight operation aimed at overthrowing President de Gaulli's policy of self-determination for the North African territory.

Their leaders, all former senior army generals, declared they would "smash" all opposition to their bloodless coup.

Algiers Radio indicated that the troops were deployed throughout the city ready for action. It ordered all unnecessary cars off the streets of Algiers because they were obstructing military deployment.

There was a report that three paratroop regiments were moving toward Algiers from French garrisons loyal to de Gaulle, but this could not be confirmed.

BOMBARDS DAMASUS HALL

A right-wing terrorist plastic bomb exploded in the town hall of Neuilly, a Paris' suburb, today causing considerable damage. Neuilly's mayor is a political supporter of de Gaulle.

The Algiers broadcasting station declared amateur radio operators in France to dismantle their sets. Jacques Soustelle, who has been broadcasting code messages, presumably to sympathizers in France.

The French government meanwhile said flatly that there would be no change in its Algerian policy and that "all necessary measures" would be taken to put down the revolt.

Premier Michel Debre broadcast an appeal for loyalty by other troops throughout Algeria and France to end the "insane situation."

The paratroopers, members of the French Foreign Legion, moved into Algiers swiftly early today. They took over key buildings, arrested a few top government representatives and the army commander-in-chief and declared a state of siege through the country.

CHALLE HEADS REVOLT

The coup was headed by Gen. Maurice Challe, a former Algerian commander-in-chief; Gen. Edmond Joubaud; onetime air force commander in Algeria; and Gen. Andre Zeller, a former army chief of staff. Also listed among the leaders was Gen. Raoul Salan, another former A l g e r i a commander-in-chief, although he still is in exile in Spain.

The government said troops in other parts of Algeria had remained loyal to de Gaulle but the rebel-held radio in Algiers broadcast pledges of support from an Algerian sharp-shooter regiment stationed at Batna in eastern Algeria.

In France, all army and police leave was cancelled and troops were confined to barracks. Police swooped on the homes of known right-wingers through the country and arrested some.

In Tunis, Ferhat Abbas, premier of the rebel Algerian provisional government, broadcast to the Algerian people urging them to "organize themselves into powerful resistance."

Communication between Algiers and Paris was cut off and all air and air traffic was ordered halted.

Until noon, the French government's minister for Algeria, flown to the North African territory equipped with "the widest powers" to deal with the revolt. His place of landing was believed to be Oran.

Government, meanwhile, appointed Gen. Jean Olie, the chief of its national defence staff, to succeed Commander-in-chief in Algeria from which General Gambiez, who was arrested by the rebels, will flow to Algeria with Jore.

The government announced it was "taking the necessary measures."

Two Kington District Men Killed, Car Is Hit by Train

Two young Kingston district men, Bernard Avin Levesque, 25, of R.R. 3, Harrowsmith, and Howard Douglas Sharland, 23, of R.R. 1, Ferguson, were instantly killed early today when their car was struck by the eastbound Canadian National Railways passenger train at Catarqui.

Provincial police said the accident occurred at 1.43 a.m. on the Bath Road, just west of Kingston. Trains were held up almost two hours on both lines while the wreck was cleared.

According to reports the northbound car driven by Mr. Levesque swung around the crossing gates which had been lowered to guard against the approaching passenger train. The engine struck the car nearly three-quarters of the way down the track before the train was brought to a stop.

DIESEL PILOT DAMAGED

The Cataraqui level crossing is 70 miles east from King-ston station where the train had made its last stop.

The pilot of the passenger diesel locomotive was badly damaged by the impact and had to be removed before the train could proceed.

The passenger had to be removed by hand as the locomotive stopped in a swampy area and low ground could not be brought in. The pilot of the engine was pried free and dumped into the swamp enabling the train to proceed.

Railway officials in Belleville said train traffic on both tracks was held up for two hours.

Police said the two men killed in the accident were married.

contemation by rejecting a formula for financing the Congo military operation.

Eighteen Latin American delegations led the voting assault on the draft submitted by Pakistan and Tunisia and the measure received a margin of only 10 to 25 with 37 abstentions — less than the required two-thirds majority.

This was the more startling since Hammarskjold's hand-to-mouth existence to borrow for the Congo expired at midnight and, technically at least, the force of 17,000 was left without financial backing.

Assembly President Frederick Boland of Ireland, after suggestion of the U.S., adjourned discussion on the issue and after a period of corridor haggling delegates voted again on the proposal.

This time the vote was 54 to 25 with 23 abstentions after a minor concession had been made to the Latin Americans—a reduction in Congo assessments of five per cent from what had been proposed.

One of the most active supporters of the Pakistan-Tunisia draft was Canada. Delegation chairman Wallace R. Nesbitt told the assembly at one point:

"In plain language, if this resolution is not adopted, the whole Congo operation will fall to the ground."

Nesbitt said the assembly earlier made it clear in votes that it wished to support the Congo operation.

However, these decisions will be absolutely meaningless without provision of the financial means to carry them out," he said.

"My delegation is convinced that if the UN fails in this it will have the gravest possible consequences. . . ."

High School Activities

B.C.I.V.S.

By Susanne Palmer

Now that most BCIVS students have recovered from the blow of examination results, we are once more caught up in a whirlwind of activity, for this is campaign week. We're not campaigning for a four-hour day, or a four-day week or for a four-month vacation period but for Student Council Executive positions. Students this year, are making an all-out effort to make this the biggest and best campaign yet with posters, privileges, speeches and, best of all, competition. Next Wednesday candidates for the positions of president, first and second vice-presidents, corresponding secretary, recording secretary, and treasurer will have an opportunity of addressing the student body after which the voting will take place to determine our 1961-62 executive.

Parlez-vous francais? Mais oui. Every one at BCIVS is practising French nowadays for in just two short weeks' time the biggest event of the year, the Mock Parliament will take place. Of course, that doesn't explain the French angle to those of you not behind other schools, and to those coming out of hibernation, does it? There is a simple explanation however, and here it is: this year's format is France. Don't let that frighten you, for you can enjoy the music, the dancing, the decorations, the food and the fun without uttering a single word of French. Get your invitations now and we'll see you May 5 at the Spring Fling, n'est-ce pas"

"Will machines ever replace teachers?" This question has been bandied about for some time now but always it has seemed only a far-fetched dream. However on Wednesday morning 12E demonstrated that this is not altogether just a dream. While Mr. Soetsbier, their teacher, was absent, made in this type of teaching six girls took dictation, audible to them only through ear-phones and then transcribed their notes.

Other members of the class gave us a taste of life far into the future when experts gave so advanced that there was no need for teachers, books, examinations, or even students. Thank you, 12E, for this glimpse into the future.

Repair Program At Lingham Lake Is Discussed

Plans for continuing the repair program at the Lingham Lake reservoir dam are being discussed by the Water Control Advisory Board of the Moira River Conservation Authority.

At their last meeting Advisory board members discussed replacement of the decking over the top of the dam and will ask the Authority to authorize the required expenditure. The decking would be constructed of creosoted timber with local materials if this is feasible.

Possible locations for location of recording gauges on the Moira River were discussed and a full report will be presented to the next meeting.

The first permanent recording gauge is expected to be installed on the Black River at the site of the present staff gauge.

Last year the Authority installed a new gate valve in the Lingham Lake dam.

This will permit an even flow of water to be released from the reservoir during the dry summer season.

Robert Pringle Named Bencher Of Law Society

First Belleville lawyer to be appointed Bencher in many years, Mr. Robert Pringle, Q.C. is about two months candidate for the Law Society of Upper Canada. Results of the recent election were announced yesterday in Toronto.

Mr. Pringle is one of two Benchers named for Eastern Ontario, the other is Mr. Stanley Pengelly, Q.C. of Cornwall, who also is a Commission lawyer at the 1958 hearing into Belleville's financial affairs.

Golf Club Ready for Season Play

"Sunny and continuing mild" weather for the weekend should see Bay of Quinte Country Club golfers out testing their early spring skill.

Pro Gordon Balzas said this morning that the "old nine" is playable and the new nine will be ready for play next Saturday.

"In fact" Mr. Balzas said, "the new nine winterer much better that the old course. The fairways are fine and I would not be surprised to see the new nine better than the old was at any time."

Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan will again look after the club catering this season.

The club snack bar is stocked and open ready to cater to the needs of golfers this weekend.

Willard Fawcett Announces McCarthy Theatre to Close

Mr. Willard Fawcett, manager of the McCarthy Theatre, announced today that the McCarthy will cease to operate after close of business Saturday, May 6th. He spoke on behalf of his company — The Odeon Theatres (Canada) Limited.

"Our closing will result in a greater choice of better films being made available for the Belle and Bay Theatres," stated Mr. Fawcett. "The emphasis in the motion industry today is on quality rather than quantity and with better, but more costly, productions being made — fewer are being released, making it rational to reduce the number of theatres operating."

Manager Fawcett stated that his company had decided to keep the theatre closed until the burden of entertainment tax, and rising operating costs, brought it to the stage where it was no longer economical to run. That stage has now been reached.

The theatre property has been sold to Famous Players Canadian Corporation Ltd., but the new owners do not plan to re-open the McCarthy at this time. The same theatre company has also bought the Belleville Drive-in Theatre, which the Odeon Chain has operated in previous seasons. Mr. Fawcett has been appointed manager of the Drive-in, which will open Friday, April 28th.

Radio Engineers Hold Meeting

On Wednesday evening the Bay of Quinte Section of the Institute of Radio Engineers held their monthly meeting at the Prince Charles' School Auditorium. The guest speaker was Mr. J. B. Bidwell, Head of the Systems Mechanics Dept., Research Laboratories, of the General oMtors Corporation, Warren, Mich., who spoke on the general application of electronics to the design of automobiles. He described the longitudinal and lateral modulation systems for the operation of a motor vehicle, and the electronic methods and the various measurements on these motions to control the design.

A color film was shown during which the speaker described the progress being made in electronic control of an automobile using a lever instead of a steering wheel. He also discussed experimental tests with a control cable on the surface road, and the various problems which must be solved before this system of control could become economically practical.

IN MEMORIAM

DAFOE. — In loving memory of our dear husband and father and grandfather, John M. Dafoe of Frankford, who passed away April 22nd, 1960.

Sad and lonely days change from year to year,
And friends from day to day;
But never will the ache we loved,
From memory pass away.
—Sadly missed by wife Mabel, family and grandchildren.

GILMOURLEY. — In loving memory of our husband, Vincent Gilmourley, who passed away April 23rd, 1960.

My life cannot tell how I miss him
My heart cannot tell what to say;
God alone knows how I miss him,
He was taken from me suddenly.
—Sadly missed by wife Dorothy and family.

McFARLANE.—In fond and loving memory of Archibald McFarlane, companion, Ella May McFarlane, who departed this life two years ago today, April 22nd.

Two years have passed and gone,
Since one I loved so well.
We take from you the earth
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
Your memory is dear and fair grave
Time writes and decay.
But the love of those who loved you
Shall never fade away.
—Lovingly remembered by husband James.

CARDS OF THANKS

We would like to express our sincere thanks to friends, neighbors and relatives, for their kindness shown during our recent bereavement. Also for floral tributes and the kindness shown by the Thompson Funeral Home and Rev. Lance Hill.

Two Canadian Catholic Priests Held in Cuba

OTTAWA (CP)—The arrest of two Canadian Roman Catholic priests in Cuba at least four days ago was disclosed here Friday.

Reports reaching here indicated they had not yet been released but a Montreal report said they were free.

They were identified as Rev. Jean Menard and Rev. Paul-Emile Chenard, of La Societe des Mission Etrangeres, Montreal.

Circumstances of their arrest were not disclosed.

Earlier this week the Cuban Embassy here assured reporters there was little chance of harm coming to members of the Canadian colony in Cuba, numbering about 280 at last count. These include about 40 Canadian priests.

Meanwhile, it was reported that the government had asked Trans - Canada Air Lines whether it would be ready with planes should emergency evacuation of Canadians from Cuba prove necessary, and that TCA's reply was yes.

In the Commons Friday, External Affairs Minister Green tartly rejected a demand that Canada protest to the United States against that country's "proposed intervention in Cuba." The suggestion was made by J. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West).

Winnipeg radio station CKRC said the Canadian Embassy in Havana, in a telephone interview Friday, reported that three more Canadians have been arrested in Cuba in addition to the two priests.

An unidentified spokesman at the embassy told the radio station he had no details on the arrests and did not identify the prisoners.

J.C. Dobby Will Introduce Motion to Allow Women Teachers to Retire at 65

TRENTON — The Board of Education met in an emergency session last night to consider recommendations made by the teacher-board relations committee headed by J. C. Dobby.

Mr. Dobby gave notice of motion that he would introduce a motion at the June meeting to bring about a change in the retiring age of women teachers. According to the present rules and regulations of the board, retirement age for women teachers is 62. For men teachers, the retirement age is 65. He proposes to change the rules and regulations to allow the retirement age for women to be raised to 65. All members were agreeable to the change but in the matter of a change in the rules and regulations, notice of motion must be given at least one month before the motion is introduced.

The matter was brought before the board last night as a matter of urgency because two teachers who have passed the 62 mark, but have not reached the 65 mark, must be considered. These teachers have as yet, expressed no desire of the board wishes to retain their services.

T. S. Ketcheson, board member, moved that the teachers who have their contracts extended for another year under the present arrangement. All board members agreed to this.

A recommendation by the management committee that the contract with a woman teacher who has passed the 62 mark not be renewed this year, was considered.

All members except Griffiths, Paul Tripp, T. S. Ketcheson and Gerald Farrar were against the motion. Their thinking was that since the teacher had an excellent record and had been recommended by the supervising principal, V. P. Carswell, her services should be retained.

SUPPORT MOTION

George Greer and Mr. Dobby supported the motion. Rev. Ronald Reid, chairman of management, was not present at the meeting.

"A further motion that the teacher be engaged for another year carried, with four votes for and two against.

T. S. Ketcheson told the board that he understood the supervising principal had asked to be replaced as secretary-treasurer of the board on Feb. 20. He said that Mr. Carswell had notified the management committee of his wish, and that the committee had never discussed the subject with the board as a whole. Mr. Ketcheson said that this matter would have a far-reaching effect on the people of Trenton and he felt the subject should be dealt with at once.

Mr. Carswell said that Mr. Reid had suggested he carry on in the post of secretary-treasurer of the board and resign as supervising principal. This, said Mr. Carswell, he did not care to do. He said that Mr. Reid had made him three offers of salary to carry on as supervising principal and that none had been acceptable. He said that he did not wish to hold the board to ransom, but that he felt the three-way job which he has handled for nine years, was a sizeable one. He said that he felt the board should make him a salary offer and that he would be free to accept or resign.

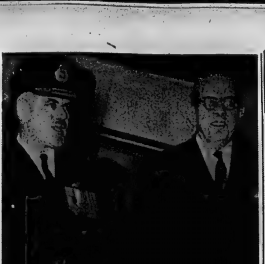
Mr. Greer and Mr. Dobby contended that supervising principals in other centres were not paid along the same lines as a motion proposed by Paul Tripp that Mr. Carswell be offered an increase of $200 over his present salary for the three jobs, for the position of supervising principal, Mr. Ketcheson, Mrs. Griffiths and Gerald Farrar supported the motion.

KEEP CARSWELL

On a polled vote, Mrs. Griffiths, Paul Tripp, Gerald Farrar and T. S. Ketcheson, supported a motion to "retain the services of Mr. Carswell at the salary stated".

Mr. Dobby also voted for the motion, qualifying his vote by saying, "I will agree with the motion, but I abhor the way it has been carried out. It is tantamount to a vote of non-confidence in the chairman of management. I wish to go on record as having said this".



Mr. Dobby contended that the board should wait for the full report of Mr. Reid before coming to a decision on the matter.

George Greer abstained from voting and said that he also wished to go on record as having abstained. He said he resented it made clear that he had not voted against the motion. He said that he did not like the way the matter had been handled.

Mr. Ketcheson and Mr. Tripp said that Mr. Carswell had served 40 years in the interests of education in the town of Trenton.

"Mr. Carswell has been more of a city manager as regards education, than a supervising principal," said Mr. Ketcheson.

"No one else in town enjoys the respect that is accorded Mr. Carswell", said Mr. Tripp.

Air Commodore F. S. Carpenter, air officer commanding Air Transport Command, welcomes Chilean Ambassador Mario Rodriguez, who arrived at RCAF Station Trenton Friday and pinned Chilean Air Force wings on 26 RCAF officers and airmen at 426 Squadron in gratitude for flying Red Cross supplies to Chile during last year's severe earthquakes.

Chilean Ambassador Pins Wings on 26 Men at Trenton In Thanks for 'Quake Aid

TRENTON —"His Excellency Mario Rodriguez, Chilean ambassador to Canada, Friday pinned Chilean air force wings on the tunics of 26 officers and airmen of 426 (Thunderbird) transport squadron at RCAF Station, Trenton.

The story behind the brief ceremony and wings presentation began last year ago.

Many of the spectators at Air Force Day, May 28, 1960, thought the lone North Star transport roaring skywards from one of the runways was part of the show.

Actually the North Star, heavily laden with Red Cross supplies, was the first of five from 426 Squadron sent from Canada to carry aid to earthquake victims in Chile.

After 50,000 pounds of the Canadian contribution of canned pork, medical supplies and field hospital equipment were airlifted to Santiago, in North Star carried out 18 flights from Santiago, Chile's capital, to Puerto Montt, in the disaster area. Emergency supplies were flown into the area and casualties airlifted out on the return flight. The distance flown during the operation equalled nearly four trips around the world at the equator.

Chilean officers registered amazement that Canadians should go to their aid from such a distance. The RCAF aircraft evacuated more than 800 refugees.

Yesterday, the ambassador and Chilean consul general, Juan Domeyko, were greeted upon their arrival at RCAF Station Trenton by Air Commodore F. S. Carpenter, air officer commanding Air Transport Command; Group Capt. D. J. Williams, commanding officer, RCAF Station Trenton; Group Capt. T. A. Sprunston, commanding officer, 6 Repair Depot, and other RCAF officials.

The party went to Hangar 10, the large new hangar constructed to house giant CC-106 aircraft, where the presentation of wings was to take place.

The ambassador reviewed the guard of honor, and chatted briefly with air force officers during the ceremony.

During the presentation, each member of 426 squadron was called to the reviewing stand and received his wings from the ambassador.

Wing Commander J. O. Maitland, officer commanding 426 Squadron, was the last to receive the special honor. The ambassador expressed his thanks and those of the people of his country to Wing Cmdr. Maitland, who headed the five aircraft sent to Chile.

Also present at the ceremony was Wing Commander Frank Bell, who acted as interpreter and performed liason duties in Chile last year.

Wing Cmdr. Bell had been in South America on a routine tour with External Affairs Minister Green when the disaster struck. He speaks Spanish and Portuguese and proved to be of invaluable assistance during the airlift of Canadian supplies and the evacuation of refugees.

In his address preceding the presentation, the ambassador said, "The air relief operation to my country, which was perhaps the largest operation of its kind ever effected in peacetime, could not but impress me, and I am sure many others, of the vital role to be played by a strong and efficient air transport formation in this troubled world of ours. You in Canada who have such an efficient air transport formation in this troubled world of ours. You in Canada who have such an efficient air transport formation in this troubled world of ours. Poetic Justice

It was with a certain satisfaction that we read that Hon. Ellen Fairclough, Federal Minister of Citizenship and Immigration, had announced that the government had cancelled the 1959 contract by Dimensional Investments Ltd. to buy 3,100 acres of land from the Sarnia Indian band.

A director of Dimensional Investments says that the firm lost some $1,800,000 as the result of this cancellation contract, which followed failure of the company to complete payment by the deadline.

In some manner, which we do not fully understand, the failure to complete the land purchase from the Indians does not void Dimensional's sale to the Ontario Hydro of some 175 acres of the land. Readers will recall that quite a fuss was made about this purchase, that Liberals and CCF-ers maintained that Hydro had acted improperly and that a royal commission absolved Hydro of any "impropriety, negligence or careless judgment." Be that as it may, it seemed fairly evident that Dimensional Investments was endeavoring to make as large a profit as possible with as small a risk as possible. There is nothing illegal or even immoral about such a situation. Nevertheless, news that Dimensional actually lost $1,8000,000 seems to us to have the elements of poetic justice. We are often reminded that the risk of loss goes hand in hand with the possibility of profit and that, indeed, the latter is justified by the existence of the former. It is pleasant to learn that this risk of loss, which earlier had been very difficult to discover in this involved deal, actually existed and that the losers are not Hydro, which paid a good price for the land it got, nor, in any real sense, the Sarnia Indians, but the private firm which, on paper, stood to realise such a large and such a swift profit from the land transactions.

Incidentally, not all of the Sarnia Indians are pleased about getting all but 464 acres of their land back, while retaining some $2,682,500 in principal and interest already paid by Dimensional Investments. Although this raises their return per acre from $2,200 to $6,000, many Indians have obtained extensive credit on the strength of the sale and, according to Chief Telford Adams, "Now there is no money to pay their bills." It is a pity that the victims of this situation are Indians, most of whom probably do not have an over-supply of this world's goods, but here, too, there is a certain element of poetic justice. We ought to teach them, and others, not to spend their pay-cheques before they are received. The white man's easy payment medicine can be strong but bitter.

Red Planning Is Challenge

Ottawa Journal

President Kennedy's words after the Soviet space flight placed the Russian achievement precisely in the context of concern in which it should be viewed. The larger perspective is more practical and more realistic than excitedly overestimating the single feat. These are the key words of Mr. Kennedy:

"I do not regard the first man in space as a sign of the weakening of the free world. But I do regard the final and billionth of men and things for the service of the Communist bloc over the last years as a challenge to the free world, as a challenge which we must and will meet, as a challenge to us and I would say we are going to live with that danger through much of the rest of this century."

The challenge of communism the President is reminding us is infinitely greater than in merely the area of rocket booster power. If that was the main worry we could rest infinitely easier. Yet some persist in talking as if the whole American effort in space would be different if only the Americans had developed a more powerful rocket booster. That is mistaking the part for the whole. The challenge is that in Russia massive, intelligent, concentrated planning goes on and that is the challenge we deserve.

"Total mobilization of men and things" were Mr. Kennedy's words. Today it is space flight. Tomorrow it may be a challenge not to our physicists, but to our economists. We must expect not less, pressures from us but more, sir. Kennedy might have been thinking of what he called his earlier words. His prophecy for his State of the Union message in 1962 is that problems are critical. The tide is unfavorable. The prospect will be worse before it is better. And while hoping and working for the best we must prepare ourselves now for the worst".

The President must decide upon national priorities far more easily than a free nation. We do not lift an economy from retooling each year is wasteful of men and resources. But if we are to meet the challenge in the competition of a contending ideology, we must be prepared to excel in many areas of human effort.

The hope of Mr. Kennedy and all the leaders of the West is to marshall the great, fragmented efforts of a free society into purposeful, effective priorities. And because this be done where there is also freedom, the task is much harder than Premier Khrushchev's.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE GUIDING STAR

"Noes are so old of those who have outlived enthusiasm."

These are the words of Henry D. Thoreau. He, who had lived in the woods, talked with birds and animals, walked hours in the field, understood the language of the flowers, made his own bed, cooked his own food, read, thought, loved and lived.

This same man once said that if you didn't read the best books first, you might not have a chance to read them at all!

His wonderful advice is not free of unwholesomeness. It is all that Thoreau wrote. No wonder it is more widely quoted every day.

When we forget that we were ever boys, we are already old — both in heart and in body.

Enthusiasm is the star that guides us all as we seek to rule in the Empire of Growth. It leads us surely to the most difficult quagmires — with our souls wrapped within its arms, we can fall to nothing.

Enthusiasm can make us conquerors of anything and everything. For the greatest thing in enthusiasm is the strength of the giant.

Whoever heard of any enterprise winning without great Enthusiasm?

"None are so old as those who have outlived Enthusiasm". It's as though the Voice of the ages — but just took the hand of Age so it might not become lonely.

On arising in the morning, be glad! In laughing the woes of the day, put your heart and soul into everything that you do. Sincere effort is always paid for in full.

Be enthusiastic. Babble all you want to. It is better to over-do than to under-do. It is far better to wear out than to rust out.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

GRATITUDE

"Who thanks quickly, thanks twice" an old saying tells us. It is a true one. There is nothing like a ready element of gratitude, warmly and promptly expressed, to lift the spirit of a generous giver and make him feel doubly repaid for what he has given.

Real gratitude is more than formal courtesy. It is more than a smile on the face and a "thank you" on the lips. Real gratitude comes from the heart and from the mind — from the heart, because only a person who knows the feelings of love and kindness himself can appreciate those feelings behind another's gift or good deed; and from the mind, because the gratitude of the truly grateful person arises partly from a comprehension of the act of another and what it means. The expressions of real gratitude draws out the grateful man. It expands him, makes him much as it were, with the giver of the gift for which he is grateful, and thus quickens the giver by making his gift that much more valuable.

Ingratitude does just the reverse. The silence of the ungrateful man comes from repressed feelings and an uninspirative mind. By being ungrateful, one reduces his own responsiveness and ability of understanding, and he is a smaller person by just that much.

"The Lord loveth a cheerful giver" — and a cheerful thanker, too.

Early Marriages

Woodstock Sentinel - Review

It is deplorable that so many young people, including a large percentage of teenagers are marrying before they are old enough to know better.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

April 22nd, 1941.

The sailing season on the Bay of Quinte was inaugurated on Sunday when Mr. Harold Seldon, owner of the sailing boat Bootlegger, launched his boat and enjoyed a short period of sailing, accompanied by George Gillis of the R. C. M. P. headquarters in Ballyduff. Sailing before a stiff off-shore wind was enjoyed by the early-season nautical unit a sudden electrical storm forced the sailors to abandon their sport.

This week four members of the newly organized Junior Leaders' Corps of the local Y M. C. A. were successful in passing their first year examinations. The boys obtained the following marklings: George Carrow 76% percent; Geo. Wonnacott 75%; Douglas Leggat 73%; Cameron Snell 70%. Douglas Ashley, the fifth member of the corps being away from town during the sitting of the examination, will have an opportunity to write out at a later date. The passing of the examination, along with the service they have been rendering, allows these boys to come into membership in the National Association of Leaders Corps of the Y.M.C.A's of Canada, a very fine distinction, and one which gains them National recognition.

Mr. Norman Clarke returned to Toronto after spending the Easter weekend with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. M. J. Clarke.

Mrs. Leonard Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Murray and baby Sandra, Miss Mary Listerbee have returned to Ottawa after spending Easter with Mr. and Mrs. John McGuire of Gordon Street.

30 YEARS AGO

Urges Union For Students

Detroit Free Press

We have no idea how many little girls and boys take piano lessons in this sinful hi-fi era.

Probably considerably fewer proportionately than a generation back when you couldn't enjoy a neighborhood stroll without hearing the laborious strains of "do-re (oof) piano" mail flitting out the window from every third or fourth house on your block.

We do know definitely that Labor Secretary Goldberg has won the enmity of every parent of every American boy who is a piano student.

He has left with his chin by approving formation of a regular union of piano student brats and bestowed upon their delight bargain collectively with teachers and parents on the question of how much daily practice should be devoted to practice.

The labor secretary's boner followed receipt of a letter from a 13-year-old Brooklyn girl. She insisted a half hour a day was practice enough and that her chums felt the same way and wanted to organize like the U.M.W.

Secretary Goldberg was amused by the letter. He wrote a sympathetic reply saying he'd go ahead and form a union. His "humour" inevitably will antagonize those piano brats in all music teachers (deadly serious) but he has put the young youngsters to practice always has been the toughest part of their job.

Humor is an invaluable quality in the human makeup. Secretary Goldberg is going to learn the hard way, however, that it has little place in politics. No matter how merrily it bubbles forth, Federal public officials must contact the people with dead pan earnestness if they hope to stay in office.

No Training For Diplomat

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

Doctors, lawyers, clergymen, architects and the like are subjected to years of theoretical training before they are able to practice their professions. Why not diplomats?

Career officers of the External Affairs department and other government branches that send representatives abroad are generally selected among university graduates who have had a broad general grounding in the humanities. The geographic mosaic that are subject to constant irritation should be removed, to minimize the chance of a flare-up in the coming malignant. That means removal to such places as soles of the feet, at the back of the head, men, or where straps or other rigging is necessary. Neither rub on a mole. For a man, a mole is not a scraped once a day in shaving is better removed. For women, a mole on the face might be removed with the aid of appearance — although, of course, Marie Antoinette and her patch charmers used to paste on "beauty spots" that resembled moles.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a girl of 18 and have a goiter on my thyroid pills. For the last two years I have not been under a doctor's care but have continued taking the pills as originally prescribed. Am I in safe hands? prolonged use of those damage my heart or thyroid gland? — N. R.

Too many may cause palpitation but that wouldn't be a "damage" to the heart. Too many pills may be a sign that you've slant out of balance. There are other possibilities; undue nervousness is one.

In some cases it may be wise to continue thyroid medication indefinitely — but since harm is possible, I urge you to see a doctor at reasonable intervals.

Carleton College said in a recent speech that Canada is falling behind the needs of the world. To play its part in standing up for the Western way of life, he said, the country must give schools and staff a higher priority.

Could a better starting place be found that in the training of those who speak for us in foreign lands?

Tubes Should Not Be Tied Except for a Good Reason

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am a wife and let him decide whether mother of four children, aged eight to 18. After the birth of the youngest child my tubes were tied. I was in pain and thought I would never want another. My husband and I are both good health and would now love to have another baby. Is there a chance of undergoing an operation to make this possible? — Mrs. C. O."

There are reports of an intricate operation involving the use of a plastic tube that is reported to have succeeded. I believe that the chances of success, at best, is very slight.

I have received many inquiries like yours to convince me that the tying of tubes should be done only under the most pressing circumstances, and I never just because of the mere conclusion that a woman "has had enough children."

Like the U.S.

"Dear Sir: What foods can you eat to insure a healthy liver? — R. H."

There are no particular foods that are "good for the liver." Just a well-balanced diet.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Should brown spots or moles be taken off or is it better to leave them alone? What makes them come? I say too many in the sun and band says no. — Mrs. K. N."

Without seeing the "brown spots" I wouldn't dare to say. In saying what they are, or what to do about them, any advice by guesswork" is for the birds.

However, these thoughts may help you. It is quite common for some of us to get a mole or older, to acquire pigmented brown spots on the skin (face and hands). It's not serious, and usually, like rather large freckles. For those, nothing need be done or can be done.

Moles are quite a different matter. A mole is a pigmented area is born with a mole somewhere or other; a few of them may have quite large crops of them. Some may become apparent later.

For moles the rule is: If they change size or color, or if they come inflamed, or otherwise alter their appearance they should be examined by a doctor who can see whether they ought to be removed.

Removal is a simple office procedure, and doesn't require going to a hospital. There is no alarmed about it.

In general, moles that are subject to constant irritation should be removed, to minimize the chance of a flare-up in the coming malignant. That means removal in such places as soles of the feet, at the back of the head, men, or where straps or other rigging is necessary. Neither rub on a mole. For a man, a mole is not a scraped once a day in shaving is better removed. U.S. Certain Loser in Cuba

Toronto Telegram

Yesterday we wrote of the Colombo Plan's proposition as a great tragedy for Cuba. Whatever its outcome, it means a determination sponsoring the proportions of a disaster for American military policy. The nature of the U.S. involvement in Cuban affairs is such that it faces only a loss.

The issue is not, as Mr. Khrushchev would have it, to be, that the U.S. has the power to end the invasion before it gets off to a successful operation. Neither American forces nor Americans are directly taking part in the action. There is always risk inherent in a situation like this that it will probably no greater than that forecasted in Large by the Soviet.

When this is said, the U.S. must still shoulder its share of responsibility for the launching of the present Cuban invasion from developing. Of course, how this responsibility is the freedom given the anti-Castro forces of the Cuban Revolutionary Council to prepare for their invasion on training grounds in Florida, Louisiana and elsewhere. This is only one stage of the American error that they launched.

The American error has been to adopt a policy of counter-revolution in relations with Cuba, in keeping with the Forward in the White Paper issued by the State Department last month. This was the considered policy, it should be remembered, of the Eisenhower administration, and it was the answer for which Mr. Nixon was campaigning on the question whether the new President would adopt a new course, namely pursue the policy he inherited from the Eisenhower. The former President severed relations with Cuba in December and applied drastic economic sanctions.

What are the possibilities? If the invasion succeeds, Cuba will be governed by a regime for which the U.S. openly expressed sympathy. But the existence of the Castro regime was helped to power would leave other Latin American states with the firm conviction that the U.S. is ready to back counter revolution.

If the invaders lose, so great is the U.S. involvement in their defeat that the blow to American prestige and power would be more than likely to greatly strengthen the power of the Castro regime at home but also to weaken the Western positions in other Latin American countries.

Moreover, implicit in the U.S. involvement is desertion that broad section of the population that favored dealing with Washington to "Alliance for Progress" which President Kennedy proposed last month as a means of putting Latin American countries on the road to economic progress and social betterment. The chance for this could be best, but it has almost certainly been prejudiced by what is now happening in Cuba.

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK

The crows, two by two now, have arrived and taken up their territories. All across Canada, from ocean to ocean, on every acre of land, the native crows have come back from vacation, millions of them, and have staked out their property for the coming season.

They arrived in companies and congregations soon after the snow went, but for a few mass meetings were held in woodlots for a few days. But for the most part, it was no time until they were paired off, and with little visible ceremony they distributed themselves peaceably around each area until there was, you might say, not an acre of land untenanted and everywhere you look inside vast face of Canada, the crows are in possession.

We are in the habit of thinking Canada belongs to us humans, to the capitalist and much surveying and engineering and much filing of claims and registry offices, we lay claim to the land. But the crows were here before us and they go right on being here, regardless of us. They ignore us. And the queer thought comes to help but intrude itself that they will go right on being here even if we are not.

A Lift For Living

Getting a New Lease on Life

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

When a person has been given up as dying and then regains his health, he takes a new lease on life. Some time ago a minister was welcomed back to a group of his colleagues after recovering from a serious illness. As he put it, he had been "flirting with the angles," which I suppose is a perfectly proper ministerial description of being at the door of death. As a result of that experience, I venture to predict, he will be a more deeply understanding minister. He has a new lease on life.

Sickness has a merciful way of dulling the edges of death. When we near life's end through illness, we are usually in a fog of mental dullness. And then, if God wills our recovery, we return to the shore of life in a mental fog, and by the time our mind clears fully we are back in the thick of things.

A few years ago, I shared a program with a Russian woman who had once been in a Soviet prison awaiting death. Every evening at a certain hour guards appeared at the jail's door and called out the numbers of those to be shot that night. Following the calls, the remaining prisoners would hear the crack of the rifles carrying death to their comrades.

SHE FACED DEATH

One night, this particular woman heard her number called. A moment later, the command came, "As you were," and she was spared. But for a few unforgettable seconds that woman looked death in the face. After an experience like that, a person would know what it is to take a new lease on life.

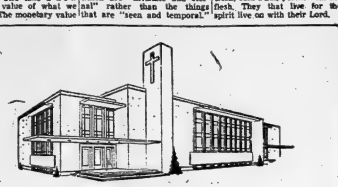
We should all take a new look at the terms of our lease. When we live with ourselves for 30 or more years, we come to think we own ourselves. But no. We are merely tenants of these bodies. According to the Bible, God makes a covenant with us. He is the party of the first part in the contract. We are to hold these bodies as temples of God's spirit.

We speak of our property as our "holdings." But we do not hold absolute title — not even on a 99-year lease. Jesus told a story about a foolish farmer who forgot this fact. He had had a good year. His harvest was so plentiful that he began to build larger barns. He said to his soul, "Take your ease." His thought of war on "easy street." But not for long. Death called him. And Jesus put the question, "whose then shall these things be?" When our lease expires — and no one knows when — our possessions go back to the Divine Landlord.

We should also take a new look at the value of what we are leasing. The monetary value of our houses may increase with real estate developments. But their value to us decreases with our years of expectancy.

Where do we live? In answer to that question, we naturally give our mailing address. But several persons may reside at the same address and yet not live in the same sphere of life. One may be a musician, living in the realm of melodies, concerts and artists associations. Another may be a writer, living in the sphere of books, ideas and publishers. A third may be a business man, living in the world of markets, merchandise and industry. In short, it is our interests, rather than our residence, which determine where we really live.

LASTING THINGS



We can learn to live with lasting things. St. Paul schooled himself to cultivate things which are "invisible and eternal" rather than the things that are "seen and temporal."

We can't take the house we build with us but we will take the characters we build with us.

About a dozen years ago I was in a train wreck. All the passengers in my car, except the Pullman conductor and myself, were injured. One was killed. When the rescue train came to bring the surviving passengers into St. Louis, I was standing in the crowd on the platform. One man beside me said in grateful and serious mood, "Believe me, I'm going to walk the straight and narrow from here on in."

Another passenger said: "I had some bottles of scotch in my bag. If they're not broken, I'm going to throw a party." He did and then had to be carried from the train at St. Louis.

There are two kinds of tenants. They that live for the flesh, said Paul, perish with the flesh. They that live for the spirit live on with their Lord.

O.S.D. Students Present Delightful Annual Concert

A delightful occasion was enjoyed last evening, despite the unpleasant weather conditions, when the students of the Ontario School for the Deaf presented their annual concert to a fine assembly of parents, and interested friends. Unlike previous presentations, this year the program consisted of two pantomimes, "The Enchanted Mountain Bus Tours Incorporated" and "Carroll Comers at the Movies," a completely new addition of a "Choral Reading" based on the poem, "Only Borrowed," by Geraldine Mundy, and directed by Miss C. McLeod, A.C.C.M., a selection by the senior Rhythm Band directed by Mrs. K. B. Graham, and conducted by Zenon Stus, and an Operetta, "Once Upon a Time," an adaptation from the old Fairy Tale, "The Frog Prince."

ROCKY MT. BUS

The Rocky Mountain Bus Tours was faithfully portrayed, depicting the idiosyncrasies of the passengers, one undecided where to sit; another fumbling through a well-stocked purse for the fare; the driver the overwalled patiently; and the movie camera enthusiast, who took advantage of every scene of interest to get everything in sight; his camera and lightmeter holding prominent places.

At the conclusion of the tour, the passengers were courteously helped off, then the driver began collecting the left-behind articles, scarves, an umbrella, field glasses, purse and finally the lightmeter of the movie camera enthusiast.

CAMPUS CAMERA

The second pantomime depicted a group of teen-agers at the Ontario School for Directions to the various positions in the play. Both pantomimes were well presented.

Those in the former included C. Wood, Emery; M. A. Jenkins; J. Morgan; F. Tomek; D. Richardson; B. Clayton; J. Casselman; M. Dunn; D. Dube and M. DeLaFrance. Those in the latter were: B. Caron; E. Clark; J. Cowan; D. Duggan; B. Fisher; R. Gow; R. Guy; L. Hall; T. Lesemann; R. Leitner; A. Martinen; N. Mitchell; D. Trash and A. Tyo.

CHORAL READING

The choral reading consisted of singing the poem, with three degrees of voice pitch, designated as 'dark,' 'medium' and 'light,' with a chorus of the talking part: D. Burford, Carbis, D. Cameron, R. Clarke, R. Colcleuson, W. Cowsky, L. Dawe, R. Dash, G. Diffin, R. Evans, L. Lortie, C. MacLeod, T. Martin, T. Maywood, M. Morgan, M. Nukey, P. Sicoli, A. Vecchioni, A. Villa, G. Williamson, Mj Wojcik and N. Wroll.

The rhythm band favored with "Canadian Patrol" for a brisk and stirring number. No concert at the O.S.D. would be complete without the rhythm bands. Those taking part included: S. Bancroft, B. Bell, D. Bennett, S. Bruce, C. Cleary, H. Cripps, D. Cunningham, D. Daniell, M. Fisher, B. Gregory, D. Hagerson, C. Masters, G. Milligan, M. Mooney, L. Robertson, K. Rogers, R. Soderholm, K. Warren, J. Wilder, D. Wilson and E. Stewart.

OPERETTA

The operetta, "Once Upon A Time," was beautifully depicted, each actor living his or her part; but the part of the wicked fairy, taken by Marlene Ryan, was superbly presented. One could almost feel her delight on hitting on the wicked scheme of turning the Prince Charming into a horrid green frog with bulging eyes, because she was angry at the beautiful princess for not inviting her in the invitation to fairies for the party which the king and queen were holding in honor of the princess' 17th birthday.

The costumes were lovely, especially those of the arriving guests, each presenting the princess with a gift, and then the king and queen make a special gift of a magic ring which, when rubbed, would make the princess' every wish come true, provided it was not a selfish one. Somehow the ring was lost, spirited away by the wicked fairy, who used it to work her revenge on the princess. The other pretty scene was that of the palace garden where the fairies and the seagull, the white rabbits, the grey squirrel, the bluebird, and the skunk, which caused ripples of laughter with his personality. Nearby was the well in which the door Prince Charming was hidden because none of the animal-world play with him because of his coldness. A sad song tells of his heartaches.

However, good has to conquer the evil. The king and queen come to walk in the garden. Down the lovely princess appears and her loving nature feels compassion for the frog in his loneliness. Meanwhile, the frog had had an encounter with the wicked fairy and takes the magic ring from her, which he later presented to the princess, who makes the good wish and turns the frog back into Prince Charming. Like all good stories, about those with

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Winsanley announce the engagement of their only daughter, Carole Lynne to James Douglas Patton, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Patton, Erindale, Ontario. Marriage to take place on Saturday, May 20th at 2.30 p.m., Christ Church, Belleville, Ontario.

Mrs. W. R. Prentice of Foxboro, Ont., is celebrating her 85th birthday on Sunday, April 23rd.

kind and loving hearts, it ends in the beautiful princess and Prince Charming living happily ever after.

The lighting effects were particularly lovely, as well as the costumes of the actors; the latter displayed in their gala garments with little fairy wings, Graduates: Mrs. Vincent Goulet; Squirrel Sinn; Br'er Rabbit — Arnold Wojcik; Mischief Lavigne, Norman Fougere; Bluebird Patterson, Leslie Sicoli; The Fairy Prince — Bill O'Neill; Skunk — Billy Hutchings.

Stage manager: Jack Cypocek and John Bell; sound: stage decor: Mr. Graham and his artists; properties: Mr. Vaughan and his artists; costumes: Mrs. Vincent and her girls; make-up: Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Graham; programmes, Mr. Morrison and his printers; projectionist: Miss Hutchings; ushers: Misses Mosier, Bate and Davidson. Misses Chilcott, Cox, Dennis, Downey, Eadie, Fairbairn, Hill, Maloney, Parking, Ranestedtom, Shannon, Stevenson, Wright. Soloists: Miss Loretta McKee-all and Mr. Roger Rawlings.

Mr. Graham, who was presented to all those of the staff and student body who worked behind the scenes in helping in many ways, and without whose support and co-operation this concert would be impossible.

God Save the Queen.

Mr. J. G. Rowe, the superintendent, also extended a welcome to all the assembly of parents, and friends, several of whom were present for the first time, others being simply a repetition of talk on the purpose of the school concert. It was a valuable training, and improvement in speech of the students; gives them the impulse and confidence, and allows them to express appreciation to their teachers.

He also mentioned that hearing children imitate what they hear, while those who cannot hear have to be taught by various means. This reveals the difference in their voices and which is largely due to their residual hearing; the more residual hearing the student has the better he or she can speak.

Nicholson College Plans Dinner Dance

The Nicholson Catholic College held its P.T.A. meeting Tuesday evening in the College. Mr. Paul Cleary, president, opened the meeting.

Mr. J. Walsh, gave the treasurer's report. Plans for the annual graduation dinner dance, late in May were discussed.

The nominating committee for the election of officers for the coming year will be Mr. Paul Cleary, Mr. C. Langabeer, Mr. Cook.

Mrs. L. Daley, delegate, to the Easter Convention of Federation of Catholic Parent Teacher Associations of Ontario, held at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, gave a report on the convention. The members present took part in discussion groups following the business session of the meeting.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. G. O'Brien and Mrs. F. H. Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Frederick Fox are pictured cutting the wedding cake following their recent marriage in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Carol Ann Spafford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren B. Spafford of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Edward Fox, of Trenton. FOX — SPAFFORD

Tall standards of mauve gladioli, and floor baskets of mauve adorned the chancel rail in Holloway Street Church, Belleville, on Saturday, April 8, at 3.00 p.m. for a lovely spring wedding when Carol Ann Spafford , of Toronto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren B. Spafford, became the bride of Bruce Frederick Fox, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Edward Fox. The Reverend C. W. Coleman, B.A., officiated. The wedding music was rendered by Mr. Clifford Thompson, organist and accompanied the soloist, Mr. E. A. Hughes, who sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "Because."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her floor-length bridal gown of silk taffeta under silk organza, featuring a fitted bodice having a neckline outlined with lustre sequins, the long slender sleeves ended in petal points over the wrists. A centre panel of lace and pearls accented the graceful skirt, and an elongated cummerbund in pleated organza ended in a large back bow. She wore a fingertip veil of silk illusion secured which was gathered into a cluster of seed pearls, and carried a cascade of white gardenias mingled with hyacinth and stephanotis.

Miss Diane Paxman, of Belleville, was maid of honor, wearing a floor length silk organza having a tiered skirt and bodice of mauve lace over silver organza fashioned with Sweetheart neckline. Her headdress was a band of lavender roses and face veil.

Miss Carolyn Fox, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Anna Mullett, of Toronto, were bridesmaids, dressed identical-ly to the maid of honor, except for the headdresses which were bands of mauve flowers, and they carried semi-cascades of mauve gladioli.

Miss Susan Fox, was junior bridesmaid, and carried a smaller semi-cascade of yellow posies and ivy. She and the pe-tite flower girl, Miss Anna Lee Fox, were frocked alike in mauve silk organza with Peter Pan collars and full skirts with matching cummerbunds ending in large back bows. She carried a white basket of yellow posies.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. William Rowell, of Toronto, as best man. Mr. Spafford and Mr. Howard Fox both of Belleville, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the church parlors where the bridal table was appointed in the traditional manner with white lilac centering the cake and covered by a three tier all-white wedding cake, topped by two white doves under a white arch, and misted about the base with white tulle. The lovely bridal bouquets added an additional nuptial accent.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, who wore a beige sheath of pure silk with bodice of chiffon, beige accessories with corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, attired in a pale blue lace sheath with white accessories, and corsage of red Sweetheart roses.

For travelling to the Southern States and Florida, the bride chose a box style suit of pale grey wool matching coat. Her accessories were beige and her corsage was of white roses.

Guests were from Belleville, Toronto; Cowansville; New York; Brockville; Belleville and St. Hubert's Quebec.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was entertained at Miss Diane Paxman at a shower held at Miss Paxman's home. Mrs. Frank Dale also honored the bride in her home with Mrs. Frank Rayfield as co-hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Fox will reside at 829 Birchmount Road, Scarboro, Toronto.

St. Joseph's P.T.A. Hears Talk On Fluoridation, Plans Euchre

The April meeting of St. Joseph's P.T.A. was opened with prayer by the president, Mrs. Terry Wheeler.

Plans were discussed for the annual bridge and euchre to be held in St. Michael's auditorium in May. Proceeds of this event will be used to purchase library books for the school. Mrs. W. Reid, convener, asked for additional assistance and Mrs. Nellacher volunteered her services as kitchen convener for the lunch. The class mothers will be calling for donations to the lunch and bake table.

It was agreed to purchase a radio and record player for the school and this would be handled by Mr. Paul Fleming.

The president extended thanks to Mr. Doug. Bone who had made it possible for St. Joseph's P.T.A. to have 100 tickets to the Festival of Fashions of which 72 were sold.

GUEST SPEAKER

Dr. Letersky, guest speaker, told of the benefits of fluoridation and in the prevention of tooth decay. When the fluorides are consumed they become part of the tooth enamel to harden it, and there is no taste, odor or discoloration of the water with fluorides present. Tooth decay is reduced up to 60 per cent and the cost amounts to from 10c to 15c per person per year.

Among those who endorse fluoridation are the Dental and Medical Associations of Canada and the United States and the Canadian Public Health Department.

A question and answer period followed and a vote of thanks was given to Dr. Letersky for his interesting information he had given.

Miss Margaret Durkin, delegate at the conference of Catholic P.T.A.'s held recently in Toronto, gave a detailed report on activities there. Miss Durkin informed the members of the highlights of the talks given by the noted speakers at the conference.

Mr. V. Mulloon, chairmen of the nominating committee reported that nomination forms would be sent to all paid-up members and elections would take place at the May meeting. The other members of this committee are Mrs. Beirne and Mrs. Collyer.

Attendance prize was won by Sr. Mary Norman.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Dustin, Mrs. Laroche, Mrs. Meagher and Mrs. Barkey.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

While enjoying the Thursday sun we felt assured that, whatever kind of weather came later on in the week, fine spring warmth had really arrived. True, on the cold day when there were patches of sun, we had seen a few eager gardens at work, and later the chill soon drove them in. Saturday we noticed one lawn being rolled, and, as we were told, is the second in the four phases of good lawn care — raking, rolling, top-dressing and mowing.

Horticulturists say that spring raking should be done lightly, with a flexible leaf broom. Heavy steel rakes should not be used. Neither is it necessary to remove all dead grass, as it rots to form valuable humus. Rolling is the most important spring garden project. It levels the lawn surface, which is vital for good mowing in the months to follow; rolling firms the soil, so that plants will make better use of water and thereby dry soil less rapidly. Rolling after the spring should be sufficient for the soil only when the moisture is just right; if the soil is too wet, rolling will pack it into a hard mass. MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hunter Hart

ETIQUETTE ON THE PARTY LINE

During the past year, a great many newspaper articles have pointed out obvious abuses in the use of party telephone lines. Unfortunately, many have resulted in tragedy, or are near tragedies. These abuses exemplify the harm that can result from willful disregard of the needs of others in emergencies.

Let's hope that people generally show more consideration of their fellows. However, a party line is when, five times on the clock, a telephone in the country can cause dissension between neighbors who may be separated by several miles. The situation decreed that you always remember the rights of others. This is particularly true when you are a city dweller who moves to the country for the summer months. Having had the unrestricted use of a telephone, it is hard to get used to sharing one with a number of others.

It might be well for all partylingers to keep the following points before them:

Always allow some time to elapse between your calls, so that others will have a chance to use the phone.

Never, except when someone else is using it, unless your call is extremely urgent.

If someone breaks in when you are talking, and it is an emergency, get off the line immediately.

If you pick up the receiver to make an unimportant call, and the phone is in use, wait a decent length of time before replacing the receiver gently. Ringing it in every few seconds to indicate that you want to use the instrument, is anything but gracious or thoughtful.

When you make a call to a friend, just to chat, do not make it short, thereby, showing consideration for others? Tying up a line for half an hour, when you talk away about nothing in particular, is unreasonable.

Never give in to the temptation to "listen in." Invading the privacy of others also is inexcusable.

Question — I am having six bridesmaids and a matron of honor at my wedding next month. Would it be all right not to have the bridesmaids all be receiving like, since there are so many of them? They could mingle with guests, if you think it is correct. — Miss G. V. W., New Haven, Conn.

Answer — I'm sorry, but it is not correct. Traditionally, all of the bridal party participate in the receiving line and it really would not be fair to the four case it makes quite a long line, but it just can't be helped.

Club Activities

SUNBEAM M.B.

RAWDON — The Sunbeam Mission Band convened at the Mount Pleasant Rawdon Church hall, on Sunday morning, with a good attendance.

Barbara Williams presided and Sally McAdam was pianist, when singing, "Mothers of Salem". Joyce Cooney read the Scripture from Mark 10 and Janet Fleteher offered prayer. The offering was gathered by Larry Jeffs and Jim Scott and dedicated by Shirley Potts. Carolyn Johnson gave her report and all sang, "Jesus Tread my Shepherd". Betty McAdam and Nancy Watson each contributed a piano solo. A selection was read by Judy McAdam. Duets were rendered by Bonnie and Brenda Williams and by Bill and Janet Scott.

The next program will be prepared by Larry Jeffs and Doug Potts.

Mrs. Stanley Williams outlined a plan for the Primary Group entitled "A Hole in the Reef". This told of the arrival of a ship once a year to a small island in the Pacific. Here the people eagerly awaited the coming of the sailors as they were bringing a chest of precious Bibles.

Mrs. Harry McAdam was in charge of the Junior Story which had its setting in the Zambales Hills in the Philippines. This tells of two missionaries who first learned the language and then began to instruct the natives about Jesus. Bible stories which included the child Jesus. The missionaries then prepared to write the Bible stories so that all could learn to read, in their own language.

Carmel W.I. Installs 1961-2 Officers

The April meeting of Carmel Women's Institute was held in the form of a pot-luck dinner at the home of Mrs. S. Homan. A good attendance was on hand to enjoy the wonderful meal.

Business was dealt with. The meetings in the future are to be held on the third Monday evening of each month at 8 p.m. Annual reports were read and adopted. Reports were given by standing committees on: agriculture and canadian industries, Mrs. J. Homan; citizenship and education, Mrs. S. Homan; historical research, Mrs. Brimmell; home economics and health, Mrs. J. Clarke; public relations, Mrs. P. Reynolds, and resolutions, Mrs. L. Lattone.

Mrs. Whitmore reported on plans for the plowing match.

1961-62 OFFICERS

The slate of offiders for 1961-62 is as follows: past president, Mrs. E. Urch; president, Mrs. C. Thompson; 1st vice-president, Miss M. Hicks; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. D. Julian; secretary treasurer, Mrs. A. Gowsell; directors, Mrs. Whitmore, Mrs. E. Urch; pianist, Miss Ruth Brimmell; institute directors, Mrs. C. Hopkins, Mrs. W. Watson and Mrs. C. Dafoe; card committee, Mrs. C. Whitmore; public relations, Mrs. P. Reynolds.

Conveners of standing committees are as follows: agriculture and Canadian Industries, Mrs. L. Lattone; citizenship and education, Mrs. S. Homan; historical research, Mrs. C. Brimmell; home economics and health, Mrs. A. Allison; resolutions, Mrs. J. Homan.

Mrs. Whitmore conducted the installation of officers.

Mrs. Urch was presented with a beautiful set of jewellery in appreciation of her splendid efforts as president. The presentation was made by Mrs. A. Whitmore.

The new president, Mrs. C. Thompson, took over the chair for the remainder of the meeting. She thanked the members and expressed hope for her term of office.

Mrs. Seldon Homan and Mrs. Harvey Homan served tea which was enjoyed by all.

Comrade Club Entertains Other Clubs

CARMEL — The Carmel Comrade Club met last night for a recent evening to Holloway Kum-Double Club, Plainfield Couples Club, and Carmel members, of Carmel.

Ruth Brimmell of Carmel, pianist for the evening opened with quiet music.

Mrs. Nichols of Plainfield led in prayer followed by the singing of "Bless This House". Brimmell and Carman Dafoe.

The topic on "Poetius Pilate and his Judgment" was ably presented by Mrs. Merle Robinson and Mrs. Russell Ritz read a poem.

Scripture was read by Mrs. Carl Thompson and Mrs. Reynolds closed the worship service with a poem on "Truth and Error".

Mr. Julian, president of Carmel, gave a short address all the guests and acted as master of ceremonies for the following program: Instrumental duet by Badger; solo — Mr. Arnold Dills of Plainfield; reading — Mrs. Harry Harrison; music — Merle and Donna Robinson; duet; solo — Mrs. Brimmell; Townsend of Holloway; music — Rhonda Badger.

The highlights of the evening were the showing of pictures taken by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Parrott of Belleville, on their recent trip when they toured through France, Belgium, Italy, the British Isles and several other countries. Bernice explained the different stages of the trip.

The men's chorus of Carmel favored with a few numbers which were followed by serving refreshments.

Mr. Julian moved a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Merle Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reynolds for convening an excellent evening of fellowship.

STARS SPARK THE SKY

"It came, it cometh, and will come . . ."—Byron.

It just about keeps those of us who have never flown, all our time to keep up with those who do!

Take, for instance, a flight which Paul Priedlander had recently. "There we were," he said, "about 40,000 feet in the sky. Outside the cockpit, the blue-black sky, dotted with stars that seemed to be right beside us, instead of above us. Then the sky started waving and the signal from the captain, the flight engineer flicked on a switch, and there, up forward, on a movie screen, in the first-class section, was a movie for our very own eyes, they began to show James Mason, Susan Hayward and Julie Newmar in "The Marriage-Go-Round" and in colored Cinemascope. "Stars" right beside their very nameSakes, as it were!

"By May first," he adds, "you too may have the opportunity of riding the airways and watch "stars" in a movie while you fly from New York to the west coast or to Europe."

Mr. Priedlander assures us that the flight is a dozen at all least one line's jets will be equipped with the handsome of Inflight Motion Pictures, Inc., whose president is David Tomack, with offices in Memphis, Tenn.

By the end of the year, Mr. Flexer's plans, are to have at least 100 planes equipped as flying cinemas. They will be conducted along the lines of the small movie houses many of which Mr. Flexer runs in Tennessee. An owner of six air movie houses, he plans a $2.25 admission and serving coffee in the lounge. He is convinced that with his understanding of the public's devotion to the movies, he is calling his service to the airlines he is doing a great service to the travelling public. As an edge over the art theatres, the passenger — the movie-goer — will be able to get coffee in his seat "while he watches the movie in the plane-cinema!

The initial cost is about $100,000, but Mr. Flexer estimates it will cost only about $25,000 to install the equipment in subsequent jets. The air lines will buy the service outright from Inflight which will furnish the projector, the sound equipment and the films. It will change the programs each Wednesday and service the machinery at the terminals throughout the world.

All this is free so far as the passenger is concerned. The wide, narrow screen as becomes in the Cinemascope screen, hangs from the ceiling of the cabin above the centre aisle. It rides high enough for the stewardess to attend the passengers' needs without casting shadow. Access to lounges are uninterrupted. The projection, from an overhead machine set into the ceiling, is clear enough to be in daylight or with cabin lights on.

Best of all, the audience while 'captive in the fuselage, is not captive of the movie'. Each passenger listens through a miniature head phone, with each screen around the set, provided each time the sets are issued. Stewardess, hostesses, star-gaze, munch pop-corn or read without distracting those around them.

It is hoped, that the inducement of a free movie aloft to the passenger of a six or seven-hour flight will induce passengers to pay first-class fare, in preference to the now popular economy-class accommodation. The movies, moreover, are selected with content; one release by Inflight Songers include children and unsophisticated adults of all ages, with wholesome and entertainment, family style, is included.

Thus, with movie stars seeing the stars, the jet age passengers and modern togetherness as a long-range fact!

Bellevigenette: Apropos of plane travel, have thou Dr. and Mrs. R. H. G. Cunningham, 39 Lambert Drive, recently arrived from Germany, where Dr. Cunningham was stationed with our Canadian forces, as a dentist at Lorad. "A pretty village", says Mrs. Cunningham "with every kind of architecture in it, ranging right back to the 13th century; an artist's delight. We liked it there", them, we're told, popular among the Canadian soldiers, high — school dances, etc. is played by them at the Rendezvous Club and Non-Age Hall" maintained by the Brigade Group. Here chess enthusiasts, such as Mr. Cunningham, freely give of their time to instruct the youngsters in this "meaty" game that frankly encourages concentration, careful planning and foresight, constructive and nourishing for youthful minds. Some German chess sets are worthy of art as the wood-en hand-carved one, a prizeo possession of Dr. Cunningham.

CGIT Holds Easter Vesper Service

Wellington C.G.I.T. held an Easter Vesper Service April 2nd at 7.30 p.m.

The girls took the entire service, with Velma Vandevelsen in charge; and with the help of the Explorers, they had a beautiful service, enjoyed by all who attended. Two choir numbers were sung, one by the combined with candles, formed a cross, with others stationed at both sides of the Church, which when then turned off, while the girls repeated the Explorers' motto, C.G.I.T. purposes, followed by prayer, then the Benediction "Now God Be With Us" was sung. The girls leaving the church to the singing of "Jesus Loves Me".

On April 4th, C.G.I.T. attended the meeting of the Ladies Class in the Church, singing a number "Melody of Love".

On April 10th, the group went to Picton for the meeting, in the evening, with Picton and Milford groups. This was a well-planned meeting and enjoyed by all. The girls were leaders and drivers. Thanks, go on behalf of the girls to Mrs. Mc-Neill who played for us.

On April 12th, the regular meeting was held in the Centennial Parlor. Mrs. Bryant having the Bible Study on, "He Is This King of Glory", being a study of the Psalms.

Business was discussed.

The remainder of this meeting was used to make plans for the "Maytime Tulip Tea" to be held early in May. Please watch for further notice. A good attendances is expected.

The C.G.I.T. plans to attend the Spring Rally, Friday, being put on by the Ontario School for the Deaf, Belleville. The Explorers' the books to send to Trinidad.

Three Receive Degrees At Lodge Meet

RAWDON—A special meeting was held at Wellman's Corners, Lodge Hall, when the Quegnaboro degree team conferred the Red Cross Degree on three candidates. The degree captain was Sir Knight Ken Wellman.

The special address was given by the County Master of Masonic Lodges, Very Rev. George Gordon. Other Sir Knights included, Lorne Hagerman, Junior Grand Deacon of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario East.

The visitors were welcomed and thanks extended to the Quegnaboro degree team by Sir Knight Robert Treneer, Worshipful Master.

Refreshments were served at the close of the Royal Black Preceptory meeting and a social hall hour was enjoyed.

W.I. Holds Annual Meeting, Elects Officers for 1961-62

ROSLIN — The annual meeting of the Roslin Women's Institute was held on April 13th at the home of Mrs. W. Gillespie.

The president, Mrs. D. Empson, opened the meeting with a poem, "April."

The roll call was answered by the paying of fees, with 17 members renewing, one life member and one new member.

Correspondence consisted of an invitation from Parkdale W.I. to attend a coffee party in May; letter from Mrs. M. Thompson returning the pooling fee for the Officers' Conference at Guelph; a letter from Miss Jane Gay in connection with "the local Farmstead Improvement Contest; a letter from Mr. Gerald Boyce on behalf of the Hastings County Historical Society, and a letter from Miss Julia Lane, outlining the change in the Home Economics Service program for 1961-62.

Mrs. Lymburner, provincial president, sent a letter outlining the year's work and wishing for all members success in forthcoming activities.

A motion was made that we send $5 to the Farm Improvement Committee, the money to be given in connection with the Farmstead Improvement Contest.

During the past year there were three members with perfect attendance.

Mrs. W. Bates gave the auditor's report and the conveners of the standing committees gave their annual reports.

Mrs. H. Sills reported for the flower fund.

The president conducted a plant and slip auction and it was announced that the May meeting would be held at the home of Mrs. N. White.

It was decided to hold a pot-luck dinner at the hall on April 28th.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and assistants after which a social half hour was enjoyed.

Readers' Saturday Column

As conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

As a faithful reader of your interesting column for years I have a request to make. As a member of a new church I have been asked to convene a strawberry supper to be held through the Women's Association. My experience consists of convening and cooking a spaghetti supper for 150 and numerous banquets for the W.A. Could you suggest any items to serve but still have it nourishing and pretty meat? They would like to charge in the $1.50 range for adults and 50c for the children. Further questions are as follows: 1. What to serve a cold supper. 2. Should this be served individually or as a buffet style. 3. How should strawberries be served and what price is charged for each. Have you any ideas on simple table decorations and decorations for the high ceiling auditorium. 5. Should there be entertainment. 6. What would you suggest the time to be (2 sittings?) for the strawberry evening better than others. 8. Should there be other desserts served with the meal? Look forward to your answer .. Fran. H.

ANSWER:

If you are going to serve a cold supper the price would have to be $1.50 because you will have to buy meat. If your church has a hall fully satisfied with a hot main course you could serve the meal for $1.00 by providing baked beans with wieners on top and cole slaw.

A "Strawberry Social" implies plenty of strawberries in different guises. I think you should serve strawberries and cream, strawberry ice cream and strawberry shortcake.

A "Strawberry Social" implies plenty of strawberries in different guises. I think you should serve strawberries and cream, strawberry ice cream and strawberry shortcake.

I will answer your questions to the best of my ability in the order in which you put them. 1. Cold Supper ($1.50) Sliced ham and pressed (jellied) chicken; potato salad with mayonnaise; cole slaw, buttered rolls. Hot Supper ($1.00) baked beans with wieners, cole slaw and buttered rolls. 2) It should be served individually as the W.A. behind the buffet table to the guests lined up in a queue in front of the buffet table. 3) Serve strawberries and cream, strawberry ice cream, strawberry shortcake. Charge 25c for cream for serving with strawberry dessert. 4) Would your committee have the ambition to decorate the basement of the church? I'm getting the feeling of a basement supper. Use your imagination and you can love us either. We were never asked to do this before.

5) Yes. 6) Time of 2 sittings: 5.45 p.m. and 8.45 p.m. 7) Apart from strawberries and cream, strawberry ice cream and strawberry shortcake.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Bella H. — Rather than raise a finger for help, she's destroying her own home.

Roslyn A. — I can't stand having my husband around. My feeling for him is dead.

Bella H. — My sister is so cold to her husband it's a wonder he shows up at all. We're heartbroken at what's happened to a beautiful love affair. The family is trying to persuade Ros to go to a clinic or do something to save her marriage, but she refuses. She doesn't seem to realize what she is doing to her children.

They're 4, 3, and 2 years old, and the fourth is an infant. Because of constant quarrelling, either Ros or Jack is always running out. When it's Ros, the kids are parcelled out to me and other relatives. When it's Jack, she's away for months, although he sends a cheque regularly.

Separately, Ros and Jack are charming people. Surely something can get to the bottom of what's trouble and help them stay together.

Roslyn A. — I admit that Jack's running off for months does may be my fault. I can't stand having my husband around me. I'm not in love with him any more. So we quarrel and then there's some peace after one of us has stormed out. That's why I think a separation is best while a sad affair lingering which will soon affect the children, I'm afraid.

Bella and I would want me to see a marriage counsellor. What good would that do? I can't even bear the sight of Jack when I'm all alone with him. Maybe when I've gone to a clinic was after the first baby. Then I came fast, Jack ran out each time and so did my love.

I know Bella and I will be better off apart. I'll raise the children. They'll support us and visit them. He'll always be welcome as their father, but not as husband. We're, or any one else!

* * *

The Council — Roslyn is mistaken if she thinks the quarrelling is not affecting the children. It has already affected them. They know mamma doesn't love daddy and that's bad enough. Now Roslyn proposes the destruction of their home, adding a fatherless childhood, with the growing conviction that mamma and daddy no longer love us either. We're never going to have a home.

Bella is right to call for an end to running out and a start toward a mature settling-down of an eminently salvageable affair.

In the background we see Roslyn's frigidity which is obviously the outgrowth of a life which set in somewhere among those closely spaced pregnancies. Emotionally it took over a spot in her heart where great warmth toward Jack once existed.

Roslyn must strive to regain the normal sympathy and outgoingness a wife should feel for her husband. Naturally, Bella's patient help will be enlisted by Roslyn's advisors. His restraint and tenderness will play a vital part in the "thawing-out" process. Sister Bella and the family can play a role by frequent baby-sits, to permit the 2 nights out together on quiet "plaisir" dates.

No more running. This isn't hide-and-seek. It's Marriage and Parenthood. Facing up to the fear that haunts it can bring the "beautiful love affair" Bella refers to out of cold storage.

FRANKFORD — On April 12th the regular meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in the home of Mrs. Earl Baker.

The Rev. Father O'Neill opened the meeting which was conducted by Mrs. N. Croston. The secretarial report was given by Mrs. H. J. Hannebel and the treasurer's report by Miss Hannebel.

Plans were discussed for attendance at the annual Diocesan meeting.

It was decided to hold a series of card parties at the homes of the members and the number of the parish will be asked to contribute.

The meeting closed with prayer.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. E. Baker.

Disagree Over Discipline

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:—My husband is basically a very good and kind man and I know husbands and wives should pull together particularly in the matter of the discipline of children. This, however, is the point on which we disagree most strongly.

He scolds the children in a most negative disparaging way for even the smallest incident. Such as "Why do you have to be so dumb? No wonder you don't get along in school if you don't learn faster than that." Almost every scolding drags on into a scene and ends in tears. Many a meal is ruined from as small an incident as not buttering bread the right way.

I have tried to point out what child psychology books say but he will have none of it. I can't agree with him and the children sense my disagreement, although I try not to say anything.—BAFFLED.

DEAR BAFFLED:—You are right. You and your husband must present a united front or the children won't know where they are at.

What's bothering him? A boss who picks on him, so that he vents his wrath on the children? A feeling of inferiority about his own schoolmarm which he transfers to them? Or just plain bad temper and childishness?

Constant scolding and an insistence that his boys and girls are stupid can only result in their discouragement. They will act stupid and accomplish far less if they think that no one believes in them anyway.

It appears he won't listen to the experts who have had to cope with troubled adults—adults whose behavior has been influenced for life by parents who insisted they were "dumb." As their mother, you can help to neutralize the effect with encouragement, but the best way to raise superior children is for both parents to give them hope—and help!

DEAR DORIS:—My ears are still burning from a conversation I overheard. I work in a big government office.

Most of the staff was out to lunch. The boss was in his private office with the door open and I guess he didn't know there was anyone around. He said quite vehemently to his assistant: "Get me a happily married woman. I've had enough of these frustrated females!"

I'm single and most of us are. If there weren't any single women he would have a hard time getting the work done. Don't you think this is an unfair attitude on his part?—SPINSTER.

DEAR SPINSTER:—He wasn't saying it for publication. Probably there are times when the same man might be heard to say: "Why do these married women have to bring their family problems to work with them!"

Just isn't fair to generalize. There are frustrated women among the "marrieds" as well as among the single. And there are contented old maids. To some people the latter do seem to be in the minority.

Marriage is the accepted and most natural consummation of the good life." The love of a husband and family matures a woman and brings out the best in her. Sometimes it also confines her to home instead of broadening her horizons, narrows them down. Unless she is alert and ready for it, her husband may grow beyond her because of his contact with the world about him.

The woman without a mate has a hurdle to jump to attain the high regard she needs for a good adjustment. She needs to love and be loved and usually finds the answer in devotion to friends, causes and her job. Sometimes she doesn't find it, or enough of it, and shows her frustration in petty annoyances. To realize this is the first step. Then if she is smart enough she can start to move in the direction which will give her the satisfactions she needs.

SCOHARIE — Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Hennessy and also to Mr and Mrs. George Hanna who each have a new daughter.

Best wishes are extended to Ronald Hennessy, who left recently for the west to train for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The Easter Parade offering meeting of the Bloomfield W.M.S. was held in the Sunday School rooms on Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Foster, Darlene and Carol were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Reid and girls, Belleville.

Mrs. Ralph Stone and Mrs. William McGee received word of the passing of their uncle, Mr. Earl Mulholland in northern Quebec. They accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Sanford to Quebec, Monday to attend the funeral service. Sincere sympathy is extended to Mrs. Burford, his daughter and Mrs. Myrtle Welbanks, his sister and also to the other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Foster were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Parliament, Bloomfield Road.

Let us give and give again of all that we possess . . .
Not from the purse but from the heart
Bright smiles and kindliness . . .
The helping hand, the loving thought, the friendly word of praise . . .
Encouraging some lonely soul through dark and stormy days . . .
The very poorest may be lavish with these lovely gifts
Without a penny we may give the kindness that uplifts
God never stints . . . He gives to men his riches from above . . .
Then may we give abundantly, the good gift of our love.

Science at Work

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: Exploding stars, the pulse of a volcano, and a building brick of life.

COOKED WORLDS?

Astronomers recently detected two novs — two stars which suddenly exploded in glowing light and heat and where energy of a nova later subsides to its former faintness.

But the sudden, rapid expansion could well have burned or cooked any nearby planets and all their living things or "people." Whether this happened in the case of the two stars can only be a matter of speculation, since no one can know if they ever had planets. The novas were detected by Dr. Jason J. Nassau and Charles H. Stephenson of Case Institute of Technology.

READY TO BLOW

Taking the pulse of a volcano, experts predict that Kilauea volcano in Hawaii is building up to another major eruption.

It has been re-inflating itself with magma or molten material from deep in the earth. Another sign is swarms of tiny, shallow earthquakes similar to those preceding major eruptions in 1926 and 1950. But the exact date for an eruption cannot be foretold, say scientists at the Geological Survey Hawaiian Volcano Observatory.

RAIN DROP BARRAGE

The biggest raindrops usually fall at the start of a storm. Winds are the main reason. The larger drops are less affected by winds, hence fall more vertically, while smaller drops are blown out of the vertical path, explain Prof. Asselson Dingle and Kenneth B. Hardy, University of Michigan Meteorological laboratory.

And, they add, it takes about a million cloud droplets of average size to form one raindrop.

BRICK OF LIFE

Portions of living bodies—the flesh, nerves, hair and tendons—are composed of building bricks known as amino acids. Generally some 20 of them, arranged in specific fashion, make up the different proteins.

Now a new amino acid has been discovered in collagen, the tendon material, by University of Cincinnati researchers. They report it is the first new amino acid found since 1935. The finding opens new fields for research, including the question whether certain collagen diseases depend upon presence or absence of this amino acid.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Here Is a Calendar of Action For Certain Men at Age of 63

By THOMAS COLLINS

Herewith a schedule for retirement.

It is intended only for a very specialized group of men. The group is composed of those men past 60 who work for big companies, who know the company requires everybody to retire at 65, who have been told since age 60 they would have to retire at 65, no matter what — and who believe it."

Naturally this leaves out a lot of people. Because most people especially men, don't believe it.

For the very specialized group this calendar of action may be useful:

AGE 63

1. Decide where you want to live after retirement — here or somewhere else. If somewhere else, realize that this is probably the first free choice of geography you have ever had. And choose carefully. But choose. It may take you two years to grow acclimated to the hometown-that-is-to-be.

2. Start moving the big stuff you'll need in retirement—er refrigerator, radio, sofa, etc. A good new car will last you ten years, and by 73 you're likely to have enough of driving. The other things, provided you buy quality, will do you for your lifetime. Buy them at 63 and you can pay for them while the salary lasts. If you're staying on in the old home make all major repairs now, and get them paid for.

3. Count your money. Make sure now that your savings, investments and pension will be sufficient to carry you in retirement. Make sure that there'll be enough left out of all of it to carry your wife if you should die first.

4. Take your pulse. Get a thorough physical checkup from your doctor and make arrangements to see him every six months from now to 65. If anything is wrong with you, get the treatment, the operation, or whatever you need now while your hospital and medical insurance policy with the company will still pay off. (Many such policies end at retirement.)

AGE 64

1. Decide what you will do with yourself after you retire. And decide it now. If you'll want to pursue a hobby or recreation get with it. If you'll want to leaf find a rocker. Get ready, because 64 is getting late.

2. If you have decided to move away put your house on the market now, with the stipulation that occupancy will be a year hence. It may take you a year to sell it, but the price you expect to get for it.

3. Put into shape for the long pull whatever money and investments you have. There are better things to do in retirement than fuss with money; so pick what you have into securities or saving accounts that will serve you properly through all your retirement. This will let you know well in advance what income you can expect in dividends or interest.

WEDDING INVITATIONS?

RONALD KEEL JEWELLERS

196 Front St. at Victoria Avenue

4. Are you still getting checkups from the doctor?

5. Buy and pay for a good wardrobe of quality retirement clothes (if you're not getting another job). And let your wife get a new book or two.

6. Pay all your debts — for sure.

7. Ask the company for a three-week leave. If you're moving away use it to get better acquainted with where you are going. If you're staying at home use it to decompress and get used to leisure. Your boss, if he's a good fellow, may report you as taking only two weeks, or maybe one, so you won't lose too much of your salary.

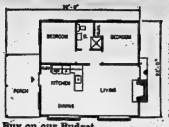
AGE 64 AND SIX MONTHS

1. Take your regular vacation. If you're moving away go to your dream town and rent housing for six months hence (you'll not want to buy a home there until you've tested it for a year.) If you're staying at home start trying out your rocker.

2. Throw away all the trash in the basement if you're moving away. If you're staying, do the same.

3. Get bids on moving your household possessions if you're moving. And be the proud client some bids from the trucking firms in the town where you're going.

AGE 64 AND 11 MONTHS



1. Retire. One month short won't hurt your pension enough to matter. And for the rest of your life nobody has to know how old you are. So you'll not have to say is that you retired voluntarily before your retirement date, and forever after you can be known as a man who made his pile early and is still only 56 years old.

New, Tragic Act in History Of Angola May Be Unfolding

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The full-scale movement of troops and weapons from Portugal to Angola may be the start of a new and tragic act in the history of that West African territory.

Portugal, oldest, largest and last of the great European colonial powers, appears determined that nothing short of force will shatter its empire.

But the winds of change are penetrating the tight wall of isolation, blowing up around the giant, 887,000-square - mile colony.

The first waves of violence that broke out following the Santa Maria incident two months ago may be checked. But to outsiders the chances of holding the forces of self-determination in check seem as slim as they were in Algeria, Kenya or The Congo.

Portugal has maintained a firm hold on Angola almost since the first Portuguese navigators landed there 19 years before Columbus discovered America. The colony's 130,000 whites, some of them descended from the original settlers, control a large but relatively passive population of 4,500,000.

But history has been moving quickly in this branch of Africa. In the former Belgian Congo, inevitably of the times, the hasty spirit of the independence fever seeped across the border.

Last year, many charges that "agents from The Congo" are responsible for terrorist attacks in northern Angola. Congolese officials claim thousands of Angolans have fled to The Congo to escape Portuguese persecution. A spirit of independence leaders point out that tribal lines cross the border and say that in the end of major subjects tribesmen may ignore the king and barrel-ho-control boundary.

The extent of unrest within is clouded in censorship. Hundreds of casualties have been reported but no over-all figures are known.

Portuguese forces in Angola have the current air - ground buildup were estimated anywhere from 25,000 to more than 30,00 men. Two troop ships were bound for the colony Thursday and plans for more other sailings are reported.

Also coming through censorship are reports of clashes between the churches and the Portuguese regime.

Shortly after the present troubles began the Roman Catholic hierarchy in Angola issued a pastoral letter condemning activities of the terrorists but adding guardedly that "legitimate and just aspirations" deserve to be taken into consideration."

It is against this background that the United Nations General Assembly—over the bitter objections of Portugal—this week takes up discussion of a resolution calling for an inquiry into treatment of the Angolans under Portuguese rule.

Strongman Premier Antonio Salazar—under pressure for reform at home as well as in the colonies—is unlikely to heed any UN demands. But he will not be able to ignore the terrorist bullets.

Former Turkish Leaders Guilty

YASSIADA, Turkey (AP) — Deposed Turkish president Celal Bayar and former premier Adnan Menderes were both found guilty Friday of using terror tactics against their political opponents.

The verdict could mean death for the former Turkish leaders, but their fate will not be established until the special high court sitting here has finished the mass trials of former officials of the Menderes regime on charges of violating the constitution.

Also found guilty of using terror tactics to smother the opposition in Yesilhisar and Kayseri provinces were former Kayseri governor Ahmet Kimil, retired Gen. Kemal Cakin, and the former inspector of national security, Aziz Konabar.

UNDERGROUND CROSSING

Underground passageways have been made for pedestrians at busy Schotten crossing in Virginia's famous Ring Avenue.

Burt Thompson Heads Tweed Conservatives

TWEED (Special) — Burton Thompson was the unanimous choice as Association president as Tweed Conservatives as they met Saturday evening for their annual meeting.

Mr. Thompson succeeds Arthur McCarthy as the Association proxy and was named to the position after Mr. McCarthy declined to accept the nomination for another term. Mr. McCarthy served as Assoc. head for 10 years.

There was a large crowd on hand when President McCarthy welcomed members and guests. Clarke T. Rollins, M.L.A. for Hastings East, occupied the chair for the election of officers.

Sam R. Corry was named 1st vice president while a ballot being elected as 2nd vice president resulted in Ronald Way of Madoc. John Ross was re-elected secretary and E. Heidman was named treasurer. Poll chairmen will be named at the first meeting of the executive.

MEMBERS THANKED

Mr. Rollins thanked the members for their co-operation during the year and congratulated Mr. Thompson on being elected to assist in the solution of problems.

Recommendations will go forward in the near future for the selection of Hastings County clerk. Mr. Rollins said he would endeavor to carry out the wishes of the executive.

Lee H. Grills, M.P. for Hastings South, expressed appreciation to retiring president Arthur McCarcy for his co-operation during his term of office.

He was pleased to see so many out for the annual meeting and said he would be happy to come to Tweed at any time to assist in solving any problems. He paid tribute to S. R. Curry as president of the South Hastings Conservative Association.

M.M. PRAISED

Mr. Grills praised Prime Minister John Diefenbaker who, he said, was respected the world over as a devoted temperance man. Mr. Grills promised his personal attention to any problems within the riding.

"If at any time you need advice in a hurry just let Mrs. Grills know and she will forward it to me, even if it is on the laws," he said.

Past president Thompson extended best wishes to the retiring president and called for a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. McCarcy for his services during his long term of office.

Mr. Harold Varty, president of the Hungerford township Conservative Association, wrote expressing regret at being unable to attend the meeting owing to his wife's illness.

Refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed to conclude the meeting.

Garden Notes

Prepare Mums for Fall Bloom

By FLORA SAVILLE

Most of the chrysanthemums have come through the winter well. This in spite of a dry fall a cold winter and little snow to protect the roots and small sprouts. As usual we lost many of our yellow mums but we have come to expect that and will buy some new ones again.

In April, or not later than early May, you should take new cuttings to increase your stock and to get top quality flowers for fall bloom.

Dig up the old plants and separate the new shoots with a sharp knife, or break them off at the old stock. You may be able to get a piece of roots but the new cuttings will do just as well. Dip the cut surface in rootone to induce rooting. Plant out in a nursery row six inches apart.

NEED SOME SHADE

Choose a sunny position preferably with some afternoon shade. Dig in some peat moss, or old sawdust or compost to loosen the soil. It is sand readily replace any stock that did not live but this was time lost and when ever possible I buy locally.

Mums planted on the south or west side of the house have the strongest summer and early fall and the reflected heat from the house. This is just a little too much and the blooms lack substance and will not last as long as those that have some shade in the afternoon.

All the new mums can go into a nursery row in the back garden until you are ready to plant them in the border in August. Keep them moist enough to prevent wilting but not soaking wet. Cover the plants for a few days after they have been set out with plastic or newspapers weighted down with stones or soil. Take off the covers at night and leave off if the days are cloudy. This will keep the plants from drying out until they get established.

If you are buying new plants look for them locally. You can get them in the ground with little set back. Shipped stock often comes in very late and dried out. The late start and dry weather will set the plants back weeks. On the otherhand I have found that mail order nurseries are quite fast and readily replace any stock that did not live but this was time lost and when ever possible I buy locally.

DO YOU HAVE...
—a marital problem
—trouble with your children
—difficulty in budgeting your income

If so, the Children's Aid Society can be of help and invites you to talk it over with one of the members of its family service department, without cost. You will find them sympathetic and understanding of your problem and desirous only of helping you to help yourself. Sport Slicks...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

At a sports dinner held recently in Kingston celebrities of various athletic fields paid fine tribute to one Michael J. Rodden.

In fact Red Storey, former National Hockey League referee and Big Four Football official, stated that El Miguel should be admitted to the new sports Hall of Fame.

"I'm happy to see Mike Rodden here," said Storey. "He made football in Hamilton and was the idol of our era."

MIKE RODDEN

"If Mike isn't elected to the Hall of Fame, there isn't one," said Red.

Second the motion, sir! I do not know of a more deserving sportsman and ex-athlete for the honor.

Mr. Rodden, former coach of the Hamilton Tiger Cats and a veteran National Hockey League referee, sports editor and columnist, has not been in good health and attending the function was his first public appearance in more than a year.

Mike was the sports editor and columnist of the Kingston Whig Standard for a number of years. He was as loyal as an old hound dawg to Kingston teams and the opening of baseball and hockey seasons saw the columnar battle lines drawn between the erudite Don Miguel and this agent.

Mike's pungent typewriter whittled this reporter down to size on more than one occasion. In fact the feudin' and feuds' reached the stage occasionally when readers actually believed we were enemies from away back.

However, it was all in fun and Mike and I had many a laugh in his office over the effects of the typewriter ribbing. Once, in fact, I was warned by a friendly fan to "stay away from the Kingston arena because Rodden is gunning for you."

Mike is no stranger to hockey fans of this city. In 1943 he coached the Reliance senior "B" club that had such players as Tim Williams, Archie Major, Vern Coyer, Spoodgy Ellis, Louis, Claire Williamson, "Red" Jennett, Don Bowen, Tilly Donahoe, Stan White, Bill Hootie, Reg Chipman, Tobe White, Eddie Redmond, "Dad" White, Hamilton, Grisdale, Walt Grenow, Timmy White and others. Ken Soden was the secretary and manager and Bill Elliott the trainer.

Mike was born in Matawa, Ont., and was sports-minded from his toddling days. His best loves were hockey and football. He was the assistant and later sports editor of the old Toronto Globe for some 20 years. He had 13 years' experience as a referee in the National Hockey League, officiating in all at over 2,500 games.

He coached many fine hockey and football clubs. He mentored the Toronto De La Salle, and University of Toronto Schools, Osgoode Hall Intermediate, St. Patrick's OHA seniors and St. Patrick's National Hockey League Club, St. Andrew's College and the famous St. Mary's Juniors of Toronto.

Mike knew hockey timber when he saw it. As a scout he sent to the National League such stalwarts as Nels Stewart, Ace Bailey, Marty Burke, Sherry Bonnell, Babe Siebert, Bill Phillips, Bill Carson, the Stratford Flash, Danny Cox, Bill Brydge, Toe Blake and many others.

On the gridiron, Mike's teams won twenty-seven titles, an all-time record in the old days. His greatest contribution to the game was the great Hamilton Tiger-Cats from 1927 to 1936, by many considered to be one of the most powerful organizations in the history of the game.

Mike has an elephantine memory. In fact I believe he could write a daily sports column for the rest of his life without referring to a note. Along with the late Lou Marsh and Mickey Ion, Mike was rated as "a three, fearless arbiter, one of the whistle-blowing untouchables. He backed away from no one, as many a hockey manager and player can testify.

His decisions were as final as income taxes. Those Irish eyes never smiled when a player transgressed. Mike is credited with the story of the irate woman fan, who shook her fist under the Rodden nose and screamed "If you were my husband I would give you poison."

Mike, the gallant, politely replied, "Madam, if I were your husband, I would take it."

I sincerely hope Red Storey's suggestion goes to those in the high places, who forth the brass of the Hall of Fame. For Mike represented all that was sincere, straight and honest in his beloved realm of sport. It couldn't happen to a finer sportsman, writer and gentleman than Michael James Rodden.

Detroit, Yankees Tied For AL Lead

Mantle Gets Fourth Homer

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

What do you suppose would be the odds against all 10 American League clubs losing their home opener this season? Probably 59,000-to-1.

If you had plunked down $10 a couple of weeks ago at those odds you'd have $100,000 riding on the outcome of the Minnesota-Twins-Kansas game at Los Angeles next Thursday.

Los Angeles is the only American League club which has not yet played before its home fans. Minnesota and Kansas City played at home for the first time Friday—and suffered the same fate of the previous seven home opening teams. They lost.

The Twins were beaten 5-3 by Washington in the first championship major league game ever played in Minnesota, and Cleveland dampened Kansas City's season inaugural with a 3-2 triumph.

Detroit and New York soared into a first place tie, the Tigers clipping the Angels 3-1 and the Yankees downing Baltimore 6-2 for the Orioles' fifth defeat in six games. Chicago and Boston also nipped Boston's Red Sox 3-2.

HIT FOURTH HOMER

Mickey Mantle wasted his fourth home run in four games and Whitey Ford pitched six second victory this week as the Yankees won their fifth straight after a losing debut in Yankee Stadium.

Mantle's homer came with a runner on base in the third inning off southpaw Steve Barber. Mickey Richardson began the inning with a single, Bobby Richardson got on an error and scored on a hit by Hector Lopez.

Ford took his chance for a second straight shutout in the fifth when nine-run Baltimore Phillies doubled home two runs after Earl Robinson walked and Marv Breeding hit a two-bagger. The Yankee southpaw permitted seven hits, walked one and fanned four.

Five appeared to be the magic figure Friday. The Tigers won their fifth straight and the Angels lost their fifth in a row. Tiger southpaw Don Mossi posted eight shutout innings for his second victory. Rocky Colavito's three run homer in the first, and Norm Cash's two-run double in the third, were the key blows that spelled the second defeat of the year for Jerry Casale.

Washington rallied for two runs in the ninth to knock the Twins out of first place.

McCLAIN NEEDED HELP

Rookie Joe McClain was the winner on a 5-hit job. He needed ninth inning help from Dave Sisler. There were two out and two on base when Sisler came and he promptly walked pinch hitter Eddie Yost to fill the bases. But another pinch hitter, Pete Whisenant, struck out to end the game.

The Senators pounced on relief pitcher Ray Moore for their winning runs in the top of the ninth. Billy Klais and Coot Veal singled and Klaus scored on Pete Daley's single. McClain then laid down a sacrifice bunt to score Veal.

Cleveland, with Vic Power providing the bunch and Bob Allen the pitching, came from behind to defeat Kansas City. The Indians trailed 3-2 in the eighth when Power tripled to score Tito Francona. Power then scored the winning run when Woody Held grounded out. Allen relieved starter Jim Grant in the seventh and held the A's scoreless thereafter to record his second triumph.

Minnie Minoso's sacrifice fly in the eighth sent Luis Aparicio home with the winning run as Cal McLish registered his first victory for the White Sox. Nellie Fox drove in the first two Chicago runs with a two-run single in the third. Pete Runnels and Gary Geiger drove in the Boston runs.

Galt Wins Second In Overtime

GALT (CP) — At this stage of the Allan Cup final, is it no reflection on the visitors from Galt to speculate whether anybody can beat Galt Terriers.

The Terriers, who thrive on overtime histrionics and are not deterred when they fall behind by a handful of goals, pulled another one out of the fire Friday night to injural last-minute fashion.

The 4-3 victory over Winnipeg Maroons came in the second overtime period on the second goal by Butch Martin ,and gave the Terriers a 3-0 lead in this best - of - seven series for the Canadian senior hockey title. They carry into Sunday's third game at Kitchener the impressive record of 13 straight playoff wins, including two in overtime, 16 consecutive victories and 20 wins in 22 scheduled back to Dec. 28.

After 74 minutes and 38 seconds of hockey, Winnipeg playing coach Gord Simpson could only sigh that the Maroons had done their best.

CANT DIMROVE

"I think it ya we're disappointed. I think it would be hard to improve on our performance tonight," he said.

"Galt takes advantage of the breaks. We gave them three mistakes and it was against a good, experienced club."

Galt coach Lloyd Roebell enthused:

"These guys could be five goals down and still come back. They played much better tonight than the first game."

Winnipeg jumped ahead 2-0 after nine minutes on two goals by Bill Johnson and Rod Parke. Martin got his first between the Winnipeg net and defencemen Gar Vasey tied it up in the second, Bill Wylie put the Terriers in the lead and Bob Letter forced the extra time with a goal just after the 35-minute mark of the third.

After a scoreless 10 - minute overtime period the teams

Ta e 3-2 Series Lead

Rousseau Sparks Hull

HULL, Que. (CP) — Hull-Ottawa Canadiens ran into Sunday's sixth game of the Eastern Professional Hockey League final needing only one more victory to clinch the title following their 3-2 sudden-death overtime win here Friday night over Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds.

And if Bobby Rousseau plays the same inspired hockey he showed in the Hull Forum Arena Friday night, there will be no need for a seventh game to relentlessly attack the Sault Hull rink Tuesday.

The Canadiens lead the best-of-seven series three games to two, with the Sunday game set for the Soo.

The 21 - year - old Rousseau, considered the best National Hockey League prospect in the EPHL, fired two goals in Friday night's contest. Both were big ones.

The first, coming with less than four minutes to go in regulation time, sent the game into a sudden death overtime. The first time in the series the team couldn't come to a decision.

His second goal at 14:34 of the first overtime period brought an abrupt end to the tight duel waged by the two teams, both near exhaustion after the hard - fought game. It was easily the best game of the series to date.

After a scoreless 10 - minute overtime period the teams went into sudden death. That set the stage for Martin to end it on a double passout from the corner by Wylie and Bob McKnight.

MAJEK LEAVES EARLY

Bob Mader, Galt's playoff scoring ace who suffered a five-stitch cut in his head when he toppled to the ice after a collision with Bill Juzda in the first game, retired with dizzy spells after the first period.

The Maroons underwent one lineup change, Dave Richardson from the Junior Winnipeg Braves replacing Ron Eastlake on a line with Parke and Reg Abbott. Simpson doesn't plan any more juggling.

"About the only changes I can make now is to get the team to skate harder and score more goals," he said.

For the Maroons, who took only four of the 11 penalties and were outshot 46-41, the story was the same as that of Wednesday's first game. They tied up the Terriers in the first period with persistent forechecking but couldn't hold them off in the stretch.

Both clubs were shorthanded when Gordon Rolph's winning goal on a low 30 - footer. A little more than two minutes later Parke got in alone to fire a 15-footer past Boat Hurley.

With Letter in the penalty box, Don Collins slopped Darryl Sly's screened shot but lost the rebound to Martin.

In the second period, Vasey's blueline shot was tipped by defender Patt Collins to tie it.

Wylie's goal from his own blueline, culminating in a neatly-executed backhand from Bob Gait ahead at 5:38 of the third period.

After a scoreless break, Letter tied it with a 20-footer from a hard angle.

Collins had little chance on Martin's final shot to the short side, when made Galt's favorite to take its first Allan Cup.

"Informer" To Work For SPCA

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has decided to pay an informer at Quebec Harness Race Track when, it says, three horses died last year after being drugged.

J. Gordon Ross, branch president said Friday that a man who spends much time at the track would inform the society of any dope cases.

The branch had agreed to pay the informer a fee after Mr. Ross said at a meeting "this man has already been of great service to us but would divulge a bit more information if we gave him a small fee".

The amount to be paid and the man's name were not disclosed.

Ron Taylor Missed by Nine Pins

Ron Saylor, one of Belleville's best bowlers, narrowly missed top prize money of $100 by just six pins in the third annual Hi-7 tournament held in Cobourg recently.

Phil Gosse of the People's Credit Jewellers team of Toronto copped the tournament's big prize with his best seven games totalling 2,634. Saylor was right on his heels with his high seven games giving him 2023 and second place.

Saylor needed a 257 or better game to overtake the winner when he started his final game. Ron experienced headpin trouble however and managed only 204.

Gunn's winning scores were Gosse 311-279-310, 277, 324-312. Saylor turned in scores of 340, 312-302, 279, 241, 257 and 276. He had the survey's high 5-game total of 1,418.

Other Belleville bowlers who faired well in the tournament which had 202 entries and $800 in prize money, were Wally Dever, who finished in 12th spot with a 1,868, and Jack Canning who was 15th with 1,855. Canning also had the top tournament high single a sparkling 384. There were 52 games rolled over 300 during the tourney.

Hits Seventh of Season

Dodger's Moon Harvests Homers

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Not since 1952 has a Chicago Cub team finished a season with a .500 won and lost percentage. But the fellow who has them at that level today will step down as head man Sunday.

He is Vedie Himsl, the first of an unbelievable number of leaders the Cubs will have this season under club owner Phil Wrigley's mass managerial scheme.

According to plan, each fellow who assumes the role of Cub leader must step down after two weeks. Himsl will have served two weeks after Sunday's doubleheader in Philadelphia.

Who will be next? Mr. Wrigley hasn't said. But Himsl's successor most likely will be one of three — Elvin Tappe, Harry Craft or Bobby Adams. And what happens to Vedie himself? He starts at all over again, at the bottom of the mineman list—just in time to finish the season second and maybe become a last place manager.

The Cubs defeated Philadelphia Phillies 3-2 Friday night for their fourth triumph in eight games. The win moved them to sixth place in the National League but only a game from the top. Four teams — Cincinnati, St. Louis, San Francisco and Pittsburgh —shared first place. The fifth place Los Angeles Dodgers are only eleven percentage points behind.

LONG FIRST PLACE

The Dodgers knocked Cincinnati out of undisputed possession of first place Thursday as Reds 5-3. Sandy Koufax pitched a shutout and struck out 10.

Rain forced postponement of the other scheduled games, Milwaukee at Cincinnati and Milwaukee at Pittsburgh.

Wally Moon, the hottest hitter in the league, made it consecutive again sparked the Dodgers. The ex-Ajax outfielder hit his seventh homer of the season, all over the Coliseum roof, and drove in two Los Angeles, and added a single. He scored two runs, Johnny Roseboro also chipped in with a homer to hang a defeat upon Jack Hamilton in the fourth.

Second baseman Don Zimmer figured in the other scoring. He first inning he singled double. In the sixth, he tallied on Wes Stock's single. In the seventh, Philadelphia outfielder Tony Curry muffed his fly ball and Zimmer raced home with Al Heist to score the winning run.

Don Cardwell, with the help of Don Elston in the seventh, was the winner. Hamilton, the loser, deserved a better fate, lost his third of the year.

Fight Tonight in Boston

Pender 2-1 Over Basilio

BOSTON (AP)—Paul Pender's slashing left hand and elusive style made him a 2-to-1 favorite to retain his limited version of the world middleweight boxing title against the dangerous Carmen Basilio tonight.

The event is scheduled for 15 rounds and both fighters are cautious about predicting it will end in less than that.

"If the opportunity raises, I'll try for the knockout, but no predictions," Basilio said. "I expect to have to chase him. His style is not aggressive."

Pender was even more reluctant to talk of a knockout.

"Sure, I'd like to get a knockout," he said, "I don't want to go 15 rounds with that guy."

MAKES THIRD DEFENCE

Pender, 30, from Brookline, Mass., has boxed more than 100 rounds getting ready for his third defence of the 160-pound title recognized in Europe, Massachusetts and New York.

The bout figures to offer a contrast in styles—Pender's superb, stand-up boxing against Basilio's crowding, weaving attack.

Basilio, 34, a former middleweight and welterweight champ from Canastego, N.Y., has won two easy 10-round decisions in a comeback after a pair of brutal maulings at the hands of Gene Fullmer, recognized as middleweight king by the National Boxing Association.

Pender expects to get about $90,000 for the anticipated $100,000 gate and $75,000 television money. Basilio, going into his 11th title fight, will get a pocket about $50,000.

The event will be televised by ABC starting at 10 p.m. and will be carried by CFTO-TV Toronto.

Fish Ladder Will Help Rainbows

ALLISTON (CP) — A "fish ladder" built to help rainbow trout in scaling the six-foot high Minolton dam on the Nottawasaga River near here went into operation today.

Conservation officers said the water-covered "ladder" should improve trout fishing all through the Georgian Bay area because the fish will have more spawning beds.

Robert Trotter, fish and wildlife supervisor for Lake Simcoe district, said a slow start was expected because of cold weather and frequent altering of the ladder's water level in the initial operation.

P. Thomson Clings to Stroke Lead

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Peter Thomson mastered the back nine in a high wind Friday to retain his one-stroke lead at the halfway point of the $40,000 Houston Golf Classic.

Thomson finished with one-over-par 71 for a 36-hole 136. Arnold Palmer, 4 off par him a 137 and a tie with Jerry Barber, Johnny Pott and Lionel Hebert.

Al Balding of Toronto took a 73 and his total of 142 put him in an eight-way tie for 23rd.

Jerry Magee, another Toronto golfer, ended the day with a 73—144.

About 20 Negroes picketed an entrance to Memorial Park Golf Course because Charles Sifford, a Negro star, was not competing.

There were no disturbances as the Negroes carried signs bearing "Sifford makes holes in one," and "Why can't Sifford play?"

No negroes were among the Classic's 112 players.

Wellington, Uxbridge In Finals

Wellington whipped Campbellford by a lop-sided 14-4 score last night to earn their way into the OHA Intermediate "C" all-Ontario finals.

Wellington ousted Campbellford in four consecutive games, and as in an earlier series win over Lakefield, turned on the power for an easy victory in the final game.

Uxbridge Black Hawks will provide the opposition in the thriller round, which gets under way in Picton Monday night at 8.30.

The series will be a best-of-seven affair with the second and third games in Uxbridge next Wednesday and Saturday, the fourth game in Picton on Monday, May 1, the fifth in Uxbridge May 3, the sixth in Picton Saturday, May 6 and the seventh, if the series goes that far, in Uxbridge on Monday, May 8.

Maple Leafs Win Four In Five

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs, who chalked up 32 shutouts for an International League record in their runaway pennant victory last season, already have begun to act as if they'll wipe out that mark.

When Toronto's Chuck Hiller man blasted Jersey City 3-0 on five hits Friday night it was the Leafs' second shutout victory in five games and Toronto's fourth straight triumph. Riverfront Smith tossed a five - hitter against San Juan and won 4-0 Monday after the Leafs had been the season opener to Puerto Rico Marlins.

At that rate of two in five which isn't likely to continue for long, the Leafs would about double last year's shutout record.

The defending champions, however, only moved into third place of the standings ahead of Syracuse Chiefs, Montreal Jets and Richmond Virginians remained unbeaten at two and games each as Columbus blanked Rochester 3-0 behind Jerry Bob Veale and Jim Beauchamp's eight-inning three-run homer.

DUEL WAS CLOSE

Hickman, who walked five and struck out four, fought a close duel with Zack Monroe until the latter was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth. Bob Hendley's homer made it 2-0 for Toronto but Smith fired out and the Leafs belted a series of Jersey relievers for six more runs.

Veale gave a more impressive pitching job for Columbus in a nine-inning duel with Bill Hamilton. He fanned seven and gave only two walks. Ted Sepkowski, Schaive's single, Larry Elliot's triple and an error scored.

Richmond's power spoiled the first International League game of the season for Tom Rogers. Vets belted starter Bob Forsch for 10 hits and relievers including bomers by Don Lock and Pedro Gonzalez, in seven innings. Lock's homer was the two on a homer by Ed Lino, in the eighth.

Buffalo's Ruben Gomaz, a former National Leaguer, checked San Juan on three hits and had a 1-0 lead in the eighth. When Reliable Oliver stepped, Artie Burnett walked and Beauchamp broke up the game with his homer.

Leads Bowling Championships

MONTREAL (CP) — Gerrard Lapierre of Valleyfield, Que., rolled his way to a good lead Friday night after the first five game block of the Canadian bowling championships being featured seven rate, pot bowlers here.

Lapierre, singles champion in 1955, knocked down pins of a possible 1,500 in the first five games for a 1,307 total. Jack Chibi, the 1960 champion from Leamington, Ont., bowled 946 for an average of 189.

Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP) — Jockey Hugo Dittfach brought home three winners Friday, for the second consecutive day. It was Dittfach's fifth triple in 12 days at the Fort Erie track.

In Friday's second race, jockey Avelino Gomez was the victim of a misfortune. His mount, Tennessee Hill, finished first but was set back to fifth place for interfering with the other horses.

In the same race, Tom Rogers was thrown from Queen's Gem, about 300 yards from the finish. He lay on the track for more than seven minutes before being taken to the first aid hospital. The ambulance had become mired, Roger suffered no serious injury.

Charlie Roland also fell from his mount, Lucky Mike, in the featured seventh race, but not before he brought home his first winner. Roland's last year was on his feet immediately after the fall and walked back to the track hospital under his own power.

The daily double, Dainty Maple winner of the first race and New Design, winner of the second, combined for a $162.90 payoff.

The quinella, of Purple Row and Bourbon Blue, returned $93.70.

NEW YORK (AP) — Carry Back, the only horse to beat all rivals in Florida, tackles some new three-year-olds here today in the $75,000-added Wood Memorial at Aqueduct.

The 1½ mile running of the 1¼-mile Wood will have seven starters, all eligible for the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby two weeks from today.

Carry Back, owned by Mrs. Katherine Price, is the 5-1 co-favorite with Alberta Ranches' Four-and-Twenty for the Derby.

Jockey Bill Shoemaker will make him the choice May 6 in Louisville.

Litzenberger To Wed Again

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Black Hawks forward Ed Litzenberger, 32, will marry Gayle Goeden, 22, on sizling stewardess from Kansas City, Mo., today.

Litzenberger, mainstay of the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup championship, is a widower. His first wife was killed last year in an automobile accident that seriously injured Litzenberger.

Irish Whip Beavers

By BARRY SHARPE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Coach Don Gaudet continues to wonder what has happened to his Moncton Beavers. Rev. David Bauer says his St. Michael's College Majors won't check. And the Eastern Canada Memorial Cup final drags on.

Gaudet's Maritime champions were defeated 6-2 Friday night and trail the best - of - five series 2-0.

The Beavers, watched by 3,096 customers, displayed an improved passing game and plenty of spirit from the first game, when they were walloped 11-3. They traded punches with the bigger Majors and held them to one goal in the first period.

The series winner goes against Edmonton Oil Kings in Edmonton in a best - of - seven skirmish for the Canadian junior crown.

Gaudet said: "The thing that gets me is why we aren't playing the way we have all season. This team checks, passes and skates and at least 50 per cent better than we have in these two games."

OUT OF SHAPE

"Sunday's game has to be different. We've had a 5-day layoff waiting for the series. While most of the team practiced, John Gardner and Bernie Keating were studying. Sure they were here last night but they aren't in shape."

Lordon and Keating arrived Friday and were used only sparingly during the game.

Father Bauer says he has problems.

"My lads could be picking up some bad habits playing this team. After the first three goals in the opening game they felt they would have no trouble beating this Moncton club. Consequently, they have relaxed and almost completely stopped checking.

"I know the Ol' Kings are a tough bunch of fellows. We relax now and we may do it against Edmonton, and they will clobber us before we know it."

NOTICES FAIR

The Majors ran up a 5-0 count before the Beavers scored. Andre Champagne got two goals, Dave Draper, Larry Keenan, Terry Clancy and Stan Gerrard singles.

Doug Hillman and Delphis Legacy scored for Moncton.

The Majors drew 13 of the 18 penalties and outshot Moncton 41-20.

"There's the whole story of the game right there," said Gaudet. "I don't know what we should have and when we will get it. I only know I'll wasn't much of an effort."

DR. J. A. CORRY

DR. W. A. MACKINTOSH

Dr. J.A. Corry Appointed Head of Queen's University

KINGSTON (CP) — Appointment of Dr. James Alexander Corry as principal of Queen's University was announced today. He will succeed Dr. William A. Mackintosh, who will continue as vice-chancellor.

Separation of the roles of vice-chancellor and principal, combined for many years, was made possible by a recent parliamentary amendment to the charter of the university. J. J. Deutsch, an economist who came to Queen's two years ago from the University of British Columbia, will continue as vice-principal (administration).

Dr. Corry 62, born near Strathroy, is a law graduate of the University of Saskatchewan and joined Queen's in 1936 as professor of political science. He was named vice-principal of Queen's in 1951 and was a member of the COC Board of Governors for nine years. In Europe since July on a Canada Council fellowship, he will return to Kingston in August.

In announcement by the board of trustees said Dr. Mackintosh, 66, will carry on as vice - chancellor with special duties as directed by the board. He has been a member of the university staff since 1920 and since 1951 had held the combined position of vice-principal and chancellor.

Sport Snapshots

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — In 25 years of trophy-giving, Bernard M. (Bunny) Sabbath has awarded a half-ton of wood and metal.

Sabbath is a solemn-faced little guy who parts his hair down the middle. He carries a portly frame in a manner befitting a 49-year-old businessman.

Running the amateur sports gamut from wrestling to hockey, he has donated at least 500 trophies.

"I get a kick out of it and it gives the kids something to shoot at," he says.

Some, like Lorne (Gump) Worsley, the impish goalie of New York Rangers who grew up in Montreal's Point St. Charles district, went on to the big time.

NOT FOR PROS

But Sabbath draws the line at professionalism.

"The pros don't need me. They get paid."

In this city, amateur sports organizers think is Bunny whom over they think they have a worthwhile project. A few he turns down.

"You get so that you know when the cause is a worthy one," he said.

It's a rule with Sabbath that he leaves the selection of trophy winners to the organizers. But he likes to make the presentation himself. He does it almost shyly and with a minimum of talk.

"My wife sometimes complains that I spend too many nights away from home. But she's really just as enthusiastic about it as I am."

Sabbath, a native Montrealer with two children, operates a wholesale jewelry firm here.

MAKES TROPHIES

For the last year he has manufactured the trophies he donated, cutting costs that formerly ranged from $10 to $75. But before that time it was a line he never carried.

"I got into it because my sons became so closely linked with trophies."

As a youngster, Bunny was a fair-to-middling athlete. He was in the 880 until he launched his hobby. The first trophy was for boxing at a boys' club in the Town of Mount Royal.

Western Hockey

VANCOUVER (CP) — Calgary Stampeders' top line of centre Norm Johnson and wingers Don Jaskowski and Ron Leopold have been voted to the Western Hockey League's 1961 all - star team.

Jaskowski, who finished with a record 57 goals, and Leopold, who finished with 91, were the only unanimous choices of sports writers and sportscasters in the province's 10 cities.

Also chosen were Vancouver Canucks defencemen Larry Cahan and Ralph Backstrom and Edmonton goalie Don Head of Portland Buckaroos.

Each member of the team receives $100 and a trophy.

SET FOR HANDICAP

FORT ERIE (CP) — Grey Monarch, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor's speedy colt has won more than $185,000 in purses, will challenge Anita's Son today in the $7,000 Fort Erie Handicap at the Fort Erie Jockey Club.

Anita's Son, owned by Mrs. M. J. Boyce and rated as Canada's handicap horse, will carry top weight of 127 pounds and be ridden by Hugo Dittfach. Grey Monarch will carry 122 pounds and be ridden by Jim Fitzsimmons in the Vernon Hardicap at the Fort Erie Jockey Club.

Anita's Son, owned by Mrs. M. J. Boyce and rated as Canada's handicap horse, will carry top weight of 127 pounds and be ridden by Hugo Dittfach. Grey Monarch will carry 122 pounds and be ridden by Jim Fitzsimmons in the Vernon Handicap at the Fort Erie Jockey Club.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RICHTER

Sunday, April 23, 1961

General Tendencies: The early part of the day finds you confused about the best manner in which to handle the spiritual, scientific, educational urges and desires that are deep within yourself, but worthwhile studies, lofty-thinking individuals of all types reveal truths. Then through tonight fine for pleasures, social happiness, romantic fervor.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — If you get into the so-called Silence for a while during a.m., you will get wonderful intuitive response through ethereal waves and you can later use this knowledge in dealing successfully with others. P.M. get out socially and be a leader.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — If you go to movies of your choice, you will be inspired and can then handle others more pleasantly, which will lead to a more successful future. Evening fine for soirees charming parties, meeting with smart and interesting people.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — If you are more broad-minded today, you can come to a far better understanding with others and this will open up a whole new vista for you in the future. P.M. get out with good friends and delve into new and interesting cultural activities.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Don't be extravagant in a.m. no matter what the temptation may be. Later in the day it will also be necessary to keep the Ten Commandments in order to get through the day with a good day's work, concentration and study. Build character.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Since you are confused in a.m. about your desires in life, it is best you attend services, and get spiritual inspiration. The remainder of the day is then fine and you can have a wonderful time with pals. P.M. be kind to loved one.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Morning ideal for meditation and know just what your future plans and goals are. After lunch, get out and assist those who are in need. Then enjoy the cultural pursuits that please you and for which you have little time.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Try to avoid that idiotic person this morning who drives you to distraction, get out early and meet the individuals who can help you in your career. Meet new and worthwhile people, too. Have fun.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Although a higher-up can be very provoking now, it is important you maintain control or you are the one to suffer. The day is otherwise fine for having a good time and meeting interesting people who can help in your career.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Refrain from making those radical changes that would be detrimental to your best interests at this time. Be loyal. Afternoon and evening are ideal for getting together with good companions and having a jolly time.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Give an ear to the fine ideas of those about you this morning and come up with good suggestions yourself. Spend remainder of the day making excellent plans. Be sure you have an airtight system in mind and set it up properly.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Close ties and associates seem [illegible] today.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Although you may think that others are not co-operating with you as you deserve, if you live the Golden Rule and be of more service, you find that soon you get all the support you need. Be a leader that others respect and follow.

If your child is born today— he, or she, will be one of those delightful youngsters who always seems to be doing things the right way, but this is only the result of an undisciplined mind and if you early give the right training in all aspects of life, you find that in later years you will have a very brilliant and industrious son or daughter who will outshine his fellows in whatever may be the form in this giant. A veritable human dynamo here.

Monday, April 24, 1961.

General Tendencies: Now you have an unusually good day to bring your most unusual and unique talents to the attention of all who are able to help you to make them a workable success. This also applies to the hobbies or cherished longings that are yours as well—So, get up-to-date and show everyone just what your special talents and gifts actually are.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — This can be a very pleasant day and if you carefully provided you first get your wardrobe in order and are at your best. Make a smile, then get off to those big ventures you have in mind, P.M. Relax at favorite amusements.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Close ties have excellent ideas for your advancement right now, so be sure to listen closely and then incorporate them with yours. Strive for greater understanding and come to a real understanding with your friends. Expand.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Begin this new week by seeing all the persons who can be instrumental in bettering your business and personal affairs. Get new plans under way nicely. Come directly to the point with everyone and accomplish a great deal.

Moon Children, (June 22 to July 21) Commence the week properly by analyzing your prosperity, taking inventory, and figuring out ways to increase your income and expenditures. Contact business specialists so that you have the best advice and can carry through efficiently.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Every opportunity is yours now to impress others with your fine personality and particular talents. Seek out those in authority who can help you with your career. P.M. Fine for having a marvelous time at social affairs with kindred spirits.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are able to contact those now who can confidentially extend the assistance and support you need. However, be careful you don't broadcast it about, or you lose out. P.M. Get together with, congenials and have lots of fun.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Without jeopardizing any of the old and valued friendships, take avantage of new ones that are now available to you so that you can profit and grow through them, too. Be very cut for you this morning. But be sure first the trouble is not within you and then you will find that you understand them better and vice versa. Come to terms.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Although you may think that others are not co-operating with you as you deserve, if you live the Golden Rule and be of more service, you find that soon you get all the support you need. Be a leader that others respect and follow.

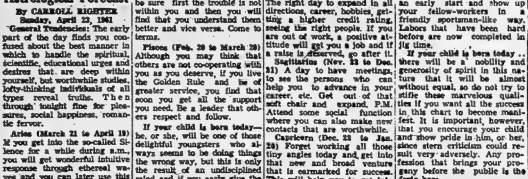
Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) The right day to expand in all directions, career, hobbies, getting a higher credit rating, seeing the right people. If you are out of work, a positive attitude will get you a job and if a raise is affected, go after it.



Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A day to have meetings, to see the persons who can help you to advance in your career, etc. Get out of that soft chair and expand. P.M. Attend some social function where you can also make new contacts that are worthwhile.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) Forget working all those tiny angles today and get into that new and broad venture that is earmarked for success. This will help you to get into your proper groove and you can know real happiness. P.M. Fine for romance.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get together with partners today and know what your true relative position is with them by having a cooperative attitude today. You come to fine understandi. P.M. Be very affectionate with one you love.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) This is one day when you can accomplish and produce to your maximum ability, so get an early start and show up your fellow-workers in friendly sportsman-like way. Labors that have been hard before are now completed in jig time.

If your child is born today there will be a nobility and generosity of spirit in this nature that it will be almost without equal, so do not try to stifle these marvelous qualities if you want all the success in this chart to become manifest. It is important, however, that you encourage your child and show pride in him, or her, since stern criticism could result very adversely. Any profession that brings your progeny before the public is the forte here.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

EARS AND HEARING

Though not on a par with their sight, which is quite extraordinary, birds' hearing is remarkably acute. Songs and calls are the ordinary forms of communication, heard and understood by those for whom they are given. And any birdwatcher can tell you that the slightest sound will disturb a bird, so that going on a field trip is useless unless you intend to practise silence.

Male birds sing for the purpose of attracting females to their territory and to ward off other males of their own kind. Although we cannot always understand their language we know that the various calls mean different things.

BABIES ALERT

Before mother robin reaches her nest the silent, sleeping babies become alert, lifting up their skinny little necks and opening their big mouths ready to receive a worm. They hear her coming before we did. When mother ruffed grouse is surprised with her young, with a short "quit-quit" of alarm or a squeal or whine she commands the children to stop in their tracks. They hear it, and "freeze," camouflaged in their natural surroundings as long as they do not move.

The white-throated sparrow has two absolutely different call notes. If we get too near the nest, the loud, hard, metallic "chink" is given, telling the youngsters to keep quiet. They hear and obey. The soft "tseet" call is evidently made to give information to a relative, but is not intended as a warning.

APPROACH IS DIFFICULT

Adult birds are ever on the alert. If you wish to see them, remember that there must be not just no talking, but no noise of movement. This is something very difficult to achieve. When in the woods, leaves rustle under foot, twigs snaps, rubber boots squeak, and the slightest sound is heard by the birds for many yards in all directions. They either rush to cover, or remain motionless, camouflaged completely in the setting which may be but a few inches from your hand. Approach by water is just as difficult, as the drip of the paddle or the slight squeak of an oar will drive all away.

However, not all of the ear is given over to hearing; part is devoted to balance — an important part for birds that must twist and turn in flight. It has been discovered that this section of the ear is highly developed in swifts and swallows, birds that, never fly straight ahead, but continually swerve in their course, rolling first to one side, then the other.

OCEAN TEMPERATURES

Paleontologists can determine the temperatures in oceans thousands of years ago by measuring the amount of oxygen-18 stored in fossil shells.

Pamphlet Put Out Before Bill Passed

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition MPs complained in the Commons Thursday that Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton published a pamphlet based on an act of Parliament which has not yet become law.

Walter Pitman (New Party-Peterborough) raised the matter, describing it as a grave violation of the rights of Parliament, a flagrant abuse of government powers and indicative of government belief that MPs are merely rubber stamps.

He said he had received 50 copies of a yellow and green pamphlet named The Agricultural Rehabilitation and Development Act. He waved a copy, with the initials ARDA prominent on the cover.

Mr. Hamilton said the pamphlet had been published to explain the act to provincial agriculture departments and farm organizations so their views could be secured before the bill is passed. Saskatchewan had asked for 2,500 copies, he added.

Opposition Leader Pearson said Mr. Hamilton was "treating Parliament with contempt."

Speaker Roland Michener said the fact the pamphlet referred to the measure as an act, rather than as a bill, might be grounds for complaint but the implication that the bill had been passed was not strong.

He said that since Mr. Pitman was not prepared to propose a motion demanding an investigation the matter was closed.

Deseronto

DESERONTO — Mr. and Mrs. Sid Brown spent the weekend with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown and family.

Mrs. Charles McCaw and daughter Debbie of Syracuse, N.Y. were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tyrell.

LAC Robert Brant of St. Hubert Quebec, spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. F. Brent and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hall and family, of Ottawa spent the weekend with her mother Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stevenson.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown of Toronto spent the weekend in town.

Mr. Gordon Jessup spent the weekend with his parents in Guelph.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kentish spent Sunday with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Burt, of Belleville.

Mr. James Sterrett of Kingston, spent Sunday in town.

Mrs. M. Rogers has returned home after spending the winter with relatives in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gunningham and Eleanor of Toronto spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Harvey.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug Parks and family of Don Mills visited with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hamilton and family.

CALLS FOR SANCTIONS

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — The International Confederation of Free Trade Unions in a May Day statement Monday called for economic sanctions on South Africa "as the only remaining means of bringing these racial fanatics to heel." The ICFTU claims a membership of 57,000,000 workers throughout the world.

Gore

THE GORE — Centre W.A. was hostess to a Belleville ladies' bowling club at Centre Church hall on Wednesday evening. A turkey dinner was served.

Victoria W.A. catered to a Masonic banquet at the Masonic Temple in Belleville, on Saturday evening, which was also a turkey dinner.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

A large crowd gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Redner on Friday evening to honor their son Roger and bride (nee Barbara McKenzie) with a miscellaneous shower. Mr. Winston Pulver was chairman for the program, after which the gifts were presented. Roger and Barbara thanked all for their beautiful and useful gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Redner will be residing on the bay shore road.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Pulver, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Pulver and Mrs. A. H. Pulver were in Selby on Wednesday attending the funeral of Mrs. Price.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Townsend and Mrs. Nelson Vanclief of the 2nd concession, who celebrated their 49th wedding anniversary on Monday. A family gathering was held on Sunday evening at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Carter and family, Centre. All wish Mr. and Mrs. Vanclief many more years of happiness.

Mrs. Vanclief is superintendent of Victoria United Church Sunday school.

SEEKS DAMAGES

TORONTO (CP)—Wilfred M. Poolman, former director of the investment firm of R. A. Daly and Company, has issued a writ seeking damages from the Toronto Stock Exchange and two of its officers. The exchange fined R. A. Daly $3,000 in late February after an inquiry into the company's stock options transactions, and subsequently withdrew its approval of Mr. Poolman as a director of the firm.

Red China's Growing Sub Fleet Adds New Problem To Defence by U.S. Navy

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Red China's growing submarine fleet—it is believed to total more than 20 long-range, modern craft—has added a new dimension to the United States Navy's problem of defending American shipping lanes and coasts.

But the big menace is posed by an estimated 400 Russian submarines, most of them advanced, far-ranging types and some capable of firing missiles, although apparently not as deep-striking as the U.S. Polaris rocket with its 1,200-mile reach.

Rear Admiral Lloyd Mustin, the U.S. Navy's Anti-Submarine Warfare (ASW) chief, said in an interview that as things stand "We could win" any test of strength with the Communist bloc sub fleet—but not without losses.

There are others in the navy, and outside, who contend there is ground for doubt about present U.S. capability in this field.

U.S. Navy officials are operating on the assumption that Russia soon will have nuclear-powered subs—if it doesn't have them already.

SEE RED A-SUBS

The advent of Russian nuclear subs will multiply demands on U.S. anti-submarine forces, some say by as much as five or 10 times.

This is because atomic-powered undersea craft can stay submerged indefinitely, thus denying surface ships their detection. And they can travel underwater at more than 20 knots, as compared with five or six knots of conventional subs, making it that much harder to kill them when detected.

If and when the Russians muster 20 or more nuclear subs, the problem of coping with them may take on critical proportions, officials said.

However, "we know what to do about it," Mustin said, claiming the U.S. Navy has the technique and weapons in quality. The question, in the admiral's view, is quantity.

"We've got to find some means to provide more money for ASW capability or we're going to fall behind," he said.

Overall, the Communist bloc has about 450 submarines. The Soviet has more than 100, 17 of them nuclear-powered. In addition, British and other nations friendly to the United States have about 100 subs. None is nuclear, although Britain is building its first.

How can U.S. officials speak with assurance of Communist sub numbers?

"We know every one of their subs by name and number," Mustin said, adding that the U.S. has pictures of many of them, taken by patrol planes.

Britain And Russia Call For Laos Truce

India To Convene Three-Country Supervisory Body

International Parley Opens in Geneva May 12

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Britain and Russia today issued a joint appeal for a cease-fire in Laos.

A copy of the appeal was handed over here to Indian Prime Minister Nehru, together with a request to him to 'reconvene the three-nation truce supervisory commission for the Indochina kingdom.

Nehru agreed to convene the commission—made up of India, Canada and Poland—immediately.

Britain and Russia also agreed to an international conference opening in Geneva on May 12 to discuss the future of Laos, the London Foreign Office British high commissioner said after; the meeting with Nehru.

Gore-Booth said the cease-fire appeal would be available for publication here.

HAVE JOINT CALL

Gore-Booth and Soviet Ambassador Pavel Benediktov called together on the Indian prime minister to ask him to reconvene the truce supervisory commission.

Its task would be to verify a cease-fire between the right-wing government troops and leftist forces before the international conference.

The meeting, the reconvening of the commission and the international conference is to be called for by Britain, with the backing of the United States, in an attempt to settle the Laotian crisis.

Russia agreed earlier this month to the proposals but did not specifically meet the West's demand that a cease-fire must precede an international conference.

Diplomats here said opening of the Geneva conference May 12 had been made conditional on the control commission having verified the cease-fire by then.

Nehru was expected to ask Canada and Poland to send their delegates to the control commission to New Delhi without delay.

TO HEAD CANADIANS

The chief Canadian delegate will be Leon Lavergne, Canadian ambassador in Rome, who was Canada's original representative when the commission first was formed in 1954.

Britain and Russia were acting in their capacities as co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference on Indochina to help Nehru to revive the commission, which has been inactive since 1958.

Each of the three countries on the commission will provide quite a military contingent to help dispatched check on the cease-fire. Diplomatic sources said that up to 50 military men—including communications and other similar personnel — may go to Laos from each of the three.

The commission, adjourned indefinitely at the summer of 1958, was established at the 1954 Geneva conference that ended the Indochina war between France and Communist rebels.

The four states that used to form French Indochina — Laos, South Viet Nam, North Viet Nam and Cambodia — will be among the countries represented during the new Geneva conference.

Others invited are the United States, Russia, Communist China, Britain, France, Canada, India, Poland, Thailand and Burma.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Periods of rain and scattered thunderstorms will persist across Northern Ontario today, giving away tonight to scattered shower activity. The northern edge of the rain will be just north of Georgian Bay.

VIENTIANE, Laos (Reuters) — First guerrillas today attacked a village only two miles from Vientiane—the closest they have come to the Laotian administrative capital in their jungle war with right wing government forces.

Reliable reports from the village of Pak Thang said the guerrillas attacked with grenades and small arms, killing three government soldiers and wounding eight before withdrawing.

The attack followed the capture by the rebels Saturday of the strategic city of Muang Vang Vieng, 85 miles north of here. Government forces were reported today to have abandoned large amounts of ammunition and equipment in their flight from Vang Vieng.

Ninety-three government casualties from Muang Vang Vieng arrived at the Vientiane military hospital today but no more wounded have come in since then.

Military sources took this as an indication that the government had to leave injured men behind during the hasty evacuation of the important stronghold.

Vang Vieng is a major government military headquarters on the northern highway to Luang Prabang, the royal capital.

Government troops retreated widely before the rebel attack and at least 21 were reported killed. It was uncertain how far behind the royal Lao troops withdrew and whether they were beaten from Vang Vieng or simply regrouped for a counter-attack.

The Associated Press quoted reliable sources as saying three U.S. military advisers have been killed and seven others have begun "disformed U.S. advisers are helping to mobilize resistance among royal Laotian soldiers last week, hoping to shorten the waning government forces.

One other American military man is believed held by the pro-Communist rebels. He is an army major who bailed out when a U.S. civilian airliner was shot down in March.

With a cease-fire due, the leftist Pathet Lao forces now hold the area established to end control its narrow waist, which dominates the north-south highway linking Vientiane with Luang Prabang.

Friend Says Kennedy Was Given 'Badly Boshed-up Advice' on Cuba

WASHINGTON (CP)—A close friend and adviser to President Kennedy says the president "got some badly boshed-up advice" on the Cuban invasion and that president there will be no immediate committal of United States troops in the Congo or Laos.

Asked what Kennedy's reaction will be to Premier Castro's threat to shoot Cuban rebels captured in the abortive invasion, this informant said the rebels were aware when they set out what their fate might be if captured.

Kennedy's friends are urging him to keep meeting Latin American members of the Organization of American States to take action on the Cuban crisis. The informant said that if they refuse to act, the U.S.

...ll its economic ... with the Latins.

...victory for the ...lation element in the U.S. ...ns has aroused the wrath of its Latin associates in the Cuban affair still has not been made clear. But it appears the U.S. government wants the toughest course possible — to make Castro's red time and overthrow it by force if Castro refuses to hold free elections.

"We've got to place the Latins before the well, figuratively speaking," the informant said. "We've got to see who will come forward. After all, the situation is more dangerous for them than for us."

About 5,000 rebel troops, trained and equipped by the U.S., were gathered at jumping off places in Central America, but Kennedy agreed that only about 1,500 should take off, in a Cuban probing action. Only a few were reported to have slipped past Castro's men to join other guerrilla bands in Cuba's Escambray Mountains.

The informant said Kennedy could have stopped the invasion

36 FATALITIES ACROSS CANADA DURING WEEKEND

Traffic Mishaps Account for 26

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Accidental deaths rose sharply during the weekend although two provinces reported none and Quebec recorded an unusual low for highway deaths.

A survey conducted by The Canadian Press revealed a total of 36 deaths across Canada from 6 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday. Twenty-six were from traffic mishaps, compared with 19 last weekend. The clear provinces were Newfoundland and Manitoba.

Ontario led traffic fatalities with nine, British Columbia reported seven, Alberta and Saskatchewan three each, Nova Scotia two and Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Quebec one each.

There were three deaths resulting from fire in Ontario, two in Nova Scotia, two persons killed in boating in Ontario.

In Quebec one person was killed when a train slipped off its stand. In Ontario a man was crushed under his car, Baltic Columbia reported one miscellaneous death.

These figures discount natural deaths, known suicides or industrial accidents.

Two deaths each:

Edward Britton, 67, of Toronto, crushed Saturday when a block under his car slipped;

Bernard Alvin Levesque, 20 of Sturgeon Falls and Merville Lalonde Storring, 20, Sydenham, Ont., when their cars were rammed by a 60-mile-an-hour train at a level crossing Saturday;

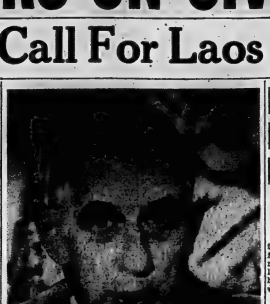
Lloyd Middaugh, 39, of Little Britain, killed Friday night when his car left the road near his Manitoulin Island home;

Wayne Fuller, 21, killed Saturday when his car collided with a tractor - trailer in the Woodstock area;

David Lamb, 19, of Streetsville, Ont., car went out of control and hit a tree four miles west of Campbellford;

James Thibeault, 49, killed in a two - car crash near his Alexandria, Ont., home;

Alexander Harvey, 71, who died when his car went out of control Saturday near Meaford;



Peter Geddes, 2, drowned near Ste. Sault Ste. Marie;

Earl Matthew Robinson, 36, of Marathon.

CLASH INJURES TWO

NEW YORK (AP)—Two persons were injured when a restaurant was wrecked early today in what police said was a riotous clash between pro-Castro and anti-Castro partisans. The fight, which apparently started after midnight at the El Prado, the 8th Avenue restaurant is owned by a nine-year-old Venezuelan girl was fatally shot to death as an aftermath of gunplay in a similar quarrel last Sept. 21.

Castro Warns U.S. Against Direct Cuban Intervention

HAVANA (Reuters) — Fidel Castro warned Sunday night that direct intervention by the United States in Cuba would cost the American "not only their prestige but also their existence."

The Cuban premier denounced "imperial aggression" by the U.S. in last week's abortive invasion by anti - Castro forces and said that armies inspired by the U.S. "are always bound to lose" in a fight with Cuba's army of peasants and workers.

Castro's speech on television was his first public appearance since the invasion. He spent four hours and 25 minutes in front of the cameras, much of it devoted to an outline of the advantages of a planned economy, as in Russia, over a private-enterprise system.

But the speech disclosed that there was a virtual deadlock in the fighting between government forces and the anti-Castro invaders for two days. A two-pronged thrust by the government army Wednesday rsfung the fighting in Castro's favor.

Castro disclosed that the government lost 87 men killed in the fighting. Eighty-two of the rebels were reported killed and 1,189 taken prisoner.

There were cries of "Pare-don!" (to the wall!) when Castro referred to the prisoners.

Castro explained the mass roundups of suspected counter-revolutionaries during the invasion as a necessary measure but said there were "some cases of injustice."

He said the detentions were

200-Year-Old Fight Wiped Out Overnight Says Witness

JERUSALEM (AP) — A witness in Adolf Eichmann's trial testified today that Nazi Germany wiped out "overnight" the fruits of a 200-year-old struggle by Jews in Europe to improve their social and political position.

Eichmann, listening intently, began scribbling rapidly on a notepad as the prisoner's dock. He was one of the early supporters of the Nazi party, joining it in 1931 when it was still outlawed in Austria.

The witness was Dr. Salo Wittmayer Baron, professor of Jewish history at Columbia University in New York City. He said: "The Nazi movement showed that, even in a highly developed country, it was possible to turn back the clock. The steady development from 200 years of struggle by the Jews was set back overnight."

The prosecution put Dr. Baron on the stand to deliberate the social and political position of the Jews in Europe at the moment when the Nazis came to power, and to show the extent of the damage wrecked between 1933 when Hitler came to power, and 1945, when he committed suicide.

Prior to his appearance on the witness stand, Eichmann's lawyer, Dr. Robert Servatius, questioned Dr. Gideon Hausner, Israel's

Believed JFK Concurred In Cuban Invasion Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration sources say President Kennedy and all his security advisers concurred in the Cuban invasion plan.

Work on the plan was said to have begun as long ago as the Central Intelligence Agency during the Eisenhower administration. Officials said President Kennedy's administration approved it and decided to go ahead.

Kennedy had ordered a broad review of the intelligence work on the Cuban affair to find out what caused the setback. The president was said, however, to be looking for a factual review rather than action against Intelligence Chief Allan Dulles or anyone else.

Washington continues to be a fertile field for rumors about the Cuban undertaking and reports have a choice at the moment of second-guessing explanations from different official quarters.

What appears to be the principal administration account is given by Kennedy.

Contrary to published reports, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, under-secretary Chester Bowles and the joint chief of staff concurred generally in the undertaking. There have been reports Kennedy went ahead over their objections.

Their general approval did not

LIFE IN HAVANA HARDLY ALTERED BY LITTLE WAR

Two Canadian Pilots Get Home

MONTREAL (CP)—The first two Canadians to get home from Havana since the abortive revolution reported today that life in Cuba's chief city was hardly disturbed by the little war.

"It was like walking around in a concentration camp," said Capt. Roy Lippert, 26, pilot of a World War II Mustang plane that was stranded in Havana for a week.

"There were people with guns all over the place. But Canadians are well treated. We were free to go where we wanted and they'll practically give Canadians the whole town. You would never know there was a war."

Lippert, a native of Kitchener, and his co-pilot Guy Larose, 31, Dorion, said they were forced during the first to leave Havana once civilian flying was resumed Sunday.

The Canadian consulate asked them to leave with a group about a dozen Canadians but they refused. "It was not advisable and by the time the papers were processed, regular airline flights were under way. They were believed to have caught a Cubana Airlines plane for New York.

WEREN'T WORRIED

"We were never worried that we wouldn't get out," Larose said, "The people at home were concerned but we knew we'd just spent the week at the Hotel Riviera."

"Actually," said Lippert, "no one ever told us we couldn't leave."

Cubans are all well - armed with Czech and Russian weapons, he said. "From the number of militiamen and women about, it looked like 80 per cent of the people were armed."

There was little action for Havana citizens, they listened to the news broadcasts and went about their business under the watchful eyes of machine gunners, Nobody seemed worried.

"We would go swimming," said Lippert, "but you needn't be more guards than swimmers."

FLAVE SHOT DOWN

The first hint Lippert and Larose had of something being wrong came shortly after they arrived. The Cuban army shot down an American B-26 bomber. The B-26 bomber was the same type as used by the revolutionaries in their first attacks to contact with the ground and would not identify itself, instead anti-aircraft gunners shot it.

The plane crash - landed on the Havana airstrip but no one was killed.

The following day, shortly after the pilots had cabled Montreal that they would arrive Tuesday, the airport was closed and

Country Under State Of Alert Against Invasion

Gen. de Gaulle Assumes Role of Dictator

PARIS (Reuters)—The French government issued an urgent callup order to military reservists today as the country braced to repel any attempted invasion by right-wing rebels from Algeria.

The country still teetered ominously on the brink of full-scale civil war after a night of fear in Paris during which a state of emergency was imposed momentarily.

The anticipated invasion did not materialize, but the country remained under a governmental-ordered state of alert for the information ministry warned that the danger was not over.

A statement issued by the premier's office disclosed the callup of reservists and said they would be set up into regular formations.

But it added that no arms would be issued to elements which did not belong to "republican constituted units."

This was taken as a rule out civil defence groups, which the government said earlier it had banned to arm to help fight any invasion by the right - wing terrorist Secret Army Organization Cheries de Gaulle's Algerian policy.

PROCLAIM SUCCESS

The rebel radio in Algiers continued to broadcast confidently about the success of the revolt.

Rebel leaders claimed control over all Algeria but a French information ministry spokesman in Paris said the military junta had the support of only a "small number of military units."

It was disclosed today that the leaders of the rebellion—Gen. Maurice Challe, Gen. Raoul Salan, Gen. Edmond Jouhaud and Gen. Andre Zeller —may face charges carrying the death penalty if they are taken into custody.

The Swiss judicial authorities announced that they had opened an information against M. Challe.

Reports of persons unknown!—the normal French way of opening a criminal investigation—under three articles of the French penal code dealing with treason and desertion.

The first two of the three articles provide the death penalty out right or legitimate motive have taken over may rebellion command or are found retained it against the orders of the government.

These offences are punishable by life imprisonment — or, if found guilty in time of arms, by the death penalty.

As the invasion threat eased with the daylight hours, main French airfields were reopened to international traffic and civil flights today after being closed during Sunday's state of alert.

The Paris fields of Orly and Le Bourget were back to normal. The field at Marseille was being cleared of obstructions.

Civil aviation officials reclaimed barred.

Reduce Defence Costs to Finance Big Works Projects, Jobless Urge

OTTAWA (CP)—A mass delegation of unemployed, expected to swell to 1,000 before the day is out, gathered in the capital today to back up a demand for relief of unemployment.

About 500 arrived by train from Toronto and other groups from points in Ontario and Quebec points streamed in by car.

Nearly all the delegates went to Parliament Hill for a meeting with Labor Minister Starr. The rest gathered in Confederation Park about two miles south of Parliament Hill to organize a mass rally and march later in the day.

The leaders were armed with a 11-point program demanding action to relieve unemployment.

The leaders of the group travelled to Parliament Hill in a large yellow bus covered with placards. One read: "Stop your promising jobs and start producing jobs."

Another sign said the tree ...s be financed by Locals 220 and 234 of the United Auto Workers (CLC) at Windsor. The brief said an almost unlimited field for employment in all parts of the country as every corner of the country at the local level to Massive reward programs for poor urban housing areas, work on the unfinished Trans - Canada Highway, a national electric grid system and a trans-Canada oil pipeline north of the Great Lakes to Toronto and Montreal. They also asked for all single and enlarged winter works projects, expansion of year round project and extended unemployment insurance benefits and allowances.

The brief also urged a 40-hour week; minimum wage of $1.25 an hour; two weeks vacation with pay after one year; 10 per cent increase in family allowances and old age pensions; and a national health scheme.

To offset the increases, the brief suggested major cuts in defence spending.

Police Satisfied Man Did Not Drown in Lake

WHITBY (CP) — Police said Sunday they are satisfied Russell Horner, 48, of Toronto did not drown in Whitby harbor as was feared by a fellow-executive who telephoned them Thursday.

Hogwerr, the whereabouts of Horner, president of Markham Motomarine Limited, remains a mystery. His wife has appealed to him through the press to assure her and their two-year-old son Jay he is all right. She said he was depressed before he disappeared.

Police said they received a telephone call Thursday from Kenneth Allen, secretary of Motomarine, in Markham, saying he believed Horner fell into the lake.

A skindiver searched the area Friday without success and later police said they had reason to believe Horner was not in the lake.

Allen told police he and Horner had launched a boat for a pleasure trip then he went alone for a coffee. When he returned there was no sign of Horner.

Faraday Seeks Leave to Empty Waste in Lake

TORONTO WOMAN HURT IN CRASH

A Toronto woman, Mrs. Myrtle Crawford, was taken to Belleville General Hospital suffering from bruises and facial cuts early Sunday evening following a two-car collision on Highway 37 north of Belleville.

Police said the accident occurred shortly after six o'clock at the intersection of Highway 37 and the 4th concession of Thurlow township.

The two cars were driven by Dr. Frank McCue of Tweed and Morley Stewart Crawford, son of the injured woman.

The two normally fly a DEW line supply route. They went to Havana on a charter flight to deliver the food children sent the Cuban agriculture department.

Millcrest H-S Hears Talks on Safety, YMCA

The regular monthly meeting of the Millcrest Home and School Association was held in the school auditorium on April 17th, with a good attendance.

The meeting opened in the usual manner with Mrs. Williams at the piano, and the president, Mr. R. Dryden, presiding.

The room count was taken and Miss Farnsworth and Mrs. Emerson tied for April.

After a short business session Mr. Dryden introduced Mr. William Argue, guest speaker, a representative of the local Y.M.C.A., who outlined the recreation programs. He said the present Y.M.C.A. was built in the year 1911; and answered several questions concerning the building.

Mrs. Prudden thanked Mr. Argue for his most interesting talk.

The school principal, Mr. Marner, introduced the second guest speaker for the evening Sgt. Blatchford, safety officer for this city, who gave an outline of the safety program. He began by saying "Good habits should be taught in the early years of life. A child learns to walk naturally, but has to be taught to eat, also to look in all directions before crossing the streets. All adults should follow the six safety rules in order to set an example for the children.

Sgt. Blatchford passed like all the children to know he is their friend and added he would be only too glad to help the Millcrest Home and School anyway.

At the conclusion of the safety rules he told of several humorous and also tragic witnessed which were touching to the hearts of the parents present.

Mr. Dryden thanked Sgt. Blatchford for his most interesting and heart warming talk.

Refreshments were served by the mothers of Mrs. Emerson's room, and a social time was enjoyed by all.

Soccer Body Meets Wed.

The Bay of Quinte Minor Soccer League will hold its annual general meeting Wednesday evening at the Recreation Centre beginning at eight o'clock.

Don Wilson, the Belleville Minor Sports Association's soccer head, has requested that anyone wishing to help in any way with the season's activities attend this meeting.

Wilson said that in order to stage an ever-growing schedule, the league will require more coaches and assistants this summer.

The Avondale Boy Scout Ladies' Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. S. Elliott, Wright Avenue, on Wednesday, April 19th. Eight members were present and the opening two guests: Mrs. A. Leland, Mrs. D. Bazvill, Mrs. J. Coates, Mrs. R. Townsend and Mrs. Ivan Ford were welcomed by the president. Invited to become members.

The correspondence was submitted. It included an invitation for the group to join other auxiliaries of Belleville and district for the 4th annual potluck supper which is being held at Bannister United Church early in May.

The president reported a successful 'Coffee Party,' which was held at her home in March and which was largely attended by members and their friends. Janet Cook reported on the group committee meeting for March.

Mrs. Townsend extended her thanks to Irene Reed and her telephoning committee for their faithfulness during the year.

One get-well card was reported as being sent by the welfare convener.

Further instructions were given on the publicity, organization and rules of Scouting and the specific dealings with proficiency and grade badges was enlarged upon by Mrs. Ford.

During the social hour, Mrs. Marg Teddy gave instructions on her special talent, "Smocking," and although none of the members was an expert in following these instructions, an interest was created towards this needlework.

Refreshments were served by Hazel Pugh and Shirley Elliott.

4 Break-Ins In District, City Reported

Four break-ins in Belleville and district, plus a window breaking episode at a Belleville manufacturing plant were reported by city and provincial police over the weekend.

Three of the break-ins were in the city, at Queen Victoria School, at Quinte Secondary School, and at the Toronto-Peterborough Transport office on Sidney Street. Police said the buildings were entered and petty cash was missing.

At Marysville, Carters Truck Stop was entered and money taken from the cigaret, pinball and coke machines.

10th Annual Harmony Night Is Held by Barber Shoppers

By EUGENE LANG

Vacant seats were in the minority in the Collegiate auditorium on Saturday evening, despite the rainy weather, as hundreds of loyal fans made the annual trek to B.C.I. to enjoy the yearly musical event known as Harmony Night. Sponsored by the Belleville Chapter of the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. (Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America), this year's program marked the tenth anniversary of this organization in this city.

The master of ceremonies was Phil Flagler, who always does a superlative job handling this tricky position. The show began with the Belleville Barber Chorus under the dual direction of Al Evans and Don Sexsmith in familiar songs of yesteryear. Three visiting quartets were on hand to add to the overall fine program that was presented.

The Rhythm Counts (Ed. Morgan, Bob Bridgman, Garnet Evans and Jeff Pritchard) gave an added attraction not often encountered in Barber Shop gatherings in the fact that three of the four voices were the of the fairer sex grounded by the bass voice of Jeff Pritchard. Also, of unusual interest was the fact that they were three sisters and a brother. Their offerings were extremely well conceived and realized, with the added guitar accompaniments of Jeff Pritchard subtracting nothing from the fine effect.

The London Nightwalks (Greg Sandwell, Jim Turner, John Sutton and Bob Gilla) who are Canadian Champions, made their Belleville appearance in two years and again displayed their fine vocal rapport that has put them on the top of the heap. Their blending and harmonizing was exceptional throughout.

The Belleville Keynotes (Phil Squire, Dalton Keys, Don Sexsmith and Alec Burns) certainly added to the program in their very capable manner of close harmony. Two other quartets from the Belleville Chorus sang briefly at the opening of the curtain earlier; one of these we hope to have been the Keynotes no doubt.

The members of the Quinte Belles Chorus of approximately eighteen members, under the direction of Muriel Jobson, were on hand as in past years and again attested to the vocal attainments they have reached through the many hours of hard rehearsal and combined efforts.

The entire second half of the show was given an added lift by the method of presentation. One was supposed to imagine oneself listening to a broadcast a century hence and then digress back to our present time by the hearing of Barber Shop Quartet Singing (considered an archaic art in 2061) and the unusual tones emitted by mere 20th century barbershoppers. Phil Flagler carried this through with his usual wit and aplomb.

Piano stylings of Jim Cornell balanced off an evening that has now been anticipated anxiously by hundreds of lovers of Barber Shop music, and has proved to be an event that adds lustre to the local musical scene.

Following the Harmony Night the participants and friends went to the Knights of Columbus Hall for the Social. After Glow that always follows the performance.

attempt "but he had one and died when he went into office."

The invasion was reported to have been planned about a year ago by the Central Intelligence Agency and not the President.

The informant said that when Kennedy got into office in January he leaned heavily upon plans had progressed to such a point that if he called it off, the morale of the rebel forces would have been sadly shattered. His reputation was at stake, but he decided to accept the American intelligence advice that the invasion had a good chance of succeeding.

Kennedy discussed the resulting situation with Eisenhower on Saturday of a White House luncheon meeting in a rustic setting 65 miles north of Washington.

Eisenhower offered no public statement on Kennedy's role on Cuba, but said he was all in favor of the United States supporting the men who have to carry the responsibility for our foreign affairs."

Safety Officer Makes Appeal To Cyclists

TRENTON — Sergeant Gordon Steenburg, Trenton's safety officer, has issued an appeal to bicyclists to observe safety rules. He warns that passengers on bicycles are prohibited by law.

He also asks children not to drive bicycles at night without lights.

Sgt. Steenburg suggested that as safety measure cyclists should not make a left turn in heavy traffic, but should get off their bikes and wheel them across the road. He also warned children not to drive their bikes on sidewalks.

He said that he and the members of the Trenton police force could not be responsible for every child who drives a bicycle. He urged parents to co-operate and see that their children obey the safety rules.

"We don't want to lose any children in our community," he said.

Odeon Theatre Will Close

TRENTON—Kerry Gilmore, manager of the Odeon Theatre, has announced that the theatre will close its doors after closing business May 6. He spoke on behalf of the Odeon Theatres (Canada) Ltd.

Mr. Gilmore said that the rising costs of operation and the burden of entertainment tax had brought matters to a stage where it was no longer economical to keep the theatre.

The theatre has been sold to 30th Century Theatres, but the new owners do not plan to reopen it as a theatre.

The Odeon theatre, was opened 35 years ago as the Trent Theatre, was operated within the Arthur Rank organization.

Many local organizations have held meetings in the theatre from time to time. When the Trenton Community Concert Association first sponsored concerts, they were held in the Odeon.

IN MEMORIAM

JOHNSTON. — In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Evelyn Johnston, who passed away April 24th, 1960.

In my heart your memory lingers, Always tender, fond and true; There's not a day, dear mother, I do not think of you.

—Sadly missed by daughter Jean Smith.

STAPLETON. — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, William H. Stapleton, who passed away April 22nd, 1958.

There is no parting from those we love,
No distance can divide;
We still walk side by side.
Each day remember by a thought of him.

At sunset a prayer.
And in the hearts that loved him.
He always will be there.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife Ethel, son Ronald, daughters and grandchildren.

WALLACE. — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Arnold Wallace, who passed away three years ago, April 24th, 1958.

A silent thought, a secret tear,
Time takes away the edge of grief,
But memory turns the leaves of sorrow
And keeps the book of love.
—Remembered by daughter Edith, son-in-law Hall and grandchildren Jerry, Tommy, Ricky and Roger Reid.

During World War II he served as a navigator for five years with the Royal Air Force. In 1946 he emigrated to Canada to marry a Canadian girl. In the same year he joined TCA as a flight navigation officer on the Lancastrians on the Overseas run. He was appointed to his present position as assistant chief navigator for the company in 1953.

Head of Firm Does Not Like Coyne Policy

TORONTO (CP) — W. E. Williams, president of Procter and Gamble of Canada, said Saturday Canadian living standards would drop 45 per cent if Bank of Canada Governor James Coyne had his way.

"I'm not saying he's a nut but he's the most illogical person I ever ran into," Mr. Williams told the Toronto and District Council of Young Progressive Conservatives.

He said he formed his opinion after a discussion with Mr. Coyne.

Mr. Williams said there would be higher unemployment, lower wages and a drastic drop in standards if the government followed Mr. Coyne's advice to stem United States capital investment.

He also suggested Prime Minister Diefenbaker's emergency tax relief plan for depressed areas is a failure.

Referring to provisions in the "baby budget" for stepped - up depreciation allowances for industries locating in depressed areas, Mr. Williams said:

"None of the depressed areas is going to get any relief because no manufacturer in his right mind would go even slowly and not "under duress."

Secretary Mrs. Ida Lee through a series of questions about the conference. She has also recorded testimony by Eichmann, part of which was played in court. He asked whether "undue influence" had been used on Eichmann and whether he was told to answer questions about certain matters and not about others.

Less replied firmly, "no."

Presiding Judge Louis Ben-Jamin Halevy said he noted "a kind of cross-examination—and this doesn't tally with your other remarks."

"There were sometimes such traditions in what the accused said," Less replied. "I did it for whatever it was."

Less said Eichmann has written a 350-page recollection of his personal career which the top Nazi officials.

Less said the recollections would be submitted to the court but did not reveal their contents.

CLC Education Institute Hears Address on Church Reaction to Labor's Growth

The growth of organized labor and the church's reaction to it was traced Saturday night by Rev. Dr. David Summers, executive director of the Religion and Labor Council of Canada, who was the guest speaker at a banquet meeting of the labor education institute sponsored by the Belleville and Trenton Labor councils, Canadian Labor Congress.

He said that in 1834 England men worked on farms and in mills for about eight shillings a week, but they agitated a bit and received an increase of one shilling. One mill owner went whole hog and raised his workers' pay to 10 shillings a week.

Those days it was the usual things for a family of up to 15 persons to live in a small but with only one room one door and one small window. Living conditions were extremely poor. Out of the mill owner's eight shillings a week he would have to give six shillings in order to buy groceries.

LAY PREACHER HELPED

Into this picture came George Lowthian, a Methodist lay preacher, who after working 14 to 16 hours a day in the fields stood up on the edge of the laborers. But in those days laborers had few if any rights. A delegation of laborers from the area went to the nearby Anglican vicar for help in getting their pay boosted to one or two shillings a week. They thought they had the vicar on their side, but the church did nothing when management threatened to cut salaries to six shillings a week unless the workers quit moaning.

This incident resulted in a union of farm laborers. Then the leaders of the newly formed of the union were haled into court and charged with taking illegal oaths. They were, though the charges were not proved, given the maximum sentenced the men to seven years transportation, the maximum penalty for conviction of such an offence.

The magistrate said they were not sentenced for what they had done, but rather to show clearly that it did not pay to get tough with employers. He hoped this would deter workers from organizing.

The union disintegrated but behind-the-scenes activities continued with resentment over. Three years later, the men were given word by a penal colony in Australia, were returned to England and freed.

The agitators of the farm and mill workers aroused the conscience of church, and gradually strong leadership was offered by men of the church.

Referring to Rev. Dr. Summers, "men who have seen their faith, and its implications have become strong leaders in labor."

DRIFTED APART

During the middle of the last century, he said, church and labor seemed to drift apart and go their own ways. Then in the 1880s, the church opposed labor's right to organize or strike.

But the change came in the 1930s when the church altered its attitude toward labor.

Until the mid-1930s, only a few unions were in existence and they represented only the minority of skilled workers. But, by the Depression ended, "we had an awakening of organized labor."

During the Second World War, one of the things which characterized union was strong principles.

After the war came a tremendous increase of membership in industry and unions. "There was a trend by unions to put more emphasis on higher wages packs instead of on what makes unions strong for the good of society."

This is one of the reasons for today's "strong educational program" in the labor movement.

In the mid-1950's "things began to change again." Unions then were not too concerned with the underlying principles of justice. But within a few years that attitude changed.

It was as a result of a trend during the Korean War days, when unions found their rights being taken away in the legislative halls, "that labor laid plans to organize a united front.

CHURCH INTEREST REVIVED

"In this situation the churches have begun to take an interest," said Dr. Summers. "Some of this interest is good, some of it is bad."

He said some people are not made aware of the existence of trade unions until reports of a strike reach their ears and then "they begin to wonder what must be done to acquire industrial peace."

Unions today are trying to broaden their base with good jobs, job security, fair wages and fair treatment, both on and off the job.

But management still is "obsessed with making higher profits.

Union demands and management's higher profits "cannot come about at the same time — unless you, as a trade unionists, have a legitimate claim, and if it is granted, then society's ills lowered."

He said one way in which all churches are beginning to take sides is in the establishment of justice in, labor, good health and welfare usages for all.

"You have a responsibility, regardless of your church affiliation, to bring about the formation of a good, wholesome society in which no one suffers," he said.

He said all trade unionists must express the fundamental policies of their union and through that bring about a "true and proper society."

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

OPEN HOUSE

On Monday and Tuesday of this week, April 24th and 25th, Mr. R. W. Sutherland, B.A., General Secretary of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship of Canada, will visit Belleville.

Mr. Sutherland was born in Belleville, graduated from Queen's University in that city, went to England, and in South Africa. He graduated with Honors in Physics from the University of British Columbia, and then served in the Canadian Army, writing his commission in the Signal Corps. At the close of the war he became a Christian, and decided to devote his life to serving God. towards his Doctorate in Philosophy. He joined the Inter-Varsity staff in late 1948 to do a period of full time Christian service as a practical way of preparing for the ministry. Before coming to his present post, he was the Inter-Varsity staff secretary for Quebec province.

While doing so, however, he received a clear conviction that this Christian service among students was to be his life-work. He was made General Secretary of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship in 1953.

He will take part in the following meetings:

April 24, 3.30 p.m. — Teachers, at Ontario School for Deaf.
7.30 p.m. — Nurses, at Belleville General Hospital.
April 25, 1.00 p.m. — Students at Albert College.
1.30 p.m. — Students at Quinte Secondary School.
8.00 p.m. — Public meeting at Christ Church.

All persons who have the welfare of our young people at heart are warmly invited to the Public Meeting on Tuesday.

Purchasing Agents To Hold Conference

Spring education conference, sponsored by the Purchasing Agents Association of Eastern Ontario, will be held on April 30 at Queen's University.

After an official welcome by J. B. Lyons, James E. Purdy, national vice-chairmen of education, will give the conference introduction.

First speaker on "A mechanization system for a small business" will be D. R. Richardson, IBM, N. K. Smith, chief purchasing service, National Research Council, Ottawa, will speak on a "Purchasing manual for a small company" followed by a luncheon address by Mayor T. W. Mills of Kingston.

In the afternoon, W. A. Small, secretary CAPA, will talk on "Reciprocity". W. G. Boland of Ottawa will speak on "Problems of municipal and institutional purchasing". R. Crandall, financial supervisor, Queen's University, on "Saving money in the office". Professor Gordon Shaw, School of Business, Queen's University on "An interesting case history".

Atomic Garbage Man

It is costing more to bury the Living Atom than it cost to entomb the Dead Pharaohs in the Pyramids. That is the attention-catching statement of Ritchie Calder, in an article in UNESCO Features dealing with the disposal of "atomic garbage."

The approved method of dealing with really dangerous atomic wastes, he says, is to put them in stainless steel tanks. It costs $2.50 per gallon to provide such storage and in the U.S. at the present time there are 65,000,000 gallons of such atomic sewage bubbling in stainless steel cauldrons, at a cost of $162,500,000.

"Multiply that figure several times in terms of the possible world production of waste in the next fifty years and, apart from the expense, you can imagine the vast 'burial grounds' alienated from human use for ever," Calder writes. "Yes, for ever" he continues. "For example, plutonium which may exist in such waste has a half-life of 24,000 years. This means that in that time half the number of present plutonium atoms will have split. In the 24,000 years beyond that, half of what remained will have split, and in the succeeding 24,000 years, half of the quarter, and so on."

There are, of course, other methods of disposing of such wastes, but they are far from safe. The British have been emptying low-level, practically safe, radiation sewage into the Irish Sea, but while by any careful measurement of the effects on the fish and seaweed and so forth this would be the ideal method of disposal, scientists now have their doubts. They are afraid that radioactivity concentrated in lower organisms may eventually get into the seafood that we eat. A similar "circulation" problem arises when dumping long-lived radioactive elements into the deepest parts of the ocean. It has been shown that the interchange between the bottom waters and the surface waters may take less than five years. All those satellites whirling around the earth suggest another solution. Why not make space our atomic garbage dump? Fine, but what if the garbage truck upsets, what if the rocket fails and its atomic sewage payload is dumped back on earth?

Such a situation as that outlined obviously poses some major problems if the world is to ever be able to use atomic power freely. Thus, while other scientists have been proceeding to space to develop peaceful uses for atomic power, some of the best brains have been concentrating on this problem of waste disposal. The Oak Ridge National Laboratory in the U.S. has come up with two possible solutions. One is burying such wastes in old oil wells or deep in old salt mines. Perhaps coal mines could be used too, although they are not mentioned. If so, the new source of power which supplants coal and oil may yet depend, by a queer kind of fate, on depleted sources of these earlier fuels.

Another Oak Ridge experiment showed that by mixing the liquid waste with portland cement and pumping it under pressure into a drill hole, the thick shale stratum could be fractured, actually lifting the ground. The fracture was indicated by the liquid oozing squirting out of the hillside, a development which will have to be prevented in actual practice. But when the radioactive concrete set underground it formed a solid sheet an eighth of an inch thick sandwiched in an impermeable bed of shale.

Of course, the oil and shale formations are going to be in demand for nuclear separation plants, because it is at such plants, and not at the nuclear power stations, that dangerous wastes are produced.

It would appear that in the atomic age the garbage man will have to be a highly trained —and highly-paid—scientist.

The Arrangement of Space

A little news filler from Montreal informs us that Mrs. Jacob Horisaki teaches the Takeya method of flower-arranging, which she describes as the "harmonious arrangement of space around flowers."

Perhaps newspapermen, more than most, will appreciate the point of this unusual phrasing, for the proper display of type often depends on the harmonious arrangement of "white space" around it.

Another point though, arises with a further quotation. Mrs. Horisaki says she "follows nature as closely as possible in nature's provide the "harmonious arrangement of space around flowers?" One is tempted to answer in the negative. There are so many haphazard arrangements in nature that it seems, at first glance, to be ridiculous to talk of harmony. Yet, come to think of it, has anyone ever seen an ugly arrangement of blooms in untended field, forest or hedgerow? It is a nice point which the average gardener might ponder carefully before he gets too particular about having everything in its place and a place for everything.

Few Doctors Tell Truth

Welland Evening Tribune

Almost 90 per cent of U.S. physicians tend not to tell a cancer patient he has cancer, according to a survey at a Chicago hospital. Of 183 members of the hospital staff who responded to a questionnaire, ninety doctors said they "very rarely" tell the cancer patients the full story and eighteen said they "never" tell.

Though the doctors varied widely as to the frequency with which they made exceptions to their rules, 88 per cent said not telling was their usual policy. Only 6 per cent said it was their usual policy to tell the patient he had cancer.

The policy is now to tell us little or no penalty in the most general terms consistent with maintaining co-operation in treatment. The survey report said, adding:

"Exceptions were made most commonly when the patient is in a position of financial responsibility which carries the necessity for planning. Questioning by the patient almost always is frankly motivated and considered a plea for reassurance, and usually accepted. Even then it may be ignored. The vast majority of these doctors feel that their responsibilities really do not want to know regardless of what people say."

The survey was based on questionnaires sent to cancer and personal interviews with physicians attending a clinic and staff of Michael Reese Hospital and Medical Centre, Chicago.

A report on the survey study was made in the April 1 issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association by Dr Doctor Oken. He is assistant director of the Roswell Park centre's Institute for Psychosomatic and Psychiatric Research and Training.

He said he believed the unexplored field of doctor-patient representative of high-quality medical practitioners in general.

The results of his study showed two points on which there is virtually no disagreement: that some people want to be told and that usually they are not told; and that, whatever his policy on telling the patient, the physician's "resolute and determined purpose is to search out and bolster the patient's hope."

Although a doctor's policy is always to tell only what he believes best for the patient, there is very rarely "debatable fact as to which policy is really best, Dr. Oken said. Further, he declared, if there has been an almost complete absence of professional research on this important matter.

He emphasized that it would be a mistake to let medicine be entirely erroneous to interpret whether or not cancer should not be told. The point bared by the research was that a physician's adherence to either policy was likely to be based more on emotional factors and personal bias than on logic and coldly evaluated experience.

Good Parent Is Defined

Cleveland Plain Dealer

Of all the opinions expressed on a good parent, Bill Lake's sixth graders describing the attributes of a good parent, were like 12-year-old Billy Hall's summary the best.

"A good parent," Billy wrote, "doesn't have to be rich. A good parent punishes you when you need it but praises you when you are good. A good parent loves you, sends you to school work, and keeps you from doing bad. A good parent give you good food. A good parent helps you when you need it or when you are in trouble, but does not baby you. If you are sick a good parent cares for you. A good parent gives you jobs to do each day. If a parent has more than one child, he should give each child the same attention, the same rights, the same allowance.

"If you are a parent, you do these things and you and your children will get along O.K."

Billy . . . we can't add a thing!
